Business Methods Are Better

We thought and still think that "Chub" Coyle would make a good city auditor by virtue of his long experience in that office as a non-political employee.

Hilltoppers agreed in general with that belief and Coyle gained more votes in the Tenth and Eleventh Wards than any of the four candidates. But he was defeated in the city-wide race.

Now in the November election the voters have their choice of James Rhodes or T. Blaine Holloway.

For the same reasons that we supported Coyle we will continue to maintain that the voters should give every consideration to an experienced man for this technical job and therefore should vote for T. Blaine Holloway.

A private employer having to choose one of the two candidates as head of his auditing department would, in the interest of efficiency, unhesitatingly choose Mr. Holloway. Voters at the November election can exercise the same kind of intelligence by voting for Holloway.

Mr. Rhodes is a pleasing personality but as we have stated before we believe his aspirations are mainly political and do not feel that the auditor's office is any place for a purely political aspirant.

The position as auditor is a technical one requiring technical ability, executive ability and experience. Mr. Holloway with his years of experience as head of the accounting department of a large local business firm has this experience and ability.

In the months since Mr. Holloway was appointed auditor in February he has had an opportunity to prove his ability in that position. Numerous prominent business people of the city even those of opposite political faith, have expressed their satisfaction with the type of work he has carried on in the position.

We believe Hilltop voters have another opportunity to voice their independence and good judgment by voting for the man best suited for this position rather than adhering to political lines and the advices of political bosses in the November election.

One Thing At a Time

These are days when the world is acquiring a sudden social consciousness.

Today more than at any previous time in history there is a desire to look after our fellow men. And rightfully so. Social legislation, one batch after another, has been thrust upon the public for consumption.

It has stood to reason that such legislation would come about when business and industry had previously failed to take these necessary steps. But now that the programs are in full swing there appears to be a large group that are more interested in what they can get out of a program than because of any inherent desire to help their fellow men.

Such is the instance of the Bigelow plan, we suspect.

The state of Ohio and the federal government have imposed large taxes upon business for a program of unemployment insurance and old age pensions. These programs are just beginning to function. They are also just to the place where business is beginning to get into the swing of being accustomed to them and business has been so adjusted over several years to meet the demands of such a program.

It is well that no further taxes of this type be imposed at this time. It is likewise well that one social program be tried out at a time. It is a certainty that the best possible functioning of the present program can not be accomplished with the addition of new burdens.

It is significant to note that the Bigelow plan calls for an expenditure that would cost every gainfully employed person in Ohio $150 per year in new taxes. It is easy enough to propose new ways to spend money but it is far from easy to determine with any degree of truthfulness where new money will come from to be spent on such programs.

Mrs. Charles A. Crues, 156 N. Hague-av, is convalescing at her home after undergoing a minor operation at Mt. Carmel hospital on Sept. 28.

Held To Address Hoge Club

Dr. Felix E. Held, professor of business organization and secretary of the college of commerce and administration of Ohio State university, will address the Men's club of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church at 6:30 p. m. Friday.

For eight years Dr. Held served on the lecture staff of the national Institute for Commercial Organization secretaries at Evanston, Ill. This is the national school of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and Trades associations. He has spoken before many organizations in and out of Ohio, including trade association conventions, luncheon clubs, advertising clubs and other informal groups.

The Men's club of Hoge Memorial is one of the outstanding organizations of its kind in the city. The meeting is the first in a series of six to be held during the winter months. The dinner is scheduled to be served at 6:30 p. m. and the program for the evening also includes musical entertainment by the Capital university Conservatory of Music and Earl Zaayer, noted mouth-harp specialist.

Need Of Levy Is Outlined

In a plea to Hilltop voters to support the one mill levy for the construction and improvement of Columbus school buildings which will be submitted to the electorate on Nov. 7, Dr. H H. Reighley, West High school principal, has presented the following data based on the Holy report, a comprehensive survey of Columbus school needs as related to an ever expanding school program and population.

The school building program between 1920 and 1929 involving the construction of 17 new school buildings (including West High school, West junior high and John Burroughs), the addition to 13 schools (including West Broad addition and West Mound site), and the remodeling of 13 buildings (including Highland Ave. building), was completed at a cost of $11,425,971.

The program was financed in the main by the issuance of bonds which indebtedness has now been reduced to a little over four million dollars. There has been no major construction of school buildings in Columbus since 1929.

Because of urgent demands and limited finances it is impossible to realize any substantial school improvements from current operating funds.

Because of the saving to taxpayers in interest charges which would have to be paid on bonds and because of other advantages to a pay-as-you-go-plan in a widespread program, it has been deemed advisable to propose a special levy.

The levy will cost the average home owner $4.50 to $6.00 per year over a five year period. In general it has as its purpose the construction, improvement and fireproofing of buildings, the aquisition of real estate, the improvement of sites and the purchase of equipment, and more specifically will provide for the construction of two new buildings, the addition to four buildings, and the modernization of 32 older buildings.

At present 22 portable buildings are in use. There are three junior high school buildings and 28 elementary buildings that range in age from 40 to 77 years. Modernization plans include improvements in heating plants, toilet facilities, cleaning equipment, lighting, floors, fireproofing and assembly rooms.

The estimated cost for buildings and equipment alone for the complete program is $2,900,000.

The one mill levy will produce approximately $1,900,000 during the five year period and will fin-

Chairman

Ray Hauntz

Heading a citywide committee for the observance of National Retail Grocers week, Oct. 16 to Oct. 21, is Ray G. Hauntz, owner of Hauntz's Market, corner of Powell and Broad-st. In line with other sections of the country most Hilltop grocers are cooperating in the movement to direct public attention to the local food merchant.

Many stores are holding special food sales in observance of the occasion. Cooperating in the movement locally are the following stores: Hauntz's Market, Powell and Broad; Wright's Market, 2300 Sullivant-av; Penfield Market, 2147 Sullivant-av; Burdett's Grocery, 192 S. Eureka-av; Lloyd's Market, 2223 Sullivant.

Mrs. George B. Weatherman, 147 S. Eureka-av, is convalescing at her home from injuries she received in a fall. She has a fractured left foot which has been placed in a cast.

Due to her injury and other illness in the home, Mrs. Weatherman said also that she would be compelled to resign her position as investigator in the state division of aid for the aged from which department she has been on a 90 day leave of absence.

Mrs. Weatherman is the Republican committeewoman for the eleventh ward.

Manon Beauty Salon In New Location

The Manon Beauty Salon moved last week from 2453 to 2488 Sullivant-av, according to Emma Crooks, proprietor of the shop.

In the beauty business on the Hilltop for the past eight years, Miss Crooks said that her new shop has been completely redecorated and that the latest type of beauty equipment has been installed. Miss Verna Trisler is shop assistant.

Hilltopper Robbed

A trip to Cleveland was very unpleasant for Hilltopper Harry Goodwin, 97 N. Burgess-av. The 25-year-old salesman was bound, robbed, and pushed out of his automobile Tuesday while in the exposition city.

West Students Save Tax Stamps

Continuing the practice of having the students save sales tax receipts, the West Athletic association sees a new medium for paying off the holders of West stadium bonds. To date, the students have brought in stamps worth about $16 cash, weekly since the opening of school.

The numbers of the outstanding bonds will be placed in a box and for each number drawn a $10 bond will be paid. In the case of persons holding more than $10 worth of the bonds, the $10 will be paid and a new bond issued for the remainder.

$65 Reward
To Be Given In Lost Merchandise Contest

Sixty-five dollars in rewards will be offered by members of the Hilltop Business Men's association in a Lost Merchandise and Service contest to be held the week following Thanksgiving.

A committee made up of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Natger, Ray Hauntz, C. H Penfield, Geo. Painter, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley will announce complete details in the next few weeks.

First prize in the contest will be $50 in cash with the second prize being $10 and third prize $5. Further details will be given in the next issue of the Record.

Members of the association meeting Tuesday evening at Schmelzer's restaurant heard Tom McCaw of the Division of Aid for the Aged tell of the work of his department.

McCaw pointed out that 120,925 persons received aid in Ohio in September, and that today 232 out of every 1,000 persons in Ohio over 65 years of age are receiving aid.

Musical entertainment was furnished by the West High varsity quartet. The dentists of the association had charge of the program, Dr. A. C. Myers as chairman.

The annual Hallowe'en party of the group will be held within the next few weeks. A committee headed by E. P. Shank, and made up of Mrs. Harriett Huff, Mrs. M. Detamore and C. G. Wilcox, is making plans for the annual event.

Hilltop Musicians Play 'From Jazz To Classic'

"They play anything from the sloppiest jazz to the highest classics." Thus spoke Walter L. King, 40 S. Hague-av, of the group of Hilltop young musicians organized and directed by him as a "hobby."

The organization, which is known throughout the city as the Hilltop Symphony orchestra, was started approximately two and a half years ago. At that time it was composed of boys only but was reorganized about a year ago to include both boys and girls.

Composed of about 32 young people between the ages of 14 and 18, the orchestra is self sustaining. It presents varied entertainments for churches, lodges, PTA organizations, and civic bodies.

Practice sessions are held every Tuesday evening at VFW hall, 3393½ W. Broad-st, which has been donated for the purpose.

Once a month members of the orchestra give a swing party when an impromptu program of individual acts is featured. Parents are always welcome at these functions, refreshments are served, and according to Mr. King "a grand time is had by all."

Mr. King, the founder and director of the orchestra, is a teacher of piano theory and composition with studios at 40 S. Hague-av. He has both bachelor's and master's degrees in music and has studied extensively in New York and Philadelphia.

Justly enthusiastic over his handiwork, he said: "I know of no other similar organization in the city. Our type of organization is unique to the Hilltop. Although we have fought discouragement all the way through, I am satisfied that we have made and are making real progress." "Far from being common-place performers," he added, "our artists rank among

"Old Jim" Costella Succumbs Monday

The Hilltop lost one of its most illustrious citizens Monday with the death of James Costella, well-known to localites in the vicinity of S. Oakley-av and W. Broad-st, and an employe of John Bentz, proprietor of the Hilltop Plumbing Supply Co.

"Old Jim," as he was affectionately known by his many friends, was found dead in the company's office early Monday morning by Mr. Bentz as he opened the shop preparatory to starting the day's business. Death was due to a heart attack.

Jim was a jack-of-all-trades for the concern. He could handle plumbing tools, was an expert carpenter and mechanic, and his cooking could compete with the best in that profession. He had plastered the walls and laid the floor for the present site of the company, located at 2333 W. Broad-st, and built over 17 years ago.

He was an employe of the Bentz family for 20 years and was known to be a man of many fine qualities. Well versed on Biblical phrases, he was honest, sincere and was a trustworthy employe and friend of the Bentz family.

He seldom talked about his relatives, although it was thought that he was born near Zanesville and was the son of an educated colored family. He has relatives in that section of the state and also in Newark, but authorities have been unable to locate them.

Jim had not been in the best of health during the past two years. He had suffered other heart attacks and had been ill on several recent occasions. Although nearly 80 years of age, 79 to be exact, he still had his original teeth and never complained of them being in bad condition. He was a Spanish-American war veteran.

With the passing of Jim Costella, one of the Hilltop's oldest landmarks has gone. Although just a handy man, he was one of the Hilltop's finest citizens and a friend to all who knew him.

Bucks Wallop Acad; Central Here Today

Still undefeated in four pigskin tussles following a 25-7 victory over a scrappy Academy eleven last week, the West High Cowboys will play host to the Central Pirates this afternoon in what promises to be the headliner in City league play this week. It will be the second league fray for both squads, the local aggregation having edged South 8-0 while the Riversiders participated in a 6-6 tie with the North team last week.

The game this afternoon will undoubtedly be the toughest the Buckaroos have played in this year. Central has one of the toughest lines in the loop as is shown by the fact that they have only been scored on twice this year, both times by top-flight teams. Steubenville edged the Pirates 6-0 and North tallied six markers in its tie with the Bucs.

In other contests Central beat Westerville 14-0 and engaged in a scoreless tie with the Piqua Indians.

Gene Hays, 69 S. Westmoor-av, has been appointed chairman of the Hilltop business men's division of the Community Fund. His is the job to enlist business and professional men in this community in the drive.

MacDonald To Head Ministers

Rev. G. J. McDonald, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist church, was named president of the Hilltop Ministerial association this week as the organization held its election of officers at the Hillcrest church. He succeeded Rev. Charles Haworth, former pastor of the Highland Ave. Friends congregation.

Other officers elected by the group include: Vice-president, Rev. Jacob Ashburne, pastor of the Oakley Ave. Baptist church, and secretary and treasurer, Rev. Clyde R. Wendell, pastor of the Westgate Evangelical church. Rev. Ashburne succeeded Rev. F. Brandfellner, former pastor of the St. Paul's Evangelical church while Rev. Wendell was renamed to his post.

Plans were discussed relative to the fall program of the association. Annual Thanksgiving services are being planned and work of a proposed youth council was discussed.

Hilltop Gun Club Plans Shoot

The Clear-View Gun club, one of the youngest of Hilltop organizations, will hold one of the most unusual shoots ever held in this section of the country Sunday, Oct. 29, when the fall trap-shooting contest of the club is held at the Sullivant Avenue airport.

Known as the "Hunters Special," the shoot will be the first autumn event of the club. Planned for the true hunter and not the experienced trapshooter, the shooting will get under way at 10 a. m. and continue through the day.

Sixty trophies and prizes will be awarded the winning contestants. O. G. Seeds, 136 Columbian-av, president of the group, said this week. The program will be shot over a 25 bird route and the shooters will be separated into five classes. Special prizes and a trophy will be given in the ladies' division.

There will be no restriction on the gun used or the type of shell fired. Those not having guns will be supplied at the clubhouse at no extra charge and shells will be sold on the premises. Entries for the match, still open, may be made at the Hilltop Record office.

Wagnitz Rites Held Wednesday

Funeral services for John A. Wagnitz, 124 Highland-av, who died Sunday night at his home, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 with burial in Elmwood cemetery in Lancaster.

For 40 years Wagnitz was a city salesman for the Frankenberg Bros. Paper Box Co., and had worked up until about four months ago. He was 71 years old.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Minnette Wagnitz, who formerly operated the Mode Millinery store on S. Wayne-av, and John H. Wagnitz, attorney, with offices in the A. I. U. building.

11th Ward Club To Meet Oct. 17

The Eleventh Ward Republican Club, Inc., will hold the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, at VFW headquarters, 2393½ W. Broad-st. Mr. Kenneth Sater, attorney, will be the speaker. All Republicans are invited.

Green To Open Campaign Monday

Floyd F. Green will officially open his campaign for mayor on Monday evening with a gigantic rally at Memorial hall which is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock with a complete presentation of the issues of this campaign being given. The public is invited.

During the past few weeks Floyd F. Green, candidate for mayor, has denounced the system of traffic enforcement in Columbus as it now stands.

Last week he made this statement: "The persecution of traffic violators must stop. With motorcycle policemen hiding in side streets and behind billboards ready to spring on the unsuspecting motorist, Columbus is rapidly gaining the reputation of a discourteous city."

He continued: "It is deplorable, but traffic violators who are unable to pay fines or cash bond are clamped into jail along with seasoned criminals. We have about 5,000 of such cases on record."

By way of suggesting a remedy for this situation Green said: "If I am elected mayor, the police department will be authorized to issue temporary 48 hour driver's licenses to traffic violators who are unable to raise money instantly with which to pay the fine. The regular state license will be impounded at the police department.

"In this way," he added, "the violator will have time to raise money for his fine and at the same time to go about his business as a respectable citizen, without humiliation and a police record."

2 Killed In Auto Accidents

The Hilltop sector was the scene of two fatal automobile accidents this week in which two people, one a Hilltop boy, were fatally injured. The four-year-old lad was Jack Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hamilton, 2803½ Sullivant-av.

Another Columbus citizen, Joseph Bronstein, was killed Tuesday afternoon when his auto skidded on the car tracks near the Big Four railroad overhead crossing and crashed into a utility pole. He was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital by a Floyd Born ambulance immediately after the crash but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Funeral services for the Hamilton boy were held yesterday afternoon at the Cook and Son chapel. Burial was made in Memorial Burial park.

The young Hilltopper succumbed in Mt. Carmel hospital Tuesday morning from a skull fracture and other injuries when he was struck by an auto driven by Troy L. Brown, 510 S. Hague-av. The accident occurred in front of 400 S. Hague-av. The boy's father, who operates a service station at the corner of Sullivant and Hague-avs, was only a short distance away when the accident took place.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister, Betty Lou, age 10; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hamilton, 1390 N. Hague-av, and his maternal grandfather, W. J. Stubbins, of the home address.

Bellar Issues Statement of Appreciation

In a letter to this newspaper office this week, Arthur J. Bellar, 326 Algonquin-av, retiring commander of Camp Chase post No. 98, American Legion, commended the Hilltop Record and the Hilltop citizens for their part in helping to carry out the program of the veterans' organization.

Excerpts from his letter follow:

"I would like to express the sincere appreciation of the post to the Hilltop people, the HBMA, the VFW, and West High school, for their fine cooperation in the past year in helping Camp Chase post attain its Americanism goal. It was because of the above mentioned organizations that we were able to carry out our program."

"I want to thank your paper for the cooperation you have given me the past year. It is this kind of cooperation that builds and cements friendship between various organizations which makes our community a better place in which to live."

"The American Legion has an obligation which they will always fulfill, that we will serve in peace as we did in war, and that we will always be of the most service in our community, state and nation as long as we exist."

Webb Named To Legion Post

Earl A. Webb was named by the executive committee of Camp Chase post of the American Legion to fill the unexpired term on the committee of Earnest H. Brown, newly elected commander of the post, at the last meeting of the old committee on Monday evening. Retiring commander Arthur J. Bellar and newly elected commander, Ernest H. Brown, gave a buffet luncheon to old and new members. Mr. Webb was installed with the newly elected officers of the post Thursday evening, Oct. 12.

Heart Attack Fatal To Man

Dr. L. C. Cooper officiated at funeral services Wednesday morning for Hilltopper Ray F. Miller, 374 Nashoba-av, who died Sunday at his home following a heart attack. Burial was made in Baltimore.

Surviving him are his wife, Nola; one son, Floyd; one daughter, Mrs. Farendell O'Brien; three sisters, Helen, Lillian and Blanche, one brother, Harry Miller, and three grandchildren.

Five Are Nominated For Queen

A quintet of beautiful lassies, the pride of West High school, were nominated for homecoming queen at the S. Powell-av institution Monday afternoon as the two senior classes of the school presented candidates. The candidates for the honor were Erdine Swain, Ellen Wilgus, Annabelle Haines, Lucille Davis and Martha Mitchell.

The queen will be selected today by a vote of the entire student body. The remaining young ladies will compose her court, the entire group to participate in the pre-game ceremonies to be held preceding the West-Aquinas football game next Friday afternoon.

Ceremonies preceding the grid affair will start at 3:00 p. m., according to George Hardy, president of the West High Alumni association. In the evening, starting at 8:30, the homecoming dance will be held in the school gym under the auspices of the Alumni association. The queen will also reign at this event.

Alumni Near 500 Member Goal

Joe Briggs, chairman of the membership drive committee of the West High Alumni association, announced this week that the sale of memberships is nearing the goal of 500 set by President George Hardy.

The association has organized itself into two teams which are competing for the largest number of memberships. At present the Buff team headed by Marvin "Bob" Draper is leading, but the Brown team under the leadership of Dick Hemmerly is giving every indication that it will be a close race, said Briggs.

The 1930-1940 membership tickets will admit alumni members to the homecoming dance at the school on Friday evening, Oct. 20, following the West-Aquinas homecoming game. The homecoming queen and attendants will be introduced during the evening.

Heistand To Be Sunday Speaker

Robert Heistand, Scout executive, will speak to the Young People's department of the Hoge Memorial Sunday school Sunday morning, Oct. 15.

Rally day is being observed by the department and their aim is to break the present attendance record. All young people, irrespective of church affiliations are invited to attend.

Injured By Car

In a three-car collision at Broad-st and Cypress-av, Mrs. Helen Price, 124 S. Wheatland-av, suffered head and ankle injuries in an auto accident during the past week. She was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital. The car driven by her husband was the second machine struck by another car.

BUCKS

two colored ends of the Pirates, Garland and Clark, pulling them in, they have made things hot for opponents all down the line. Aiding Kamer in the backfield will be Jacobucci and the giant Timmons.

West, with a possible share of the loop lead at stake, will unlease all of its heavy artillery in an effort to take the prize. The Bucks have only been scored on once, that last week by Academy on a pass, and the game today will undoubtedly be a battle between the two lines with neither having an edge. West should have the edge in the ball-toting department with the swivel-hipped Carter and Al Williams, local speed merchant, touchdown possibilities at all times. Bell and Timmons are on a par as pile-driving backs, while Central may have a slight edge in passing.

Cowboys Razzle-Dazzle

The Cowboys have a passing and razzle-dazzle attack of their own, however, as was witnessed Friday when they completed five or six passes for long gains, one a 66-yard scoring dash by Bill Mack. Carter tallied twice, one on a nice 35-yard dash, and Bell cracked the line from the six for the fourth score. The regulars played about half of the contest and for the first time a line on the reserve strength was available. Outstanding among them was Jack Hobbs, speedy back, and Keith Williams.

Although out of the class and badly outclassed, the Academy boys put up a much better game than was anticipated. Harry Hopwood, big guard, was a bright spot on the line on defense and did some excellent punting, one kick travelling 41 yards. Subbing for the injured captain, Chuck Downey, Bill Kientz led the visitors attack which consisted mostly of passes. Kientz hurled 19 passes only four of which reached their mark. One of these, however, was a 29-yard touchdown pass in the second canto which put the Nelson-rd squad ahead 7-6 at the time.

Hart, Garnes Strong

West was ragged in its defensive play and will have to do better today in copping with the hard drives through the center of the line. Academy fooled the West guards on several occasions with spinners but with pay dirt near they were stopped completely. Bell's passing was good and the play of Bill Hart and Bill Garnes was worthy of praise. Al Williams and Carter carried the mail, the former only six times but averaging close to 15 yards per try.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lust, 237 S. Yale-av, last Thursday at Mt. Carmel hospital. Mrs. Lust is the former Jean Glock and is a graduate of the class of '38 at West High school. Mr. and Mrs. Lust previously resided on S. Wayne-av.

With Danny Brown, Negro star, leading the parade with three touchdowns, the West Reserves walloped the Grandview seconds 19-6 Wednesday afternoon on the West High gridiron. Grandview led at the half 6-0.

"Forget-Me-Not" Drive Today

"Wear a Forget-Me-Not" will be the slogan of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War as they conduct their annual drive today and tomorrow to gain funds to furnish services to wartime disabled veterans and their dependents.

Hundreds of volunteer saleswomen, representing Capital City chapter No. 3 of the organization, will be stationed on the city streets today, urging citizens to wear the little blue flower of remembrance.

The arrangements for the two-day drive are being made by the general chairman, Mrs. Leona M. Hanes, 482 Greenlawn-av, and her committee.

Among the 21 survivors of the old Columbus Cadets, an infantry organization of the nineteenth century, is Charles Reeves, 5041 W. Broad-st. The group held its sixty-sixth annual reunion at the Athletic club last night.

Extra Special VALUES During NATIONAL RETAIL GROCERS WEEK

This week the Hilltop and the nation at large salutes the Retail Grocer, a tireless public servant ever active in our behalf. The growth of modern civilization can be traced not too indirectly to the growth of the modern grocer and the ease with which men were enabled to obtain food. For no great cities were built, no great works of art were created when men were obliged to hunt down their every meal.

It was not until people were furnished with convenient, satisfying sources of foodstuffs that they were able to turn their energies to other things.

On the Hilltop the retail food merchants have always been leaders in their field. They have taken an active part in the promotion of everything that is good for the Hilltop.

THIS WEEK resolve to give him your support by patronizing him!

M. Max Good Leads Hillcrest Services

Evangelistic services will begin at the Hillcrest Baptist church starting Oct. 22 and continuing through Nov. 5, it was announced this week by the pastor, Rev. G. J. McDonald.

The evangelist will be H. Max Good, conductor of the Wings of Prayer over station WHKC at 6:45 a. m. Good was formerly connected with the Cadle Tabernacle and brings the rich experiences of this work to bear in the evangelistic field.

LEVY

ance a major part of the recommended program.

In order to complete the entire program advantage will be taken of PWA or any other federal funds available during this period to supplement the revenue from the tax levy, and if sufficient funds do not become available from these sources to complete the program, the incomplete part will be extended for another period with such modifications as seem advisable at that time.

Said Dr. Reighley: "The Hilltop has grown rapidly in recent years. All indications are that the growth will continue apace. Additional and improved school facilities will be more and more in demand in the future.

"In view of these facts I feel it would be the wiser policy for Hilltop residents to vote for the proposed levy. And this particularly in light of the fact that PWA and other federal funds, which may not be available in the future, can be taken advantage of at the present."

IT'S UNDOUBTEDLY TRUE that the artist was a bit enthusiastic when he drew this picture.
But there's no exaggeration about the steady flow of warmth put out by Great Heart coal -- or its lasting quality that will hold a fire with drafts closed from 24 to 48 hours. There's no question about its heating power being ample for the coldest weather, and the fact that it makes less than a bushel of ash per ton of coal.

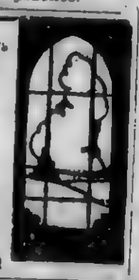
Embarrassing

When Acid Indigestion, Gas on Stomach or Heartburn make you feel uncomfortable or embarrass you, try Alka-Seltzer, which contains alkalizing buffers and so helps counteract the associated Excess Stomach Acidity.

But the relief of these minor stomach upsets is only a small part of what you can expect Alka-Seltzer to do for you. You will find it effective for Pain Relief in Headache, Neuralgia, Colds and Muscular Aches and Pains. It contains an analgesic, (sodium acetyl salicylate), made more prompt and effective in its pain-relieving action by alkaline buffer salts.



When hard work or strenuous exercise make you feel tired and dragged out, enjoy the refreshing effect of a glass of sparkling, tangy Alka-Seltzer.

Ohio Is The Best

If I ever get the wander-lust I will tell you where I'd go,
I'd go to Kalamazoo and Canada too and I'd see the eskimo.
I would go to Kokomo and Idaho and in Maine I'd see the pine,
I'd watch the ground where gold is found as in the days of forty nine.

The Ozark Mountains or Arkansaw somehow appeal to me,
I'd go to Saginaw and Mackinaw and the northern lights I'd see,
In 10 I C where they make booze from where their marksmanship is fine.
And in Dixie land I'd make a stand below the Mason and Dixon line.

I'd see the cotton fields of Texas and I'd watch them plow the soil,
And every station in the Nation where they sell PURE gas and oil.
I'd travel everywhere underground and in the air and sail the briny foam,
But I'd be glad to say when I return some day, Ohio is my home.

Briggs Offers New Auto Finance Plan

A new program of automobile financing for new cars is being announced by Jos. M. Briggs, 2600 Sullivant-av.

Briggs states that his plan of financing is backed by an old and reliable insurance firm and provides for full coverage of the price of the car and all necessary insurance.

Under this plan there are no hidden charges. Payments may be arranged for the date and in the amount that is convenient for the customer. Under this plan it is left with the customer what car and from what dealer he prefers to make the purchase. Car payments can be arranged to take care of premiums on the insurance too.

If at any time the buyer wishes to trade in his car he may also trade in the insurance policy and he will be allowed full pro-rata unexpired credit on a new policy. One of the most important features, Briggs explains, is the fact that he is in a position to personally extend his services when needed.

Emerson Would Put It This Way

Ralph Waldo Emerson said a lot of things I like and certainly a lot of good advice is contained in his writings. Among his better expressions I like the one: "To believe your own thoughts, to believe that which is true for you in your private heart, is true for all men . . . speak your latent convictions and it shall be universal sense."

This thought was brought to mind today in conversation with a friend who points with pride to the fact that Hilltop people cannot be depended on to always vote the dictates of any party. Said this person: "Hilltop people express their own beliefs and thoughts . . . they speak their convictions."

We believe Mr. Emerson would have liked this phase of Hilltop life. May it always be so.

Not to Drive

Comes Mayor Gessaman's assertion that it is contrary to state law for the city to issue temporary drivers' licenses in exchange for regular state licenses, (as per Floyd Green's plan).

Competent legal authority has it otherwise.

The law merely states that vehicle drivers in Ohio must possess state licenses. Temporary suspension is most certainly not synonomous with revocation. And it has been made clear on numerous occasions that a vehicle driver may not be prosecuted because he does not have the state license on his person. Proof of possession is sufficient.

In view of this there is no logical reason for maintaining that a city may not issue a temporary permit while holding the state license in trust.

The Record Renews a Pledge

With the passing of the Hill Tribune, The Hilltop Record takes this opportunity to pledge a continuation of faithful service to the Hilltop.

From the beginning we have felt that the publication of a second community paper here was economically unsound and was not needed.

The Record has at all times aimed to do the finest possible job of publishing a paper that could best serve the Hilltop. This shall continue to be our policy.

Principals Endorse Draper For School Bd.

Hilltop and West Side school principals this week endorsed the candidacy of Robert M. Draper, 74 N. Roys-av, for member of the board of education at the election on Nov. 7.

Local school heads are urging the election of Draper in order that this community may have a representative on the board. Draper is the only candidate who lives west of the Scioto river.

The letter of endorsement secured by The Hilltop Record is as follows:

"Believing that the best interests of the city can be served by having a representative from each section of the city on the Columbus board of education, we the undersigned principals of Hilltop and West Side schools take this opportunity to endorse the candidacy of Robert M. Draper for member of the board of education.

"Mr. Draper is the only candidate for this position who lives in this community west of the Scioto river.

"For the past 16 years the Hilltop and West Side have been ably represented on the [illegible] Judge Cecil J. Randall and Ray G. Haunts, who have contributed much toward improvement in the local schools. This community is entitled to a continuation of this representation to be made possible by electing Draper to the board of education.

"Furthermore we feel that the sincerity, integrity, honesty of purpose and educational background of Mr. Draper qualify him for the position."

Local principals who signed the endorsement were: Dr. E. H. Reighley, West High; E. J. Graham, John Burroughs; Vance Smith, West Junior high; Matilda Stuart, West Broad; Helen C. Kennedy, Highland Avenue.

Bucks Seek Sixth Straight Win Today

West High's Battling Buckaroos, undefeated in five starts by virtue of a 3-0 victory over Central last week, will attempt to gain its sixth successive win this afternoon at Magly field when the Aquinas Terriers invade the local stronghold. Current leaders of the City league race, the Cowboys will be favored to top the Terriers in the Homecoming contest which begins at 3:15.

In comparing the seasonal records of the two squads the invaders are inferior to the Bucks. However, the Terriers will be bouncing back from a 7-0 loss to South last week (a team the locals defeated 6-0) and at the same time will be aimed at the undefeated status of the Williams-coached aggregation. Outstanding for Aquinas is Jack Clifford, fleet-footed, triple-threat back, and the passing combination of McQuade to Tonegzzo, Aquinas captain.

Cowboys Undaunted

The Cowhands will be undaunted by the Mt. Vernon-av team. They've stopped cold the passing attacks of all opponents to date, and last Friday allowed the Central Pirates only two pass completions in 12 attempts. This can be just the time for an upset, however, and Coach Williams has been schooling his proteges this week on over-confidence in the coming fray.

Against the Central High eleven last week West was battling one of the better teams in the league. The Pirates, rated as tops in the city defensively, were completely outplayed by the locals, although the margin was only by three points. Late in the second quarter, with only 10 seconds left before the half, Cliff Lerum's educated toe booted the ball squarely through the uprights for the winning margin.

Defensive Battle

Throughout the second half it was strictly a defensive battle between the two teams with Central trying vainly to score. The Pirates never penetrated inside the West 10-yard line and only seriously threatened to score early in the initial quarter. The Bucks took the ball to the Central one in the same half, but the Pirates braced and took the ball on downs.

Al Williams and Ray Medlick, who relieved Carter in the first minute of play following an injury, were the satellites in the Buck offensive maneuvers. Both retired to the sidelines late in the contest with painful injuries but Coach Williams indicated this week that both would be ready for today's game. The only possible change in the Buck line-up for the contest today would send Medlick to a half-back post in place of Carter.

Buckaroos Excel

The Cowboys outrushed the Pirates by a margin of 106 to 52, led in first-downs 6-3, and in only one department, passing, were they excelled. Central gained 85 yards by the overhead route while the Cowboys, who completed five passes in seven attempts, were able to muster only 52. With Johnny O'Connor, best of the invading ball-carriers, averaging 34 yards, the Pirates had a short advantage in the punting duel between Bell and O'Connor.

Hill Tribune Discontinued

Publication of The Hill Tribune has been discontinued, according to Earl Dawson, pub[illegible] of the paper.

The paper was suspended four weeks ago and another issue was published Friday, Oct. 6, but further publication of the paper was halted by Dawson last week. The paper had been in operation in this community for nearly 18 months.

Legion Post Asks For Traffic Signal

The executive committe of Camp Chase Post No. 98 went on record recently requesting that city officials place a suitable traffic signal at the intersection of the west end of the Spring Street bridge. If this is not possible the committee asks that a traffic officer be assigned there between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. daily.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the Hilltop Business Men's association and the West Side Board of Trade.

It is pointed out by committee members that a great number of Hilltoppers are held up there daily in coming home from down town employment, as McKinley Avenue offers a quicker avenue of reaching the Hilltop when Broad street is crowded with traffic.

Queen Annabelle Will Reign Tonight

ANNABELLE HAINES

West High School will be the scene of two gala affairs today when Queen Annabelle Haines and her court will reign in all their regal splendor at the West-Aquinas game this afternoon and at the alumni dance this evening.

Miss Haines, who was chosen Queen last Friday by members of the entire student body from a list of five candidates, resides at 1615 Reaver Lane. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Haines.

At the alumni dance, which will be held in the school gym, members of the association will present Miss Haines and her court to the assembly. To be attired in a holly-red dress with matching accessories, the queen will be escorted by Robert Miller, 119 Binns-blvd.

The West high school annual homecoming reception and dance, sponsored by the alumni association, will be held tonight in the school gym. Festivities begin at 8:30. Music will be furnished by the Harry Martin orchestra.

The West High Alumni association will hold a meeting Tuesday evening at 8:30 at the Jorg Fasting studio, 68½ E. Long-st. All members of the association are invited to attend.

Green Promises Confidence

Before a record gathering at Memorial hall Monday night, Floyd Green, Hilltop candidate for mayor, officially launched his pre-election campaign.

Green, who had built for himself a huge personal following early in the campaign long before he received the endorsement of the county Republican committee, defended himself against the accusation that he is "controlled," "hand-picked," or "bossed by any man."

He said: "If the voters of Columbus think for a moment that I am going to sell my entire life for a mess of political pottage and allow any individual or group of individuals to boss and control me, then don't vote for me."

He condemned the present system of traffic enforcement, "spasmodic drives under the guise of a safety campaign," as "designed to enrich our city treasury" and declared that the present "reception room" in police headquarters for traffic violators would be discontinued after election if the present administration remains in power.

Playing the system where motorcycle officers are compelled to ride behind billboards and in side streets to jump out on unsuspecting victims, he continued; "Not only are Columbus drivers being persecuted, but motorists from coast to coast are learning to avoid Columbus, causing our merchants to lose thousands of dollars annually."

Pointing out the inconsistency of "taxing a specific property for the maintenance of a general operation," Green promised to do all within his power to repeal the sewer tax.

He further pledged himself to a reduction of the water rate from $1.20 to 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Stressing the need for Columbus to regain its former enviable position as a friendly, prosperous and courteous city, Green concluded: "I promise I shall so conduct the affairs of the city of Columbus so that there will be a return of confidence in our municipal government."

Fire Destroys Truck, Supplies At Waymer's

The addition at the rear of A. L. Waymer's meat market, 2385 W. Broad-st, which housed "Pop's" brand new Dodge merchandising truck and other supplies, was completely demolished by fire early Monday morning.

"Pop" was opening shop about 7 o'clock when someone telephoned to notify him of the fire. "I rushed to the back room," he said, "and opened the door. The flames came pouring out and I closed it quickly to keep the fire from spreading up front."

The conflagration was extinguished in about an hour. "If the fire had reached the front of the store or the apartment upstairs," said Pop, "the whole thing would have gone up like tinder." The building housing the meat market is the only frame front structure in the business block between Oakley and Wayne avenues.

Truck Burned

Biggest loss was "Pop's" new traveling meat truck which had been outfitted for selling fresh meats, vegetables and fruits from door to door. The truck had been driven only 143 miles. It was completely destroyed. The heat was so intense that the door handles were melted down.

"Pop" this week announced that he will offer delivery service to anyone on the Hilltop. Any kind of meat will be delivered by phoning the Waymer Market.

According to conservative estimates the total fire damage was well over $2,000. The loss was largely covered by insurance written by Shank and Saunders.

Reward

A Lost Merchandise contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association in which $65 in cash will be offered winners will be held the week following Thanksgiving.

A first prize of $50, a second of $10, and a third of $5 will be awarded.

The committee in charge of the contest, composed of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Metzger, Ray Haunts, C. H. Penfield, Geo. Painter, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley, will announce complete details within the next few weeks.

Library Presents Saturday Story Hour

Hilltop Boy Has Bright Grid Future

Jack Bellar

According to a recent release of the Denison university news bureau, Jack Bellar, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bellar, 320 Algonquin-av, is the biggest man on Denison's 1939 grid team which has title aspirations in the Ohio conference.

Bellar, a former West high star, stands two inches above the six-foot mark and tips the scales at 225 pounds. A rugged, hard-hitting tackle, he has seen considerable service in early season games of the schedule and is slated to play a lot of ball during the next three years at the Granville school.

Last year Bellar was one of the outstanding players of the freshman squad and Denison mentor Tom Rogers, whose teams have lost but three games in 17 starts the past two years, is grooming the Hilltop lad for a first string tackle berth.

Named all-Columbus tackle during his last two years with the Buckaroos, Bellar was one of a squad of 28 players from 350 high schools in Ohio chosen to compete with an all-Florida eleven in Florida's Kumquat bowl in 1937.

When Bellar takes time-out from his football duties he spends considerable time in the department of art at Denison and Dr. Horace King, head of the department, predicts a bright future for the Denison gridder in his college major.

While studying art and design, Bellar has won a place as feature cartoonist for the Denisonian, campus newspaper. He is affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

We'll Understand It All Some Day

The King has his mansion and throne, the miser his sack of gold,
The sky has the sun and moon and the rivers that run free and bold.
The cemetery has the dead who've departed from this vale of sorrow and tears,
Some sleep in the ocean where there is little commotion to disturb their rest through the years.

The poor we always have with us and some that are famous and rich,
The thief in the night with his gun and flash-light and the men who open the ditch.
The widow and orphan children that hunger for something to eat,
We often wonder why the money we squander don't go to the poor on the street.

We have strife within our own border, there is strife across the sea,
Does anyone know how they'll banish the woe; it is too deep for you and me.
The young man though smart may leave his sweetheart, sometimes he is called away,
God's infinite plan is a mystery to man but we'll understand it all some day.

HIS DAD OWNS THE BIG NEW HOUSE ON THE CORNER. RICH? NO. JUST THRIFTY.

Everyone said Bill's "Dad" could never make a go of it. The "big debt" he incurred when he bought the house would bankrupt him.

But not Bill's "Dad." He consulted a representative of the First Federal Savings and Loan before he ever went into the deal. Together they worked out a simple plan of regular monthly payments scarcely larger than the sum he had been paying for rent. The Direct Reduction Plan works like that. And look at them now. The house no longer a burden and Bill, the first string quarterback on the high school football team.

Round About The Hilltop

Having talked personally with one bona fide reader of "Round About The Hilltop" this past week we launch forth with renewed vigor feeling that our efforts are not entirely in vain.

From Here and There

Rumor hath it that the Dr. M. W. Bates', winners of the $800 living room suite given away last week, were not quite agreed as to the final disposition of said prize. Seems the Doc would have taken the cash and invested in a bit of hoss' flesh but the Mrs. insisted on collecting the winnings intact. Now M. W. is looking for someone interested in trading a horse for one used living room suite . . . For the first time in his life Henry Jones was outsmarted by one of those weight guessing men down at the Fairfield County Fair. After investing two bits in the deal the "guesser" hit within two pounds of Jones' 234 avoirdupois.

Of This and That

After waiting for weeks on his OSU football tickets Herb Deems finally got the ducats down back of the end zone . . . Undaunted by superstition Bob Sherwood chose Friday the 13th as his wedding date . . . Bill Moore celebrated his birthday on 13th last . . . John Adair flashes a suit as daring as most big shots would wear . . . Curtis Allen has been transferred from upper New York state to Fort Benning, Ga., effective Oct. 25 . . . Fred Perkins and Ed Weaver were seen "jitterbugging" at a downtop spot recently . . . Jim Armstrong, former operator of the shine and hat shop at Frey's Shoe Repair shop on W. Broad hit the numbers recently for $2200. Jim has been investing in such sights as the World Series and other big events . . . It was 85 separate steps (to say nothing of the long ramps) to my seat in C deck at the OSU game Saturday. And they say the fellows on the team take the punishment.

At Random

Esther Weakley, poetry editor for the Record, gets the darndest requests for poetry publications . . . Gene Hays celebrated his thirty-first birthday Monday evening in company with 1,200 friends at the Neil House Community Fund banquet . . . Art Bellar, owner of a green 1940 Pontiac, has owned 23 new cars in the past 11 years . . . Among Hilltoppers seen at the Community Fund banquet were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Mose Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leighninger, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Seifert, Mrs. Avard Coyle, Dr. T. S. Fox, Ernie Potts and Gene Hays . . . Something confusing in the sense of direction down in the Fairfield county hills after night. Chet Rinehart, Bill Hanby, Christine and Mary Kundts enroute home from the fair Friday night found themselves in Kirkersville instead of Columbus.

The Roundup

From down Richardson Avenue way comes the report that Howard "Pingpong" Powell has gone in for amateur photography in a big way. Equipping himself with all the necessary developing paraphernalia he set about in pitch darkness to develop his first roll of film. Encountering a little difficulty because of the seeming length of the film he had to call for help in taking it through the various processes. Finally the task was completed and the film was hung up to dry. The lights were turned on to see the results of his efforts and lo and behold he had been developing the wrapper to the film.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Slaitt and daughter, Luella, of 60 Powhatan-av, and Mr. and Mrs. Addison Brown, 186 S. Central-av, left Monday for New York and the World's fair. They will return today.

WILL ATTEND GAME

Among the Hilltoppers to attend the Navy-Notre Dame game Saturday, Oct. 24 at Cleveland will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Day, 2975 W. Broad-st, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Planck and Miss Jean Planck, 2984 Crescent-dr, and Mr. Thomas Conley, 276 S. Roys-av.

LADIES AID TO MEET

Group 3 of the Ladies' Aid society of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. E. Buchanan, 145 N. Chase-av, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Assisting hostess will be Mrs. P. T. Read. Mrs. A. E. Daniels is group chairman.

SENIOR GUILD HAS SUPPER

The Senior Wesleyan Service guild of Glenwood Methodist church will serve a chili supper at the church Thursday evening from 5:30 to 7:30. The public is invited.

MEETINGS POSTPONED

The revival meetings that were to have started at the Valleyview Church of Christ in Christian Union have been indefinitely postponed due to sickness. The services were to have started Sunday, Oct. 22.

Oakley Baptists Launch Drive

The Oakley Avenue Baptist church is in the midst of a fund campaign which is to continue until Sunday, Nov. 12. This church serves a community of about 1800 people and has successfully operated for the past 40 years. Circumstances have been such that at present it is greatly in need of funds to carry on its program of ministering to those whom it serves. The church feels there are friends in the community who are interested in the work it is striving to do and are willing to help in this effort now being launched. The present pastor, Rev. Jacob Ashburn jr., has sacrificially served for 23 years along with many faithful officers and workers. Any friend who may desire to help can do so by sending contributions to the Hilltop Record.

Troop 45 of West junior high school, one of the foremost scout troops on the Hilltop, will dedicate its new cabin Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The cabin, which was built by members of the troop, is located seven miles directly south of Lancaster, near "Jacob's Ladder."

Vance Smith, West jr. principal, and Bob Heistand, district scout executive for central Ohio, will make short dedication speeches. Charles Riggs, committeeman of troop 161, will be master of ceremonies. Program and entertainment arrangements are being made by Sam Morrison, West jr. teacher and scoutmaster of troop 45, and George Heitz, troop committeeman.

Short hikes will be made over the adjacent territory with Mary Baker leading the ladies' group.

A picnic lunch will be served before the dedication ceremony, while cider and doughnuts will be available after the hike.

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress of Colds "Morning After" and Muscular Fatigue because they have heard—and believed—Alka-Seltzer radio announcements.

To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcasts.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us.

But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio programs.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE

The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The pain-relieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

Get Alka-Seltzer the next time you pass a drug store.

ANNIVERSARY SPEAKER

Rev. C. L. Allen

Rev. C. L. Allen, district superintendent of the eastern district of the Ohio conference of the Evangelical church, will be the guest preacher at the tenth anniversary service of the Westgate Evangelical church Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

EVANGELIST TO SPEAK

Evangelistic services will begin in the Hillcrest Baptist church with the Sunday evening service with H. Max Good as the evangelist. Mr. Good conducts the daily Wings of Prayer program over WHKC each morning but Sunday at 6:45 a. m. Sunday's broadcast is at 9:15 a. m.

For the past six years Mr. Good was identified with the Cadle Tabernacle in evangelistic work. Since coming to Columbus his services have been in demand almost constantly for this

Fund Workers Canvass Hilltop

Community Fund solicitation among the business houses of the Hilltop was being conducted this week under the direction of Gene Hays, 69 S. Westmoor-av. A committee composed of representatives of the Hilltop Business Men's association and other Hilloppers was conducting the canvass.

Prospects for this year's contributions were bright as evidenced by early reports of some of the workers, Hays pointed out.

'Man Of Year' To Be Named

A certificate of award to the "Hilltop Man of the Year" will be presented Friday, Nov. 3 at the regular monthly meeting of Camp Chase post No. 98, American Legion.

The practice of designating an individual for outstanding services rendered during the year was established three years ago by the post in cooperation with the Hilltop Business Men's association.

The committee in charge of the selection is composed of Dr. A. C. Myers, chairman, D. C. Finneran and Charlie Kent. According to Dr. Myers the selection will be unbiased and unprejudiced, since the real choice is actually out of the committee's hands.

"The actual selection," said Myers, "is based on the votes of representative Hilltop residents who have been asked for their opinions on the subject and who in no way are connected with either the Camp Chase post or the HBMA."

"We have no indications yet," he added, "as to who will be the next 'Man of the Year'."

Nazaren Revival

atrical profession for four years. He was in chautauqua, lyceum, musical comedy, light opera, concert and grand opera.

Rev. Harris B. Anthony is pastor of the Warren Avenue Nazarene church.

Mayor Gessaman Speaks At 11th Ward Meeting

When Mayor Myron B. Gessaman spoke before members of the Eleventh Ward Republican club at 2393½ W. Broad-st Tuesday night he was treading dangerous ground, for this is the homeland of the enemy. The eleventh ward is Floyd Green's own bailiwick.

In charging that his opponent was making impossible promises which could not possibly be carried out, the mayor launched a personal attack against Candidate Green.

In answer to Green's campaign pledge that "our children must have ample playground facilities," the incumbent delved into the remote past when Green was a member of city council to ferret out an obscure incident where Green proposed to sell Sunshine park to a private industry.

Assailing Green's plan whereby temporary drivers' licenses would be issued by the city to traffic violators in exchange for the regular state license in order that the offender might have time to raise money for a fine, Gessaman said: "Anyone knows that the issuing of a driver's license is a state function. No city official would have any authority to issue such licenses. I would like to have him (Green) say just how he plans to do what the state law says he cannot do."

In a reply to this the following day, Green said: "The state law most certainly does not forbid the issuance of temporary licenses. Of course I realize I won't be able to do the whole thing alone. An ordinance must be passed by council and permission must be obtained from the state authorities. The proposed plan is already in operation in three states."

Youth Rally Planned At Burgess Sunday

Burgess Avenue United Brethren church will hold its youth rally Sunday, Oct. 22. The young people will be in charge of the Sunday school service at 9:15, and will have part in the morning worship at 10:30. The junior high school Christian Endeavor will have full charge of the evening program. Parents and friends are invited.

West Highlarity Night Thurs., Oct. 26

The curtains of the West High auditorium will open at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, Oct. 26, for the first West Highlarity night, featuring the West robed choir, the orchestra and band. The swing band will also take a major part in the program, under the direction of H. H. Hutchison.

Other features for the evening include a boys' quartet, composed of Ralph Rooker, Carl Speckman, Mel Fluhart and Ray Haughn, which has gained much recognition about the Hilltop during the past month; the Traveling Rollers, a trio of ex-West students specializing in acrobatic skating; a girls' chorus on skates; and various instrumental and vocal acts.

The dramatics department, under the direction of Roy Bowen, will participate by presenting the one-act play, paradoxically entitled, "Yes Means No," in which Earl Webb, Lola Young, Charlene Young, Carl Speckman and Milton Sebring will take part.

Holton's bantam weights will tangle with Westgate tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock on McKinley field.

Next Tuesday brings back Bedford Drugs whom Holton defeated last week by a 36-6 score. Wheatland A. C.'s all-colored team was defeated by Holton Tuesday 19-0.

Captain Fisher announced that he would welcome more middleweight engagements with Hilltop teams. Jerry Spears, Hilltop undertaker, will be present at tomorrow's game at McKinley field to take motion picture photographs of the two Hilltop teams in action.

Bigelow Plan To Be Discussed

Sponsors of the Bigelow pension meeting at Glenwood shelter house, 7:30, Monday evening urge local residents to "come and hear the truth." They say that the truth of the matter can be presented only in this way, since the newspapers are prone to distort the facts.

Proper Use of The Referendum

When the initiative and referendum was originally provided for it was meant to make possible a further voice of approval or disapproval on the part of the voters over the heads of the legislators.

In event the legislature failed to accomplish those things desired by a large majority of the people the initiative and referendum provided a means for this expression on the part of the public.

Now comes a proposed amendment to the state constitution under the Bigelow plan which would provide for the placing of legislative matters on the ballot by a very small number of signatures.

That such a plan would provide a world of headaches can readily be seen. In the primary it would mean that any small group in any section of the state might easily put their pet legislative matters up to the voters of the entire state. That such proposals would be frequent and numerous can easily be understood. And too, it is easy to understand that a very small portion of the people would be interested in this type of legislation and a much larger portion of them would never understand what they were voting for.

These are but a few of the reasons why the Bigelow amendments should be defeated.

Steamroller Keeps Rolling Along

To my desk today comes a copy of the recent issue of the Steamroller, official publication of Troop 46 Boy Scouts out at West Junior High. And a welcome visitor it is.

It recalls a most pleasant experience . . . . Some years ago—several in fact—a chap came to the Record office and inquired about the cost of printing the Steamroller. He was on the publication staff at the time and wanted to dress the sheet up by having it printed rather than [illegible]

I also recall that I told him he was foolish because the price would be prohibitive . . . and because, I differed with him, I suppose, a friendship grew out of the contact that has been strengthened as other years came.

This fellow was ambitious and because of that fact I readily saw an opportunity to have him give me a lift with my duties on the Record so I "allowed" him to write the high school football games. He did one thing and then another and gained a lot of experience in newspaper work with me. He later became editor of the Record and a very fine one.

But one of the many fine young men who have gained much from and given much to Troop 46 was John Wolfe.

Public To Seek Lost Articles

Here are complete details of the Lost Merchandise contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association in which $65 in cash prizes will be awarded winners.

Articles of merchandise will be taken from different places of business and placed in other business establishments on the Hilltop where they will obviously be "out of place" or "lost." For example a necktie raly be taken out of a ready-to-wear store and placed in a grocery store.

The "lost" article will be labeled with a tag designating where it is carried in stock and where it can be purchased.

Contest participants must identify all pieces of "lost" merchandise between Dec. 1 and 11.

In addition to finding the "lost" article of merchandise contestants will write a brief statement not to exceed 50 words in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?"

Those eligible to enter the contest in which $50 will be awarded as first prize, $10 as second prize, and $5 as third, must be 17 years of age or over.

The committee in charge of the contest is composed of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Nafzger, Ray Hauntz, C. H. Penfield, George Painter, M. W. Seiller, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley.

From 60 to 65 business proprietors will cooperate in making the contest a success.

Williams Tops Bowlers In Newsie Tourney

In the face of the stiffest opposition, Jack Williams, 86 N. Haldy-av, fought his way into possession of the Hilltop ten-pin title last Sunday in the local play-off matches of the Charity Newsie bowling derby.

Thirty-two Hilltop bowlers participated in the games which were held at the Hilltop Recreation alleys, 2149 W. Broad-st.

Knees Wobble As Campbell Looks Down Gun Barrel

"I felt a little wobbly in the knees when I looked down the barrel of that gun," said C. H. "Doc" Campbell in describing his experience of last Sunday night when his pharmacy at 2766 W. Broad-st was held up by a pair of "smooth-looking," well-dressed young bandits.

Campbell was closing up shop at about 11 p. m. Three customers were sitting in booths in the back. Clerk Dwight Archinal was on duty. Then two young men whom Campbell described as "well-dressed" and "respectable-looking" entered the store.

"Watch the front," said the taller of the two to his companion as he proceeded to the prescription department in the rear, which is partitioned off from the rest of the store by wood paneling. Campbell was there counting money.

Brandishing a mean looking Luger, the bandit scooped up the money and then ordered Campbell to turn his back while he pilfered the safe. During the course of his thorough search he came across Campbell's .32 Colt automatic. Placing his own gun in a holster under his coat he turned on Campbell and, flourishing the proprietor's own weapon, said: 'If you move, I'll use your own gun on you."

Empty Register

After relieving the front cash register of its contents and an unsuccessful attempt to break into the camera case, the pair started for the front door.

"Then something rather amusing occurred," said Campbell. The fortune wheel, a clock-like device on the wall which whirls around automatically at several minute intervals and at the same time rings a loud bell, went into operation.

"The bandits thought this was a burglar alarm," said Campbell, "and sailed out of here in a hurry."

The pair who to date have not been apprehended, escaped with more than $200 in cash, two fountain pens, a watch, and a gold chain and ring which were keepsakes. The loss was entirely covered by insurance written by Shank and Saunders.

The Wa-Kan-Ya group had [illegible] entries and received 103 ribbons amounting to $72.50 out of a total of $115 in prizes awarded. The group won first prizes in nature, camp craft, sewing, birthday project, and second in hand craft and any group project.

Remodel Ritz Theatre

When the $30,000 remodeling of the Ritz theatre, 2548 Sullivant-av, is completed "everything will be new except the walls and they'll be considerably altered," according to George Pekras, theatre manager.

To be completely renovated and redecorated from sidewalk to curtain and beyond, the movie house will get a brand new front of enamel steel panelling, a 45-foot marque and theatre sign of the [illegible] modern type, deep, springy carpeting all over, an auditorium full of oversize automatic spring seats with red plush backs, and a new heating, air-conditioning and cooling system.

Walls, ceilings, lobby, the whole interior in fact, will be faced with sound-proofing masonite tile. Pink will predominate in the interior color scheme.

The box office to be constructed of the finest grade antique marble will be placed in front of the theatre instead of in the lobby, its old location. The lobby, too, will undergo complete redecoration.

New Equipment

Two of the newest type simplex projectors, RCA, high-fidelity apparatus, and a new screen will be installed.

The wall separating the entrance hall and the theatre proper will be torn out and a waist-high standing rail will be installed from behind which late-comers may view the movie.

An entirely new maple floor, raised on an angle to insure complete vision from all sections of the theatre, will be laid.

Pekras, who is also manager of the Rivoli theatre, 2359 W. Broad-st, has announced that the renovating process will in no way interfere with scheduled picture showings.

Began this Wednesday, it is expected that work on the theatre will be completed sometime before the Christmas holidays.

Introducing

West Principal Always Been A School Man

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

One of the foremost educators in the city and recognized nationally for his work in connection with the schools is Dr. H. H. Reighley, principal of West High school.

Reighley was born in Cherry Fork, Adams county, Ohio. He graduated from Winchester High school and received his A. B. degree from Miami university in 1909. Awarded the Phi Beta Kappa key for excellency of scholarship, he graduated with highest honors.

At Ohio State university he took an M. A. in physics and in 1933 received his Ph. D. with a minor in physics and a major in school administration.

Immediately upon graduation from Miami university he entered the Columbus public schools as a teacher of mathematics and physics at East High school. He remained there until 1920, when he entered the office of the superintendent of schools for the purpose of conducting a school survey preparatory to a proposed building program.

In accordance with the results of his survey East, North, Central and South High schools and several elementary schools were constructed, while still other schools were rehabilitated.

In 1921 Reighley was appointed principal of the new Highland-av junior high school. While in this position he was constantly consulted in regard to the school construction program which he had outlined and which was now in the process of being realized. He remained at Highland until the completion of West High school in 1929.

Reighley was married before he entered Miami university. A principal of a school in a small southern Ohio community, he decided that he had gone as far as he could go without a college education. Accordingly he resigned his position and entered the university.

There ensued a period of "tough sledding." "We had about a hundred dollars in a Cincinnati bank between us and starvation," said Reighley. "This was the time of the 1907 panic and bank failures," he continued, "and our $100 went with the bank. I then went to work husking corn for a farmer."

By tutoring his backward fellow students and by doing part-time teaching, Reighley secured enough funds to complete his education. Things were somewhat easier for the Reighleys thereafter.

Ever fond of the great outdoors, Dr. Reighley and family have spent many a summer traveling, camping and fishing. Last February the Reighleys purchased a farm which is located about 16 miles south of Hillsboro. They have four children, all married.

For years Dr. Reighley has been listed in the "American Men of Science" in recognition of his

West Eleven Seeks 7th Straigth Win

Risk Clean Slate In Nocturnal Battle At Zanesville Tonight

Taking time out from City league warfare, West High's undefeated football eleven, victorious in six consecutive engagements, will trek to Zanesville for a contest with the Blue Devils of that city, the game to get under way at 7:30 tonight. Latest victim of the strong Cowboy aggregation was the Aquinas team which succumbed by a 14-0 count last Friday.

For the second time in as many weeks the locals will be installed as slight favorites. On the basis of games played to date the Buckaroos have the edge with their slate clean while the Blue Devils have lost to Coshocton and New Philadelphia. In games with the same opponent, Newark, Zanesville won a 13-0 decision while West defeated the Wildcats by a 19-0 margin.

Record in Danger

West's undefeated record will be in serious danger tonight for Zanesville, a member of the strong Central Ohio league, is strong in every department of the game. They have scored in every game to date, walloping Caldwell 78-0 in their opener. Also included on their score sheet are victories over Marietta and Cambridge.

Meanwhile the Bucks continue to dominate the football powers in the vicinity of Columbus with a 14-0 win over the Aquinas Tigers. West scored in the initial period as soon as they obtained the ball. With Bell, Carter and Williams alternating they drove to the Aquinas 9-yard line on a 30-yard drive, where Bell scored behind good blocking by Mack and Williams. Lerum converted.

Defensive Play Good

The Bucks were content to play defensive ball throughout the rest of the first half but scored again in the third quarter after a 70-yard march, with Williams scoring from the Aquinas seven. Again Lerum's kick was good. The Williams-coached group played excellent defensive ball, holding the Terriers from within the West 30-yard line and keeping them to only 43 yards by rushing. The entire line, Hart, Garnes, Westerman, Alban, Brandenberger, McConnel and Carpenter stood out on defensive while Bell's work behind the line was excellent.

Seeking its seventh consecutive win, the team will leave via bus for Zanesvill this afternoon at 3 p. m.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET THURSDAY EVENING

A Democratic meeting of the tenth and eleventh wards will be held next Thursday evening at Highland-av hall. All Democratic candidates are invited.

Mrs. Cline Wins $500 In Irish Sweepstakes

"It was a grand surprise," said Mrs. Julia Cline, 257 Nashoba-av, referring to her experience when she was informed that her Irish hospital sweepstakes ticket was the winner of $500. The news came Saturday while she was in Cleveland with friends watching the Notre-Dame-Navy football game. It was not until her arrival at Union station that she knew about her winnings.

Son Robert, 12, a student at St. Aloysius school, and Mary Jo, 14, a student at St. Joseph academy, were bubbling over with excitement when they met their mother at the station. They had been told of the good fortune that morning.

Mrs. Cline, widow of Robert Cline, city detective who was slain in a West side gun battle following robbery of the Hilltop Bank two years ago, has a chance of winning still more than her $500 since the race has not actually been run. Her winnings were the result of the preliminary drawings staged in advance of the race.

It's Your Business

An Editorial

When it comes to the matter of marking a ballot in the election on Nov. 7, one race for a municipal position deserves more consideration, perhaps, than any other. We have reference to that of the city auditor.

It deserves this attention because of the contrast between the two candidates. In the first place, each are good fellows and likeable with much personality. But we have yet to find anyone that has been able to present any sensible argument to the effect that the city auditor's office can best be maintained by a man with personality only.

In so many, many ways it is a technical job requiring technical skill that it behooves the public to give their every consideration to voting for a man with these qualifications rather than just merely voting for a good fellow or for a party man.

The city of Columbus is about to hire an auditor for a business that totals some eight million dollars yearly. Put yourself in the position of a business man at the head of an eight million dollar firm.

Would you hire a man that had no experience in auditing and accounting or would you take the man who could back up his claims by experience and tried methods?

Citizens of Columbus can't afford to overlook the matter of hiring their city auditor next Nov. 7. They can hire that man who has had the experience and has the technical ability plus having the personality and courtesy to give the city the finest administration of that office by voting for T. Blain Holloway.

Veteran Hilltoppers To Celebrate Anniversary - But Quietly

Sunday is always a good day for quiet reminiscing. But this will be more than an ordinary day of dream spinning for Stephen and Margaret Adkins of 111 N. Oakley-av. Come this day and they will have been married 55 years.

But there will be no hilarity in the household on the occasion of this anniversary, for Mr. Adkins is a sick man. Stricken 10 years ago with an uncommon malady, he has never fully recovered.

The marriage ceremony took place on Oct. 29, 1884, in the little town of Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., where Mr. Adkins was born and where his sister still lives.

Formerly a salesman for the Victor Stove Co., he and his wife moved to the Hilltop 17 years ago from Cleveland. They have lived at the same address ever since.

The Adkin's have three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. It is Mrs. Adkin's boast that she was a grandmother at 37 and a great-grandmother at the age of 57.

Great-grandchildren Bonnie and Charles Way with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Way of Bedford, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Adkins two weeks ago.

To Learn the Latest In Modern Hair Styles

1. The first is the baby haircut. This is still good with short little ringlets over your head.
2. People who are trying to find different hair styles most becoming to them are wearing their hair up in front.
3. Long bobs are especially important as ever. They are being worn to fit the new snoods.
4. The hair style that is worn mostly these days is the one that is worn off the face, curls on top, hair tied back with a velvet bow.
5. One of the latest styles, not too extreme, is to have the hair waved back with a few ringlets and a curl over your brow.
6. Not forgetting the younger set the latest style for them is the hair fastened on side, combed back and fluffed at the ends, then caught at side with a bow.

For the latest in these modern hair styles let Mary Lou hair stylists fix your hair to suit your individual taste.

Political Slants

By John Hess

The Hilltop Business Men's association went on record Monday as endorsing the findings of the Citizen's Tax League of Ohio. Franklin county division, in regard to the proposed one-mill levy which will be placed on the ballot in November for the purpose of operating and maintaining the Franklin county tuberculosis hospital.

According to the survey and audit submitted by Stuart A. Baxter, executive director of the league, the additional amount needed this year over last for the operation of the hospital due to the erection of the new $600,000 wing would not exceed $75,000 per annum. The budget submitted by the hospital authorities themselves substantiates this.

The proposed levy, if the full amount were collected, would render approximately $450,000 a year over the two year period of the levy. It is difficult to understand, say directors of the tax league, why the voters are asked to pass upon a levy that will produce an amount so much in excess of the amount required.

By establishing a purchasing department under a competent purchasing agent, to centralize and standardize all county purchases, by the equalization of salaries of all county employees, adjusting them to civil service levels and ratings, by discontinuing the existing practice of requiring employees of the county to turn back five percent of their salaries into a campaign fund, and by a cooperative effort on the part of the county commissioners and other elective officials in the interests of economy and efficiency, the citizen's tax league suggests that savings can be effected which would more than doubly offset the additional amounts needed to operate the new wing of the hospital.

An entirely different story, however, comes from the office of the county commissioners. According to their assertions, the proceeds of the levy will be used not only to operate the new wing but to operate the entire hospital, the estimated budget cost of which is $324,680.

And if the entire hospital is operated with funds obtained from the proposed levy other tax money may be diverted to provide for other needs. If the voters do not approve the levy, they maintain, there will be no funds available for the care of needy children, the care of indigent sick, and for payment on a $500,000 debt owed by the county to the state for the care of feeble minded and insane.

Director Baxter counters with the following agreements: "It is a common trick of county officials to base their appeal for operating funds on humanitarian needs, in this case the tuberculin patient.

"If the voters approve the proposed levy they will be, in effect, placing themselves out on a limb. After the expiration of the two year period, income from the levy will cease and the voter compelled to renew it.

"If county officials can continue to obtain funds for the asking there will be no effort to economize. But if they are compelled to operate within their income they can do so by eliminating the most glaring inefficiencies and by rationalizing county functions.

"If enough pressure can be exerted by public opinion," he concluded, "enough savings can be effected to more than take care of all essential services without imposing additional taxes."

Thus phases of a puzzling and complicated problem have been presented from both sides. It goes without saying that the needy and the indigent must be provided for.

On the other hand no one can doubt the validity of the contention of the Citizen's Tax League, that there is much waste and inefficiency in present government set-ups. An aroused public opinion is necessary to combat these things to the end of bringing about many needed reforms. The Citizen's Tax League of Ohio is doing a noble work in this regard.

Dubbing himself as somewhat old-fashioned along certain lines, Dr. Reighley made the following observation in regard to educational problems: "Young people are apt to get the impression these days that they can get something for nothing. But over a period of years the old virtues of perseverance, industry and temperance have without a doubt proved themselves to be still paramount in importance."

YOUR NEXT MAYOR OF COLUMBUS
Election, Tuesday, Nov. 7, 1939

A VOTE FOR GREEN

is a vote against the unjustly imposed Sewer Rental Tax. "I declare myself here and now opposed to the Sewer Tax in any form. I pledge myself to fight this measure until it is repealed or declared unlawful by the courts."

A VOTE FOR GREEN

is a vote for police protection and law enforcement. Women and children, business people and the man in the street will be protected from the current outbreak of lawlessness that goes on unchecked. The police force will be sufficiently manned to give this protection. Policemen will be assigned to crime prevention and protection of our citizenry instead of marking little white "x's" on parked autos.

A VOTE FOR GREEN

is a vote for the abolition of the vicious "quota system" on which police officers are now forced to work. Traffic officers will work out in the open and deal in courtesy as well as force. Those arrested will be treated as human beings instead of being herded into cells with hardened criminals. Minor traffic violations are not felonies.

A VOTE FOR GREEN

is a vote for recognition of the Hilltop in its rightful position as an important section of our city. The recent growth of our community deserves representation in our city government. ELECT A HILLTOPPER.

Budget Plan Saves Trouble

"Most family money squabbles," says a survey, "are over the wife's clothes."

But where such rows occur, the chances are the family is not living on a budget.

When clothes-buying time arrives without provision having been made for it, the wife often just does the best she can, gets the necessary money for clothes by putting off other bills—and what a fine muddle results.

Families who adopt a simple budget plan find it a veritable "peacemaker."

When every expense is planned for, there are no put-off bills, no arguments—and usually the money goes farther than ever before.

Fall Time To Transplant

There is something about giving plants a new home and a fresh start in their lives that adds to the pleasure and inspiration of the gardener almost as much as a shipment of new plants arriving.

It is a joy to take the tiny shoots or offsets that at first seem so insignificant, tuck their fine roots into the warm, moist earth, shading and protecting them, and watch them grow into full sized blooming plants.

And it is a satisfaction to know that from these small divisions of plants, the garden, in another year, will have increased greatly in plant material. That is one advantage of a perennial garden.

Can Be Prolonged

Though perennial means many years, it does not mean forever The life of a perennial plant, unless aided toward continuous health, is only about four or five years. This lifetime can, however, be prolonged indefinitely in most cases, by proper division and replanting.

Some of the perennials, whose crowns die out after blooming send out new growth around the old crown and, if left year after year, will eventually crowd themselves out and die for want of space to grow. These should be divided each one to three years Such are perennial asters, gypsophila, chrysanthemum, hemerocallis, lythrum, phlox, boltonia pyrethrum, helenium, physostegia, monarda and iris.

Some Must Wait

All the perennials that have finished their blooming period during early or midsummer may be divided and transplanted in the fall. Chrysanthemums, perennial asters, etc., will have to wait until spring.

Dig the plants out and set to one side until the ground is prepared. Spade to a depth of 15 or 18 inches, working in a good supply of plant food and humus. Use a sharp knife in dividing the roots (a clean cut prevents disease infection). Do not make the division too small, replant and water well and frequently until well established.

YOUR NEXT MAYOR OF COLUMBUS
Election, Tuesday, Nov. 7, 1939

A VOTE FOR GREEN
is a vote against the unjustly imposed Sewer Rental Tax. "I declare myself here and now opposed to the Sewer Tax in any form. I pledge myself to fight this measure until it is repealed or declared unlawful by the courts."

A VOTE FOR GREEN
is a vote for police protection and law enforcement. Women and children, business people and the man in the street will be protected from the current outbreak of lawlessness that goes on unchecked. The police force will be sufficiently manned to give this protection. Policemen will be assigned to crime prevention and protection of our citizenry instead of marking little white "x's" on parked autos.

A VOTE FOR GREEN
is a vote for the abolition of the vicious "quota system" on which police officers are now forced to work. Traffic officers will work out in the open and deal in courtesy as well as force. Those arrested will be treated as human beings instead of being herded into cells with hardened criminals. Minor traffic violations are not felonies.

A VOTE FOR GREEN
is a vote for recognition of the Hilltop in its rightful position as an important section of our city. The recent growth of our community deserves representation in our city government. ELECT A HILLTOPPER.

Budget Plan Saves Trouble

"Most family money squabbles," says a survey, "are over the wife's clothes."

But where such rows occur, the chances are the family is not living on a budget.

When clothes-buying time arrives without provision having been made for it, the wife often just does the best she can, gets the necessary money for clothes by putting off other bills—and what a fine muddle results.

Families who adopt a simple budget plan find it a veritable "peacemaker."

When every expense is planned for, there are no put-off bills, no arguments—and usually the money goes farther than ever before.

Fall Time To Transplant

There is something about giving plants a new home and a fresh start in their lives that adds to the pleasure and inspiration of the gardener almost as much as a shipment of new plants arriving.

It is a joy to take the tiny shoots or offsets that at first seem so insignificant, tuck their fine roots into the warm, moist earth, shading and protecting them, and watch them grow into full sized blooming plants.

And it is a satisfaction to know that from these small divisions of plants, the garden, in another year, will have increased greatly in plant material. That is one advantage of a perennial garden.

Can Be Prolonged

Though perennial means many years, it does not mean forever. The life of a perennial plant, unless aided toward continuous health, is only about four or five years. This lifetime can, however, be prolonged indefinitely in most cases, by proper division and replanting.

Some of the perennials, whose crowns die out after blooming send out new growth around the old crown and, if left year after year, will eventually crowd themselves out and die for want of space to grow. These should be divided each one to three years. Such are perennial asters, gypsophila, chrysanthemum, hemerocallis, lythrum, phlox, boltonia pyrethrum, helenium, physostegia, monarda and iris.

Some Must Wait

All the perennials that have finished their blooming period during early or midsummer may be divided and transplanted in the fall. Chrysanthemums, perennial asters, etc., will have to wait until spring.

Dig the plants out and set to one side until the ground is prepared. Spade to a depth of 15 or 18 inches, working in a good supply of plant food and humus. Use a sharp knife in dividing the roots (a clean cut prevents disease infection). Do not make the division too small, replant and water well and frequently until well established.

WILLING WORKERS TO MEET NEXT FRIDAY

Eleventh Ward Democratic Meeting

Approximately 150 eleventh ward Democrats and their friends rallied Wednesday night at VFW hall, 2393½ W. Broad-st. to the strains of "Marching Through Georgia" played by two fifes and three drums.

Principal speaker was Ralph Bartlett, prosecuting attorney of Franklin county. His speech consisted of a tirade against Mayor Gessaman for a weak administration. Progress during the past four years in municipal government,—he felt, had been due to the Democratic councilmen. Accordingly he urged reinstatement of the three Democratic incumbents.

All candidates introduced by chairman, Mrs. Lena Ferrel, spoke briefly. F. D. Shuter urged the adoption of the one-mill levy for construction, improvement and expansion of Columbus school buildings.

Robert M. Draper, the only candidate for the board of education who lives west of the Scioto river, asked support of his candidacy on the ground that representation of the west side on the school board would expire unless he is elected.

T. Blaine Holloway, present city auditor and candidate for re-election, attacked the claim of James A. Rhodes, his Republican opponent, that his membership on the finance committee of the school board qualified him for the post of city auditor. Said Holloway: "His (Rhodes') comparison of the duties of a city auditor and those he discharges in an advisory capacity on the school board finance committee fails to disclose the true facts concerning any ability he may have as an auditor or how far his technical knowledge of accounting may extend."

Gessaman Charges Green IS Not Constructive

Mayor Myron T. Gessaman, endorsed for re-election by the downtown papers which are controlled by H. P. Wolfe, powerful financier and publisher, spoke in defense of his administrative record Thursday night at a ninth, tenth and eleventh ward meeting held in West Broad Street school.

The mayor, who has been placed on the defensive during the past two weeks, ridiculed Green's campaign, charging that he (Green) has "nothing in his platform that says what he is going to do and where we are going."

He criticized Green's traffic enforcement program, asserting that he (Green) is "willing to play politics with a proposition that has saved lives for the purpose of grabbing a few votes."

Ignoring Green's platform pledges which cover a variety of subjects, Gessaman continued: "In spite of his (Green's) criticism, I have yet to hear one constructive suggestion."

West High Queen And Court Interviewed

A dynamic personality radiating vitality, ANNABELLE HAINES is easy on the eyes. She acts as a stimulant in any group where she may appear.

When your reporter asked our Annie just how she felt upon being elected homecoming queen, she replied, "Surprised, but oh so happy."

Contrary to the belief "beautiful but dumb," Annie tops the I. Q. tests. Her favorite studies are dramatics and secretarial work. She hopes to be a secretary, providing the boss is handsome!!!

Our Annie prefers her boys to be neat, polite, full of pep, and above all honest and truthful.

Annie is affiliated with the "L" Society and the Student Council. May all your wishes come true. Long live the Queen!

Brunette, vivacious, effervescent LUCILLE DAVIS is more than thrilled at being chosen by her classmates to the honored position of homecoming attendant.

Lucille would like to be an aviatrix. Evidently, she prefers to fly high. If she fails in this, she would prefer a secretarial career. Do not ask Lucille her first name for she is very touchy on this subject. Attention boys! Lucille sets her standard of the male element. He must be tall, blond or brunette, pleasing personality, good manners and a good sport.

Lucille is active in G. R., French Club and the Photoplay Club. Congratulations, Lucille, may your ideals ever fly high.

The serene, calm beauty of ERDINE SWAINE has entranced many of the students of West High, thus accounting for her election to the position of homecoming attendant.

When asked her secret desire, she replied very coyly, "It would no longer be a secret if I told you."

Erdine would like to be a private stenographer. Good manners and an abundance of pep are on her personality list. This rates especially high with the boys. Her pet-peeve is seeing someone comb his hair over a table.

Erdine is active in G. A. A., G. R., Photoplay Club, and the "L" Society. The best of luck Erdine and may your circle of friends grow ever larger.

The quiet, friendly loveliness of ELLEN WILGUS, homecoming attendant, is in a large measure responsible for her many friends. Like everyone else she has a secret passion. He must be six feet, rich, and a New Englander.

Her pet hate is chemistry homework—can you blame her? When asked how she liked the idea of being attendant her prompt answer was, "It's almost too good to be true, pinch me and see if I am dreaming." Ellen plans to study designing in New York after her graduation from West High.

Many club activities occupy this young lady's time and include the "L" Society of which she is secretary, and the G. A. A.

A blushing beauty blond and chuck-full of health, best describes MARTHA MITCHELL.

Martha was surprised and tickled over the results of the election which made her a homecoming attendant.

Martha's pet hate is a broken shoestring, especially if it is her own. She would like to be a radio commentator specializing in criminology. If she fails in this, her next choice is to be a social worker.

Martha belongs to many clubs. She is president of the G. R., member of the student council, G. A. A., Latin Club, Photoplay Club, and the "L" Society.

The male element that appeals to her most is the tall timid kind. She also likes them neat, polite, full of fun, and wrapped in an air of mystery.

Good luck, Marty, may your dreams come true.

Well, there you have it. Five pretty girls and all agreed on one thing essential in the male—neatness and politeness.

9B GIRLS KEEP BANNER

Well, boys and girls, they did it again. 138G, a 9B girls' room, took the banner this time with a percentage of 92. However, Room 226 kept up the good work and took second place with 77 per cent, while 127 rated third with 70 per cent.

For the past two times the "Jr. Occident" Banner has been taken by the girls. Come on, boys, let us show these gals we have some spirit. 136B had a look-in with 88 per cent this time. Why not win the banner next month?

Glenwood Shelts House Notes

The Glenwood bantam-weight football team suffered its first defeat last Saturday morning at the hands of the Sunshine park (Cronin's Corner cafe) eleven. Although they played a steady game a half, Dick Hemmerly's boys were outweighed and outrun by the Cronin team. Final score was Glenwood 0, Cronin's 19.

Park supervisors have announced that this week marks the close of Glenwood's outdoor season. All playground equipment has been removed and plans are now being formulated for the fall and winter indoor season.

TIMELY TIPS ON CHURCH SUPPERS

Are you scheduled to manage the strawberry festival or engineer a chicken supper for your church this summer? Then sit right down in a nice cool spot and consider these plans for your party. Start off with well chilled glasses of tomato juice. The ready-to-serve kind that comes all done up in tins will save you time and assure you a fresh tomato flavor. Just fill up a few pitchers ahead of time and tuck them in the coldest part of the refrigerator to chill. Of course, if you prefer a more highly spiced cocktail, it's no trick at all to add seasonings and spice from the condiment shelf. Here's a list of porportions needed to serve fifty people:

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL

Combine, blending well—

3 No. 18 tins tomato juice
6 tablespoons finely grated onion
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
6 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
3 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt.

Let stand 30 minutes, then strain through sieve. Chill and serve. (Serves 50—½ cup per serving.)

Then for the main course of the meal bring on an abundance of shortcake — chicken shortcake — made with tender, tasty hot biscuits spread lavishly with softened butter, then crowned with spoonfuls of creamed chicken. There's a dish now, to bring the good folk of your parish on the run! You'll find it's easy to handle in the church kitchen or on your own stove at home when you follow these directions for quality, quantity cooking:

CREAMED CHICKEN WITH PIMIENTOS

Melt—
2 cups (1 lb.) butter.
Add, then cook until bubbling—
2 cups flour.
Add—
4 qts. milk
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1½ tablespoons salt
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons onion juice.
Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened.
Add and heat thoroughly—
6 qts. diced cooked chicken, pork or veal
4 canned pimientos, chopped.

Serve between hot buttered biscuits or on buttered toast. (Serves 50.)

Now with all this you'll want to serve something crisp and green with a light sharp tang to it. That means a salad. Something easy to prepare and inexpensive enough to balance the luxury items on the budget. So how about a cabbage salad—say crisp cabbage shreds mixed with tiny snippets of cross cut sweet pickles and onion, then seasoned with condiments and mayonnaise. Top such salad with a bright beet center to pretty up the picture and you'll have a right smart salad to serve for supper.

CABBAGE AND PICKLE SALAD WITH BEET CENTER

Cut into ¼ inch dice—
2 doz. small cooked beets.
Pour enough liquor from—
Crosscut sweet pickles over beets to cover. Let stand 2 to 3 hours.
Combine—
2 cups finely cut sweet pickles
1 qt. shredded cabbage
½ cup finely minced onion
1½ tablespoons salt
1½ tablespoons sugar,
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups mayonnaise.

Chill, then arrange in cups of lettuce. Make a depression in center of each and fill with beets which have been well drained. (Serves 25.)

To finish off this feast in the style to which you've now become accustomed, prepare servings of Jelly Pecan Cake topped with larrups of whipped cream fluff. Your guests will savor the delicate texture and fine flavor of this cake with its spicy coating of currant jelly, and rows of nut meats marching with military precision up and down each slice, like wooden soldiers on toy parade. Here's how:

JELLY PECAN CAKE

Melt in an oblong pan (10" x 15" x 2")—
¼ cup (2 oz.) butter. Grease sides of pan with a small amount of the butter.
Beat with fork until very smooth—
1 cup (11 oz.) currant jelly.
Add to jelly—
¾ cup (¼ lb.) sugar, then spread evenly over bottom of pan. Arrange ¼ inch apart in rows over jelly
8 dozen large pecan halves.
Pour—
Cake batter (any plain cake recipe) in pan and spread evenly.

Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 45 minutes. Turn out of pan while hot. Serve warm with whipped cream. (Serves 25.)

X-Ray Development

One of the most interesting of recently developed scientific devices for the purpose of facilitating medical and surgical diagnosis is the laminagraph. This is a special piece of X-ray equipment which will focus directly upon a particular section of the body system, without taking in any of the interventing body tissue.

The Ohio State university hospital acquired such an instrument last month as the result of a special $5,000 donation to the Ohio State university development fund for the purpose.

WITCHES

I will write tonight of the witches,
That flew over the moon on a spoon.
They knew all the tricks 'bout riding broom sticks,
If you'd doubt it they'd call you a loo[illegible]

They braided horses' hair with great care,
And rode them all night with delight.
The horses next day were too tired to eat hay,
And the people were nervous from fright.

Headless men rode from their place of abode,
Through the trees just like they had flees.
I saw them as a kid or imagined I did,
You can't forget things like these.

To break a looking glass good luck would pass
Your door for seven years more.
If a dog howls at night death is in sight,
The gambler is a slave to such lore.

Hallows'en today is like witches at play,
In the revelries whirl you choose your girl—
Who will be your wife all the rest of your life,
If you don't get PASTE for a pearl.

HOMELY REWARD

She hires herself for fifteen cents an hour
To iron, wash and sweep; to scrub and scour—
Till she goes home to that foul-smelling shack,
Soot-gray and dismal, near the railroad track
To dirty children scrapping with each other,
Her one reward—to hear them call her Mother.

Myriad crosses crowding a lonely Flander's Field
Where blood-toned poppies drink the sun,
Mock after war the kneel of women at an altar
Seeking solace for a son.

Victory's phantom glory stills unfinished
Back to the dust of soon forgotten things
And Time runs swiftly, the passing way lies hot and red,
And hate and greed and ruthless cruelty gleam but little
Where crosses lean above the lonely dead . . .

Where went glory that paused upon this memory field?
Why myriad poppies crowding watchful crosses
That lean in spring, in snow and wind and rain?
This way glory went, this way glory goes
And memory's taps shall sound:
"In vain! In vain!"

MY HEART HAS TOLD ME

I wonder if in Heaven grows, the lily and the lovely rose,
The iris and the daffodil, dreaming near some restful rill?
The weeping willow, the bleeding heart;
Do they still grieve and live apart?
I wonder if celestial leaves flutter in the gentle breeze?
I would be homesick, there, for these—
The flowers, the birds, the tremulous trees!
When through the Vale of Shadows, deep,
My weary way must wend,
May violets and baby's-breath strew my path
To Journey's End where there is no death!
In answer to my queries, my heart has told me so,
In Heaven — all things lovely — lovelier grow.

SUDDEN AWARENESS
SUDDEN AWARENESS

She saw the star was a tinsel thing
The jewels were bits of colored glass
And the cabalistic fairy ring

That the handsome prince had boorish ways—
She glimpsed the things one should never know!
It was one of those days.

Green To Close His Campaign, Other HilltoppersToSpeak

Floyd Green will come home for the last big political meeting of his campaign. At a huge rally sponsored by his friends in the community and to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the West Broad street school auditorium, Green will be the guest of honor and principal speaker.

All other candidates, regardless of party affiliation, are invited to attend and present themselves. Since this is purely a Hilltop affair, arrangements include the other candidates of the community.

Ray G. Hauntz, Wyatt L. Millikin and Henry Koontz, candidates for council, and Robert M. Draper, school board candidate, have been invited to attend and speak briefly.

According to a committee in charge of arrangements, the program will include numbers by a quartet and other musical selections.

At a meeting of the Tenth Ward Republican club in Glenwood shelter house Monday night Green spoke on the specific needs of the Hilltop, a new shelter house at Westgate park, a fire station in the vicinity of Hague and Sullivant, proper arrangements for the paving of Sullivant-av, and adequate police protection for the community.

Green said it was absolutely essential for safety's sake to have a new fire station near Hague and Sullivant avenues.

Pointing to the fact that the present administration had let it be known that it was impossible even to consider repaving Sullivant-av, until he advocated it so strenuously, Green said that the project was being handled improperly.

He said that the entire street should be paved instead of only the section where the tracks will be removed. The present halfway attempts to remedy the situation, he said, may delay for years the carrying out of the full program.

"The Hilltop has less police and fire protection than any other section of the city," he said, "and the situation will be remedied if any electe." Green considered in an unhealthy situation where 90 per cent of the police officers are on traffic duty and are not allowed off the main highway and cannot patrol sections which are in dire need of police protection.

Advice To The Northerners

A bit of advice comes to us northerners from a friend who is visiting down in Georgia. He reports a good old southern Democrat as saying:

"We people down here in the South were born Democrats and always will vote the Democratic ticket but if you people up North don't stop voting for Democrats you're going to ruin this country."

Moon Makes The First Team

From down at Florida A. & M. College at Tallahassee comes a letter from our friend, "Moon" Gentry. You'll recall Gentry made somewhat of a name for himself on the West High football team this past year and is now a student at the southern institution.

And as might be expected, it is pleasing to know that Howard has already made the first team. Their team, by the way, is defending the Negro national championship and also the Southern Conference championship, and as "Moon" points out, "every team is gunning for us."

Howard likes the school fine and is majoring in physical education. The school has an enrollment of 1300 from all over the country. The Hilltop joins in wishing its local representative lots of luck.

Folks Meet Lorenzo Verduce

To our office one day this week came Lorenzo Verduce, a candidate for mayor in the coming election. Lorenzo says he didn't get his name on the ballot but that was because his petitions contained some names of people who do not live in these parts, including Betty Boop, Joe Penner and Popeye.

Lorenzo wants us to remind you that he is for a square deal and not a new deal . . . that he'll make every back yard a park . . . that he'll get a cheaper gas rate by just walking into the gas company and telling them what he wants. That's easier than spending a lot of money and going to court.

O. K., Lorenzo, we're for you. We always have felt there was a simpler way to accomplish things and evidently you are the man for the job.

George Painter To Leave Us

The Hilltop is about to lose one of its most loyal boosters. But then localites are not believing it will be for long because he has left these parts previously only to return soon after with a keener appreciation of the Hilltop.

George Painter has sold his grocery store down on Sullivant avenue and says he is going west. He visited California recently and found the sunshine and atmosphere of the west to be right down his alley. He hopes to locate in the west in the next few weeks.

His business there? Well, George says he thinks he will start a tourist camp, so Hilltoppers may be some of his very best guests on numerous occasions.

George came to the Hilltop in the grocery business in 1923 and opened his first store at 2223 W. Broad-st, his second store was at 2147 Sullivant-av, and later at 2697 Sullivant.

He was the third president of the Hilltop Business Men's association and has missed but one minstrel show. He has been one of the show's outstanding end men, famed especially for his vocal solos (?).

Perhaps his best claim to fame is the fact that he has won ten hats in ticket selling contests for the minstrel. His biggest ticket sale was 700 during the bank holiday when the price was reduced to 10c.

George and the Mrs., George Jr., who graduates in January from West High, and David, eight, live at 319 Binns-blvd.

Yes, sir, the Hilltop is losing one of its most enthusiastic boosters but our personal bet is that he will be coming back soon. Best of luck George!

Garage Opens

Open for business today is the Nicely garage at 2461 W. Broad-st, the building in rear of the lot next door to Todd's Drug store.

The garage service is operated by F. E. Nicely of 45 S. Terrace-st, who has been in the auto repair business for the past 25 years. He will service all makes of cars, will charge batteries, service brakes and ignition.

Sullivant Paving Started

Work on the $40,000 project involving the removal of street car tracks on Sullivant-av, between Central and Whitethorne-avs, and the repavement of the street center after the tracks have been removed began Monday morning.

WPA officials gave final approval to the project Oct. 12, for which federal funds to the amount of $34,000 have been made available to cover labor and certain non-labor costs.

The city will bear approximately $6,000 of the expense, but over $3,000 of this will be reimbursed due to the sale of rails which have been purchased by S. L. Grundstein & Co.

The paving will be done in three sections in order to permit continuous trolley bus service during the period of construction. The east third will be paved first, then the west third, and finally the middle. To avoid congestion automobile traffic will be blocked off entirely.

Requiring first the removal of the pavement blocks and rails, secondly the laying of a concrete base, and finally surfacing with "black top," the project will probably be completed by the first of the year, according to officials in the city engineer's department.

It is hoped that next year the improvements may be extended on beyond Whitethorne-av, but whether or not this will materialize, depends on WPA aid, city officials said.

They said further that the ideal situation would be the repavement of the entire street, which, because of depleted finances, is out of the question at the present. Since most of the traffic difficulties are caused by the tracks in the middle of the street, the carrying out of the present program will be a substantial improvement.

The repavement of Sullivant-av has long been agitated by Hilltop residents and is a major objective in the four-point program of the Hilltop Business Men's association.

Reception To Be Held For Pastor

Members and friends of the church are invited to attend a reception to be held tonight at 7:30 at the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church in honor of the new pastor, Rev. Alfred J. Wold, Mrs. Wold and daughter, Eleanor.

Rev. Wold came to Hoge Memorial in July. He was installed as pastor of the church by the Columbus Presbytery on Sunday evening, Oct. 1.

Rev. Alfred J. Wold

Graduated from Macalester college, St. Paul, Minn. and Presbyterian theological seminary, Chicago, Rev. Wold did graduate work at Garret Bibical institute and Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill. He has formerly held pastorates in Minneapolis and Chicago.

Rev. Wold, wth his wife and daughter, reside at the parsonage, 2503 W. Broad-st.

Armistice Day To Be Observed

The Camp Chase post No. 98, American Legion, will hold its annual Armistice Day program Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at post headquarters, 3184 W. Broad-st.

Members of the Westway post, VFW, have accepted an invitation to attend and participate in the ceremonies. The invitation has also been extended to the auxiliaries of both organizations.

The principal address will be delivered by a member of the clergy.

Business As Usual

While Sullivant-av is being repaired, Southworth's Poultry house can be reached by driving in alley north of Sullivant-av, and following signs direct to store. Free delivery service will be rendered as usual.

C. C. Hartley Named Hilltop Man Of Year

C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of the Hilltop Record, was named by the Camp Chase Post American Legion as the "Hilltop Man of the Year for 1939." The announcement was made at a joint meeting of that group with members of the Hilltop Business Men's association at Legion headquarters, 3174 W. Broad-st, last night (Thursday).

C. Carlton Hartley

The award is based on general service to the community at large and is an annual selection by Legion members working in conjunction with the business men.

A. J. Bellar, past commander of the local post, presented the award to Mr. Hartley. Pointing out the basis for the selection, Bellar said: "Ever since taking up his residence on the Hilltop Mr. Hartley has been its No. 1 booster. Active in every project for the good of the community, he is just as active against any project that would mar its progress. A past president of the Hilltop Business Men's association, he is chairman of the Court of Honor for the Southwest District of Boy Scouts, promoter of the tenth annual Hilltop Minstrel show, director of the Legion's tenth anniversary show at West High school, an active supporter of the Charity Newsies, Community Fund, a booster of clean politics, ever ready to boost the best man available for each office regardless of his political affiliations, and publisher of the city's most progressive community newspaper."

Dr. A. C. Myers stated that while scores of names were suggested for the award the committee was unanimous in its decision. The committee was composed of Dr. Myers, Charles Kent, president of the Hilltop Business Men's association, and D. C. Finneran, a past commander of the Legion Post.

Paul Selby was the principal speaker for the occasion.

This year's selection is the fourth. Other winners of the award were Rev. S. Talmadge Magann, former pastor of Hillcrest Baptist church, 1936; Ray G. Hauntz, local merchant and school board member, 1937; and Dr. J. F. Bateman, superintendent of the State hospital, 1938.

Painter Sells To Gregg Mkt.

On Monday of this week ownership of the Painter Market at Warren and Sullivant changed hands and is now known as Gregg's market.

George Painter, who has owned the store for several years, and himself a veteran Hilltop grocer, sold out and will go into business in the west.

Arthur "Art" Stiffler, 399 S. Eureka, is new manager of the store. He was with Gregg for three years as manager of the Giant market.

The firm plans to take increased floor space soon and install larger fruit and vegetable departments. A cash and carry policy will be observed.

Seiller To N. Y.

M. W. Seiller of Seiller's Department store left Thursday for New York where he will purchase merchandise for the store. Mrs. Seiller and daughter, Eleanore, accompanied him.

COTTAGE ENTERED

The cottage owned by Joe Wirmel, 248 Columbian-av, on Seminole island, Indian lake, was broken into last week and thoroughly ransacked by unidentified burglars. Materials stolen are valued at over $200 and include a motor, tools, saws, and an outboard motor. The Wirmel cottage was one of eight so burglarized.

Fox Food Shop Has Specials

The grocery business at the corner of Broad-st and Eureka-av, for 38 years known as the Millikin market, is now the Fox Food shop. Although the concern was purchased 28 months ago by Harold L. Fox, the old name was retained until very recently.

Fox, who has spent over 15 years in the grocery business, came to the Hilltop from Williamsport, Pa., where he managed a super market belonging to the American Store Co. chain. He and his wife live at 2766½ W. Broad-st.

The Fox store, which is a member of the Triangle food stores system, is located at 2422 W. Broad-st. Formal opening specials of the store are advertised in a page advertisement in The Record today.

Commodore Is A Hilltopper

These are various scenes of the Scioto boat club commandeered by Hilltopper E. E. James 89 Powhatan-av. For the past 10 years James has been commodore of the club, which now numbers 93 members.

He will refuse reappointment this year and the post will probably go to one of the vice-commodores.

Upper right: James is ringing the bell which is used for summoning members to meetings. It can be heard for four miles up or down the river.

Lower right: Close-up of the commodore with official cap and smile.

Lower left: The southern section of the club boat docks now rented by the city of Columbus and rented to boat owners.

Prince of Peace Event Sunday

The annual Prince of Peace contest will be held in Glenwood church Sunday evening at 7:30. Miss Fay McKinley will have the devotional service just preceding the contest and the West High male quartet will sing. Contestants are Bob Trout, Horace Coburn and Anne McKinley.

Each has memorized an oration chosen from the official book of selections published by the Ohio council of churches and will deliver that oration. Judges will select a winner who will receive a bronze medal from the Ohio council of churches and who will represent Glenwood church in the county contest to be held early in December.

Honor New Pastor

Glenwood Methodist church will honor the new pastor, Rev. Joseph B. Shellhaas, Mrs. Shellhaas and their son, Glen, with a reception at the church tonight. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited.

V.F.W. Has Neutrality Program

Ralph M. Hartman, one of the founders of Hilltop branch of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has just completed the drafting of a neutrality bill. The principles incorporated in the bill conform in general with the bill adopted by the national headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Copies of the bill have been sent to all senators, congressmen and high public officials.

The salient points read:

Be it resolved,

We, the members of Westway Post No. 3441, Veterans of Foreign Wars of America, voice our approval of the President of the United States of America's proposal to repeal the said Arms Embargo, but, with the following

Native Of India To Speak

Miss Ila Romola Sircar, associate general secretary of the student Christian movements of India, Burma and Ceylon, will speak at the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday morning at 10:30. Miss Sircar is now a student at Merill Palmer school in Detroit, and is preparing to return to India to develop a program for the Christian home.

Miss Sircar was delegate from India to the world conference of churches at Madras, India, in December, 1938. Following the conference she was one of a group of six invited to tour 50 leading cities of America reporting the Madras conference and the progress of the united church movement across the world.

A graduate of Kinnaird college in Lahore, India, Miss Sircar is intimately acquainted with the attitudes and problems of Indian youth. She plans to return to India in the spring of 1940 to resume her duties as secretary of the student Christian movements.

Green Answers Charges

In answer to the last minute attacks launched by the Gessaman camp on Mr. Green and his record as city councilman, Green comes to his defense as follows:

In answer to the claim that Green, while in council, voted for a 65 cent gas rate, he has this to say:

"I did not vote for a 65 cent rate but voted to submit a 65-60-55 cent rate schedule for mixed, not natural gas, to the voters." Here are further details: The American Rolling Mills proposed to bring a $10,000,000 industry to Columbus providing they would be permitted to sell their by-product, manufactured gas, to the public.

The gas company agreed to take the gas, mix it with natural gas, and sell the product to the public on the 65-60-55 cent rate basis. Mr. Green, not wishing to pass up the opportunity to bring a huge industry which would provide jobs for hundreds of local workers, agreed to submit the proposal to the voters.

In reply to the accusation that Green, while in council, proposed to sell Sunshine park to a private ball club, he says, "This is absolutely true but that is not the whole story. Along with five other members of council, I agreed to sell the park for $45,000, which would have been enough to purchase land and equipment for FOUR new West Side playgrounds."

Much has been made over Green's council proposals to issue 80,000 city automobile licenses and to abolish the prevailing system of rubbish collection.

This was the period when the depression was deepest and blackest, when beggars lined the streets, when unemployment and relief demands were at an all time high, and when city finances were most depleted. Mr. Green's suggestions were emergency measures for an emergency situation.

Gessaman supporters, apathetic toward any suggestion to remedy the present awkward traffic arrest problem, have stated that the proposed issuance of temporary driving permits in exchange for the regular state license, is legally out of the question.

Green supporters bring forth proof to the contrary. Vehicle co-

These Men Deserve Your Vote Next Tuesday

AN EDITORIAL

We submit herewith our reasons for supporting four candidates in the coming election. In doing so we are interested in good government for our own community and the whole of Columbus.

We heartily endorse the candidacies of Floyd F. Green for mayor, Ray G. Hauntz for city council, T. Blain Holloway for city auditor and Robert M. Draper for member of the board of education.

We have known Floyd Green for a number of years and have found him to be hard working and conscientious in every endeavor. We believe he is better fitted for the office of mayor than is the incumbent. We believe Mr. Green's administration of city affairs will show leadership, a thing that has not been evident under the present city administration.

Again we say that Green is a man who combines the qualities of forcibleness and genuality in such a manner as to make him an extremely popular mayor. He is the type of man who can gain the confidence of the people and will accomplish much more than will the man who does not possess these qualities.

The Record was first to suggest that Ray G. Hauntz become a candidate for city council. He is just completing a record of eight years of the very finest service on the Columbus Board of Education.

In these years and in his activities in this community, too numerous to mention, he has always shown leadership and has accomplished those things that were for the best interests of the people. That he will continue to follow this principle in city council is assured with his election.

A vote for Ray Hauntz is a vote for a gentleman, a hard working individual who is interested in the welfare of the entire city.

His ability as a business man is evidenced in his successful business in this community. His ability to cooperate and get cooperation in large groups is evidenced in the fact that he has been a successful leader of numerous business and civic groups of the city.

Hilltop voters, who have prided themselves on their ability to think for themselves and make wise decisions at the polls certainly will carefully consider the qualifications of Mr. Holloway for auditor.

In the school board race the Hilltop and West Side have but one opportunity to continue to maintain community representation on the board, that by electing Robert M. Draper.

Mr. Draper is qualified for this position by his education and the fact that he has proven himself to be a capable attorney and has successfully conducted his business in a manner becoming the type of individual the city should have on the school board.

He has a keen appreciation of the responsibility of school board members and will be a worthy representative of this community to succeed Ray Hauntz in that position. In the past 16 years this community has had a representative on the board and many school improvements here have directly resulted therefrom. A continuation of this representation is advisable.

Mr. Draper has the endorsement of the principals of all Hilltop schools.

In the matter of selection of three other members of the board it appears that the three incumbents, Joseph W. Ray, Mrs. Harold Johnson and Mrs. Grace Clifford, have an advantage in view of their records on the board.

Two other Hilltoppers are worthy of consideration in the race for city council: Henry Koontz and Wyatt L. Millikin. Millikin has served well on council for years and Mr. Koontz will prove capable of handling the job well should he be elected.

Peeping are merely opinions of The Hilltop Record, given in no partisan manner whatsoever. As for the politics of any one of the candidates we care not if he be Democrat or Republican. We are suggesting that people vote for the man rather than a party. At any rate, go to the polls next Tuesday and vote.

West-North Game To Decide Champs

Seeking their third City league championship over a four-year period, their first football title under the tutelage of Coach George Williams, and an undefeated, untied season as well, West High's Battling Buckaroos were to clash with the East High eleven at Harley field yesterday afternoon. The title-bearing conflict at which time the flag winner will be decided will be played next Friday between the locals and the Polar Bears at the lair of the latter.

North and West are the only two squads who have a mathematical chance of winning the coveted title. In three league games to date (not including yesterday's tilt) the small Buff and Brown standard-bearers have trampled all opposition. Outside of the conference they are also in the select class after having recorded seven successive wins throughout the season.

North Fares Well.

Meanwhile the North eleven has fared well throughout the past campaign also. Only once during the season has the big, bad Bear tasted defeat, that to a small but mighty band of Bobcats from Grandview in their opening tussle. Since then the Big Maroon team has raked up five wins and one tie, that to Central in a league tilt. (West conquered the Pirate eleven by a small 3-0 margin).

Should West have defeated East yesterday they need only a tie with North in the Nov. 10 game to cinch the pennant. This seemed the likely course of action. However, if the Bengals had upset the Bucks only a West win over the highly-touted Polar Bears can bring the Bucks the championship.

Contest Is Toss-Up

The contest looms as a toss-up. North has the offensive power. West has a whale of a defense. North has a bigger team. North has the home team advantage. These points will mean nothing however, for when the Bears and Bucks clash all caution is thrown to the winds. Last season West had one of the poorest years in the history of the school, but North was indeed lucky to eke out a 7-0 win. Since 1910 when the two first met North has won 11 contests, lost six and tied two.

West has allowed only seven points to opponents thus far, that to a small Academy team which West shellacked 26-7. In their other six games the opposition has failed to get the ball over the last white line. Latest victim of the locals was the Zanesville Blue Devils who succumbed 7-0, Al Williams furnishing the score on a 37-yard dash in the second canto. Medlick dashed 60 yards but was pulled down from behind shortly before the end of the contest and the Buff and Brown failed to score. Zanesville's only threat was stopped by the Cowboys on the West 10 yard line.

Common Sense WITH GUNS

ALL sportsmen are interested in the question how shooting casualties may be reduced. The annual Ohio Conservation Division reports indicating the manner in which accidents occur show that they are occasioned mostly through the violation of a few simple rules that should suggest themselves to everybody, according to Conservation Commissioner Don Waters.

Modern firearms are far more complicated than they were in the old days, and novices should be careful to seek such instruction as will enable them to know what they are doing.

Pointing a gun in the direction of another person may seem funny, or devoid of danger under some circumstances—but it's bad practice anytime, anywhere.

Three positions for carrying the gun in the field are recognized as safe and good: First — Over the shoulder with the muzzle pointing upward; Second—Over the hollow of the arm, pointed away from companions and dogs; Third — Under the arm with the barrel pointed toward the ground.

DON'TS

Don't jump a ditch with a loaded gun.

Don't load a gun in the house.

Don't take a revolver on a hunting trip.

Don't shoot until you know what is within range; it may save you a lifetime of regret, or at least the loss of a good dog or the farmer's pig.

Don't put a wrong gauge shell into your gun.

Don't use shot cartridges in a rifle.

Don't threaten to shoot anyone, in fun or otherwise — this advice includes land owners.

Don't take risks.

Hilltoppers See Big Stranded Snow Cruiser

While visiting in Ada, at the home of their parents last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Binkley and children, Orchie May, Harvey and Nayna, 276 S. Wayne-av, had occasion to see the derailed Byrd "snow cruiser" with its nose in the mud.

According to Mrs. Binkley, the highways in the vicinity were packed five and six abreast with cars. "We had to park our car and walk three miles down the highway to see the cruiser," she said, "and then we could only get within a hundred feet of it." "There were about 50,000 people there" she added. "The world's fair had nothing on this."

Floyd F. Green's Public Record

As Member of City Council

Mr. Green voted for a 65-cent gas rate, ordinance No. 410-29 on June 3, 1929.

The Columbus Dispatch of May 23, 1929, reported that the councilmen, including Mr. Green who voted in favor of the 65c ordinance "were unanimous in their opinion that THE COMPANIES DESERVED AN INCREASE IN RATES."

"Mr. Green, the record shows that you voted for the 65c ordinance. * * * Does that sound like wholehearted loyalty to the city in the midst of a battle for its rights? What do the gas using voters think of Mr. Green's fitness for mayor?" (Columbus Dispatch, October 17, 1931):

Mr. Green introduced an ordinance, No. 235-31, to sell Sunshine Park to private interests, and again he introduced another ordinance, No. 260-31, for the same purpose.

Mr. Green wanted to place a city tax on all pleasure cars in Columbus.

"Assessment would range from $2 to $6 on 80,000 automobiles. A city automobile license tax was being considered by city officials and council Tuesday, with a view to possible passage of such a law in the near future. Announcement by Councilman Floyd F. Green, Monday night that he would introduce legislation asking for such a tax caused wide-spread comment at city hall." (Columbus Dispatch, March 3, 1931):

Mr. Green introduced a resolution to abolish the collection of rubbish after April 1, 1930. (Recorded in City Bulletin, March 15, 1930).

I hereby affirm that this is a true statement of facts which are matters of public record.

(Signed) Llewelyn Lewis, member of the Republican county executive committee.

erators are not required by law to carry state drivers' licenses, they say. As proof they cite Sec. 6296-16 of the Ohio code which states: "The operator or chauffeur of a motor vehicle shall display his license OR furnish satisfactory proof that he HAS such license upon demand by any officer or any person damaged.

Feeling that the Gessaman administration has much more to answer for than does Mr. Green, he has placed before the people this pertinent question in addressing this week: "MR. GAS CONSUMER. Your GAS RATE has been increased and you are now paying 90 cents for first one thousand cubic feet under the GESSAMAN administration. What has MAYOR GESSAMAN done to protect the small gas consumer of Columbus?"

Your chances for staying happily married. They're best if both parties are social equals and were married in church; three children are good insurance; strictly romantic matches easily fail in this "Try, try again country," expert researchers reveal. NEW NOTES ON SPECIAL DIET DISHES

Even the most rugged family has a member or two every now and then with some sort of illness. It may be only a sore throat or an upset tummy—or it might be something in the way of a major operation. But most of us, sooner or later, have some sort of difficulty that calls for a soft diet as part of the treatment. When that day comes, it's a great comfort and relief to be able to fall back on those fine flavored, superior strained foods that come in cans prepared specially for infant feeding and soft diets for both adults and children. These foods range all the way from soups and cereals to vegetables, meat products and desserts. They are all prepared from the choicest quality of ingredients, strained to a silken smooth consistency and packed with laboratory precision to retain the highest possible nutrient value of the food. They are completely free of seasonings and spices so they are adaptable to the most delicate and exacting diet. And when the patient begins to come around, and the doctor permits, you can tone up the tempo of the menu by adding other simple and savory foods to these fine flavored specialties. Here now are a variety of new and novel suggestions made by mixing strained foods with simple staples:

BEEF AND LIVER DRINK

Combine, mixing well—

½ 4½-oz. can strained tomatoes
½ 4½-oz. can strained beef and liver soup
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk.

Chill and serve. (1 large serving.)

SPINACH TIMBALES

Beat with fork—

1 egg.

Add, mixing thoroughly with fork—

2 4½-oz. cans strained spinach
1 tablespoon butter, melted
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pure cider vinegar
¼ cup grated American cheese.

Pour into well buttered individual baking dishes. Set in pan of warm water, and bake in a slow oven (325° F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Unmold, if desired. Serve hot. (Serves 4.)

Note: One 6½-oz. can chopped spinach may be used, using 2 eggs.

FRUIT MILK WHIP

Combine, stirring until sugar is dissolved—

2 cups milk
½ cup sugar.

Combine—

½ 4½-oz. can strained apricots or applesauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt.

Add slowly to milk mixture, stirring constantly. Pour into refrigerator tray and chill thoroughly. Before serving, beat with rotary egg beater.

Strained prunes may be substituted in which case decrease lemon juice to 2 teaspoons. Strained pears and pineapple may be substituted decreasing sugar to ½ cup or adding 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Note: In using strained apricots and apple sauce, the milk may appear very slightly curdled but the taste is not impaired.

APRICOT TAPIOCA CREAM

Combine in top of double boiler—

1 egg yolk
2 cups milk.

Add—

3 tablespoons minute tapioca
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt.

Cook over boiling water for minutes after the scalding point is reached.

Remove from fire and add a small amount of this mixture to—

1 egg white, stiffly beaten.

Blend thoroughly, then combine with tapioca remaining in pan.

Combine—

1 4½-oz. can strained apricots and apple sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

then beat into tapioca mixture together with—

½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cool. Serve plain or with whipped cream. (Serves 6.)

RICE CUSTARD

Scald—

2 cups milk

then stir in—

½ cup cooked rice.

Combine, beating well with fork—

2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 4½-oz. can strained carrots or apricots and apple sauce or 5-oz. can strained prunes.

Add to rice and milk mixture. Turn into buttered baking dish or individual baking dishes. Set in pan of warm water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until firm, approximately 40 to 50 minutes. (Serves 6.)

Pears, Fresh or Canned, Make Fancy Pie

An unusually delicious pear pie is made from fresh or canned pears. If fresh ones are used, they should be cooked in a light sugar syrup until tender, before putting into the pie.

A decorative touch is achieved by using a bit of tart jelly to fill the pear cavities, and a piping of slightly sweetened whipped cream. The foundation consists of a cream filling similar to other cream pies with pear juice added for a part of the liquid.

Pear Pie

3 cup sugar
½ tsp. salt
2½ tbsp. flour
1½ c. milk
½ c. pear juice
1 egg
1 tbs. butter or margarine
1 tsp. vanilla
1 baked pie shell
3 cooked or canned pear halves

Mix sugar, salt and flour in a double boiler. Add the milk and pear juice gradually and cook stirring constantly for three to five minutes, or until thickened. Cover and cook for 10 minutes longer.

Add a little of this mixture to the slightly beaten egg, mix well and return to the double boiler. Cook for a minute longer, stirring constantly. Add the butter or margarine, and vanilla, and stir until all is blended.

Cool slightly and pour into the baked pie shell. When cool, arrange pear halves on top with stem ends toward center and cut sides up. Place a little jelly in the hollowed out part of the pear.

Outline the pears with whipped cream (sweetened and flavored, if you like), put through pastry tube. Makes one nine-inch pie.

Contest Will Open Dec. 1

The $95 "lost merchandise" contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association and under the direction of a committee composed of E. O. McIlvin, chairman, Alva Netzger, Ray Hauntz, C. H. Penfield, George Painter, M. W. Seiller, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley, will get under way Dec. 1 and close Dec. 11.

With $50 offered as first prize, $10 as second, and $5 as third contestants are asked to identify "lost" pieces of merchandise in the various business establishments on the Hilltop.

Approximately 60 pieces of business will display articles of "lost" merchandise—merchandise which for obvious reasons is not ordinarily displayed. For example, an automobile tire tube may be found displayed in a beauty shop.

In addition to identifying all articles of lost merchandise contestants will write a brief statement not to exceed 50 words in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?"

Official contest blanks will soon be available and may be obtained from any participating business establishment.

ELECT

A Successful Business Man

Mayor Of Columbus

VOTE FOR

Floyd F. Green

YOUR FELLOW CITIZEN OF HILLTOP
ACTIVE AND INTERESTED IN ITS COMMUNITY

- A vote for Green is a Vote for Progressive Columbus. He is Capable, Experienced and Trustworthy. Bring confidence back to Columbus.

- The Green family are members of the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church. His daughter is a student of West High School.

- Presented by the American Business Council, an organization of serious minded men and women, devoted to the Welfare of Columbus.

- Honest, Dependable and Fearless, Floyd F. Green deserves your vote and confidence.

For Mayor (Vote for not more than one)
X	FLOYD F. GREEN

Expenditures

myself to the strictest economy in every department of city government, every service that is essential.
es of the financial situation confronting the City, the personnel of the re Departments will not be reduced. A regular and systematic collection nd refuse will be maintained.

Taxation

unalterably opposed to taxing any specific property for the maintenance of a general operation.
The Sewage Disposal Plant, built by order of the State Board of Health and paid for by the taxpayers, is a modern necessity, the operation of which should be paid for from the General Operating Fund. I declare myself here and now opposed to the Sewer Tax in any form. As your Mayor I promise to fight this measure until it is repealed or declared unlawful by the courts. I am in favor of keeping our real estate tax at the lowest possible level, yet maintaining every necessary service.

Law Enforcement

I pledge that all laws will be enforced in an honest, sane and intelligent manner.
The office of Mayor is administrative, and under the jurisdiction of the Mayor comes the question of Law Enforcement and the protection of our citizens. Law enforcement must be continuous 365 days in the year. I am definitely opposed to spasmodic drives in any form of Law Enforcement.

Traffic

There must be continuous year around enforcement of our Traffic laws. A quota system which compels a police officer to bring in so many dollars in fines each working day will not be tolerated during my administration. Traffic violators must not be treated as criminals.
I propose to have issued a 48 hour driver's license, approved by the State of Ohio. Any motorist arrested for a traffic violation who cannot pay his fine or post a cash bond, can leave his State license in custody of the Municipal Court, and go about as a respectable citizen, returning within the 48 hour period to pay his fine and redeem his State license.
I propose that every street intersection in the city have a uniform system of street markers placed in their proper location.
I pledge myself to a greater system of street and alley lighting.
There must be closer cooperation between the board of education and our police department for the protection of our children, going to and from our public and parochial schools.

Mayor Of Columbus

Expenditures

I pledge myself to the strictest economy in every department of city government, yet rendering every service that is essential.

Regardless of the financial situation confronting the City, the personnel of the Police and Fire Departments will not be reduced. A regular and systematic collection of garbage and refuse will be maintained.

Taxation

I am unalterably opposed to taxing any specific property for the maintenance of a general operation.

The Sewage Disposal Plant, built by order of the State Board of Health and paid for by the taxpayers, is a modern necessity, the operation of which should be paid for from the General Operating Fund. I declare myself here and now opposed to the Sewer Tax in any form. As your Mayor I promise to fight this measure until it is repealed or declared unlawful by the courts. I am in favor of keeping our real estate tax at the lowest possible level, yet maintaining every necessary service.

Law Enforcement

I pledge that all laws will be enforced in an honest, sane and intelligent manner.

The office of Mayor is administrative, and under the jurisdiction of the Mayor comes the question of Law Enforcement and the protection of our citizens. Law enforcement must be continuous 365 days in the year. I am definitely opposed to spasmodic drives in any form of Law Enforcement.

Traffic

There must be continuous year around enforcement of our Traffic laws. A quota system which compels a police officer to bring in so many dollars in fines each working day will not be tolerated during my administration. Traffic violators must not be treated as criminals.

I propose to have issued a 48 hour driver's license, approved by the State of Ohio. Any motorist arrested for a traffic violation who cannot pay his fine or post a cash bond, can leave his State license in custody of the Municipal Court, and go about as a respectable citizen, returning within the 48 hour period to pay his fine and redeem his State license.

I propose that every street intersection in the city have a uniform system of street markers placed in their proper location.

I pledge myself to a greater system of street and alley lighting.

There must be closer cooperation between the board of education and our police department for the protection of our children, going to and from our public and parochial schools.

A Technical Man For A Technical Job

Referred to by city officials as "the finest auditor who has ever represented the City of Columbus," T. Blain Holloway came to his present position "the hard way."

A self made man, he started at the bottom in the auditing department of the large Gwinn Milling Company after graduation from Bliss Business College and Franklin University, and worked his way to the top. He was chief auditor in a highly responsible position when called to the service of the city through appointment to his present post of City Auditor in February of this year.

His experience has been devoid of vote trading, back slapping and the ordinary routine of many seekers for political favors. He is NOT a politician. His work has been done in the interests of the City of Columbus, and because of his wide practical experience he has been able to uncover various inconsistencies in the conduct of the office.

The substantial citizens of Columbus will vote for Mr. Holloway because of the things he stands for in office and his desire to do that which is best for COLUMBUS.

His capability proven by the fine way he has executed the duties of City Auditor, he needs not make any "Fancy Promises."

'It has been my policy to render efficient service honestly, impartially and to eliminate duplication of effort."

Mrs. Foster Is Candidate For School Board

Mrs. Doris G. Foster is a candidate for the Columbus board of education.

Mrs. Foster went through the Columbus public schools, Clinton school, Crestview junior high and Central High school. She then worked two years for Western Union and the Farm Bureau, and continued working while she attended Ohio State university, from which she graduated.

Following graduation, Mrs. Foster entered the field of parental education and child guidance in Cleveland. She worked as a "visiting teacher" for three years. She then married Dr. H. Schulzer Foster jr., of the political science department of OSU, and returned to Columbus where she has since been active in the League of Women Voters, Peace Action for Franklin county, the YWCA and other organizations. She is a member of North Broadway Methodist church. Mrs. Foster says that she believes that her experience as a visiting teacher, involving work with teachers, parents and children, has given her a greater appreciation than ever before of the tremendous and far-reaching influence the school and its teachers have in the life of the community and upon its individuals.

Gessaman Runs For Mayor On His Past Record

Mayor Myron B. Gessaman, his wife and their three children are residents of Clintonville, residing at 191 E. Weber-rd. They are members of Indianola Presbyterian church and their children attend Crestview school and North High school.

The mayor received his college training at Western Reserve university in Cleveland but before completing his education, enlisted in the army for service in the World war and served overseas for 10 months in both Italy and France. On his return to this country at the close of the war, he again took up his studies at Western Reserve university, and was admitted to the bar of Ohio, in 1919, a year prior to his graduation from law school. Shortly after his graduation from law school in June, 1920, he moved to Columbus and entered upon the practice of law. In 1923 he was appointed assistant city attorney for the city of Columbus by Chas. A. Leach, who was then city attorney for the city of Columbus, and held this position for five years.

During the term of this appointment, Mr. Gessaman was assigned to the handling of damage claims and successfully defended the city in the greater majority of these cases. It was during these years that the city was taking steps to establish the present civic center and it was largely through the efforts of Mayor Gessaman, in cooperation with City Attorney Leach, that this property was speedily obtained by the city and at a reasonable price through the condemnation proceedings successfully prosecuted by Mr. Gessaman.

In 1928 he resigned this position and was appointed assistant prosecuting attorney of Franklin county, which position he held for three years, taking an active part in all of the outstanding cases handled by that office and during those years came to be known as one of the ablest prosecutors Franklin county ever had.

After leaving the prosecutor's office, he was elected in 1932 to the house of representatives and in 1934 was re-elected, and during this term, as a result of his keen grasp of state problems and active efforts in prompting some legislation, he was chosen as Republican floor leader by the members of his party.

It was during this term as a member of the legislature that he was drafted by the Republicans of Columbus in a city-wide caucus at Memorial hall to become their candidate for mayor in 1935. This campaign was successful and Gessaman was elected mayor and took office on Jan. 1, 1936, being one of the few Republican mayors elected in Ohio at that time.

A few months ago he was appointed a member of the Urbanism committee of the American Municipal association for the purpose of working out a better understanding of governmental problems existing between the cities of the United States and federal government.

During the past year he was also appointed by the American Bar association as a member of a committee working on legislation for the promotion of slum clearance and federal housing projects.

For the past two years he has been elected vice-president of the Ohio League of Municipalities, an organization composed of mayors and other elected officials from a majority of the citizens and villages of Ohio. This organization keeps in close touch with the work of the legislature and sponsors legislation beneficial to the welfare of cities and villages.

School Levy Is Needed

At a time when government agencies are requiring more and more money in taxes with which to operate, we hesitate to approve every new tax request that comes along.

It is often difficult to distinguish between wise and unwise taxes, between [illegible] and non-essentials. But we are inclined to classify the proposed one-mill levy for construction, extension and improvement of Columbus school buildings as one of the essentials.

On the basis of a scientific survey of Columbus school building needs, the board of education is submitting to the voters for their approval or disapproval a levy, the proceeds of which are intended to go for much needed improvements.

Since the completion of the 1920-1929 building program involving the construction of 17 new school buildings and the extension and remodeling of 13 others, no major construction had taken place.

This extensive program was put into effect by the issuance of $11,009,090 in bonds, all but $4,000,000 of which has since been liquidated. Until the remainder of this debt has been paid, it was thought advisable to issue new bonds for present needs but rather to levy an additional mill in taxes.

Such a method will also eliminate the necessity of paying interest charges on bonds. There are other obvious advantages to a pay-as-you-go plan in a widespread program.

The proposed levy is not premature. Columbus school needs are real. At present 22 portable buildings are in use. There are three junior high school buildings and 28 elementary buildings that range in age from 40 to 77 years.

The levy, which will cost the average home-owner $4.90 to $6 a year over a five-year period, has as its purpose the construction of two new buildings, the addition to four buildings, and the modernization of 33 older buildings.

The estimated cost for the complete program is $3,000,000. The one-mill levy will produce approximately $1,000,000 of this over a five-year period.

In order to complete the entire program advantage will be taken of PWA and other federal funds available during this period to supplement the revenue from the tax levy.

There are many features of Columbus school buildings that are unmodern, obsolete, and even unsafe. That these faults should be remedied cannot be doubted.

The time is ripe, since large supplementary funds from PWA and other federal sources which may not be available in the future can be taken advantage of at the present.

Municipal Election Next Tuesday To Attract Many

When Columbus voters go to the polls on Nov. 7, they will be handed a fist-full of ballots (seven separate ones to be exact) on which they will mark their choice for a mayor, an auditor, four councilmen, three judges, a clerk of municipal court, four school board members, and on which they will register their dicta on seven other issues.

And on this melee of paper scraps the voice of the people will be recorded. For this is the essence of the democratic system.

The mayoralty candidates are Myron B. Gessaman, incumbent, and Floyd F. Green, contender.

James A. Rhodes will oppose incumbent-by-appointment, T. Blain Holloway for the city auditorship.

From a list of eight candidates voters will select four city councilmen. The list includes Roger N. Addison, Wyatt L. Millikin, W. L. Lehman and Howard Hartman (incumbents), Ray G. Hauntz, Henry Koonts, E. H. Trautman and George Ketterer.

On the judicial ticket T. Vincent Martin will oppose Fred J. Miller for presiding judge of municipal court; John M. Matthias, Francis T. Howard for long-term judge of municipal court; and Lytle G. Zuber, Gale R. King for short-term judge of municipal court.

Arthur J. Bloomer and Justin R. Boyd are candidates for clerk of municipal court.

Voters will also select school board members from a list of 10 candidates. These are Grace R. Clifton (incumbent), David S. Craig, Clarence B. Douglas, Robert M. Draper, Dorris G. Foster, Mary Louise Johnson (incumbent), Joseph W. Ray (incumbent), Emily W. Swentzel and Carl Tressemer.

In addition to choosing candidates for munkipal offices voters will cast their ballots on the following issues:

1. A one-mill levy to extend over a two-year period in order to raise funds for the operation and maintenance of the county tuberculosis hospital.

2. The reorganization of the school system providing for the creation of a state board of education which will appoint the state education director. The present director is appointed by the governor.

3. A ¼-mill levy to extend for two years, the purpose of which is to raise $300,000 annually for the care of the city and county indigent sick.

4. The proposed one-mill levy for the program which involves construction, extension and remodeling of Columbus school buildings.

5. A two year 48-cent gas rate ordinance being submitted by council to the electorate. This is the proverbial rate set by council which according to tradition will be appealed, if approved, by the gas company to the utility commission and the courts, thus continuing the gas rate fight which is now of 14 years standing.

6. A five-year electric rate schedule which will benefit the small consumer by reducing present residential rates $300,000 annually.

7. The much-discussed Bigelow amendments to the state constitution revising the state pension laws and easing the initiative requirements.

Holloway Has Experience To Offer In Job

"It has been my policy to render efficient service impartially, honestly, and to eliminate duplication of effort." This statement was made by T. Blain Holloway, when he was interviewed in regard to his candidacy for election to the auditor's office.

By way of emphasizing the importance of the auditor's office, he continued: "All of the several millions of dollars which are spent annually by the city must pass through the auditor's department, and the job requires a man of practical accounting experience and executive ability to successfully perform the duties."

Holloway came to Columbus in 1914, studied bookkeeping for a year at Bliss business college, and then entered the employment of the Gwinn Milling Co. For eight years he was secretary-treasurer of this firm. He remained with the company until February of this year, when he resigned to become city auditor on appointment by council. In 1928 he took his B. S. degree from Franklin university.

During the short time he has been in the auditor's office, Holloway has brought to light several financial inconsistencies to the city government. He branded the practice employed by the county budget commissioners of deducting the amounts needed to meet industrial compensation premium payments before budgetory distribution as an illegal deprivation of money due the city sinking fund.

He discovered that $10,000 loaned to the city Metropolitan Housing authoriyt and to be repaid when funds were available had been negligently written off as an expense from revenue.

Referring to another incident of financial mismanagement, Holloway said: "When I came here there was a deficit of $350,000. It was necessary to issue delinquent tax bonds to meet that amount. The law stated that all delinquent tax collections must go to the sinking fund.

The first $50,000 collected from delinquent taxes, however, was used for general operation, so I increased the general fund deficit by that amount. My action worked to the detriment of the general fund," he concluded, "but any other proceedure would have been illegal."

One of the most technical offices in the city government the office of city auditor requires a man of extensive auditing and accounting experience. It is a matter of dollars and cents to Columbus voters that they hire a man for this office on the basis of experience and technical knowledge rather than on personality or vote-getting ability.

Many persons are coming to regard city government as big business. It is inconceivable, they say, that the head of an $8,000,000 yearly business should hire an employee to supervise his auditing department, whose experience, education and background in no way qualify him for the position.

The voters of Columbus, they contend, are in the position of an employer. It is to their benefit that the qualified man is hired.

That Holloway's 20 years of experience in the field of practical auditing and accounting qualifies him for the office cannot be doubted. His energetic methods of handling the affairs of the auditor's office and in uncovering practices which are inconsistent with efficien toperation and even legality are more than enough proof of his ability and value to the public.

Observers say further that any turnover in personnel of the auditor's office is wasteful in itself. Why, they ask, when a man has become fully acquainted with the peculiarities of a certain office should he be displaced by a man who must go through a full period of training in order to acquaint himself with the affairs of that office?

From every point of view Holloway is the intelligent choice for city auditor. It is for Columbus voters to decide on Nov. 2 whether or not they will retain the man who has combined technical ability and experience with personality and courtesy into one of the best administrations the city auditor's office has ever had.

Holloway is an active member of several civic and fraternal associations. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Shrine, the Elks, the Moose, the Eagles, the Columbus Athletic club, the American Legion, the Democratic Ex-servicemen's club, and the "40 & 8." He is married and lives at 844 Berkley-rd.

Columbus today has the lowest tax rate of any large city in Ohio.

Effective light plant savings:

In 1938 the municipal light plant furnished free street lighting, current for municipal properties and sold current to the public at a rate lower than that of private utilities, rendering the city a profit of approximately $160,000.

Increased traffic safety:

In 1938 there were 58 fewer deaths than in 1937—1,906 fewer accidents.

Placed water department on business basis:

Operating at a profit for the first time in many years, the Water Department now offers better, more adequate service to consumers in every part of the city at no increase in rate. Waterworks bonds are being paid.

West Side Improvements:

Beautification of Westgate park. New tennis courts. Lights and repairs, Glenwood park. New 750 gal. pumper No. 10 engine house. Improvements of streets and alleys.

Decreased Garbage and Refuse collection costs:

The volume of work done in this department has mounted each year with increasing population, but as a result of increased efficiency and replacement of worn out equipment the per capita cost has decreased.

Garbage collection (per capita)	30c	28c
Rubbish collection	37c	27c

Increased efficiency in Police department:

Police equipment has been thoroughly modernized, making Columbus, under Gessaman, one of the best protected cities in the country.

Brought Fire department up to date:

Fire loss has been reduced from $245,000 in 1935 to $152,000 in 1938, a reduction directly effecting low insurance rates.

Solved Sewage Disposal problem:

The citizens of Columbus struggled too long and too hard for a modern sanitary and odorless sewage disposal plant to permit any candidate to attempt to jeopardize its operation at this time. Out of 75 cities and villages in Ohio, employing a sewage charge to finance the operation of their sewage treatment works and maintain and repair their sewers Columbus, under Mayor Gessaman, has next to the lowest charge.

Provided a practical Relief program:

Mayor Gessaman inaugurated a system of work relief whereby those receiving relief perform public work, thus improving their morale, as well as benefiting the public and making a savings to the taxpayer.

Maintained peace in labor and industry:

Unlike most cities, Columbus has been free of labor disputes, due in large part to Mayor Gessaman's constant efforts and cooperation with both labor and industry and encouraging business in Columbus.

THE MAIL MAN

It may bluster and snow and get twenty below,
And a blizzard may cover the town.
The Mail man will travel on ice or loose gravel,
And he don't complain or frown.

His work is sublime and he don't squander time
But his trip would make me nervous.
Let him know in some way as he passes each day,
That we appreciate his friendly service.

The Pony express we all must confess,
Was efficient with the gun and the mail.
The stage coach took it's place but not in disgrace
And the mail train they would often derail.

I am writing today in my poor humble way,
Of the Mail man who is our neighbor.
He is prompt at his place with a smile on his face,
We should make more pleasant his labor.

Five Hilltop Candidates Seek Support in Election

Five Hilltop candidates who have survived the primaries will vie for places in the city government come next Tuesday. These are Floyd F. Green, candidate for mayor; Ray G. Hauntz, W. L. Millikin, and Henry Koontz for council, and Robert M. Draper for school board.

Floyd Green

Floyd Green has endeavored to sell himself to Columbus voters. If he is elected, he says, he will sell Columbus to the nation.

Basing his campaign on a pledge to operate city government in a business-like and efficient manner, he has outlined a comprehensive program.

Green has pledged himself to strictest economy in all departments of city government, to the maintenance of an adequate relief system which will not be humiliating to relief recipients, to the strictest observance of the civil service laws and the elimination of pay-roll padding, to the securance of the lowest possible utility rates for the residential consumer, and to the provision of adequate playground and park facilities for all classes of citizens.

He has energetically opposed the "regrettable" system of traffic arrests, which he feels has given the city a reputation of discourtesy. He has promised a return of confidence on municipal government.

Having built a large following long before he received official party endorsement, Green has given assurance that he will not be obligated to any individual or pressure group, if he is elected.

Ray G. Hauntz

Ray G. Hauntz is a candidate for council on a business man's platform. He has repeatedly urged that council be run on a business-like basis.

Said Hauntz: "I think of city council as synonomous with the board of directors of a large corporation and should function quickly, efficiently and cooperatively."

For the past eight years he has been a member of the Columbus board of education. In a recent interview he said: "If the people of Columbus feel that I have done a good job during my years on the board of education, I am willing to continue representing them in city council."

Nosed out of second place in the primary elections, Hauntz made one of the greatest surprise runnings of recent years, particularly in light of the fact that this was done without political organization support.

Wyatt L. Millikin

After serving 12 years as a member of council, Wyatt L. Millikin is seeking re-election on the basis of his record in that office.

By way of illustration he listed the following achievements. He introduced legislation which led to the establishment of branch libraries in the city. He introduced legislation which brought the Hilltop territory, north of Steele-av, west of Hague, and south of Sullivant, into the corporation.

He introduced resolutions which resulted in the elimination of grade crossings of the Big Four R. R. at W. Broad-st and the Pennsylvania R. R. at Cleveland-av. He was instrumental in getting the present sewer system for the Hilltop.

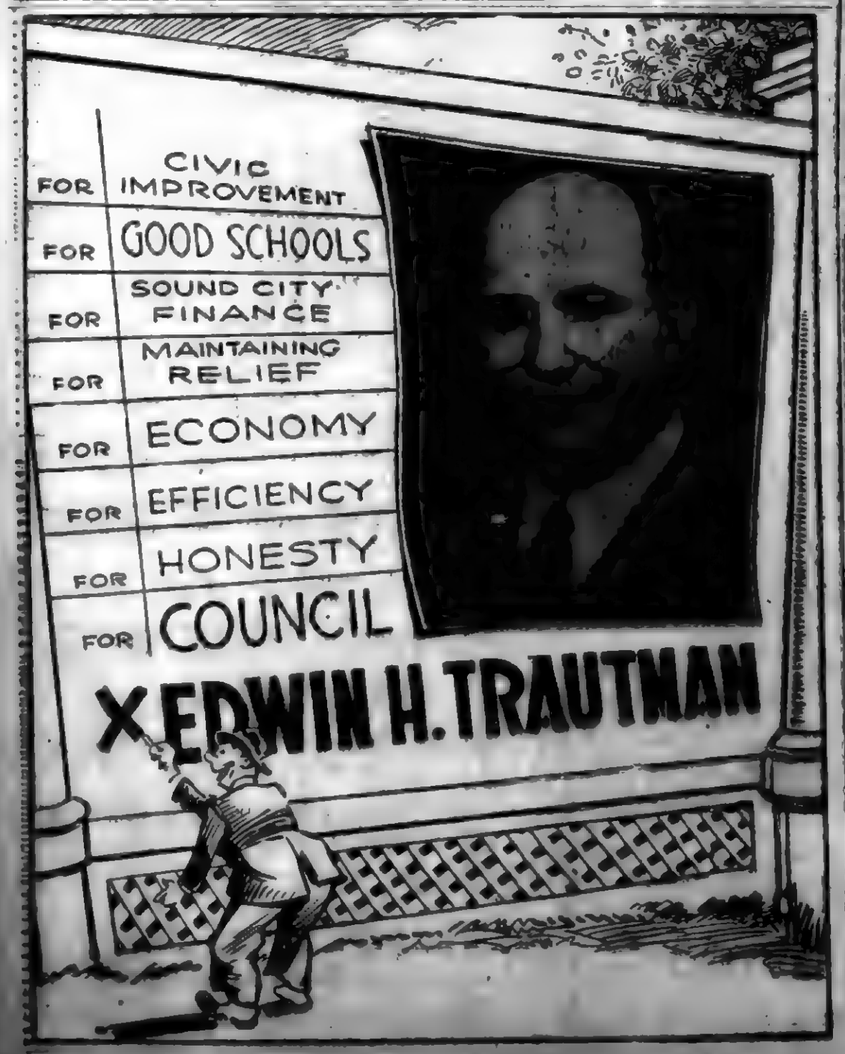
Millikin has figured prominantly in the city's utility fight from the beginning.

Henry A. Koontz

Henry A. Koontz, four years ago a candidate for city council, is once again in the race for that office, and according to his early campaign speeches, "is out to get those 186 votes" by which he was defeated.

Not making any definite campaign pledges, Koontz has said that he will meet issues as they come up. "A great many candidates," he said, "are promising to get municipal swimming pools, parks, etc., for the voters. I'm heartily in favor of these things," he continued, "if I know where the money is coming from. You can't do these things if you don't have the money."

Koontz was the first council candidate who received the endorsement of the county Republican organization.



Robert M. Draper

Young and enterprising Robert Draper is the Hilltop's candidate for the board of education. He lives at 74 N. Roys-av, and for the past eight years has been a practicing lawyer of excellent standing in the profession.

The only candidate for school board who lives west of the Scioto river, he was recently endorsed by the principals of all Hilltop schools. In a letter published in the Record, they said: ". . . we feel that the sincerity, integrity, honesty of purpose and educational background of Mr. Draper qualify him for the position."

With the expiration of the term of Ray G. Hauntz, president of the school board and at present candidate for council, representation of the Hilltop and West Side on the school board will cease, unless Draper is elected.

In a recent statement Draper said: "I am not in the school board race for personal reasons or because of any political ambition but only with the idea of public service . . . I am going into this thing with the purpose of devoting my time and energy unsparingly in the interests of our school system."

As the Bottom of His Sack — By Sumner

Political Slants

By John Hess

Rarely have we seen such a concerted attack on any proposed legislative measure as that now under way against the Bigelow amendment. That political leaders of both sides are concerned over the possibility that this fantastic scheme of old age pensions might pass at the November election is apparent. Both Republican and Democratic leaders are as one in their opposition to the plan, which on the face of it is unsound, unworkable and should by all means be defeated.

U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft was endorsed as Ohio's Republican candidate for president in 1940 and Governor John W. Bricker was endorsed for a second term by the Republican state committee at a meeting held Oct. 17. The action of the committee was unanimous as was also the vote to support the state constitutional amendment creating a state board of education and to oppose the Bigelow old age pension tax amendments and the civil service referendum; the latter initiated by the Democrat state committee.

A meeting of the Democrat state committee called for Oct. 19 failed to produce a quorum, as only 14 of the 48 members answered the called issued by State Chairman Hanefield. Resolutions opposing the Bigelow amendments and endorsing the civil service referendum had been prepared for the meeting, which may be held later, but no action endorsing a Democratic presidential candidate is expected before some time in January.

Going along with President Roosevelt, as Ohio law provides he must, Governor Bricker's Thanksgiving proclamation fixes the Ohio date as Thursday, Nov. 23. When the president announced that he was moving up the national festival one week and proclaim it for Nov. 23 instead of the 30th, the normal date under past precedent, 22 states agreed to the date fixed by the president, including Ohio, Michigan, Utah, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Sticking to the old date in revolt against tinkering with tradition are 23 others, among them being Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina. Three states were reported as still undecided on Oct. 20. So it appears that the good old U. S. A. has so much to be thankful for this year that it will take two official Thanksgiving day festivals throughout the country to express a due appreciation.

For the first time in more than 10 years railroads entering Columbus are employing new men, the list of those on furlough having been exhausted. One official announced, "If this war boom in business continues much longer, the "No Men Wanted" signs will have to come down and we will really have to go out and hire men."

Ohio, which once produced more than 40,000,000 tons of soft coal a year, now ranks fifth with an annual production of 17,920,000 tons, according to recent figures released by the U. S. Bituminous Coal division.

Significance is suggested by a comparison of administrative costs of the Ohio division of aid for the aged. On Feb. 1 there were 111,183 pensioners on the roll receiving $2,510,319 monthly and the payroll revealed 1,050 employes. On Oct. 1 there were 120,925 pensioners receiving $2,743,814 monthly and there were only 800 employes on the payroll. The total cost of administration for the first nine months of 1938 was $1,155,856 as compared with $980,999 for the same period this year, a saving of $174,857.

Court decisions in Ohio and 10 other states have held that secret agreements between Home Owners Loan Corp. borrowers and private financing institutions, wherein the borrowers were compelled to give a second mortgage in order to secure a loan, are illegal. The HOLC has offered legal assistance to borrowers who have given second mortgages for such purpose.

The war department is expected to issue an order of final approval for two large flood control dams in Ohio at an early date. The dams will be across the Olentangy river six miles north of Delaware at an estimated cost of $4,000,000 and across the Licking river five miles west of Zanesville to cost about $6,900,000. The Delaware dam will be more than three miles long and will have a flood area of some 5,000 acres. The conservation pool, which will be filled at all times, will cover only about 80 or 100 acres. The Licking dam will be 1,300 feet long, 110 feet high, with a flood spread of 11,000 acres. The dams were authorized in the 1938 flood control act.

Federal Home Loan Bank Shows Surplus of $1,409,909

The Federal Home Loan bank of Cincinnati, on its seventh anniversary, has surplus and undivided profits of $1,409,909, after all operating expenses and dividends, President Walter D. Shultz announced recently. Additional purchases of stock by the Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee member institutions during the year brought its total capital to $21,702,934.

"Up to last Sept. 30, the bank had advanced a total of $69,188,101 to its members, of which $47,530,169 is now outstanding," said Mr. Shultz. "About 46 per cent of the members are currently employing their credit at the bank. Most of the bank's advances are on a long-term basis, up to 10 years, and are amortized at a rate generally corresponding to the terms of the loans made by member institutions to their home-owner borrowers."

The Federal Home Loan bank of Cincinnati has paid regular dividends totalling $2,244,285 to its member institutions and the United States treasury during its seven years of operation, Mr. Shultz pointed out. The bank has assets of $32,506,481. Its gross income for the first nine months of this year reached $731,416.

The membership of the bank and loan associations and three insurance companies of Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, the combined assets of which were $782,406,967 on Sept. 30, an increase of $71,165,942 since Jan. 1. During the first eight months of this year, the savings, building and loan members financed an estimated total of $96,273,000 in home loans, more than 41.8 per cent of such loans made by all financial institutions in the three states, according to non-farm mortgage recordings compiled by the Federal Home Loan bank board.

The First Federal Savings and Loan association, 3369 W. Broad-st, has been a member for the first six years.

If Judged By His RECORD
It's MARTIN for JUDGE"

T. VINCENT MARTIN

For Presiding Judge of the Municipal Court

T. VINCENT MARTIN

And some day he'll be judge. We've been saying that about Vince Martin—T. Vincent Martin to most of you—who for so long has been the top-flight assistant prosecuting attorney down at the courthouse—we've said it for years, and we repeat it now. Because, if he ever decides to run for a judgeship, in city or county, Vince Martin is going to discover that all the training and experience he gained as a prosecutor and court attache will make him invaluable to a public that is looking for his kind of man and his kind of legal knowledge on its benches of justice. On top of everything else, and added to his contact with every jurking twist and quirk of the law, is the fact that Vince Martin is an intensely human being, a fellow who thinks with both feet on the ground, who believes that even when he's prosecuting a case, the other fellow deserves a fair, square deal—and who prosecutes but never persecutes, if you understand! Vince Martin clicks as a man and attorney, and he'll click as a member of the judiciary, because he IS a man and he KNOWS the law—and his interpretations are always honest, unprejudiced, on the up-and-up and he stays put. This airwaves rambler has seen many men operating from the prosecuting side of a legal battle, but never have we seen one who deals the cards so deftly on top of the table, who gives even the devil his due, and who asks only one thing of a jury in the final analysis—a square deal. That's the kind of a judge Vince Martin will make when and if he ever decides to climb the bench in some court, and he'll do a lot toward adding dignity to the bench and creating respect for the court.

There's nothing hit-and-miss about this unobtrusive-looking, curly-haired, personable fellow who for several years has scored in hundreds of court battles, who has addressed countless grand juries and fought civil and criminal cases in the county courts. He operates in the belief that every particle of information is necessary for a court to properly determine a case—and, as a judge, he'd operate on the same plan. He'd want to know everything there was to know about a case, even if it was a comparatively unimportant one, and when he rendered a decision he'd come pretty near hitting the nail smack on the head. The defendant would know that he had had a square deal—and so would the plaintiff or prosecution. Being a human, somewhat ordinary two-legged human being, he'd operate as one, but there would always be a definite dignity in his court. Some day, because he is of that temperament, he will turn to the judiciary. When he does, voters are going to have an opportunity to get a real kick out of casting their ballots! They'll know when they elect him that they've transformed a man into a judge—a man who knows what it is all about, and, knowing, will do a grand job no matter what complexities or problems he faces. Yes, sir, that's Vince Martin—and why he clicks!—From a "Broad and High" broadcast.

While the selection of men for public office invariably demands the utmost care on the part of voters, to the end that the men best equipped shall be elected, it is doubtless true that no public office is as exacting in its requirements as that of judge. In their selection of men for the judiciary, voters long ago—even before legislation removed the judiciary from politics—discarded partisanship to scrutinize each candidate's specific qualifications as a potential jurist—and this will be the general policy when a presiding judge of Municipal Court in Columbus is elected on November 7th.

Assistant County Prosecuting Attorney T. Vincent Martin, for nine years an outstanding figure in this office, is a candidate for the Municipal Court presiding judgeship.

We believe this particular judgeship will come to Mr. Martin as a deserved recognition for his fine work as a public official and the success which has marked his work in the Prosecutor's office. During his long service he has prepared and handled hundreds of diversified important legal cases, has devoted himself to endless legal research and appearance in numerous lower and upper courts, commanding the respect of his profession and all jurists before whom he has worked. He is thoroughly conversant with the intricacies of the law, is admirably fitted by training and temperament for the work of judge, and his honesty, fairness and impartial work combine to recommend him to your consideration at this time.

We believe the freshness of viewpoint that will be brought to Municipal Court by Mr. Martin, and his admitted experience and training, will work to the increased efficiency of this important branch of the judiciary. Since the judiciary has been removed from politics, voters need consider candidates for judgeships purely on a basis of past performance, experience and training. We ask only that you consider his qualifications when you cast your ballot; they are there in abundance and fully established.

Mrs. Johnson Seeks Re-election To Board

Mrs. Mary Louise Johnson has been a member of the Columbus board of education since Jan. 1, 1936. In the 1935 election she received more than 22,000 votes, one of the greatest pluralities ever given a woman candidate. During her four years of service on the board, she has been a member of the finance committee.

During four years she has attended every meeting of the board except two.

Mrs. Johnson has been active in Parent-Teacher association work for years, and served as president of the Franklin county council from 1933 to 1935. She supported the recent building survey by Dr. Holy, and the building modernization program based upon its recommendations. In January, 1938, and again in 1939 she was unanimously elected to serve as vice-president of the board. Mrs. Johnson is the mother of two daughters.

HARRY STITES HAS COLLECTION OF TROPHIES WON IN CYCLE RACES

There's a "champ" in our midst and we didn't know about it. But it isn't all our fault, because the fellow just doesn't talk.

The 1938 motorcycle racing champ of Ohio lives at 1973 Sullivant-av. His name is Harry Stites. Pictured above he is holding the trophy he won last year from a field of aspirants representing every section of the state. The race was a 500 mile endurance run.

The large trophy in the center of the table is the Sunday Star state championship award, which Stites won on accumulated points in a series of races. Other trophies were awarded for minor events, but the whole collection has been aggrandized during the last year.

Later this year Stites will compete in the national meet which will be held at Daytona Beach. "I don't know whether or not I'll win," he said, "but if I don't, at least I'll keep someone stepping."

And motorcycle racing isn't his only accomplishment in the realm of sports. In '29 and '30 Stites held the state amateur light weight boxing championship. For four straight years he was recognized at Madison Square Garden as Ohio's representative ringster in his class.

He took to the motorcycle in a big way, when, due to an accident, his road to boxing fame was temporarily blocked. "Although on one occasion I broke one leg in nine places, another in three, have had a fractured skull, a broken shoulder, and lots of broken ribs," said Stites, "I can't get out of the game."

You can have our share of it, Harry. Anyhow, more power to you.

Draper Only Local Candidate For School Board

Robert M. Draper, 74 N. Roysav, Hilltop candidate for school board, in a statement last week said. "The importance of the school board as a public body cannot be over estimated. Over half the taxpayer's money is handled by the board and the voter should give careful consideration to the selection of members."

He said further: "If I am elected to the board of education, it will be my aim to cooperate with other members in the interests of the public. To the detriment of the public the factor of cooperation is too often overlooked by public representatives."

With the expiration of the term of Ray G. Hauntz, president of the school board and at present candidate for city council, representation of the Hilltop and West Side in this body will cease unless Draper is elected.

Many observers lately have expressed the opinion, that since greatest improvement in the status of Hilltop and West Side schools has been realized while the community was represented on the board, it would be folly to allow that representation to cease.

They say further that Draper, who over a period of years has manifested intense interest in educational activities, is the logical successor to Ray Hauntz.

Draper is 33 years old and has lived in Columbus since 1910. He has been a practicing lawyer for the past eight year. The only candidate for school board who lives west of the Scioto river, Draper last week received the endorsement of the West Alumni association.

Budget Is Practical

After studying budget plans of people with similar incomes, such families allot definite sums of shelter, food, operating expense, advancement, savings and clothes.

Clothes may get 11 per cent, about $16.60 a month for the family on an income of $150 a month.

In a few months you have a sizeable fund — and not only avoid crises, but get better clothes. You have money on hand for bona fide sales, save on large purchases, such as coats — and have money left over for frivolous touches, smart accessories.

Entertaining, a car, movies and magazines? Yes, there's money for them, too, when you include an advancement fund to your budget, allot to it 14 per cent, or $21 a month on your income of $150. You may make the fund larger with little savings on your electricity—and you can still put 10 per cent or $15 a month into savings.

Avoid money worries, get more out of your income by following a budget plan.

Illness is a strange equalizer; if one has collected an overamount of self assurance it lowers rapidly with a few "off days."

Accessories Serve To Brighten Somber Ensembles

That most sensible of fashions—the simple, basic dress — to which every smart woman has become devoted since it first appeared over the horizon, has made accessories more important than ever. Properly chosen, they not only brighten an otherwise somber picture, but give that smooth ensemble look we all love.

Given a smartly designed dress, in black or any of the rich new winter shades, it's no trick at all to achieve ensembles that appear completely different, just by the introduction of different groups of accessories.

The lovely deep greens, for instance, take on added richness with black accents, and they look just as well with a very dark brown tone, known as tobacco or chocolate brown.

Dramatic Red

One of the most significant trends of the year is the drama of black and red. But it must be a single dash of clear, bright red, not an ensemble of accessories. A vivid pillbox hat, a huge underarm purse or gloves would be smart, leaving the rest of the costume deep black.

Costume jewelry plays a stellar role in a season of romantic fashion. It glitters in gold or silver metals, often paved with precious stones, and the more it jangles as the wearer walks the smarter it is considered by the experts.

Bib Necklaces

One of the newest gadgets of this type is the bib necklace sponsored by Schiaparelli, and adapted in various forms.

Whatever the style or medium, it is shaped precisely like a baby's bib, and is very becoming against a high neckline or to fill in the new deep oval outline evident in many dresses.

Another important style trend—the below-the-elbow or bracelet sleeve — brings gloves and bracelets into new prominence.

To make this sleeve length even more flattering, gloves are slightly longer, mostly in five-button length, and may be of doeskin or smooth, sleek kid, in slip-on styles with overseam sewn.

Bracelets are smartest worn in pairs or even trios, so that they tinkle merrily as the wearer walks. They are to be had in gold or silver finish or—which is newer—in combinations of the two.

Hold That Waistline!

It is surprising what even a change in belts will do to make a dress look different. There's a whole story in belts this season, because of the pinched-in waistline that is practically a must.

Some of them are as wide as a gaucho's belt, and as intricate in design. Others are mere half-inch straps, to accent a wide set-in waistband or stress a princess silhouette. Trimmings of gold or silver kid, appliqued motifs and embroidery are most often seen, and they are to be had in all the new shades: reds, greens, browns and purples.

Thanks to the perfect co-ordination between designer and manufacturer, matched accessories are to be had in all the color ranges and within a price range amenable to every budget. For $1 to $3 there's an infinite variety from which to choose.

PACIFIC

We stood upon the salty beach,
Receding foam beyond our reach,
As Neptune there his waters churned
A mighty lesson I somehow learned.
With angry roar the waters rasped
Each rock and shell that they had grasped—
Had clasped and worn so truly smooth
To me there came a forceful truth:
All life is rhythm. Life is might.
Eternal law makes all things right.
The Christian Love makes all mine
As washing wears away the brine.

Vincent Martin Seeks Judgeship

Assistant county prosecuting attorney, T. Vincent Martin, for nine years connected with this office, is a candidate for the municipal court presiding judgship.

Martin feels that his preparation of hundreds of diversified legal cases in connection with which he has appeared in numerous lower and upper courts and which have involved endless legal research qualify him for the post he seeks.

A recently published statement regarding Martin's candidacy has this to say of him: "There's nothing him and miss about this unobtrusive, rusty-haired, personable fellow . . . . He operates on the belief that every particle of information is necessary for a court to properly determine a case and as judge he'd operate on the same plan."

Martin asks, that "voters consider candidates for judgships purely on the basis of past performance, experience and training."

Your Ensemble Needs A Jacket

Have you a little number with sleeves, or an ensemble with jacket or sweater in your wardrobe for winter evenings? If not, there's no time like the present to do something about it, if you want to keep in step with what the couture is pleased to call the "cover-up trend."

This right-about-face from last year's strapless gowns is finding great favor with American women, and is interpreted in enough variety that there are flattering styles for every figure.

The cover-up idea may be carried almost to austerity, with long, fitted sleeves, and high throatline, or it may be modified by the use of shorter sleeves that conceal only the upper part of the arm, and a lower decolletage.

That Bright Touch

Costume jewelry is practically imperative as bright relief for the long-sleeved dinner dress, and many of them bring their own, usually a massive necklace in gold metal.

As an example, a lustrous black crepe gown, with a silhouette as slim as a cigaret, will have a barbaric necklace of dull-finish gold beads, which can easily be matched in earrings.

Transparent Yoke

Where there isn't a dash of metal in necklace or clips, it appears in the frock's trimming. A marine blue crepe is enlivened by a pattern of gold beads across the bodice.

A black crepe, with one of the very new transparent yokes, has a delicate tracery of tiny gold leaves where yoke and dress meet. And a flannel-red crepe with draped elbow sleeves is dramatized with gold passementerie.

In step with the edict for greater coverage on the fashion front, as well as for much glitter, ensembles, consisting of a basic dress and jacket, the color or metallic glint concentrated on the latter.

The Hilltop And West Side Need A Representative On The Board Of Education

ELECT

Robert M. Draper

The Only Candidate For Board of Education Living West of Scioto River

ROBERT M. DRAPER
74 N. Roys Ave.

Here Are A Few Reasons Why Draper Should Be Elected

1. He is qualified by educational background and experience. He has had three years work in Education and his administrative ability and integrity have been proven by eight years' experience as a practicing attorney of excellent standing in the profession.

2. He has been a Hilltop and West Side resident all his life, having attended Highland Avenue school and was graduated from West High school in 1924. He has his law degree from Ohio State university. He lives at 74 N. Roys Ave.

3. In the past Hilltop and West Side schools have benefited materially because the community was represented on the Board of Education. Draper is the only candidate for the board who lives west of the Scioto river.

4. He has a keen appreciation of the responsibility of school board members both for the handling of large portions of public funds and moulding the lives of future citizens.

5. His well founded legal knowledge can be invaluable to the board as a whole in ironing out technicalities with which it is constantly confronted.

6. He has long been interested in educational progress.

7. He has no political axes to grind and is in the race because he was drafted by citizens of his community.

8. In Draper's own words: "I am not entering the race for personal reasons or because of any political ambition but only as a matter of community spirit . . . I am going into this thing with the purpose of devoting my time and energy unsparingly in the interests of our school system."

Local Principals Give Endorsement To Draper

"Believing that the best interests of the city can be served by having a representative from each section of the city on the Columbus board of education, we the undersigned principals of Hilltop and West Side schools take this opportunity to endorse the candidacy of Robert M. Draper for member of the board of education.

"Mr. Draper is the only candidate for this position who lives in this community west of the Scioto river.

"For the past 16 years the Hilltop and West Side have been ably represented on the board by Judge Cecil J. Randall and Ray G. Hauntz, who have contributed much toward improvements in the local schools. This community is entitled to a continuation of this representation to be made possible by electing Draper to the board of education.

"Furthermore we feel that the sincerity, integrity, honesty of purpose and educational background of Mr. Draper qualify him for the position."

Local principals who signed the endorsement were: Dr. H. H. Reighley, West High; E. B. Graham, John Burroughs; Vance Smith, West Junior High; Matilda Stuart, West Broad; Helen C. Kennedy, Highland Avenue.

The Spectator
By C. C. Hartley

Congratulations, Mayor Green!

While our personal congratulations have already been extended to the new Mayor, Hilltop's own Floyd Green, we take this opportunity to put our expressions into print and assume that the same salutation goes for the hundreds of Floyd's friends in this community who are wishing him the greatest success in his new achievement.

It is a distinct honor to have the Mayor of Columbus as a resident of this community but then it is only fitting that it be that way.

But with all community loyalty set aside, we did not support Floyd Green in the recent primary and major election because of the fact that he was a Hilltopper alone.

We are sincere in our belief that he will make a good mayor for Columbus. We said as much before the election. We are repeating and with it going a little farther to say that while we did not hesitate to go along with him in his campaign we will likewise not hesitate to break with him should he fail in this his greatest opportunity to serve.

We are wishing Floyd well as Mayor and assuring him that he can continue to count on the hearty support of this corner in so long as he looks for and associates with the best things in city government during his administration.

The Hilltop Vote Was Gratifying

From the number of congratulations received by the Record following Tuesday's election one might think that we had been a candidate and had run the gauntlet to success.

The vote was indeed gratifying from every standpoint in so far as we are concerned.

In the first place we were well pleased with the fine vote accorded Mr. Green for mayor by his home folks. A very substantial majority was registered to his credit in the Hilltop wards.

At our suggestion some months ago Ray Hauntz entered the race for city council. He won handily in the primaries and again on Tuesday came in second in the city race and piled up the largest vote on the Hilltop of any candidate for any office.

When we learned that the Hilltop was to be without representation on the school board we asked through this column that Robert Draper be a candidate. He seemed to have the qualifications necessary. That thousands of people of the city felt the same is evidenced by the fact that he was third high in the city-wide voting and led his closest rival in the eleventh ward by 1937 votes.

Then too, we advocated that Hilltoppers favor T. Blair Holloway for city auditor because he was better qualified for the position. While the city as a whole went on record by giving Holloway's opponent a majority of over 5,000 votes it was most pleasing to learn that here on the Hilltop in the eleventh ward Mr. Holloway led the ticket with a margin of 38 votes to his credit.

Behind all the above decisions made by Hilltop voters was a desire to elect men who could best serve in public office. Party affiliations were thrown out the window and rightfully so. Two of the candidates successful in the races mentioned above were Democrats, two Republicans.

It may not be a fact that as so goes the Hilltop so goes the city but it continues to be a fact that Hilltoppers reserve the right to speak for themselves at the voting places, without bias, without prejudice and without partisanship.

Good Luck, Jim!

On numerous occasions in the past campaign we have had our say with reference to Jim Rhodes for city auditor.

That Jim was the popular city-wide choice is now history. That he was not the overwhelming choice of Hilltoppers is also a fact. But this one thing does go without saying further: We hope he administers the city auditor's office to the best of his ability and proved to us that his ability in that direction exceeded our expectations.

Legion To Collect For Needy

Camp Chase post No. 96, American Legion, has announced plans for its eighth annual food and clothing drive for needy Hilltop families on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 23.

Hilltop residents have been asked to place their contributions on their porches or in some other accessible place early Thanksgiving morning. The entire community down to Central-av will be canvassed.

Pick-ups will be made by Legionnaires and Hilltop scouts who have been assigned specific streets to "work", while various community merchants have volunteered their trucks for use in making collections.

Approximately 100 workers will assemble at post headquarters Thanksgiving morning to get final instructions and assignments before going out to "work" their respective territories.

The Ladies' auxiliary will serve luncheon and hot drinks to workers at noon at the Sheraton-Seneca room, which has been donated for use as a collection and distribution center.

Some houses were missed in the drive last year due to the large amount of territory to be covered, but Legion members have announced emphatically that they "will be there for sure this year."

Earl A. Weiss, 308 S. Ogden-av, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Haney Buys Drug Store

Harry Haney, owner of the Economy Drug store, 2660 W. Broad-st, completed arrangements Wednesday for the purchase of Duke's pharmacy, 2149 Sullivant-av. Possession of the store was given immediately following the transaction.

The Sullivant-av store, formerly known as Raley's, has been operated for the past year by Charles "Duke" Gill. Fred Schwartz, who has been manager of the store, will remain in that capacity.

Haney announced also that work of remodeling and modernizing would begin in the near future. A new glass front to harmonize in color and design with the Broad-st store will be installed. The interior will be completely recquipped. It will carry the same name as the Broad-st business.

A delivery service will be maintained for both stores and prices and policies will be identical.

Haney started the original store 12 years ago. He was represented in the transaction by Donald Smith, attorney at 2405½ W. Broad-st.

The first of a series of services to begin at 5 p. m. will be inaugurated Sunday evening at Hillcrest Baptist church. Theme of the service will be "Building A Church."

Bucks-Polar Bears In Title Contest Today

By Dave Shiffler

Today's the day!

Continuing a grid rivalry which dates back to the post-war days of 1919, West High's Battling Buckaroos, fresh from a 20-6 shellacking administered to the East Bengals, will tangle with the North High Polar Bears this afternoon in the 20th meeting of the two schools on the football field. The bitter contest, to be played on the Arcadia-av gridiron, is scheduled to begin at 3 p. m.

No little interest is centered on this battle. In the first place the City league championship will be decided out there today. Secondly, West has gone through a strenuous eight-game sked without a setback or a tie and will be vieing for an undefeated, untied season. The Maroons have been beaten only once during the campaign, (outside the league), but have been tied on two occasions.

The battle will bring together the two best backfields in the city. The Cowboy four, Williams, Carter, Bell and Mack, have dented every opponent's line to date. Meanwhile the North quartet of toughies, Baldwin, Burgett, Lonis and Kauffman all hard-driving backs, have also scored in every game. North has tallied 117 markers in eight games while allowing its opponents only 52. On the other hand West has given up only 13 points, but has scored nine points less than the Northmen.

New Product

Hilltop independent stores have a brand new product, Clean floor wax, on their shelves. Housewives will find this wax easy to apply and it does not require rubbing to obtain a high gloss finish. Also, being absolutely waterproof, it will not water spot.

A handy applicator will be given free with each purchase, as an introductory offer for a limited time only. Clean floor wax is manufactured by the Clean Products Co., Columbus.

Work On Highway Will Begin Soon

Actual construction work on the new state highway project on Rt. 40 from the Columbus city limits to West Jefferson, should get under way shortly after the first of the year, according to information received from the state highway department this week.

With the technical details of the project already approved the department is awaiting the "go signal" for the advertising of bids.

Contracts must be let within 10 days after the date of sale and actual work should begin shortly thereafter.

The approved plans provide for the construction of a new 24 foot (two lane) concrete strip to run from 1,200 feet within the Columbus corporation limit to a distance of 7.46 miles west, at a cost of $424,000.

Approximately one foot lower than the old one, the new road will be built at city street level in anticipation of the time when the adjacent Broadlawn addition will be brought into the city limits.

Separated from the old road by a parkway, the new two-lane concrete strip will carry west-going traffic, while the present highway will carry the east-going traffic.

Hilltop Swamps Bigelow Plan By Big Margin

Hilltop voters went to the polls Tuesday and gave overwhelming endorsement to the candidacies of all local candidates for municipal offices.

With but one exception the same degree of confidence was displayed by the voters of the city at large.

Floyd F. Green, 3046 Crescent-dr, was elected mayor of Columbus by a 6,000-vote majority over his opponent, Mayor Myron B. Gessaman. He carried every precinct in the Hilltop tenth and eleventh wards by substantial margins.

The Democratic wards on the south side favored Green two to one over his opponent, while certain north side wards accorded him a comparable vote.

Although Gessaman carried the north side fifteenth, sixteenth, eighteenth and nineteenth wards, the victories were not by the three to one or four to one majorities anticipated by the city hall administration supporters.

In the council race, Ray G. Hauntz, president of the board of education, rolled up the highest total vote of any candidate on the Hilltop. He received 4856 votes in the eleventh ward, a majority of 1119 over his nearest rival, Wyatt L. Millikin. He received an equally impressive vote from the eleventh.

A surprise candidate from the first, Hauntz ended up in second place in the city-wide contest. He became a candidate on the suggestion of the Record.

Wyatt L. Millikin, who after his new term in council will have completed 16 years of service to the city in this capacity, ran second on the Hilltop. He stood fourth from the top in the total city vote.

Henry A. Koontz, who received the support of the Republican organization, came in slightly behind Millikin in the Hilltop wards but lost out in the city as a whole.

Besides Hauntz and Millikin, Roger N. Addison and William H. Lehman (incumbents) were elected to council. Republican incumbent, Howard C. Hartman, was defeated.

Republican organization candidate, James A. Rhodes, defeated his Democratic-incumbent rival, T. Blain Holloway, by nearly 5,000 votes in the race for city auditor. Endorsed by the Record because of his technical qualifications and experience, Holloway carried the eleventh ward by 38 votes.

One of the greatest surprise candidacies of recent years was that of Robert M. Draper, Hilltop and West Side candidate for school board. Coming in slightly behind second place in the city-wide race, Draper piled up huge majorities in both the tenth and eleventh wards.

[illegible] carried every precinct in both wards by substantial amounts. Draper became a candidate at the behest of the Record.

While the proposed school levy was defeated because it received only a 53 per cent vote from the city as a whole (in order to pass 65 per cent was required), it failed to obtain even a majority on the Hilltop.

The Bigelow amendments to the state constitution were defeated five to one in the eleventh ward and four to one in the tenth.

The vote tabulation by precincts for the tenth and eleventh wards, given elsewhere on this page, are complete for the eleventh ward but the results from a few precincts in the tenth were unavailable at the time of going to press.

Thank You!

On Wednesday successful Hilltop candidates expressed their thanks and appreciation as follows:

Floyd F. Green, mayor: "The very fine vote given by my many friends and neighbors on the Hilltop was most certainly appreciated. To take over the duties of the office of mayor will be a pleasure with the backing of such fine people."

Ray G. Hauntz, city council: "I certainly appreciate the confidence shown by the voters on Tuesday in my ability to serve them in city council and hope I can continue to live up to their expectations."

Wyatt L. Millikin, city council: "This opportunity to serve in city council for another term is appreciated. I will continue to represent the best interests of the public."

Robert M. Draper, school board: "I was most pleased with the very fine support given by the Hilltop and West Side. I will do all in my power to justify the confidence the voters have in me."

West Students Help Pay Stadium Bonds

A meeting was held this morning in the West High school auditorium for the purpose of paying off a portion of the football stadium bonds purchased by Hilltop residents.

Tickets with numbers corresponding to those on the bonds were placed in a hopper and were drawn by various members of the community. Those holding bonds corresponding to numbers drawn were paid a sum of 10 dollars each. The old bonds were taken in and new ones for the remaining amount of the bond were issued.

In charge of the drawing were Ray Hauntz, former chairman of the stadium committee; C. C. Hartley, publisher of the Hilltop Record; W. E. Ferguson, alumni representative; Dr. H. H. Reighley, West High principal, and

Biltmore Restaurant

Work Started On New Building

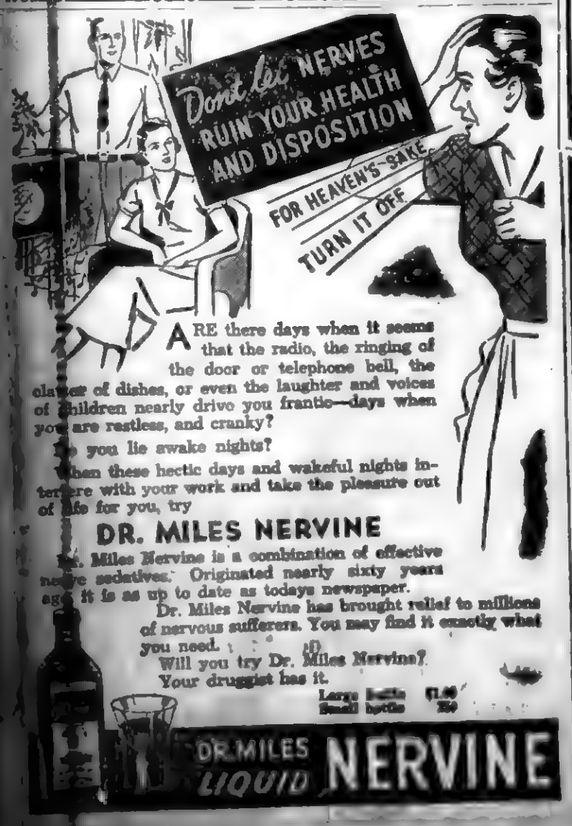
Construction work on a new modernistic restaurant building at 2412 W. Broad-st to be occupied upon completion by the proprietors of the Biltmore restaurant, 2410 W. Broad-st, began Monday morning.

Being built by Mrs. Lucy A. Hamblin, owner of the land and also of the present restaurant site, the new structure will be leased to James Phillips and Louis Christy, who have been proprietors of the Biltmore restaurant for more than five years. The lease contract is for a period of five years, subject to renewal upon expiration.

To be completed by Jan. 1, the new restaurant building will have a 39-foot frontage on W. Broad-st and will be 70 feet deep. It will be constructed of brick, will be air-conditioned throughout, and will provide seating arrangements for 150 persons.

The Story dry cleaning establishment, 2414 W. Broad-st, located one door west of the present site of the restaurant, was picked up bodily Saturday and moved onto the vacant lot next door. Here the small frame structure will remain temporarily until the new restaurant is completed.

The cleaning establishment will move to its new location in the vacated restaurant building on Jan. 1 or shortly thereafter. There, according to Story, "there will be much more room, less fire and burglary hazard, and less danger of pipes freezing."



C. B. Story, proprietor of the dry cleaning shop, has obtained a temporary permit to continue his business until the completion of the building construction, when the frame building in which he has conducted business for the past 10 years will be razed.

According to the city building code, an individual may carry on business in a frame building on Broad-st if the building is already there. But he is forbidden to conduct business in a frame building constructed for the purpose or in one that has been moved.

Contest

The opening of the "Lost Merchandise contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association is less than three weeks away.

Under the direction of a committee composed of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Nafzger, Ray Hauntz, C. H. Penfield, George Painter, M. W. Seiller, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley, the contest will open Dec. 1 and close Dec. 11.

Contestants are asked to identify articles of "lost merchandise" in the various business establishments on the Hilltop. An article is "lost" when it is displayed where it cannot be purchased.

For example, a gallon can of oil may be displayed in a delicatessen shop. Each article will be labeled with price and the place of business where it can ordinarily be purchased.

In addition to identifying all articles of "lost merchandise" contestants will write a brief statement not to exceed 50 words in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?"

A total of $65 in cash will be awarded winners. Official contest blanks will soon be available and may be obtained from any participating business establishment.

BUCKS—

The Cowboys sport probably the toughest line in the circuit; seven blocks of granite, you might say. From end to end they're strong defensively, and they don't do bad on the offense either. Even in the center where the little midgets, Westerman, Alban and Brandenberg, hold sway, (they average 149 pounds), the Buckaroo eleven refuses to yield. Flanking this trio is McConnel, Garnes and Frederick, three big and tough tackles, while the ever-reliable Hart and the lanky Jack Carpenter will hold down the flank positions. Hart will see limited service, however, due to a leg injury.

Tackles To Be Busy

North relies chiefly on off-tackle thrusts and the Buckaroo mentors, Williams and Collins, made plans this week to try to slow up the big Bear backs. West's fine tackles, Garnes, McConnel and Frederick, will be kept busy, it is certain. Bell and Alban will be assistants to the three from their defensive posts directly behind the line. The Buck coaching staff has "taken them as they come," Coach Williams said. Not until this week have the Cowboys worked on any special plans for halting the North offensive maneuvers.

Against East last Friday the Bucks were unbeatable. The locals scored in the initial canto after Carter had returned an East punt six yards to the West 46. Carter, Williams and Bell each made two before the former faded to his right and shot a 23-yard pass to Carpenter on the East 28. Williams made 10 and a first down. Bell passed up five at center and on the next play Carter crashed over left tackle, reversed his field and scored untouched. Lerum's kick was wide.

East Makes Score

East scored shortly after the second period began but the extra point placement failed as Westerman blocked the kick. This was the second time this season the Bucks have been scored upon, both times by a pass, and the same play. Bell took the kickoff on his own 13 and returned to the West 28. Carter and Bell carried the pigskin to the West 39 from which point the former broke through the left side of the Tiger line and dashed to the East 21, then lateralled to Bell who went to the East 11. Williams scored on the next play when he went wide around right end for the touchdown. Lerum's kick was good.

The Cowboys completed their scoring in the third quarter when two beautiful passes, the first from Williams to Carpenter and the second from Carter to Mack to Bell, were completed. The first heave gained 15 yards while the latter, a southpaw toss by the right-handed Jabber, made 18 yards and the score. Again Lerum's kick went straight through the uprights.

NEW HIGHWAY—

foot concrete pavement will be laid, according to state highway officials.

The second part of the project, which has not as yet received final approval, will provide for the extension of the new highway to West Jefferson and includes the construction of a new bridge over Big Darby creek, one and one-fourth miles east of West Jefferson.

To be built at a cost of $198,000, the bridge will be 710 feet in over-all length. Two lanes each 36 feet wide will be separated by a four-foot division parkway and bordered by a three-foot sidewalk on either side. Dangerous curves and grades leading to the old structure will be eliminated.

Long agitated by future-minded Hilltop residents, the construction of the new highway has been a major objective in the four-point program for community improvements of the Hilltop Business Men's association.

Young People's Club Formed At Hillcrest

Young people from various Columbus churches met at the Hillcrest Baptist church Sunday evening to organize and select officers for the Young People's Fellowship club under the supervision of H. Max Good, well-known evangelist and director of the "Wings of Prayer" radio program.

The new organization is interdenominational in character and has as its purpose the fostering of Christian fellowship and civic consciousness.

The following officers were elected: Harold Arthur, 2147 Lehner-rd, president; Donald Harrison, 2811 Fisher-rd, vice president; and Mrs. Sue Elliott, 231 Nashoba-av, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Nedderling, Howard Leach, Norman Mitchell, Eleanor Newman and Elmo Koons compose the program committee with Jewell Spencer as musical advisor.

Future meetings of the YPFC will be held at the Central Presbyterian church at State and S. Third-sts each Tuesday evening at 7:30.

George Michaelis Dies At Home

George E. Michaelis, 38, died Sunday at his home, 598 Clark-av. A draftsman for the Jeffrey Manufacturing Co. for 16 years, he had been ill for several months.

Mr. Michaelis, who was a member of the Clinton Heights Lutheran church, is survived by his wife, Mary Cristabel; a son, Roger Lee; a daughter, Kerin; a brother, August; and three sisters, Miss Theresia, Miss Helene and Mrs. Ruth Christman.

STADIUM BONDS—

Paul Rogers, president of the student council.

C. C. Montgomery, physics instructor and chairman of the athletic committee, placed emphasis on the fact that the bond payments were made with money received from the collection of sales tax stamps by the students and added that other money collected from that source will be placed in the stadium bond fund pending future drawings.

The second part of the program consisted of group singing by the students, music by the band, and brief speeches by Coach George Williams and Assistant Coach George Collins honoring the football squad.

1918 - Twenty-one Years - 1939

PEACE COMES OF AGE

JUST old enough to be drafted!

Not a pleasant thought, is it? This thing that we fought to get—this Peace—is growing up. Today, it is twenty-one years old. Not old enough to have acquired wisdom, to be sure, but—certainly—old enough to begin to have a mind of Its own.

Peace, you see, is a very real thing. And—thank Heaven—It lives at our house. It sits down at the table with us and It sleeps with us at night. And when we lay our paper down or turn off our radio, we constantly realize that it is good to know that Peace is in the room.

Peace is a harried child. Perhaps that is why we love It. For our household is composed of the persecuted from all the lands of the earth and we know that Peace is one of us. It is our son. Upon It we may freely lavish our love.

As It reaches Its twenty-first birthday, this Armistice Day, let us resolve to turn our backs upon that which is foreign to Peace and to us and set about the most monumental and glorious task ever undertaken in the history of humanity . . . the task of keeping and protecting Peace long enough—for once in the history of Man—to give It a chance to demonstrate to all humanity what Peace can do for the world.

OVER PARKING

What will they do to the driver after they mark his tires with chalk—
If he should lag will they give him a tag which says to the Judge he can talk.
The officer must have some witnesses to prove he stayed too long,
The constitution says we are innocent until they prove we've done wrong.

It seems that the Judge and Lawyers are all somewhat agog,
In dealing with our good neighbor that some call the parking hog.
The burden of proof, my Lawyer says, rests entirely with the state,
We are free to park in daylight or dark and they must prove it if they say we are late.

They must abide by the constitution if they'd avoid entangling alliance,
And study it out without fear or doubt by using domestic science.
I would like to make a suggestion—put officers at the scene,
Give them a stick whether German or Irish and plant two at each machine.

Coming Events
Cast Their Shadows

Coming events cast their shadows before them and so it is in political circles we learn of some candidates and happenings that may be thrown up for public consumption in the next election.

In the first place there is every indication that a dog fight is going to take place in the eleventh ward with regard to the Republican committee post. Many there are who say they are out to get Mr. Dysart's scalp.

Just who may run for the post has not been determined but several are giving it consideration. While we have had no word from the man himself we have understood from several that Jay Bowser is being considered as a likely candidate for the job.

Down in the tenth ward it is almost a certainty that Henry Koontz will run for the Republican committee post unless he is appointed to a lucrative spot in the city administration and that is not known as yet.

From other reliable sources we are informed that Roger Addison will be the Democratic candidate for mayor in '43. Don Hoskins will run for a judgeship, and Police Prosecutor R. Allen will seek the county prosecutor's job against Ralph Bartlett.

Further grapevines have it that Ted Heiscl will run for county commissioner. Art Yoeder will seek his job of county clerk again and the same will be true of Shafer and Sandusky for the positions of recorder and sheriff respectively.

Consider These Men, Mr. Green

While many stories have been going the rounds about the appointments to be made by Mayor-elect Green we trust that one isn't true—that George Matson will be let out as building inspector.

From all we have been able to learn George's many friends have felt that he has done a fine job in the department and should not be removed. He is a Republican and just because he served under Gessaman would be no good reason for making a substitution. His Hilltop friends would go to bat for him in great shape.

From other sources comes information that Leo Phillips is being considered as a possibility for police chief or some advancement in the department.

No more popular selection could be made by Floyd. Leo's past performance and ability speak for themselves. He deserves consideration.

As for ourselves we'll still go to bat for Chub Coyle. We maintain that any organization that is really trying to make a success of the administration and affairs of our city government could use Coyle to a very fine advantage.

But then, Mr. Green will make his own appointments. His future success will depend on the type of men he selects now. We're wishing him well.

HBMA Nominates Candidates

E. O. Melvin and Dr. Fred Sulzberger will vie for position No. 1 of the Hilltop Business Men's association, it was announced by a nominating committee at the regular monthly meeting of the association held Tuesday night at Schmelzer's restaurant.

Preparatory to the annual election of officers, the committee presented the following slates:

E. O. Melvin, nominee for president; Gene Hayes, first vice-president; Perry Davis, second vice-president; Dr. C. O. Cramer, Jack Shank and Fred Raether, directors.

Fred Sulzberger, nominee for president; John Riepenhof, first vice-president; Curt Roberts, second vice-president; Walter Stephens, Joe Briggs and Dr. W. M. Baker, directors.

C. H. Campbell and Curt Wilcox, candidates for secretary and treasurer respectively, will be unopposed.

The election will be held at the next regular meeting of the association, Dec. 12.

Plans concerning the annual West high football appreciation banquet, which will be held in connection with the December meeting, were also discussed. A committee on arrangements was named. This is composed of Herb Deems, chairman, Dr. J. H. Czatt, M. W. Seiller, W. H. Jones, and John Riepenhof.

Entertainment was furnished by Stanley Edgington and son, string musicians, and a quartet composed of Sam Russell, Elza Radcliffe, James G. Smith, and Bob Nichols, with Miss Elaine Radcliffe accompanying.

The meeting was in charge of the grocers of the association with Robert M. Fisher, general manager of the Creasy Co., past president of the Ohio Wholesale Food Distributors and president of the Exchange club, presenting the main address.

He spoke on the trends, methods, and developments of food marketing in the grocery business.

Prizes

It opens Dec. 1. It closes Dec. 11. It's great fun and $65 in cash will be awarded winners. It is the "Lost Merchandise" contest, sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association.

A committee composed of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Nafzger, Ray Hauntz, C. H. Penfield, Geo. Painter, M. W. Seiller, Charles Kent and C. C. Hartley is busily at work this week soliciting members from business and professional groups, service firms, beauty shops, barber shops, etc., who will display the articles of "lost merchandise."

Chairman Melvin asks that individuals representing the above groups cooperate fully in order to make the contest a success.

Contestants will identify articles of "lost merchandise" in the various business establishments on the Hilltop. An article is "lost" when it is displayed where it cannot be purchased.

For example a man's necktie may be displayed in a hardware store. Each article will be labeled with price and the place of business where it can ordinarily be purchased.

In addition to identifying all pieces of lost merchandise contestants will write a brief statement not to exceed 50 words in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?"

In case of ties the awards will be made on the basis of the best answers to this question.

First prize will be $30, second prize $10, and third prize $5. Official contest blanks will soon be available and may be obtained from any participating member.

Additional information concerning the contest may be obtained from any member of the above-named committee.

Hilltop Hunter Shot In Eye

Bishop Neal, age 26, of 372 S. Wheatland-av, is recovering from injuries received at about 2 o'clock last Wednesday while hunting near Worthington.

A Worthington hunter fired at a rabbit running toward Neal. One shotgun pellet pierced his eye lid, rolled around the eye ball and emerged from the corner.

Neal, who is an employee of the Wonder Bread Co., was under physicians care from Wednesday evening until Friday. He is recovering and it is thought that his sight will not be impaired.

Record To Be Issued Tuesday

So as to be of service to its readers during Thanksgiving week, the Record will reach the homes of the Hilltop and West Side on Tuesday morning of next week. The purpose of the early issuance is to bring advertisements to the readers to benefit in their pre-Thanksgiving day shopping.

All individuals and organizations are urged to cooperate with the Record by getting their news items in early.

All church notices must be in by 11 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 18. Other items of news content must be in by 9 a. m. Monday and the deadline on all want ads has been set for 11 a. m. Monday.

Franklinton To Celebrate 60th Year

Some 250 or 300 of them will be there tonight. Those who are still young will step lightly. Others with the burden of many years on their backs will move more slowly. But they will all be there for the same purpose. With fond remembrances in their hearts they will observe the sixtieth anniversary of the Franklinton school, corner Sandusky and W. Broad-st.

All old grads have been invited and a special program (including refreshments) has been arranged. Harry Fleming, 104 N. Warren-av, president of the Franklinton Alumni association and is in charge of tonight's arrangements.

Held annually, Franklinton homecomings are accredited with having the largest attendances of any Columbus school. Tonight's celebration will begin at 7:30.

Mrs. Louise Knipher, 596 Mohawk-st, will be the oldest alumnus present. She is 86 years old and attended school in the old two-room court house which stood on the site of the present school building.

Originally an old log school built by Lucas Sullivant stood on this ground, one of the most historic sites in the county.

Legion Will Aid Needy

Camp Chase post No. 98, American Legion, has completed plans for its eighth annual drive to aid needy Hilltop families on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23.

Hilltop residents have been asked to place their contributions of food, clothing and miscellaneous articles on their porches or in some other accessible place early Thanksgiving morning. The entire community down to Central-av, will be canvassed.

Pick-ups will be made by legionaires and Hilltop scouts who have been assigned specific sections of the community to "work," while various merchants have volunteered their trucks for use in making collections.

Approximately 100 workers will assemble at post headquarters Thanksgiving morning to get final instructions and assignments before going out to "work" their respective streets.

The ladies' auxiliary will serve luncheon and hot drinks at noon at the Sherburn market store room, which has been donated for use as a collection and distribution center.

Some houses were missed in the drive last year due to the large amount of territory to be covered, but legion members have announced emphatically that "they will be there for sure this time."

Earl A. Webb, 309 S. Ogden-av, is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements.

Knapp. Stuart F. Knepp.

The payments were made with money received from the collection of sales tax stamps by the students. Additional money collected from this source will be placed in a stadium bond fund pending further drawings.

West High Choir To Sing At Hillcrest

Members of the West High school choir will be guests of the Hillcrest Baptist church at the 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon services. They will present several musical selections under the direction of Professor Hutchinson.

Following this presentation will be the second of the series of model sermons being conducted at the 8 o'clock hour. This service will feature the building of a model home on the platform while the message is being delivered by the pastor.

The model, built by B. Ray Evans, 156 Guernsey-av, is made up of the following parts: foundation, walls, roof, chimney, vestabule, garage, driveway, lawn, shrubbery, flowers and furniture.

A symbolic meaning is attached to the various parts. For example, the flowers planted in the front yard suggest kindly speech.

West Alumni To Have Hard Times Party

The West High Alumni association will have a hard time party tonight at 8:30. The committee in charge of the membership drive asks that all reports be turned in in order to determine the winning team.

Plans are being made for an alumni basketball game to be held Dec. 15 at West High school and plans for a skating party to be held in February are also being made.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Have Gone In For Antiques In A Great Big Way

Antiques here—antiques there—antiques everywhere.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mitchell, 460 S. Burgess-av, started collecting antiques. Now they sleep in antique beds, eat from antique tables, sit in antique chairs and tell time by antique clocks.

With a house stuffed full of heirlooms, they still go on collecting. And for this there are various reasons. "We started to collect furniture for our own use," said Mrs. Mitchell, "then the bug got us, and now we're eating it up."

Furthermore the Mitchells look on their hobby as a kind of investment. Collectors have valued what they have at over $2,000 and as the years pass the value will increase.

"We've accumulated things so fast," Mrs. Mitchell continued, "that we haven't had time to classify. We have no record of the period, history, or worth of most of the things."

Overflowing the living rooms, many of the antiques are stored in the attic and basement. A collector's paradise, the attic is literally cluttered with early colonial clocks, marble topped bureaus with delicately carved drawer handles, genuine Jenny Lind beds, oil lamps, period desks, tables, and chairs—shades of the colonies and the pre-Civil war.

Exquisitely grained, the wood alone in many pieces is worth a substantial sum.

Cleaning, sanding, finishing, and polishing the pieces himself Mr. Mitchell has been able to recapture much of their original beauty. "But when he first brings some of the things in," said his wife, "I don't even feel like putting them in the garage."

Nearly every Saturday or Sunday finds Mr. Mitchell out "hunting"—persistently trailing down another old this or that. In his spare time he is a glazer at the Clark Grave Vault Co.

Benefit Party To Be Held At Deshler-Wallick

A benefit card party for the new convent of the St. Mary Magdalene church, Parkside-dr and Roys-av, will be held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel Monday evening at 8:30.

In charge of games is Mrs. Gene Raymond, who is assisted by the Mesdames Charles Cooke, George Pardi, Louis Kruczynski, Paul Linder, J. Gregor, Andre Gelpi and John Hickey.

Mrs. David Tarpy is in charge of euchre. The committee assisting her is composed of the Mesdames T. J. Murnane, Walter Bigler, John Ptacek, Hugh Dorr, Charles Minnox, Leo Graffbaugh and J. Graham.

Mrs. T. J. Murnane is also in charge of bridge and is assisted by the Mesdames F. Van Horn, Rowland Schwarz, W. Pegan, William Warren, Arthur Effman and Roy McGinty.

The entertainment committee consists of the Mesdames Joseph Rentler, Herman Schick, Cecilia Scoles and Dorothy Gloeckner.

In charge of candy are Mrs. Charles Storch, Mrs. Tom Sheehy and the Young Ladies' Sodality.

The case against Mrs. Emma Wise, 211 Wheatland-av, who was arrested on election day on a charge of placing political pamphlets on automobiles, was dismissed Wednesday night by Police Judge Ben I. Pfefferle.

Local Chorus To Attend Eisteddfod

At their regular Monday night rehearsal at Camp Chase Post headquarters, 3184 W. Broad-st, members of the Hilltop male chorus voted to go to Lima Feb. 22 (Washington's birthday) to compete for honors in the Northern Ohio Eisteddfod.

The eisteddfod had its origin in Wales during the twelfth century when bards, literati, poets, and instrumentalists assembled annually to display their talents. Large crowds of people attended and there was great show of enthusiasm.

The old Welch custom, revived in the nineteenth century, found fertile ground in this country where hundreds of local singing and instrumental groups compete with one another each year for district, state and national honors.

In past years the local chorus has won honors at eisteddfods held in Marion and Jackson. Last spring it sponsored an eisteddfod on the Hilltop.

Hilltop Churches Will Hold Union Service

A union Thanksgiving service of the Hilltop churche will be held Thanksgiving mo... Nov. 23, 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. in the Burgess Avenue United Brethren church.

Rev. George J. MacDonald, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist church, will preach the Thanksgiving message. The choir of the entertaining church will furnish special music for the occasion. Rev. Jacob Ashburn, vice-president of the Hilltop Ministerial association will preside during the service. An offering will be received at this service, which is sponsored by the Hilltop Ministerial association, for the work of the City Mission.

Biddle Named Master Of South Gate Lodge

Ralph D. Biddle, 683 S. Harris-av, was elected master of the South Gate Lodge of Masons last Friday night at South Gate temple.

BUSSES TO REPLACE CARS ON BROAD

Another improvement long desired by Hilltop residents and a major objective in the four point program of the Hilltop Business Men's association is about to be realized.

As per their agreement of Sept. 8 with city council, officials of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. announced late last week that trolley bus equipment for the W. Broad-st-Mt. Vernon line had been purchased.

The order which was witheld pending the approval of the new electric ordinance was placed on Nov. 8.

The coaches which will replace the more unwieldly street cars, can move freely from street center to curb thus eliminating traffic congestion to a large degree.

Work on the overstructures will begin Nov. 20 and the new service will be inaugurated about May 1. The line west will be extended beyond the present terminus at Hague-av, to Southampton-av, and W. Broad-st. Two lots have been purchased by the company at this intersection to provide turning space for the coaches.

According to statements of utility executives the improvement will be made at a cost of $700,000 and in addition to this will involve the elimination of equipment valued at $900,000.

The city will realize $6,000 on the improvement as the result of a stipulation that the utility pay two percent of its gross revenues from trolley coaches for the maintenance of streets.

Handicraft Articles To Be Shown At State Hospital

"They must have something to do with their hands in order to occupy their minds. Some of them are here for therapeutic reasons; others are here because they want something to do. We consider this phase of the hospital's work as one of its most important."

Thus spoke Dr. E. F. Clouse, acting superintendent, in regard to the handicraft work conducted at the Columbus State hospital.

On most any afternoon in one of the light, airy rooms of the hospital, one may find 30 or 40 men busily at work weaving rugs, making cane seats for chairs, carving wood, doing carpenter work, leather work, sawing, filing, some doing their tasks with much gusto, and others working quietly and contentedly at the most tedious of occupations.

In an adjacent room women are at work at similar tasks. Their work runs more to sewing, weaving, crocheting and embroidering. Hands responding to impulses from the most distorted minds turn out the loveliest hand-embroidered household linens, bed spreads, tea towels, pot holders, doll dresses, vanity and dresser scarfs.

For three weeks starting Monday, these handicraft articles will be displayed to the public. The bazaar will be held in the southernmost part of the main building, but visitors must first apply at the main office for directions.

To be offered for sale the articles include children's furniture, toys, handwoven baskets, bird houses, ash trays, knick-knacks, plaques, games, book ends, ivy holders, kitchen utensils, sewing boxes, corner shelves, colorful hooked and woven rugs, tie racks, leather work, handwoven and loomwoven table runners, bed spreads, household linens, tea towels, dolls, baby garments, etc. Practically all painted articles are colorfully decorated by hand.

The proceeds of the sales will be used to purchase more materials for the patients to work on and for the enlargement of the handicraft program. Hilltop residents are invited with particular cordiality to attend the displays.

Introducing

John Burroughs Principal Has Had Varied Career

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

As large and burly as a triple-threat man, you might mistake him for a professional football toter. Fact is he wanted to play football and join a fraternity, too, but both of these things received the official black ball of the paternal parent.

So now he's only a high school principal (a good one incidentally). In case you're interested, this is E. B. Graham of John Burroughs.

E. B. Graham

He was born in 1892 "in the gay nineties"—"I almost missed them, didn't I?"—in the "metropolis" of Conover, O. He attended elementary school at Terre Haute (O.) and Springfield, moved to Columbus, and attended the old North high school located on Fourth-av.

He graduated from Ohio State in 1917 and much later (1936) took his M. A. degree in education from the same institution.

His entrance into the teaching profession was temporarily cut short when he enlisted in the U. S. army in June, 1918. "I never saw service abroad," he said, "because the war were itself out while I was still on this side."

He recounted many interesting experiences he had while at an army training post somewhere in Michigan. "It pays to be wary of everybody in an army camp," he said, "otherwise you're likely to get yourself in a lot of grief."

He was among a group of rookies who were confronted with the question: "Do any of you fellows know anything about music?" Proudly, several volunteers offered their professional services. Came the cryptic retort: "All-right, go up and move the captain's piano."

After teaching a half year at Bowling Green, in 1919, Graham was elected superintendent of the rural elementary and high school system of Lake township, Wood county. He remained in this position until 1924. Then he came to Columbus, taught general science at Highland-av junior high, biology at North high school, and in 1935 was appointed principal of John Burroughs. At present he is serving his fifth year in this post.

But Graham has had many other vocations besides teaching school. He's been a time-keeper, a paper carrier, an armature winder's helper, and express truck driver, a railroader, a stenographer, a clerk, and ad infinitum.

"Although my life has been one of the common runs of life, nothing particularly exciting or spectacular," he said, "I've done practically everything but wash dishes—and if my wife sees this, she'll make me take that back."

Since he doesn't know "which hand you hold a golf club in," Graham bases his claim to sporting fame on a past membership to the Columbus Men Teachers' bowling league.

At the university he was a member of the Old School Masters' club (forerunner of the present Phi Delta Kappa fraternity). He holds membership in the Columbus Elementary Principals' association and the Columbus Teachers' federation.

Asked to state what, in his opinion, is the greatest present school need, he replied: "Good teachers, and that covers a lot of things."

Graham resides with his wife and daughter at 325 Crestview-rd.

Haven't you often wondered what people from the past—say the Pilgrims, for instance—would say about our modern civilization? How they would marvel at our skyscrapers—electricity—radios and modern homes. Yet, with all the changes of environment and convenience, the simple, basic elements of life are still the ones for which we should be most thankful. The Pilgrims were reverently grateful for these things—we should be too, that modern conditions make it so easy for us to own our own home.

Preachers Aplenty

Gracebelle's mother, Mrs. Robert M. Day, thought it strange that Gracebelle and Jerry should go to a strange minister in a strange state to be married, particularly, she said, "when there were ministers aplenty on both sides of the family."

Gracebelle, who has danced her way to fame in this country and abroad, feels that she is not giving up her career," since marriage in itself is a career."

To The Wedding

George Gusler sr. must have his fun and so when his son invited him to come to Pittsburgh last week-end when the latter was to be married he also asked that dad bring along his shotgun so that George jr. might take advantage of the opening of the hunting season this week.

So along to the wedding, right into the house of the bride's parents, whom George had never met before, marched pop armed with shotgun.

To make the shotgun wedding seem more complete the father of the bride marched upstairs and unannounced came down with his rifle in hand, the two to accompany bride and groom to the altar.

Oosiboots

Let it not be said that boys of the Camp Chase post have not a warm spot in their hearts for the "down-and-outers," but even they agree that charity can sometimes be taken too far. Recently a bedraggled traveler came to the door of their quarters asking for food. Taking the role of the good Samaritan they took him into the kitchen and stacked his plate high with food. Came time to depart and their visitor thanked them profusely for their generosity. The way to the front entrance leads past the cloak room in which were several of the members coats and hats. Being unescorted the traveler picked out the choice of the lot and departed for parts unknown.

"Staticless" Radio Is Displayed At Local Shop

The first central Ohio showing of a "staticless" radio will start this morning at the Hill Appliance shop, 2455 Sullivant-av, according to A. H. Hill, owner of the shop.

Manufactured and distributed by Stromberg-Carlson, the staticless radio is the newest development in radio reception, J. A. Mendenhall, manager of Appliances, Inc., 161 N. Fourth-st, Columbus distributors for S. C. radios, will be at the store today and tomorrow to help explain the workings of the unit.

A. H. Hill

The new radio, which eliminates all noises such as those due to lightning, power lines, neon signs, loose light bulbs, in fact all man-made and weather static, is made possible by basic patents perfected by Maj. Armstrong, whose superheterodyne patent is the basis of practically every present radio set.

The new Stromberg-Carlson sets, which operate on the "frequency modulation" principle, are adaptable to receive only the new system of broadcasting. Several stations are now broadcasting the new frequency modulation wave, others are changing their equipment now and several dozen have already applied for licenses, Mr. Hill said.

Chief characteristic of the staticless set is the naturalness of voice and musical tones. Coupled with the eradication of disturbing noises, the new set promises to revolutionize radio reception according to distributors of the set.

Refrigerator Savings Possible

In winter the stove is the center of food preparation in the kitchen. In summer the refrigerator plays an even more important role. Dependable and efficient, it is always ready to serve us with delectable salads, frozen sweets, and iced drinks. Since we know that food-spoiling bacteria flourish on heat, moisture, and dirt, we need to make sure that a consistently low temperature and consistently high standards of cleanliness are maintained.

To get the best results from the household refrigerator it is well to decide in advance which foods are to go in and which ones to be taken out instead of pondering the question while the door is open. Every time that happens the temperature goes up and the longer the door stays open the higher up it goes. Another wise precaution is to make sure that cooked foods are well cooled before putting them into the food chest; otherwise the heat and moisture generated will also cause the temperature to rise.

Perishable food always should be placed in the refrigerator as soon as possible. Raw fruits and vegetables are best washed first under running water and the outdamp cloth. Left-overs should be cooled, if necessary, and placed in spotless, tightly-covered containers to keep odors from escaping and uncongenial flavors from mixing. Foods with strong odors such as cheese, if put into the refrigerator, should be kept on a top shelf.

No housewife worthy of the name ever neglects to give the refrigerator a thorough weekly cleaning which consists of removing the entire contents and mopping the inner surface with a cloth wrung out of tepid water and thick soapsuds. If spills should occur in the meantime, they are mopped up immediately. Ice box drains will seldom become clogged and odorous if flushed weekly with a reliable drain cleaner and good hot suds.

HOGE MEMORIAL WILL COLLECT FOR NEEDY

Pastry Stacks Offer Means To Devising New Dessert

There are many ways to make pies, but one of the newest goes by the name of pastry stacks.

Just cut your pastry into rounds after rolling it out. Bake the rounds and then stack three together with a cream filling between them. Top with whipped cream. There you have something brand new in the pastry world!

All the different cream fillings may be used for this unusual dessert—pineapple cream, just plain cream, chocolate, butterscotch, and many others.

Butterscotch Pastry Stacks

1 recipe pastry
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
1½ c. brown sugar
¾ c. boiling water
3 egg yolks
1½ c. milk
6 tbsp. flour
3-8 tsp. salt

Roll pastry to about one-eighth inch thickness and cut into rounds with a cookie cutter. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 10 minutes.

Cool and in the meantime melt butter, add sugar, allowing to brown, then gradually add water. Beat egg yolks, add small amount of the milk and flour, stirring until smooth. Add remainder of milk and salt. Pour this slowly into sugar mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Cool. Place a spoonful on top of each pastry round. Stack in threes and top with whipped cream.

"Exclusive Rights" Used To Lure Gadget Sales

Improving business conditions always bring out men seeking new business connections—people with limited capital, willing to make small investments.

Because such men are, in most cases, beyond the age of ready employment or for some similar reason, they fall easy prey to the "territorial rights" scheme, according to the Better Business Bureau.

Promoters with high-pressure sales-manship misrepresent the selling ability of gadgets they offer, convince the "sucker," then bait him with their trump offer of exclusive selling rights in a certain district, provided his initial offer is large enough.

The victim, in most cases, falls hard for the line and, without investigating to determine whether the article will sell, signs a contract which binds him to buy a certain number of the articles and which, in return, promises him nothing.

One favorite trick of the promoters is to sell "exclusive sales rights" to the same territory to several victims. It is done by the simple process of changing the name of the gadget. Thus the victims will be trying to sell exactly the same article in the same territory, but under different names.

An example of this racket was reported recently to a Better Business Bureau in a midwestern city. The victim told the Bureau he had been offered exclusive rights to sell a device for auto headlights which prevented the blinding of oncoming drivers without dimming or dipping the light beams.

The device was a blue screening which gave off a dim light—unsaleable, it was pointed out, because traffic regulations forbid private vehicles having lights other than white.

25 Year Teacher

Added to the list of teachers who had served West High school for 25 years or more is Arnet B. Cole, who came to West in 1913. Others in the 25 year club include former principal Otto H. Magly, Clara E. Earnest, C. Lee Leahy, Margaret M. Flynn and Kathryn Hurst.

Sausage Weather Returns--- Serve Them Often

It is high time to get out your winter coat—high time, too, to serve that cold-weather favorite, sausage, for no doubt your family is waiting for its appearance.

And, once you get started, surely sausage will frequently appear on your menus, because it offers unending variety.

When it is a hearty breakfast you are planning, sausage with griddle cakes, waffles or French toast, or sausage with shirred eggs or fried apples provide a large selection.

Football Lunch

For luncheon just before the football game, sausage and baked squash will fortify you and your guests against the rigors of chill air and excitement.

To prepare this tempting dish, cut four individual acorn squash in half and remove seeds. Place in pan for baking and center each with two links of pork sausage. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) and bake 45 to 50 minutes. This serves four generously.

Sausage balls in cream gravy make a delightful dinner entree:

Sausage Balls in Cream Gravy

1 lb. bulk sausage meat
1 lb. ground lean fresh pork shoulder.
½ tsp. salt
½ c. uncooked rice
1 c. water
3 tbsp. flour
2 c. milk
⅛ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. salt

Mix first four ingredients and form into balls. Brown about 10 minutes, then add water and simmer one and one-fourth hours or until all water is absorbed. Remove balls and add flour, blending into drippings. Add milk and stir until thickened. Add seasonings and serve with balls.

Looking Toward Thanksgiving

WITH Thanksgiving but a few days ahead it might be well to give some thought in advance to the significance of it all. It may be that in hundreds of thousands of homes bewildered Americans are making plans for the dear familiar feast of Thanksgiving asking themselves; Why? Why Thanksgiving? As human beings we would be callous to give thanks merely because we have been spared Europe's sufferings. That would not be Thanksgiving—but smugness and complacency.

Should we give thanks then because our November skies are happily empty? Because our children play tag and football instead of digging air raid shelters? Because our men folk are safe with us on this day of days, secure at their own firesides? Because we have plenty on our tables?

Perhaps. All these things cannot fail to make us thankful. But the spirit of Thanksgiving, the consecration of the holiday itself, is also, and perhaps primarily one of obligation. Thanksgiving calls upon us to share. It teaches us on this day no one should go hungry. There are many things we cannot share at this moment with our fellow human beings across the ocean. We cannot share our abundance of our security, our peaceful churches, or our serene or happy homes. These are, unfortunately beyond our power to give.

But we here in America must realize that, perhaps alone of all the people of the earth we have something at this moment which an unhappy world will be desperately in need of sharing in the years to come when the guns are silent. And in giving thanks for these spiritual values which we posess we must resolve anew to treasure and cherish them against that time.

We love peace. We love democracy. We believe the little man has a right to speak and be heard. Our sense of justice is as yet, and for ever, we hope, unclouded by passions. As a people we are generous. We hate the sight of suffering. We are strangely imbued with the belief that every man deserves well at the hands of every other man—a belief which seems to be sadly out of date in much of the world.

We know there is much of injustice in the old world, a great deal of which stems back through confused years to harsh treaties, in themselves seed beds of hate. We know now to our sorrow that these hatreds cannot be resolved save through the sword. Yet we like to feel that it could have been otherwise and we dare to hope that it can be otherwise again.

But we must do more than hope. The time will come again when the calm counsels of America will be desperately needed to bring not only a just peace but a merciful peace so that the world may again and for all time turn its back on war.

And so at this time as Thanksgiving time nears, it is not enough that we will give thanks to the benevolent Providence that has spared us. In our hearts we pray that we may be permitted to hold fast to all those fruits of civilized endeavor; peace, democracy, justice for all men and all nations. These things blossomed once in the western world. They will flower again, but only if we cherish the seeds, ready to cast them when the time comes, on scarred and hungry soil.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor,
The Hilltop Record,
City.
My Dear Sir:

Now that the arms embargo has been officially lifted, we feel that a word of timely warning is in order.

By the lifting of this embargo we as a nation have definitely taken sides in this war of nerves, and unless we has misinterpreted the word neutral, as it is understood today, we are still as neutral as any of the so-called neutral nations.

We are living in a day and age of misrepresentations, and of many contradictory ideals, and it behooves us as a nation to sift every bit of news that comes out of this mass of lies and hatreds.

No one in this nation knows better than the veterans who have fought America's foreign wars the extent to which the nations at war will go in order to win the good will and support of the so-called neutral nations of the world.

We as a nation must be prepared for some type of retaliation on the part of the opposing powers, and it is only reasonable to assume that when the Allies attempt to ship war supplies out of American waters some of these ships will be sunk at our very door.

And to our mind this is the thing we as a nation must guard against most. We must close our eyes to many incidents that will arise in the future.

I do not mean by this that we must permit any foreign power to break the so-called international laws, but we must guard against being high-pressured into taking any hasty action on these matters.

It now becomes the duty of every American citizen to function as a committee of one, to guard the interests of America, and to assist the law enforcement officers in apprehending any and all who attempt to draw us into war, by words or actions, designed to bring about such a condition.

We have in the confines of this country men and women of every nationality, religion, color and creed, and herein lies the danger as many of these foreign born people have the interests of their native land more at heart than that of America's interests.

We, the veterans, feel that it is high time that a strict censorship be enforced in our newspapers, on our radio programs, on the various radical groups, and that they be sternly dealt with.

We as a nation have by our actions gone on record favoring the cause of the democracies of the world, and do believe that we should support them morally and financially.

But we have no desire to send our youths to be slaughtered on the battlefields of any foreign nation, as we did in the late war.

The only way this can be avoided is by a constant vigilance on the part of each and every one of us, from the president down to the youngest of our citizens.

We must guard against campaigns of hatred, deliberately designed to draw us into war, and must guard our every utterance and action.

Respectfully and sincerely,
R. M. Hartman,
Neutrality Chairman.

Nazi Propaganda Come To Hilltop

Harold D. Cramer, 570 Wiltshire-rd, was one of several local residents who received a letter last week, presumably from Germany, in which was enclosed a pamphlet accusing the British of selling poison gas to Poland to be used against German soldiers in the Polish campaign.

Never as subtle as the British, German propaganda has always been intended to shock. It was the intent of this particular piece to expose the "perfidy" and "hypocrisy" of the British leaders who "now stand unmasked before the world as suppliers of the most terrible and most reprehensible means of warfare which they pretend to abhor."

According to the pamphlet German engineers and soldiers were suffering excruciating pains as the result of explosions of mustard gas bombs which had been planted by the retreating Poles.

The document does not ask the reader to take the pamphleteer's word for it but quotes verbatim the reports of several neutral observers, including American newspaper correspondents, as verification.

The West Has No Monopoly On Empty Stables, Reporter Finds

What is worse than a horse without a home—unless it's a home without a horse? The thing we're trying to say is that the fine stables out on Fisher-rd, just beyond McKinley-av, which were built by the city back in 1932 to house city work teams, are empty and have been empty ever since shortly after the structure was completed.

Any horse would be proud to call the place home, but soon after it was built the city sold the horses. So since that time no animal has disturbed the sanctity of those spacious quarters except an occasional stray chicken or pig belonging to the ground keeper.

It is said, however, that the faint neighing of horses can still be heard there on silent, moonless nights.

You may have gazed at the huge, modernistic structure, on the same premises and wondered what it was. It's the city's incinerator for the burning of garbage and rubbish.

Idle for eight or nine months during the year, its tall stack fairly belches smoke during the other three or four. According to city officials, the plant was built to relieve the more centrally located incinerator on Short-st.

This plant operates at capacity during the fall, winter and spring seasons but cannot possibly carry the additional load of the summer, when the Fisher-rd plant is brought into play.

Built during the Worley administration by the city in conjunction with WPA labor, the west side plant is located on abandoned stone quarry grounds owned by the city. During the summer months it consumes rubbish garbage, and "anything burnable" from the entire west side of town.

It is hoped that the time will come when with the further expansion of this section of the city, demands will become so heavy as to require the full-time use of the plant.

Christmas Seals Go On Sale Dec. 1

The thirty-third annual sale of Christmas seals opens Dec. 1, and continues until Christmas day. The noble fight against the tubercle bacillus has resulted in bringing the once wide-spread disease down to a controllable minimum.

Dr. Charles A. Doan, president of the Ohio Public Health association, has made this statement on the eve of what is hoped to be one of the largest Christmas seal campaigns of recent years:

"I am sure that the people of Ohio are more interested today than ever before in the hope of a complete conquest of tuberculosis. To that end they will increase their generous support of tuberculosis work by the purchase of the colorful Christmas seals for use on their Christmas mail and packages."

This year's seal was designed by Rockwell Kent and portrays a realistic symbol of an angel with outstretched arms against a brilliant blue background. A large double-barred cross, international badge of the fight against tuberculosis, is prominently displayed. The seal may be interpreted as a benediction upon the fight which has been carried on so successfully against tuberculosis during the past 33 years.

Talk About Advertising

to Tony and he'll say, "I no advertise!" But, of course, you know that he's doing just that, perhaps in another way. He does it when he puts up that sign . . . when he paints his cart a bright red and blue so that it can be easily identified, so that it looks gay . . . when he stops at a busy corner, because Tony knows that he can sell more apples when more people see his apples . . . when he shouts "Apples!" as he pushes his cart along.

Tony Has Learned

the first principle of successful selling: bring your wares before the eyes of great numbers of people and you can sell profitably! But not everyone on the Hilltop is a Tony, and few businessmen specialize in apples. Moreover, Tony is satisfied with the number of apples he sells. A progressive merchant would never stop there. Tony is advertising—yes, but in a feeble, limited sort of way. If you are not like Tony—if you are not satisfied with the number of "apples" you are selling, and you want to sell more—you'll advertise in a Newspaper that has a loyal local following, one that is read by thousands of people who are able to buy your "apples."

Bucks Close Campaign With 8 Wins, 1 Loss

Lose City Title Contest To Polar Bears For Only Setback

The bid of the West High school grid machine for an undefeated campaign along with the City league title suffered a severe relapse last Friday as the Polar Bears from North High, playing on their home field, walloped the Cowboys 21-0 to retain the circuit championship and shatter the dream of the locals for an undefeated season. It was the final game for both elevens.

The defeat for the Battling Buckaroos was their first of the year. In previous games the locals had beaten Newark, Springfield, South, Academy, Central, Aquinas, Zanesville, and East, but the final obstacle in the path proved to be unsurmountable for the Bucks.

Bucks Outplayed

West was outplayed by North in every department. However, the deciding factor in the contest was the ability of the Northmen to penetrate the pass defense of the home forces. North completed seven of 11 passes attempted and three of these completions were good for scores. In each instance Baldwin booted the extra points to set the losers in a deeper hole.

Another important item in the initial setback for the Bucks was the line play for the winners. For the first time this season the West line was outcharged and consequently outplayed. The line play was so completely dominated by the Northmen that West's offensive thrusts were held to a measly 75 yards gained by rushing tactics, and 36 of these were made by Al Williams.

Spread Play Scores

North tallied in the first, second and fourth periods. Two of the scores might easily have gone otherwise. The initial score was a beautiful play, a spread formation which completely fooled the Bucks. But the second score was made when Williams slipped on the wet turf in attempting to bat down a pass and the third came about as a result of a West man blocking a pass which fell into the hands of an opponent. Those 21 points exaggerated in a minor way the difference between the two ball clubs.

The Northmen played the best ball exhibited by any club in the city this year to take the decision, however, and no credit should be taken from them. North played better ball than West Friday and consequently took the decision. Several local players were outstanding even in defeat. Williams, Ned Bell and Bill Mack, although not completing their ca-reers in a blaze of glory, turned in creditable performances in the backfield. On the line Little Les Westerman, Bill Hart, Bill Garnes, Jack McConnell, Jack Carpenter and Russ Alban finished their high school careers with individual performances way above par. Les Brandenberger will be the only returning first-stringer next season when the first call for grid candidates is made.

And so for many of the players it's on to basketball. For others it's a much deserved rest while McConnell will probably turn his extra-time periods into wrestling practice. In the hearts of each of the players will be the thought that they played hard, clean football under the tutelage of Coaches Williams and Collins and for a seasonal record the Cowboys suffered only one setback in a nine-game schedule. Surely this Buck grid team should go down with the greatest that have been turned out at West High school.

West High Court Sked Announced

First call for basketball candidates at West High school was issued this week by Coach George Williams with the initial practice being held Monday evening in the gymnasium. Three weeks remain before the Cowboys open their court sked with Hamilton the night of Dec. 1, away from home.

Among the candidates that answered the call were several veterans of the cage squad which represented the school last winter. Principal returning candidates include "Duck" Ucker and Paul Rogers, forwards; Carter and Ned Bell, guards, and Bill Mack and Frank Blackstone. Bud Maxwell, Don Rogers and several other reserves from last season are expected to make determined bids for first team berths.

In all probability Carter will not be eligible after the second semester gets under way, it was learned this week. The principal worry of Coach Williams seems to be at the center post where lanky Ray Stinson played last season. Bill Hart, recovering from a football injury along with Jack Engh, will join the squad in later drills.

The present 14-game schedule will be added to if possible, Coach Williams said. Ten of the present games will be City league frays. Arrangements are being made for a game with the Alumni, the date being set tentatively for Dec. 16. Coach George Collins will again take charge of the reserve squad.

The schedule:

Dec. 1—At Hamilton.
Dec. 8—At Lancaster.
Dec. 15—Alumni (tentative).
Dec. 19—At Springfield.
Jan. 5—At South.
Jan. 12—Aquinas.

The Polar Bears might have the better football team this year and even the better band, but West does have the best football field in the City league and possibly in the entire city.

For the entire season the Cowboys have been scored on only five times. In each instance the score was made on a pass. Not once this season did an opposing team buck through the Buckaroo line for a score.

Bill Hart, genial left-end for the locals, played a bang-up game from his flank position even though his one leg was bandaged from the knee down. Hart is certain to receive City all-high mention along with Les Westerman, Russ Alban, Bill Garnes, Jack Carpenter, Ned "Ding" Bell, and Al Williams, the speedy Negro back.

For Coach George Williams it was just a repetition of the many heart-breakers that he has experienced in his career as an athletic coach. While at West Jr. the popular mentor lost a trio of baseball titles and two basketball championships in the final games of the season. This was true in Friday's game, too, for the Bucks lost the City league championship as well as their bid for an undefeated campaign.

In the final standings of the City league teams West took runner-up honors in the point total and third in offensive and defensive play. Bell led the Bucks in league scoring with 18 points. Cliff Lerum, sub-end, was on the scoring list with seven markers, the result of four extra-point conversions and a field goal which beat Central 3-0.

We hate to mention it so early but of the 27 men listed in the Homecoming edition of the football issues 16 were seniors and the other eight were juniors. Those back next year include Brandenberger (only first stringer), Medlick, Hobbs and Ray Smith among others.

Selected on the All-Judge Harold E. Kime league bantam teams were several local boys. Two on the first team were Robert Arnold of Glenwood and Bill Jackson of Westgate Park. Seven Hilltoppers made the second team, including Bill Leibensperger, Charles Snyder, Bill Jenkins and James Ogden, all of Westgate Park; James Wiler, Holton Park; and Tom Murnane and Paul O'Donnell, Glenwood Park.

With the completion of the pigskin sport season at West, it's on to basketball, in which Coach Williams, beginning his second court season, announced a 14-game schedule this week. Possibilities for a crack basketball outfit are looked on as favorable with the return of several veterans. Paul Rogers, recovered from his grid injury, will be ready to go. Ray Stinson, lanky center, is one of the ace performers whose playing will be missed the most.

Fitting Candles—A candle may be made to fit any candlestick if dipped for a moment into very hot water. This will soften the wax and it can then be easily pushed in.

Six West Gridders On Record All-Hi Teams

Continuing a policy begun last spring when the Hilltop Record selected an All-High baseball team, herewith is presented the paper's All-High 1939 football team.

No partiality was shown any player in the selection of the two teams. All games in which they participated within the City league were taken into consideration. We were present on eight of the nine occasions when the West eleven took the field. Eight times they were victorious to finish the season with the best seasonal record of any squad in the league. The local team met one stumbling block in North, the champion.

The Polar Bears took the title with four wins and a tie, one point ahead of West. For the season North tied two, lost one in nine games. But the individual performances of the players in that crucial contest between North and West were only the performances given in one contest. Naturally they counted in the selections but they counted only one-fifth in the final analysis because each team played five league games.

Three fullbacks appear on the initial team. Those three plungers deserved the posts. Balwdin was perhaps the best of the trio as a ground gainer but for all-around play, including running, punting and passing, "Lefty" O'Connor and "Ding" Bell, both veterans, were equal to the North flash.

On the first eleven West places four representatives, North three, Central three and East one. North captured three posts on the second mythical team while West, East and South placed two and Aquinas and Central each one. North, West and Central were unquestionably the three best teams in the circuit. East was a close fourth in power although the team was hampered on many occasions by injuries.

Thus, with the season at a close, we announce our 1939 All-High selections.

Political Slants

By Ellie Mule

It is not unlikely that the American people, in their justifiable resentment at the unseemly scramble of the special session of congress to adjourn after passing the neutrality legislation, may come to refer to it as the "hit-and-run congress."

For if, as the president proclaimed, we are facing a national emergency, the conclusion is inescapable that congress was so indifferent to its plain duty as to refuse to stay and meet it.

From the standpoint of national safety, the people rightly believe that a congress in session is a better safeguard of peace than any automatic legislation. And certainly if the complicated restrictions set up are to be workable, they would seem to require the continual and detailed attention of congress.

But the failure of congress to measure up to its responsibilities cuts deeper than this. The domestic issues from which it ran away are no less pressing than the problems presented by the European war.

We still have nearly 9,000,000 unemployed; our farmers are still in distress; business and industry are still afflicted with uncertainty, as indicated by lagging securities markets, despite the shot in the arm the war has given production; labor is divided against itself and restive, and the American people are staggering under a paralyzing burden of taxation.

Yet congress turns tail and runs. To meet when? In 1940 a national election year, when every effort will be made to adjourn again as soon as possible and when political considerations may be expected to exert a far-reaching influence on legislation.

Had the second session of the seventy-sixth congress stayed and done nothing else save to amend the one-sided Labor Relations act to give both employer and labor a fair break, it would have more than justified itself.

But the hopes of the American people were crushed under the steam roller of the New Deal majority. The nation was left with a new and untried neutrality law under which crisis after crisis may be expected to arise that will need for their solution all the combined wisdom of the American people. But the voice of the people as heard through their elected representatives has been stilled until next January.

In less than three hours after the polls had closed, Secretary Griffith was on the radio with the definite statement that all state initiative and referendum proposals had been defeated by overwhelming majorities. There were 510 proposed tax levies, approximately $25,000,000 in bond issues, 76 local option and 82 sale of beer proposals on the local ballots throughout the state.

HBMA Favors Tax League Program

Joining in a county-wide demand for court house economies to assure support for Franklin county charities next year, the Hilltop Business Men's association this week called upon its members to attend a public rally sponsored by the Citizens Tax league of Ohio, Tuesday night, at Central high school auditorium.

The meeting, set for 8 p. m., was called by the non-partisan league to assemble business and civic groups who have backed up the league's economy program for county offices.

The first step in this program was taken last month when league members asked county officials to adopt a centralized purchasing agency and to equalize salaries of court house employes.

Further steps toward savings by county departments will be discussed at next Tuesday's meeting, League officials disclosed.

Charles L. Kent, president of the Hilltop Business Men's association, today made public resolutions by the group endorsing the league's salary and purchasing recommendations, and asking all members to turn out for the meeting.

The league, which recently instituted a probe of Franklin county relief, resulting last week in the indictment of the former relief administrator, estimates that the county would save $150,000 on the two economy measures alone.

S. P. Bush, president of the league and former industrial executive of Columbus, explained that the saving made through the League's economy plan would, if adopted, offset additional expenses which will have to be met at the new Franklin county tuberculosis sanatorium.

Groups which supported the defeated one-mill levy to operate the hospital rallied to the league's program this week.

FISHING and HUNTING

by J. W. MUNSELL

HUNTING LICENSES BY QUALIFICATION

As this article is being written, three deaths and over thirty accidents have been reported for the first four days of the hunting season. Which means if this average is sustained until the season closes, Ohio sportsmen will have established a record—but not one to be proud of. It all points to a ruling I have long recommended, that no person be issued a hunting license until he or she is fully qualified to use a gun. This certainly would not work a hardship on anyone, but rather it would benefit every one. Personally, I would prefer to ride in an auto driven by a person who was totally unfamiliar with a car, than I would to go hunting with someone who had never shot the gun he expected to shoot game with. In the car, I could kill the ignition and apply the brakes, but I couldn't in any manner, way or shape have any control over a gun the other fellow was using. More accidents in hunting occur through unfamiliarity with guns than occur through carelessness. The man who does not think guns are dangerous is always a dangerous man with a gun.

PLENTY OF GAME

What surprised most of us is the fact that although most of the pheasants are released in the northern counties where foxes are not protected, reports from some of the "fox" counties in the southern part of the state show the bird population there has materially increased in the last few years. This increase has to a large extent been due to natural propagation, and to the fact that this territory has not been heavily hunted for birds for several years. I happened to be one of those who wanted to get out with a gun, and didn't care about joining the army going north, so trekked southward with a few friends, and am glad I did. Getting unexpected game is always more of a pleasure than bringing home what you fully expect to get. The farms down that way were not overrun with hunters, and the farmers seemed rather glad to allow us to hunt, and to cap the climax, Zeke wouldn't let me come home until we had done some fishing, and I'll always lay aside a gun to start out with a fishing rod.

WHOM SHOULD WE BLAME?

With the program started a few years ago, Ohio's bird and rabbit populations have shown a steady increase, but unless the state conservation department soon gets busy and starts another program whereby it can make the hunters shoulder some of the responsibility, it will continue to have the sportsmen and papers complain about the scarcity of game. We have to agree that Ohio is probably the most backward state in the union in both game and fish propagation, but sound reasoning can bring only one logical conclusion, and that is that the sportsmen of Ohio are responsible for the condition, and not the conservation department officials.

The sportsmen are one hundred percent guilty in allowing the department to be used as a political football, and also one hundred percent guilty in allowing their organization to be dominated by politicians. To establish a program which of necessity will make the sportsmen cooperate with the department is the one solution which will tend to place the blame where it rightfully belongs, and also decrease some of the present antagonism directed toward the department officials.

A SUGGESTED PLAN

Other states, with successful conservation programs, have systems whereby hunters and anglers report, on cards attached to the licenses, their season's kills and catches. In Pennsylvania, hunters are subject to fines unless full reports covering all game kills are mailed in. In New Jersey, although not subject to fines, over 90 per cent of all anglers report their trout catches. Such a system would be advantageous to Ohio for three reasons. First—it would provide a balance sheet showing the difference in numbers between game and fish stocked and game and fish killed or caught. Second—if the difference in numbers stocked each succeeding year was a little larger in each class the sportsmen wouldn't kick. And third — the fact that the hunters and anglers were reporting direct to the conservation department would generate a friendlier feeling between the conservation department officials and the individual sportsmen.

BASS AND BLUEGILLS

Instead of spending so much unnecessary money for experimental work, which absolutely amounts to nothing in most cases, if some of this money could be used in raising and stocking a few fish known to be adaptable to Ohio waters, the fishing license revenue could be increased to cover the required expense of increasing the yearly fish stocking. The revenue from fishing licenses decreased this year and will drop lower next year. Sending thousands of anglers and dollars to nearby states. This condition will exist until Ohio conservation and politics are divorced, and I have never seen, read or heard anything which convinces me this is liable to happen in the near future. In the meantime, about the only way the department can keep in the good graces of the anglers is to stop experimenting with trout and other foreign fish, and stick to raising and stocking just the two kinds of fish the majority of anglers want—bluegills and bass. A state can build up a reputation with these two game fish. We can wait a few years for the walleyes, and we don't want to become known as "Ohio the catfish state."

He'd "bet his shirt" on anything. Prince of bankrupts loses his final wager at the end of a spectacular career of winning and squandering one fortune after another, and in which his biggest gamble was for a woman's heart. One of many interesting articles in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald American.

The Haha Bay

Haha bay is in the Saguenay river. The "HaHa" was what some French explorers got when they discovered the bay and thought at first it was the northwest passage to China.

THE TURKEY

Many words of wisdom the people relate
About Thanksgiving and the change of date
With learning and knowledge their ideas define
But in honor of the turkey I'll write you a line.

I will write to you of a turkey I knew
Who for his country would do his part.
He wasn't skeered of a knife so he gave up his life
And he died with a cheerful heart.

He didn't get surly when they said he'd go early
No ancestor would he outlive.
If they'd have said it's be late for him or his mate
The lateness he would forgive.

He made one request before he went west
Don't let the young unprotected roam.
See that their nest is always the best
And show them the way to go home.

He made this request before he went west
So on next Thanksgiving our friends we can greet
We can eat and discuss without any fuss
Cos we'll have lots of turkey to eat.

We should take off our hat to loyalty like that
And many hours we all should devote.
To brag and brag the why he honors the flag
Such loyalty in birds is remote.

C. S. Parks

Music Like This Hath More Charm

Salt Lake City, Utah, . . . "This is the place," cited Brigham Young. And so far, on a journey seeking rest and recreation . . . this is the place.

All the world has heard of the marvelous structure known as the Mormon Temple and today, Nov. 9, has been spent in seeing and hearing of the wonders and workings of this community that has grown up around a religious belief.

Highlight of a day's exploring was a never to be forgotten 15 minute organ concert in the giant Mormon tabernacle where even the drop of a tiny pin can be heard at the extreme end of the 250 foot structure whose dome, made all of wood, is supported on 44 stone buttresses and whose 10 foot thickness of roof rises up 70 feet above the floor.

Included in the concert on what is claimed to be the world's largest organ were "Chorus of Angels" by Clark, "Liebestraume" by Liszt and the "Grand March from the Meistersingers" by Wagner.

These concerts are daily features at the tabernacle and are open to the public at no charge. This in itself is worth a trip to Salt Lake City.

If music hath charms herein is certainly the superlative.

No Argument In Salt Lake City

A personally conducted tour of the temple grounds by Bro. J. S. Peery and later contacts with the populace bring one to believe that Salt Lake people have no arguments.

He tells the story of the man who, passing down the street, stopped another man and asked, "Do you believe?", whereupon the reply was "I do," and the first man in turn nodded assent and said, "I'm glad you believe," and walked on. No argument here.

And again: Our sight seeing tour conductor, on approaching the fine Utah state capitol building, said, "The one in Washington is number one, and your's, regardless of your state, is number two, and our's is the next finest in the land." No argument here.

An interesting character, this tour conductor with his slightly southern accent mixed with a speech impediment and an Irish brogue all in one. All afternoon he kept referring to things as the "lorge" this and the "lorge" that, until a Swedish woman companion from Minneapolis ups and ats him with, "I know you people are highly religious out here but why do you always refer to everything as that of the Lord?"

Gleanings From The Salt Lake

Most interesting sight in an already beautiful city were bright red roses blooming in the middle of November . . . Salt Lake City was once the capital of what was called the State of Deseret and today many institutions have the name Deseret affixed . . . City papers are sold at 5c per copy but if you choose you may have your news by standing in front of the newspaper plants and reading the bulletins that are posted as they come in over the wires . . . Peculiarity: The statue of Brigham Young, first president of the church, stands in the public square with his left hand outstretched toward one of the city's biggest banks and his back on the temple . . . Hand a clerk a five or ten spot and it's sure shooting you'll get back a pocket full of silver dollars in change and if your sales tax comes out uneven you'll be paid off in tax tokens of one or five mills.

Best story about the Mormons and their wives was explained by our guide who pointed to one of the large new hostelries.

Back when the federal government decreed that no longer would polygamy be tolerated and that each man must confine his attentions to one wife only the wise men of Washington decided that a large institution would be necessary for the housing of all the many wives who would now be forced to seek shelter elsewhere since Uncle Sam had said that only the first wife would be considered legal.

The government found its fine new building in want, however, when only one woman applied for entrance. She was a widow. All the others refused to give up their men, regardless of what number they took in the marriage sequence.

Hasson To Be Installed

Claude V. Hasson, 121 S. Wheatland-av, will be installed this evening in the office of Chef de Gare, Am-le Voiture No. 15 of the "40 and 8." The "40 and 8" is the "fun" organization of the American Legion and the Chef de Gare is the presiding officer of the county Voiture.

The installing officer will be Ralph A. Westerfield, Grand Chef de Gare of the state. The ceremony will take place at the Franklin Post club rooms, 98 N. High-st.

Hasson has lived on the Hilltop since 1929, is married, and has two children. He is court bailiff of common pleas court for Judge Cecil B. Randall. The first commander of Camp Chase Post No. 98, after its organization in March, 1929, he was re-elected to that office in October and hence served for 20 consecutive months.

In 1931 he was elected Sixth District membership officer for the Legion and at present is a member of the executive committee and personnal officer of the Camp Chase Post.

Wilbur C. Smart, 592 Wiltshire-rd, will be installed as Commis Voyageurs (color bearer) of the Voiture at the same ceremony. A past vice commander of the Camp Chase Post and a present member of the executive committee, he is an accountant with the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Both local men were elected to their respective positions at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Voiture at Memorial hall on Oct. 17.

Union Service To Be Held

The annual union Thanksgiving service of Hilltop churches will be held Thanksgiving morning in the Burgess Avenue United Brethren church from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m.

Rev. George J. MacDonald, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist church, will deliver the Thanksgiving message. The choir of the entertaining church will furnish special music for the occasion.

Rev. M'Donald

Rev. Jacob Ashburn, vice-president of the Hilltop Ministerial association, will preside during the service at which an offering will be received for the work of the City Mission.

The service is sponsored by the Hilltop Ministerial association and the program is as follows:

Words of Welcome—Rev. E. E. Burtner, Burgess Avenue U. B. church.

Response of association—Rev. Jacob Ashburne, vice-president of association and pastor of Oakley Avenue Baptist church.

Song service.

Scripture lesson—Rev. A. J. Wold, pastor Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church.

Prayer — Rev. Herbert Handy, pastor Highland Avenue Friends church.

Special music—Burgess Avenue United Brethren church. Solo by Miss Marjorie Nurath.

Sermon — "God's Open Hand," Rev. G. J. MacDonald, pastor Hillcrest Baptist church.

West High PTA To Sponsor Picture Show

The West High Parent-Teacher association will sponsor a picture show at the Westmont theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 6, 7 and 8. The picture, "Dust Be My Destiny," starring Priscilla Lane and John Garfield, will be presented.

The underlying theme that all Homeless boys on the road are not criminals and deserve a "break" is presented forcibly but in such a way as not to detract from the interest in the story.

The greater part of the proceeds from this show will be used for welfare work at West High school.

Westgate Evangelists

Evangelistic services at the Westgate Evangelical church will begin Sunday and continue through Dec. 10 with Rev. James Gibson, "Irish evangelist," preaching each night at 7:30. Mrs. Gibson will conduct daily services for the children. Rev. Gibson will preach his first message Tuesday evening, Nov. 28.

A cottage prayer meeting in the interest of the evangelistic meetings will be held Friday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rusell Smith, 126 N. Harris-av.

Rev. and Mrs. James Gibson

Camp Chase To Collect For Hilltop Needy

On Thanksgiving morning Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars (Westway Post), and Boy Scouts will turn out en masse for the eighth annual Thanksgiving drive to aid needy Hilltop families. Sponsored by the Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, the drive will cover the entire community down to Central-av.

Hilltop families have been asked to place their contributions of food, clothing, and miscellaneous articles on their porches or in some other accessible place early Thanksgiving morning. Collections will be made in trucks volunteered by Hilltop merchants for the purpose.

Approximately 100 workers will assemble at post headquarters Thanksgiving morning to get final insructions and assignments before going out to "work" their respective streets.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve luncheon and hot drinks to the workers at noon at the Sherburn market store room, which has been donated for use as a collection and distribution center.

Last year the Legion distributed $492 worth of groceries in 123 baskets, outfitted 149 needy children with clothing, and cared for 40 families until they could secure relief aid from other sources.

Some houses were missed in the drive last year due to the large amount of territory to be covered, but Legion members have announced emphatically that "they will be there for sure this time."

Earl A. Webb, 309 S. Ogden-av, is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements. He requests that families who wish to donate to the cause but who are going to be away on Thanksgiving day contact him or post headquarters before that date.

Local Trucker Cracks Up In N. Y.

A huge trailer-truck driven by D. J. McDonald of 2737 Steele-av "jack-knifed" on an icy pavement while descending a hill just outside Geneva, N. Y., slid half way down the hill, and finally turned over in the ditch.

The accident occurred on Monday of last week at about 5:30 in the morning. Traffic was tied up for some time while mechanics from a nearby garage labored to get the big vehicle on the highway again.

Said McDonald, who walked away from the wreck unscathed: "The truck was completely demolished. It looked like a cracker box someone had stepped on. This was my fourth accident like this that I luckily got out of uninjured."

Charity Newsie Drive Opens

The annual Charity Newsie drive for the purpose of keeping the children of destitute families in school and to provide food and clothing elsewhere, when needed, opened yesterday.

Harry Fleming, 104 N. Warren-av, is in charge of the drive for the Hilltop district.

Contest To Open Soon

The opening date for the "Lost Merchandise" contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association, in which $65 in cash will be awarded winners, is only a little over a week away.

Contestants will identify articles of "lost merchandise" in the various retail establishments, garages, filling stations, barber shops, beauty shops, etc., on the Hilltop. An article is "lost" when it is displayed where it cannot ordinarily be purchased.

For example, an automobile jack may be displayed in a women's apparel shop. Here it will obviously be out of place. Each "lost" article will be labeled with price and where it can ordinarily be purchased.

In addition to identifying all pieces of lost merchandise, contestants will write a brief statement, not to exceed 50 words, in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?" In case of ties the awards will be made on the basis of the best answers to this question.

First prize will be $50, second prize $10, and third prize $5. Official contest blanks will be available within the next few days and may be obtained from any participating member. The contest will open Dec. 1 and close Dec. 11.

During the past week a committee composed of E. O. Melvin, chairman, Alva Nafzger, Ray Hauntz, C. H. Penfield, George Painter, M. W. Seiller, and Chas. Kent has been busy soliciting members from the various places of business in the community, which will display the articles of "lost merchandise."

Additional information concerning the contest may be obtained from any member of the above-mentioned committee.

Anniversary Celebrated At Franklinton

Growing in popularity as the years pass, the annual homecoming of Franklinton elementary school was this year bigger than ever. Last Friday old grads from here, there and everywhere assembled at the Sandusky and West Broad-st institution to celebrate its sixtieth birthday.

They started filtering in in little bunches about 8 o'clock and before the evening was half over there were over 200 of them there.

Refreshments and entertainment were enjoyed by all present and after old friendships had been renewed and the class rooms they had attended as children had been explored, the old grads got together for an old fashioned community sing.

Among those returning to the school for the occasion were Miss Margaret Koerner, former principal, now retired, and Miss Maggie Wollerman, 79, one of the older of the old grads.

Mrs. Louisa Knipher, 598 Mohawk-st, was the oldest alumnus present. She is 86 years old and attended school in the old two-room court house which stood on the site of the present school building. As honored guest she was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Originally an old log school built by Lucas Sullivant stood on this ground, one of the most historic sites in the county.

Harry Fleming, 104 S. Warren-av, was in charge of arrangements for the reunion group.

Introducing

West Jr. Principal; His Was One Room School

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

"I got my start with hogs." Thus Vance Smith, principal of West Junior high school, explained how he was able to raise money with which to get a start on a college career.

"My father gave me one sow," Smith said, "and from this small beginning I raised enough hogs to see me through the first year of school I didn't have to buy the feed and there was no overhead," Smith added. "All I did was sit back and watch them grow."

Born in Plain City, Smith attended a small county elementary school nearby. He graduated from high school in Plain City and then, because he was too young to teach, entered Buchtel college (now Akron university) where he stayed for one year.

He then taught in a county school south of Plain City for two years, studied at Ohio State for two years, and then returned to Madison county as district superintendent of schools.

After spending a year in this position Smith returned to the university and graduated in 1916. He majored in languages and math. After teaching math for two years at Worthington High school he became superintendent of Worthington schools where he remained until 1920.

He then came to Central High school in Columbus as head of the math department, was appointed to the principalship of Franklinton elementary school, and then became principal of the Columbus Normal school.

In the meantime (1924) Smith had taken his M. A. degree from Columbia University Teachers' college. In 1928 he was appointed principal of Pilgrim Junior high school where he remained until his appointment to his present position in the fall of 1937.

"I've had a varied and checkered school career," said Smith, "having taught in everything from a one-room country school to a large city high school. Mine hasn't been a very glamorous life," he said, "but I've enjoyed all of it."

Vance Smith

Smith's chief hobby is flower gardening. He enjoys football as a spectator. "In my high school days," he said, "we only played basketball. I was anything but a good player though," he added. A member of many educational organizations, including the Columbus Teachers' federation, the N. E. A., the Ohio High School Principals' association, and the Central Ohio School Masters' club and sincerely interested in all educational affairs, Smith feels that the greatest present need in the public schools is "the development of good citizenship and appreciation of democratic ideals by putting these principles in operation in everyday school life."

Smith resides with his wife and three daughters at 787 Oxford-st in Worthington.

It took initiative and courage to do what the pilgrims did—to settle a wilderness. It also took hard work and level headedness. And it took patience. But these qualities triumphed and the roots of a great nation took hold and flourished. Ten thousand neighborhood communities—like our own Hilltop—sprang up, developed, and prospered.

No longer do we face the perils of the frontier, but far worse, the hazards of a civilization at war with itself. We can, on Thanksgiving day, be thankful that we are spared these things.

Other peoples who are under the heels of dictators or are rapidly coming under something that closely resembles dictatorship because of the exigencies of war are deprived of those blessings that make life livable. On a war torn continent, those fundamental things in democracy, freedom of speech, thought, the press, protection of minorities who disagree with majorities, and immunity from arbitrary arrest, are no more.

Over here in an atmosphere favorable to war hysteria and foreign hatreds we are apt to gloss over some of these fundamentals.

Democracy is based on the hope that, given the light, the people will find their own way. Let's guard this hope and cherish it, so that the generations that follow us may be thankful for the heritage we have left them.

100 Attend Alumni Party

Approximately 100 members attended the hard times party of the West High Alumni association last Friday. At this time the report on the membership drive was given.

The Buff team, headed by Robert M. Draper, reported the most new memberships and consequently will be feted at some later date by the losing team, the Brown, which was headed by Richard Hemmerly.

All West high alumni wishing to play in the basketball game to be held Dec. 15 at West High school are urged to contact Chas. Weigard, who is in charge.

VISITED RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moss and daughter, Patsy, 146 N. Ogden-av, spent the week-end of the eighteenth at Delphos, O., with relatives.

In Stone Old Bones

You've heard of the fierce head-hunters, and how they scalp, shrink, and hang up the heads of their captives.

It seems we have in our school a little block "skull." The owner of this rare specimen is Mr. E. C. Reed, science instructor.

It is a block stone, in the form of a mis-shapen skull, and is approximately two inches in height, and an inch and a half through its thickest part.

"Old Bones" (as Mr. Reed calls him) is realistic in every way.

Pine cones may be dipped in a solution of salt water in order to make them burn with colored light.

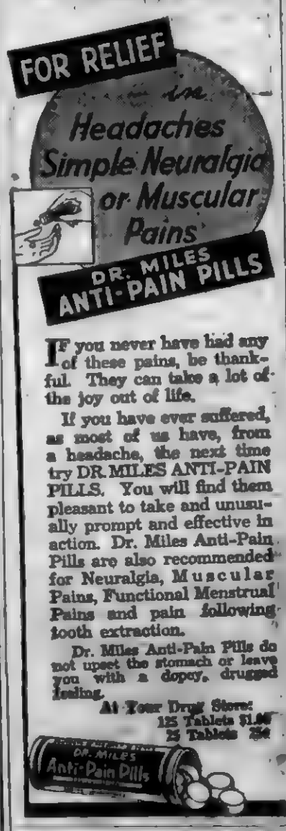
Sport Shorts
By SHIFLET

From out along S. Powell-av way word reaches us that West High will have one of the biggest basketball squads to represent the school in recent years. Although no definiate first team line-up has been chosen as yet by Coach George Williams from the squad of 18 candidates, it seems certain that the starting five will average close to the six-foot mark.

Although no post on the initial quintet is cinched by a long shot, Ned Ball and Warren Carter, both veteran performers on last year's team and the former an All-High choice, have the inside track. Ball measures close to 5'10" while the "Jabber" comes close to the six-foot mark.

At the forward positions will probably be "Duck" Ucker and Paul Rogers, both members of the first five last season and each a star in his own right. As a sophomore last season Ucker turned in some fine floor performances and will be just short of the six-foot group while Rogers is 5'11 inches in height.

The fight for the tip-off position is being contested by three Buckaroos, two of whom saw service in 1938. Al Williams, Bill Mack and Bud Maxwell are leading the aspirants for that important place at this writing. If Williams, 5' 11 inches tall, should get the post, the first five would be composed of four Buckaroo football satellites. This would be the case also if Bill Mack should capture the coveted post, with Ucker being the only non-football player.



Two weeks remain before the Buckaroos will open their court aked with the strong Hamilton five. Other games away from home during December are set for the eighth and nineteenth with Lancaster and Springfield furnishing the opposition in each instance. If the tentative game with the Alumni group falls through it will be Jan. 12 before locals fans will be able to see the Bucks perform at home. On this date the Cowboys play their second City league game with the Aquinas combine as the visitors while South will provide the opposition in the league lid-lifter at South on Jan. 5.

Basketball is stealing the show down at Glenwood park also and the shelter house is a scene of constant activity these days. Although no definite nightly schedule has been made up by the City recreation department as yet, the leagues will probably perform as they did last season: Monday, Girls' Church league; Tuesday, Boys' Church league; Wednesday and Thursday, Industrial leagues and Friday, the Class A Independent circuit.

Paul Schlosser, member of the only undefeated, untied grid team turned out by West High, (1937), was an important cog in that Findlay college football team which finished the season with five wins, two losses and one tie. Schlosser's passing was especially worthy of praise . . . Ed. Hughes, '38, former basketball star who counted 23 points in a single tournament game while at West, is back at Ohio Wesleyan for his second year . . . Dick Colburn and Frank Richey, also a member of that '37 grid team, were candidates for the freshman team at OBU this fall.

Bob Whetstone, Buck court star some years back and well known in amateur circles, fractured his wrist while playing with the Hilltop Merchants in the K. of P. pre-season league recently. Also performing on that team are several other Hilltoppers, including Frank Richey, Bill Howison and Chuck Weigand.

THRIFTY AND NIFTY

For a thrifty trick to tone up an inexpensive piece of meat, place a flank steak in your roasting pan, season with salt and smother with slim slices of silver onions. Then pour on a whole bottleful of chili sauce. Good thick, slow-pouring chili sauce made of vine-ripened aristocrat tomatoes cooked down with old-fashioned sweets and spices. Just the kind of chili sauce your own mother used to put up on a steaming August day in her country kitchen. You get an extra snappy flavor when this spicy chili sauce has simmered and seeped down into the heart of this dish. It's easier than most flank steak recipes too, and better than others by far when you follow this set of directions:

FLANK STEAK

Score well—
1 flank steak.
Place in roaster, then sprinkle lightly with—Salt.
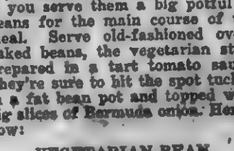
Slice—
½ peck silver onions and arrange over steak. Sprinkle onions lightly with salt.
Pour over top—
1 medium (12 oz.) bottle chili sauce.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 4 hours. If meat gets dry, add hot water.



PLOT FOR A CHURCH LUNCHEON

Here's a tasty tip for church luncheons planned on a minimum budget of time and money—serve quick and easy one-dish meals made the ready-to-serve way. A big, abundant stuffed egg salad, hot rolls, apple butter and coffee will make fine substantial fare and take but a trice to turn out. You can order the rolls from the baker if you like, open up a jar of apple butter, put on a pot of coffee and make this savory salad, and the meal will be done:

STUFFED EGG SALAD

Hard cook—
6 eggs.
Flute eggs by cutting with end of paring knife in saw tooth fashion around center of egg, cutting through to yolk. Remove and mash yolks.
Combine yolks with—
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 teaspoon pure cider vinegar
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
⅛ teaspoon salt.

Refill egg whites with egg yolk mixture, then arrange on lettuce leaves, using two or three halves per serving. Garnish with thinly sliced radishes, capers, pimiento or pepper strips.

BIG BEAN FEAST

How would you like to serve your family a meatless menu for supper tonight? A big substantial meal with plenty of good stout eating to fill up your men folk. Man and boy alike, they'll take to the idea if you serve them a big potful of beans for the main course of the meal. Serve old-fashioned oven-baked beans, the vegetarian style prepared in a tart tomato sauce. They're sure to hit the spot tucked in a fat bean pot and topped with big slices of Bermuda onion. Here's how:

VEGETARIAN BEAN CASSEROLE

Place in casserole or baking dish—
1 large (25 oz.) can oven-baked beans, vegetarian style.
Arrange over beans—
Thin slices onion.
Dot onion slices with—Butter.

Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle lightly with paprika and minced parsley. Serve with chili sauce.

Machine Stolen

A $1000 ditching machine left at the corner of Dartmoor-rd and Burgess-av was stolen some time within the past two weeks, according to Wilhelm Neilson, an official of the contracting firm which owned the machine.

The theft, which apparently was accomplished by dismantling the machine and carrying it away in pieces, was reported to police Thursday.

Evangelists Conduct Services At Hilltop Churches

Rev. W. E. Sampson, pastor-evangelist from Richmond, Va., is conducting a series of meetings at the Immanuel Baptist church, 286 Belvidere-av. The meetings, which began yesterday and will continue through Friday, Dec. 1, are being held every evening beginning at 7:30 sharp.

Revival services are being held at the Hilltop Church of God and will continue through Dec. 3. They are under the leadership of Rev. Holly McClanahan. Capable of quoting many passages from the Bible by memory, Rev. McClanahan is known as the "walking Bible."

All members of the community are invited to attend the services at both churches.

Christmas Seals Go On Sale Soon

The thirty-third annual sale of Christmas seals will get under way Dec. 1 and will continue until Christmas day. The long and ardent fight against tuberculosis has resulted in bringing the once dreaded disease to a place where it can be controlled. The time is not far distant, when it may be completely eliminated.

This year's Christmas seal portrays an angel with outstretched arms against a large double-barred cross, international symbol of the fight against tuberculosis, and a bright blue background. It was designed by Rockwell Kent.

The theme of the seal may be interpreted as a benediction upon the fight against tuberculosis, which has been carried on so successfully for the past 33 years.

Just Forget The Rest

I am trying to entertain you,
By the verses that I write.
For the time that I detain you,
I would make your burden light.

I would like to make you cheerful,
I would not make you sad.
You may think my verses fearful,
Still I hope they're not too bad.

Of course I want your business,
That's why they keep me here.
But there's greater things than money,
That we strive for year by year.

If we can retire each night,
With a conscience that is clear.
We'll be more wealthy in God's sight
Than all the riches offered here.

If real pleasure you can't find,
Don't harbor rancor in your breast.
Keep in mind thoughts pure and kind,
And just forget the rest.

For Fruit Salad

When making mayonnaise for fruit salad, use lemon juice instead of vinegar. It brings out the delicate flavors of the fruits better. Any other rather sour fruit juice may be used as well as lemon.

Cushioning Process

Falling in love is being taught as an art. Presumably the purpose is to avoid the inartistic business of falling out.—Kansas City Star.

The name "leatherneck" was given to the Marines during the Revolutionary war when they wore leather stiffening in their shirt collars. The term was formerly used in the British navy.

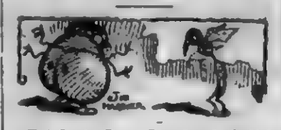
Help From the Sky



A "suicide squad" of women parachute jumpers to offer first aid to wounded soldiers behind front lines is advocated by Marie McMillan, New York, holder of the world's parachute jumping record for women. The services of the "battalion of mercy" will be offered to France, said Miss McMillan.

Farmer's Wife—D'yez hear lightnin' struck Hi Johnson's silo, jumped to the barn and ran into where there wuz six mules?

Farmer — Yer don't say! D'yez hear what happened to the lightnin' then?

Suitable Shoes Important to Health

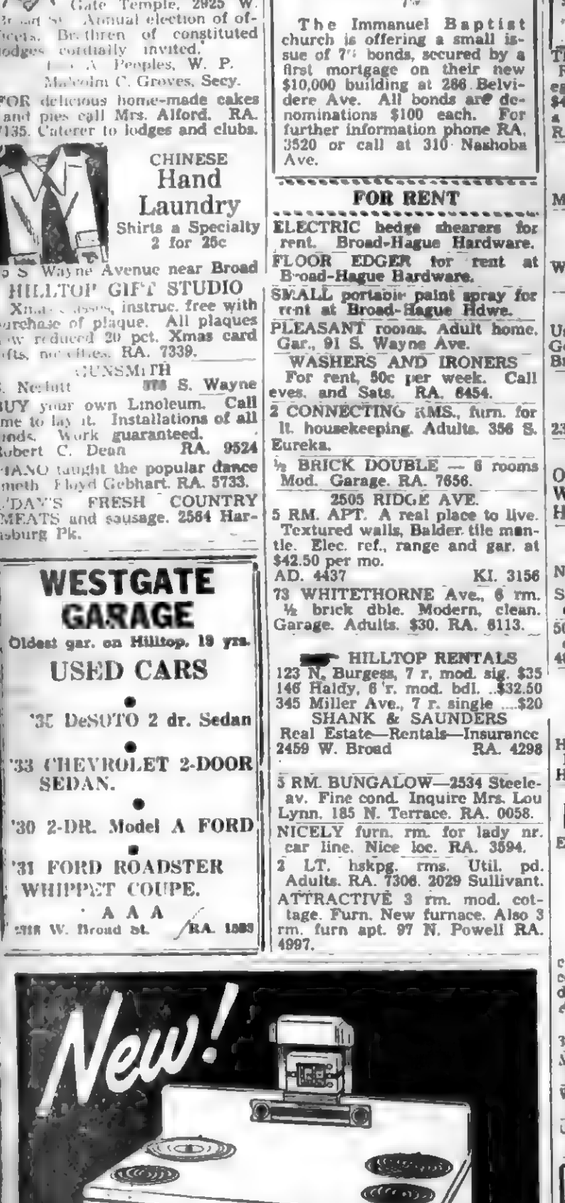
There appears to be a streak of vanity in all of us, both men and women. I have in mind the shoes we wear.

The age of the "pointed" toes was well past during examination of recruits, but the results were seen in the deformities—bunions on the inner side of the big toe and corns and hammer toes on the middle and outer toes, due to pressure. Still another cause was the human desire to have "small" shoes. About four of every five recruits were wearing shoes that were too short for their feet.

Fortunately, about 35 years ago one or two shoe manufacturers began supplying "sensible" shoes, which were straight the entire length on the inner side right up to and slightly beyond the big toe; the top of the shoe, while not exactly square, was "rounded" so gradually to the outer or little toe that there was abundant room for all the toes to lie in a straight or extended position instead of being "curled" up by the pointed or sharply curved shoes. These "sensible" shoes for men and women were gladly acclaimed by a great many who were much on their feet—nurses, housekeepers and office and factory workers.

Vanity May Be Dangerous.

It would appear, however, that the streak of vanity in all of us, which shoe salesmen notice and pass on to manufacturers, has caused some to begin to make shoes with a little more "point"; they are "curved" on both the inner and outer sides at the top.



There is also the point in regard to women that with the present short skirts shoes are noticed more and it is only to be expected that women will wear shoes that make the feet appear small.

Now, foot comfort means nerve comfort. Many a man or woman, with a pleasant disposition under ordinary circumstances, becomes very irritable from wearing shoes that hurt the feet. If they are bound to wear shoes that are neat but not comfortable the only suggestion is that they wear a larger size. This will give some measure of relief.

Remember, our feet often mean as much to our happiness and earning ability as does our head.

Pros and Cons Of Grapes Of Wrath

Bakersfield, Calif. — This is the land of "Grapes of Wrath."

Californians of this section of the state have been taking exception to John Steinbeck's popular novel in which he depicted life in the camps of the thousands who have flooded into the state from the western dust bowls.

Say the home folks: "The book features one fairly respectable family which might be typical of the entire lot of immigrants. But such is not the case. For the most part the state has a far greater problem because it has to deal with a class of people of even much lower quality than that pictured in the "Grapes of Wrath."

While the family in the book was willing to work and wanted the comforts of life thus provided such is not the case with the very large number who flood the territory.

Say the localites, "The very great majority of these people are nothing more than fair rate bums, people who never have worked and never will . . . people who have a thought that California will be good to them and if they can get on relief their problem is solved."

California Wrath Is Raised

The wrath of California was raised to a high point when the novel was first published. Libraries banned it and many book stores refused to sell it. Today, however, it can be purchased in most stores but the library still bans the book.

For the most part these immigrants are from the "dust bowl" states. They have loaded up their few belongings, including the wash tub, a mattress, some old clothes and pots and pans . . . and the numerous "kids", and have headed the flivver, of a very old vintage, toward the west.

As they have wended their way through New Mexico, the story goes, they have been encouraged to go on to the west. Filling stations saw that they got free gas, oil and even tires and mechanical service so they might be speeded on their way to avoid the possibility of their become a burden to that state.

Now the state of California is attempting to head them off and not permit them to cross the borders unless they have at least $50 in cash in their possessions. Then in turn New Mexico must extend the hand-out again and get them on their way back to the east.

Another "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

"The Grapes of Wrath" is just another "Uncle Tom's Cabin" say Californians. The claim is that the author took one family and made them very pitiful yet worthy wherein the truth of the matter is that the whole picture is very pitiful but that a very small portion of them are worthy.

"Hooverville," so well described in "Grapes of Wrath", is located a short distance from this city, and while the author of the book describes its burning as a ruthless bit of attack on the migrants, localites point out that epidemics were brought into the Bakersfield schools by the children of the migrants and in order to eliminate diseases the camp had to be destroyed.

A survey revealed that many of the families could afford to rent homes in town and after six months effort on the part of local authorities all but 26 families did so. Then the health officers had the shacks moved to higher grounds and the old spot was burned over.

California Has Unique Problem

It should not be understood that all the migrants are shiftless and unworthy. In fact many hundreds of families have found their way into California by the road of hard work and have now established themselves on small farms and in the cities in their own homes and are making success for themselves. Californians have encouraged these people and are proud of them.

Californians are, however, disgusted with the type that in such large proportions have trekked to the "promised land" where they need do nothing more than "eat all the grapes they want and let the juice trickle down across the face."

And it is a distinct problem to this state apparently. All the way across the country there was small evidence of "bums" and transients. But the trip down the San Joaquin Valley presented a continual scene of hundreds of migrants and the railroads lined with "knights of the road."

Two Barns Destroyed In $50,000 Blaze

A raging fire started when a magneto spark ignited the vapor in an empty gasoline tank destroyed two huge barns (each measuring 300 by 100 feet) on the farm property of Common Pleas Judge Edward C. Turner, 4329 W. Broad-st, last Wednesday afternoon.

One of Judge Turner's 15 employees was cleaning a magneto in a barn which contained approximately 100 tons of hay and farm equipment. He turned the mechanism and the resulting spark set off the conflagration.

The loss, which included the destruction of the two barns, the hay, and most of the farm machinery which had been stored for the winter was estimated at approximately $50,000, about half of which was covered by insurance.

The West Jefferson fire department, Judge Turner's employees, and volunteer firemen brought the blaze under control and prevented it from spreading to adjacent buildings.

None of the valuable livestock in the cattle barn was lost. Judge Turner said he had recently painted and repaired the two barns on the 1400 acre stock farm putting them in first-class condition.

This total exceeds last year's by approximately $20,000 and that of the year before by over $31,000.

Christmas club accounts for 1940 are now being opened in both banks for weekly deposits ranging up from 25 cents.

Benefit Card Party Will Be Held For Delinquent Children

The second annual benefit card party for the children's Christmas fund of the State Bureau of Juvenile Research will be held Wednesday evening at the institution, 2280 W. Broad-st.

Last year several women from all parts of the city became interested in the many children (more than 100) from all parts of the state who had to remain at the bureau over the holidays. They wanted to be sure that these children were not forgotten at Christmas.

As a result every child received a gift, specially selected, gaily wrapped and labeled with the name. For many of the children this was the first time in their lives they had ever received a Christmas present.

The procedure will be repeated this year. Members of the committee are getting gifts together and planning all details, so that the guests may enjoy the party while helping to provide a happy Christmas for the boys and girls. Refreshments will be served and games will be provided for guests.

Hilltoppers Trek To Michigan Via The Rails

A jolly crowd of 57 Hilltop football fans made up a car in one of the special trains to Ann Arbor via the New York Central lines last Saturday morning.

Herb Deems did a splendid job of planning arrangements for the trip and keeping everyone comfortably entertained. Officials stated that the Hilltop accommodations were the best offered any train on the trip.

Just before arriving at Ann Arbor beautiful yellow "mums" were presented to all of the ladies through the courtesy of Yost Florist. The tasty cake was baked and donated by Dave Vogelsang, owner of the Hilltop Bakery. A bushel basket of apples was contributed by Hauntz Market. Clarence Story contributed 15 pounds of peanuts; card tables were furnished by Jones Lumber Co., while noise makers were contributed by Seilers. Sam Roberts acted as property man for all the Hilltop belongings.

The Hilltop party was made up of:

You Figure It Out . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Crego entertained with a dinner on the first wedding anniversary of another Mr. and Mrs. Crego and on their own twenty-third wedding anniversary and on the forty-eighth anniversary of the parents of the second Mrs. Crego.

To be more precise, Mr. and Mrs. Crego were observing their own wedding anniversary and at the same time killing two other birds (or Cregos) with one stone (or dinner).

Let's start all over again.

Mr. and Mrs. Cary Crego, 430 S. Eureka-av, entertained with a pot-luck family dinner at their home Wednesday evening, Nov. 15. The occasion was the first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crego, London, the twenty-third wedding anniversary of Mr. Louis Crego's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Crego of the above address, and the forty-eighth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Louis Crego's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Durban of Hilliards.

So far, so good.

Others who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Clint Warner and daughter, Amlin; Mr. and Mrs. William Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Judson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hilbert and daughter, all of Columbus.

Well, maybe we can do better next year.

West Quintet Opens Season

West High's basketball team, 1939 model, will take the floor for the first time this season when the strong blue and white five of Hamilton High plays host to the traveling Buckaroos tonight in the season opener for both combines.

Seeking revenge for a humiliating 42-13 defeat handed them by the Hamiltonians early last year, the Cowboys will send a veteran ensemble into the fray. Almost certain to start at the forward posts are Paul Rogers and "Duck" Ucker, both stalwarts on the 1938-39 team. At one guard position will be Ned Bell while the second guard nominee will be chosen from a group of three eligibles as will the center.

Although possessing three weeks of practice preparatory to tonight's opening court tussle the Buckaroos will be the underdogs. The Hamilton teams annually rank with the strongest in the state and the stout-hearted local representatives will be in for a hard battle this evening.

Coach George Williams announced this week two changes in the schedule. The Bucks will trek to Springfield Monday, Dec. 18 to play the Wildcats of that city instead of the day following, the original date. The second change calls for a game with Columbus Academy on the 13th. Preceding the West-Academy scrap, scheduled to get under way at 3:30 p. m. on the local floor, the Buck reserve team will tangle with the West Junior five, in what promises to be an interesting struggle.

Williams is starting his second basketball campaign at the S. Powell-av school, his first team finishing the season with seven wins as against 13 setbacks. Newcomers to the court card for West are the Logan Chiefs, Alumni, Lancaster, and the Springfield 'Cats, perennial grid rivals of the Cowhands.

Shank Scores

Bowling with the Shank and Saunders team in the Monday night Recreation League, Jack Shank, well-known Hilltopper, socked the pins for a three-game total of 710 at the Hilltop Bowling Alleys recently. Shank also had the high single game score as he bowled scores of 220, 266 and 224 in the three-game series.

Southampton Bus Terminus Accepted By City Council

Ending two weeks of wrangling, city council and the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., Wednesday night, agreed on a western terminus for the proposed trolley coach line which will replace street cars on W. Broad-st.

By a 6-1 vote in utility committee, council accepted the company's contention that the terminus should be at Southampton-av. Last week by a 4-3 vote council demanded that the line should extend to the city limits (Wilson-rd and W. Broad-st).

Wednesday's dissenting vote was cast by Hilltop council president, Wyatt L. Millikin.

According to Ben W. Marr and Morgan L. Evans, utility executives, work on the $700,000 replacement operations will begin immediately after council gives formal approval to the project Monday night. The new service will be inaugurated by May 1.

Two lots which will serve as a turning place for the new coaches have been purchased by the company at the corner of Southampton-av and W. Broad-st.

Hilltop business men (including councilman-elect Ray G. Hauntz) attended council sessions last week to urge a west corporation terminus for the benefit of two large population groups outside the city.

Utility officials maintained that people within the corporation line could be adequately served with the terminus at Southampton-av.

Last week council approved routing the Hague-av bus from Wicklow-rd to Harris-av to Sullivant-av, on a loop to replace the present terminus at Sullivant-av.

I AIN'T MAD AT NOBODY

Thanks

Thanks is a word that is often heard at the closing of the year,
And it's a good token if honestly spoken to show we are sincere;
We have much in store to be thankful for as the year comes to a close,
Whether sincere at the end of the year there is only one who knows.

We should not recite about our sad plight coz people want action and deeds,
They don't want to know our trouble and woe and they don't care much for our creeds.
Thanks won't do without service too and if we haven't honest service to give,
Business'll diminish, it will be a sad finish, dishonesty is hard to outlive.

Some'll write in a book with a serious look, many pledges the first of the year,
But in a few days they'll pursue the old ways and no words thereon will appear.
The book'll be worn it'll be tattered and torn where the pledges have been rubbed out.
They'll tramp the old trail at hard times they'll rail and the future they'll view in doubt.

This Christmas day on life's pathway I wish you health and pleasure,
And your cup of cheer for the coming year I hope contains full measure.
I do not know how to tell you so, all words appear too small.
But without any fess, believe me sincere as I thank you one and all.

HBMA To Fete Bucks, Elect New Officers

The Hilltop Business Men's association will fete the 1939 West High football team at its annual appreciation banquet Tuesday evening, 6:30, in the West high school cafeteria.

Combined with the association's annual election of officers, the event is looked upon as the highlight of the year's activities.

The committee in charge of arrangements is headed by Herb Deems, chairman. He is assisted by Dr. J. H. Czatt and M. W. Seiler, (decorations committee), William H. Jones (in charge of entertainment), and John Riepenhoff.

A hilarious evening of entertainment is in store for the gridders and their coaches. Chief speaker will be "Tippy" Dye former Ohio State athlete and at present mentor of the Grandview High eleven.

All outsiders are welcome to attend as long as the tickets last and a crowd of 200 or 250 is anticipated, according to Chairman Deems.

Tickets may be purchased at Campbell's pharmacy, 2766 W. Broad-st; Riepenhoff dry cleaning shop, 2532 Sullivant-av; or the First Federal Savings and Loan association, 2369 W. Broad-st.

On the same occasion members of the association will elect officers for the coming year. The following slates will be voted upon:

Herb Deems

West High Quintet Defeated In Opener

"We'll Be Heard From Later In The Season," Says Williams

Still seeking its initial victory in the young basketball season, West High's promising Cowboy five will trek to Lancaster this evening to tangle with the high school quintet of that city. The local aggregation will open its home season Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 when the Columbus Academy team visits the local stronghold.

Playing before a capacity crowd in the Hamilton gym last Friday night the Bucks opened their basketball campaign with a 32-26 loss to the Big Blue team. The defeat was a moral victory for West, however, for Hamilton is known as one of the basketball centers of the state and last season sweltered the luckiest Cowboy hands by a lop-sided margin.

Blackstone put the Buckaroos in the lead with a charity toss as the contest started but Hamilton took a 3-1 lead before Ucker and Mack cashed in on free throws and the latter sank a goal. Hamilton led 9-6 at the quarter with a last second basket and went on the warpath in the second canto to increase its lead to 15-6 at halftime.

Led by Bell and Ucker, who tallied eight markers each, West came back in the second half to outscore the Big Blue but the second quarter advantage obtained by the home forces was too much for the Cowboys. Hamilton started the final period with a 23-14 lead and matched shots with the locals in the final period to take the decision.

Two Positions Open

Every man on the local squad broke into the fray for a brief spell as Coach George Williams sought to find the best starting combine, a difficult task indeed with eight experienced court artists. Rogers and Ucker at the forwards and Bell at one of the guard posts played nearly the entire game but the Cowboy mentor substituted freely at the tip-off and second guard positions with Mack, Williams and Snyder candidates for the former and Carter and Blackstone battling for the latter.

Coach Williams was definitely pleased with the performance of his charges, even in defeat. "We'll be heard from later on in the season," he said.

'Still Time'

Manager [illegible] in charge of the "Lost Merchandise" contest advises that there is still time to enter the contest and win one of the three cash prizes. (First prize, $40; second, $10; and third, $5)

Said E. O. Melvin, chairman of the committee: "The contest is as easy as falling off a log. Any energetic person can complete it in a very short time."

Here are the final details. Contestants will identify articles of "lost merchandise" in the various business and service establishments on the Hilltop.

An article is lost when it is displayed where it cannot ordinarily be purchased. For example, an automobile battery may be displayed in a newspaper office. Each article will be prominently displayed and labeled, specifying price and indicating the place where it can ordinarily be purchased.

In addition to identifying all pieces of lost merchandise, the contestant will write a brief statement, not exceeding 50 words, in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?" In case of ties awards will be made on the basis of the best answers to this question.

The contest is open to all residents west of Central-av who are above the age of 17. Application blanks with complete instructions may be obtained from the local merchants. The closing date is Dec. 11.

Hilltop Scouts To Receive Awards At Court Of Honor

Five Hilltop boys will receive the highest rank in scouting at the annual Eagle Scout Court of Honor ceremonial to be held Sunday afternoon, 2 o'clock, in Memorial hall.

These are Harry Thomas, Glenwood Methodist church Troop 18; Jack Keidel, Gerald Gifford and Jack Morris, West Junior high school Troop 45; and Gunner Marsh, Camp Chase Post American Legion troop 161.

The boys have qualified for the award by earning 21 merit badges in a variety of fields and living up to obligations of the scout oath.

Congressman John M. Vorys will be the principal speaker on the occasion and Governor John W. Bricker will extend greetings.

Numerous business and civic leaders of Columbus and central Ohio will assist the court of honor chairman. Paul L. Selby, in presenting the awards. Mothers and scoutmasters of the honored scouts will also participate in the ceremony.

The annual Eagle ceremonial will take the place of the quarterly district court of honor which is usually held locally.

Miss Ann McDonald Has Large "White Elephant" In Her Lumber Yard

This isn't exactly the story of "tug-boat Annie" but it's about Annie and a tugboat. Well, not exactly a tugboat, but a boat at any rate.

Built for Stanley Fielding, a former Hilltop resident and now of Bradenton, Fla., the craft which two years ago shone splendidly in its bright white coat looks now as though it had barely weathered a typhoon — though it's never been to sea.

It's in dry dock at McDonald's lumber yard (corner Eureka-av and Pennsylvania R. R.) where it was constructed.

Fielding intended to have the boat trucked to Zanesville from which point it would be taken down the Muskingum river into the Ohio, down the Ohio into the Mississippi, and thence to the gulf. He had planned to sell neon signs along the way.

Although the boat, with all its riggings was paid for in full, the purchaser changed his plans, bought a truck and took his signs south via the highway.

"And now," said "Annie" McDonald, young and enterprising proprietor of the lumber company, "we're stuck with it. We'd have to tear the side of the mill down to get it out." Miss McDonald is pictured above with her provoking "white elephant". She claims to have had nothing to do with the project from the first.

Assisting her in the lumber business which was founded by her father over 20 years ago are her two brothers, William and Clarence. "But she's the boss," the admiring brothers maintain. They believe the sun rises and sets on sister "Annie", we vaguely suspect.

Hilltop Man Named Glass Workers Prexy

To serve for a period of two years at a salary of $99 a week, De Shetler will be sworn in by the retiring president, Paul W. Fuller of Cincinnati as soon as an auditor completes an official check of the balloting.

De Shetler has been a resident of the Hilltop since 1935. He is married and has two children.

Bond Cleaners Install Equipment

Bond Cleaners, 2402 Sullivant-av, have recently installed a new $3,000 band box cleaning system which makes possible a four-hour cleaning service on pick-up and deliveries and a one-hour service on garments brought to the shop.

Unlike the conventional method, the new device cleans each garment separately, eliminating the possibility of misplacing buttons or losing belts and other accessories.

Setting up shop last April, Bob Millikan and Charlie O'Connor, proprietors, have expanded their business to meet the growing demands of Hilltop patronage. All garments cleaned at this establishment are insured and guaranteed.

Green Appoints Ward, Neth, Crowe

Other Hilltoppers May Get Jobs In City Departments

Three Hilltop men were appointed to high executive positions in the official cabinet of Mayor-elect Floyd F. Green during the past week.

Major George F. Ward, 723 S. Roys-av, and Wm. V. Crowe, 360 Wrexham-av, received the positions of safety director and executive secretary respectively.

G. F. Ward

J. Real Neth, 111 S. Harris-av, was selected as director of welfare, an honorary one dollar a year position. He will act as safety director in the absence of Major Ward.

William V. Crowe

Active in military affairs, Ward is a major in the First Battalion 166th Infantry, Ohio National Guard. He is a past commander of Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, and also past chairman of the Franklin County Council of American Legion. For the past five years he has been an examiner for the state civil service commission.

Crowe, who was extremely close to Green during the recent campaign, acted in the capacity of publicity manager for the mayor-elect. Since 1930 he has been in sales promotion work, broadcasting, and general publicity work.

Neth, a native of Columbus, is a well known theatre owner in this city.

The fate of another Hilltop man is still undecided. He is George W. Matson, superintendent of building regulation, who was named provisionally to that position by Mayor Gessaman in August, 1936, and received regular appointment after examination on Nov. 3.

In spite of general assumptions that his head would fall along with the others (Green has indicated that he will make a clean sweep of all city offices with the possible exception of a few highly technical ones) it is not as yet certain that Matson will be removed.

The fact that Green was highly instrumental in getting the job for Matson in the first place has all but been ignored. Furthermore, considerable pressure is being exerted by business and civic organizations of the Hilltop for his retention.

Matson lives at 87 N. Warren-av.

Another possible Hilltop appointee to city office is Henry A. Koontz, unsuccessful Republican candidate for city council in the recent elections and former tenth ward committeeman.

It is indicated that he has the inside track to the job of street cleaning [illegible] superintendent. The manager of the Mykrantz drug store, 2403 W. Broad-st, Koontz resides at 485 Hilltonia-av.

Mayor-elect Green has given assurance that there will be a very definite shake-up in the police department after the first of the year. It has been reported that Chief John H. Dunn will be asked to resign. Leo Phillips, 617 S. Ogden-av, who has been active in the police department for the past 11 years, has been mentioned as a possible successor.

Modern Food Market Opens

Lee Berger and George Kanavel have taken possession of the Oakley Den, 2373 Sullivant-av, and have converted it into a modern food market, it was announced this week.

Both Berger and Kavanel, who is a butcher, have been employed in a Hilltop grocery for several years. They have remodeled and, rearranged the store to carry a more complete stock of grocery merchandise. Quality meats, fruits and vegetables will be stocked in addition to the staple grocery line, the new owners indicated.

Jimmie Ricketts, former West High school student, is opening a new hamburger and lunch room at the corner of Central and Sullivant-avs.

Florida Orange Store Offers Tree-Ripened Fruit

The recent opening of the Florida Orange store at 2344 W. Broad-st was announced this week by George Andreu, manager of the local unit. The firm enjoyed a full season's business on the Hilltop last year at 2842 W. Broad-st, but since that location was not available this season a new store room was leased.

The organization as explained by Andreu deals in citrus fruits bringing them direct from their own groves in Florida to the local markets where they are retailed within a few days after they are picked. This rapid shipment method permits fruit to be ripened on the tree and does not necessitate green picking for slower marketing methods. Fruit is said to be much sweeter and contains no artificial coloring to make it more attractive.

Miss Edna L. Corcoran Is Thanksgiving Day Bride Of Mr. Raymond F. Phillips

Mrs. Raymond F. Phillips

At a quiet but impressive ceremony at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church Thanksgiving afternoon Miss Edna L. Corcoran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Corcoran of 96 S. Ogden-av, became the bride of Mr. Raymond F. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips of Lafayette, Ind.

Mr. Ferne L. Buckingham, organist, and Mrs. Robert E. Gilliam presented a half-hour of nuptial music preceding the 4:30 ceremony which was read by Rev. Alfred J. Wold of the church.

The bride wore a gown of gleaming white dutchess satin in the Victorian mode. Small white satin buttons extended from the neckline to below the waistline in the back and full puffed sleeves tapered to a point over the hands.

Two large Venetian lace medallions were appliqued on the bodice to form a queenly high neckline. The long graceful court train fell from the wasp waistline. A three tiered finger-tip veil of bridal illusion was attached to a Juliet cap which was banded by a braid of tulle and orange blossoms.

Miss Winifred Corcoran, who attended her sister as maid of honor, was in cloud blue fashioned of gros de laudres taffeta and was also along the Victorian lines as were the gowns of Miss Mary Turner and Miss Janice Hamilton, bridesmaids.

Mr. R. Gordan Phillips of Pontiac, Mich., attended his brother as best man, while Mr. John Selvin of Detroit and Mr. Homer Uhlman acted as ushers.

After the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at their home for 75 guests. Out of town guests who attended the cermony were Miss Nancy Phillips of Lafayette, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Oren Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell, Miss Frances Baader and Mr. and Mrs. F. Anderson of Chillicothe; Mr. R. Gordon Phillips, Mr. John Selim and Mr. William Beck of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. R. Marsh and Miss Betty Marsh of Portsmouth; Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Hutchison and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hutchison of Delaware; Mr. J. R. Rausch and Kathryn Jane La Rue of Van Wert; and Mrs. Harlan Reif of Rochelle, Ill.

After a short honeymoon the bride and groom will reside at 20,180 Yacama-av, Detroit, Mich.

Costume Jewelry Fits Christmas Gift Picture

Instead of wrinkling your brow over what on earth to give favorite friends on your Christmas list, why not have a look at some of the exciting new costume jewelry?

Clever craftsmen have taken care that these costume accessories — never more important than in this season of romantic fashions—have been lifted out of the junk class. Even the most inexpensive pieces have a look of quality and good workmanship.

Knowing your good friends' preference in color, it's no trick at all to find some type of gleaming gadget that will make them pleased as Punch come Christmas morning.

THESE ARE SMART

Gold, silver and copper are to be had in an infinite variety of styling. The current segue for "white jewelry," meaning in the inexpensive field, realistic copies of fabulously lovely diamond pieces, is beautifully carried out.

As to stones, turquoise, set in silver or gold metal, is enjoying a tremendous revival, as is branch corla. Antique Chinese jewelry is faithfully reproduced in lovely patterns, set in simulated jade, turquoise and the various quartzes.

FLOWERS THAT QUIVER!

Two as charming decorative bits as the eyes have ever seen are flowers, made with a tiny spring in the center so that they quiver enchantingly. One is a camellia, to be worn as a pin or two clips, the other is a rose the petals of which open just like real ones!

The Hindu influence, which is running a close race with the vogue for Chinese costume jewelry, is carried out in delicate filigree metal, sometimes set with stones. Three-inch wrist bracelets, narrow bracelets and tinkling necklaces are among the prettier effects.

OLD TIME-Y

Cameos, which were bound to return to favor along with the gone-with-the-windish clothes, are set in lockets and hung on slim gilt chains; or in band bracelets of closely woven chains.

Huge pins, reminiscent of the dangling chatelaines our grandmothers wore, are good again, as ornaments for coat or suit lapels. And because hair is worn to let at least part of the ears show, ear-rings are practically musts.

In case of doubt as to colorful jewelry, there are always pearls, in single or twisted strands, and shown frequently this year in gold settings.

And of course there's no more welcome gift to a young girl than a charm bracelet, or some of the engaging new emblems to add to her collection.

The only reward of virtue is virtue, the only way to have a friend is to be one.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Foster - Kingery Rites Read Thanksgiving Day

Mrs. Matilda Foster, Pittsburg, Pa., announces the marriage of her daughter, Pamela Elizabeth, to Donald Samuel Kingery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morton Kingery, formerly of 80 S. Eureka-av and now of Waverly, O.

The marriage was an event of Thanksgiving day and was solemnized at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wilson, 3434 N. High-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sawyer were the only attendants and the service was read by Rev. Robert S. Burris, pastor of Oakland Park Presbyterian church, in the presence of a small group of relatives.

The bride wore for her wedding an afternoon frock of pompadour blue crepe fashioned with shirred bodice and flared skirt. It was trimmed with clips and a series of small buckles of silver and her accessories were dubonnet red. Talisman rosebuds and rust pompom chrysanthemums formed her shoulder corsage. Mrs. Sawyer wore a gown of dull green with gold trimmings and her flowers were chrysanthemums in a shoulder bouquet.

Greenery with white chrysanthemums and white candles formed a background for the wedding ceremony.

The Kingery family resided on S. Eureka-av for many years. The bridegroom graduated from West High school, then completed a course in mining engineering at Ohio State university. He is now associated with the Pittsburg Coal Co. as a mining engineer.

The couple will be at home after Dec. 1 at 2345 Perrysville-av, Pittsburg.

Christmas Package Wrapping Can Be Simple And Sweet

If you are one of those unfortunates whose fingers are all thumbs when it comes to wrapping an attractive package, you ought to be encouraged by this news.

It's about the gay new trappings for tying up Christmas gifts, and one in particular—a cotton ribbon that can be pulled and tugged at without shredding or looking like a string when you have finished.

You can do all sorts of fancy tricks with this new ribbon. And the doing isn't difficult, once you have got the hang of it, with helpful hints from those in the know.

As Simple As That

Those enormous pompons, for instance, that look as though they had taken hours to achieve, are simply a series of loops, tied firmly in the middle and spread out in circular formation. And by turning alternate loops inside out (there is no right or wrong side to the ribbon) you can make the pompon look like a flower.

If you think you are too much of a novice to attempt these decorations, you can simply wrap narrow ribbon — patterned or plain—several times around a box, pull it together in the center and cut off the ends. Very effective and utterly simple.

Made-Up Sets

For the woman who is too busy or just plain lazy there are ensembles consisting of rosettes already made up and matching narrow ribbon for tying.

The new papers are stunning and in many cases may be completely accessoried with matching ribbon, stickers and tags. For example:

What could be sweeter for a little girl than a nursery pattern, the red and yellow ribbon tied in two-corner fashion, ending in a cluster of curls, made by pulling a knife or scissors blade along the ribbon?

For the sophisticate there is a gold paper with star and snowflake design, tied with starred ribbon, sealed and tagged in gold stars.

For Him—With Love

An inspired suggestion for a man's gift is a tobacco brown paper with conventionalized deer rampant, tied across one end in wide ribbon, to look like a bow tie!

For variety, why not wrap a box in twilight blue paper, then cover one-half of it with silver, finishing the joining of the two with two-tone ribbon and holly stickers?

Many Themes

Other outstanding patterns, to be accented as your taste dictates, include smoke gray pine cones on a lighter background; slim green balsam trees against white; Santa Claus and his reindeer galloping across a taupe ground to a little red house.

There really is no end to the variations on this theme, but it is well to keep in mind that large patterns are for large packages, small designs for small packages.

The cotton ribbons is within a modest price range, the narrowest width being 10 cents for five yards, and the papers start at 10 cents for three sheets. And by the way, there are extra size sheets for huge boxes this year —at 50 cents for three sheets.

Vary Your Salad Dressings To Suit Every Need

Variety in your salad dressing is a great help in giving your meals the touch of the unusual.

[illegible] to simplify the making of salads for a salad green served with an unusual salad dressing may be just as impressive as an elaborate combination of fruits or vegetables.

You will want to select a fine quality of dressing as a basis for your salad variations, of course. It is a good idea to try several brands and decide which of these has the flavor you like.

THOUSAND ISLAND

With mayonnaise dressing you will no doubt be frequently making Thousand Island dressing and tartar sauce.

To make Thousand Island dressing add two tablespoons each of chili sauce, lemon juice and chopped dill pickle to one cup of [illegible] dash of ketchup, one-fourth teaspoon paprika and three tablespoons of either chopped pimento or stuffed olives.

To make a simple tartar sauce add to one cup mayonnaise two chopped olives, one minced onion, one minced gherkin and one tablespoon chopped parsley; then season with one-half tablespoon capers and one-eighth teaspoon tabasco sauce.

Hardy Coffee

"White coffee," a Fay Holden special brew of half coffee and half milk, is so popular on the "Judge Hardy and Son" set that the actress finds herself enlisted in making a pot each morning for cast and crew alike.

HOW OLD ARE YOU?

I don't refer at all to women—I am speaking of a man,
If you've a plan to judge his age tell me if you can.
There's some can tell the age of most anything on earth,
But I contend no one can tell even if they know his birth.

I've seen young men of twenty although they looked some nifty,
But by their talk and actions, you'd say that they were fifty.
I'm not speaking of the years for years don't always tell,
I'm speaking of their walk and talk and wherein do they excel.

No one can tell man's age even if his birth is giv'n,
For age depends a lot on his habits of clean livin,'
I'm not speaking of the years but this we all should know,
Just how old do we feel when we hear the whistle blow?

Age is not judged by years no more than sadness is by tears,
It is God's plan to do the best we can without excessive fears.
Young or old heart or blind keep this thought in mind
Be all smiles and forget the miles that you have left behind.

General Good Will Prevails At Legion "Victory Dinner"

By Paul Wichterman

Democrats and Republicans sat down together last Thursday night to talk over events of the past city election and to congratulate each other on the victories achieved in both parties. Occasions for the unusual gathering was the "Victory Dinner" honoring all Hilltop successful candidates, sponsored by the Camp Chase post American Legion and attended by political big-wigs from the new Mayor-elect Floyd F. Green on down.

Guests of honor in addition to Green were Wyatt L. Millikin, re-elected to his fourth consecutive term in city council; Ray C. Hauntz, Republican, former president of the Columbus board of education, elected to his first term in city council; and Robert M. (Tag) Draper, Democrat, replacing Hauntz on the board of education.

Conceived in the minds of legionnaires as a goodwill gesture toward the new officials, the idea took hold so decidedly that many requests for tickets had to be turned down on the last day. More than 225 persons representing those high in party activities and many just plain friends of the local candidates enjoyed the sumptuous repast served in the legion quarters by Schmelzer's restaurant, 3178 W. Broad-st.

On the speakers list in addition to the honored guests themselves were William Schneider, Republican county chairman; Samuel J. Willis, tenth ward Democratic committeeman, representing County Chairman Walter Heer; Charles Kent, president of the Hilltop Business Men's association; and Judge Cecil J. Randall. Dr. A. C. Myers did an excellent job as toastmaster in addition to heading the committee on arrangements.

Mose Williams introduced the mayor-elect, who spoke at length on his appreciation for the support of the Hilltop in the recent election.

"I've never found a job in my life that was too big for me to tackle," said Green, "and this job of being mayor is no exception."

A marked attitude of general satisfaction was evident throughout the evening as one after another of the speakers was called on for remarks. Democrat ribbed Republican and jest was returned in kind as the evening progressed. At one point in his speech Republican Green remarked:

"If it hadn't been for some darn good Democrats I wouldn't be here tonight."

Among the visitors recognized around the table were Democratic Councilmen William Lehman and Roger Addison, County Treasurer Henry Frank, Fire Chief Herbert Welch and Reedy McDonald, chief clerk for the county commissioners.

E. W. Brown, commander of the post, opened the meeting. Those responsible for arranging the first dinner of its kind on the Hilltop were Brown, D. C. Finnegan, Ray McVay, Harry K. Marsh, Mose Williams, George Ward, Jay Bowser, Ralph Schmelzer, Dr. F. L. Sulzberger, Larry Seeles, Dr. A. C. Myers, C. H. Campbell and A. J. Bellar.

Leo Phillips sang a number of songs, including the Hilltop's favorite, "Dinah." Ray McVay jr. played several accordion selections.

Xmas Display Contest Will Be Held

The Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce is this year sponsoring a Christmas decoration contest for the stores on the Hilltop. Similar contests are to be conducted in each of the outlying districts in the city.

This contest is under the supervision of the West Side Board of Trade, which will judge the entries in this area. Names of the judges will be announced later.

A committee will pick the best decorated stores in this area and submit them as entries in the city-wide contest, the winners to be picked by judges named by the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The two thus selected will receive a bronze plaque donated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, suitably engraved.

This contest is open to all business and commercial establishments located on the West Side.

Interested proprietors are advised to apply for entry blanks at the Junior Chamber of Commerce, 30 E. Broad-st. There will be no charge for entering the contest.

Awards will be based on beauty and attractiveness of display, originality, ingenuity utilizing surroundings, and conformity to the Christmas spirit.

Little Venice

The first Spaniards who sailed into Lake Maracaibo in 1499 found it inhabited by lake-dwelling Indians who, as protection against their enemies, had built villages on stilts over the shallow inland bay. The Spanish commander, Alonzo de Ojeda, was struck by a romantic comparison. He named the region "Veneguela" —little Venice.

This Is the Melting Pot

Los Angeles, Calif.—If it is people you want to make a study of—then visit Pershing Square in Los Angeles.

Out here under the shade of the palms one finds a wide assortment of nationalities and oddities. Here it is that they gather to fight again all the wars—the Civil, the Spanish American, the World War, and now the present European rumpus. Here it is that all the problems of the day are settled as the man on the bench next to you becomes your neighbor and the conversation begins to flow.

Of the many high spots we visited in this city of winter sunshine this is perhaps one of the most interesting for the variety it provides.

Art and Ancestors At Exposition Park

Some of the loveliness of art and the beauty of a well planned park, along with much information and interest concerning our predecessors and ancestors on this continent are provided in a visit to Exposition Park.

"A work of art is anything extremely well done," advises a plaque in one of the exposition buildings where California parades before your eyes to show you that many are the things well done by both man and nature in this Pacific coast state that provides everything in extremes.

Most beautiful I saw in the way of art were the reproductions of famous paintings made from the wings of butterflies. Especially attractive are the brilliant colors in the Gainsborough "Blue Boy."

Here too we saw skeletons of the animals that roamed this territory centuries ago and preserved themselves for posterity by falling into huge pits of tar—the same kind of tar pits that exist out here today and are daily collecting birds, animals and reptiles to be preserved by nature for future generations.

Curiosity Shop Of America

While Los Angeles is beautiful, Hollywood is more of a center of attraction. Here is the curiosity shop of America. Here come the tourists of the country seeking a glimpse of a glamour girl or boy. And here more than likely they will be disappointed if that is what they sought.

It seems that glamour boys and girls are to be heard and seen only on the screen.

In the evening we visited Grauman's Chinese Theatre for a performance of a current movie that has already shown in Columbus. The theatre is beautiful but in our estimation not so different as we had expected.

A Visit To Santa Claus Lane

But speaking of glamour—Hollywood has it at this season of the year. Last Friday evening marked the official opening of Santa Claus Lane, famous as a beautifully lighted avenue of Christmas decorations.

While the Christmas spirit should be evident back home at this season of the year and most any day you expect to be able to drive out through a snow clad wooded drive that could not fail to instill the Christmas spirit, here in California something artificial is needed to do the job, and that's where Santa Claus Lane comes into the Hollywood picture.

For a mile down Hollywood Boulevard the brightest array of colored lights is made up to form a Christmas tree on every light post.

Turkeys Are Cheaper

You're likely to be in for a pleasant surprise when you shop for your Christmas turkey, it seems.

Despite forebodings that the advanced date wouldn't find the Thanksgiving crop ready, you probably found that the bird was easier on your pocketbook than last year by about three cents a pound.

The hungrier you are, it seems, the more gobbler your money will bring. For instance:

Plump young birds ranging from 20 to 25 pounds sell for 27 cents a pound and even lower. Smaller birds sell for a few cents more up to 31 cents a pound. Some markets, however, are selling at straight pound rates for quality birds.

So strike an average on your appetite, unleash your pocketbook, and go to it.

And California celebrated the Roosevelt Thanksgiving in order that the Christmas lights might be turned on a little earlier, a little more spirit might be encouraged and a few more sheckles turned into the cash registers—the same old Christmas spirit we have back home.

And now as I begin to think of the return home I too am anxious for Christmas to come early this year.

Notes and Nubbins:

One of the many delicacies discovered out here is "Chicken in the Rough", a plate of fried chicken and shoe string potatoes with nary a tool to eat it with . . . "Flowers are the poetry of heaven" says an inscription on the entrance to the gardens at Los Angeles' Expo. Park and the garden abounds in poetry of red, yellow and white roses with a background of giant Poinsettias at this season of the year . . . Out here in the movie capital of the world one doesn't escape the punishment of double feature movies . . . all the houses show them, and if you want your money's worth one house shows two full length movies and six acts of first class vaudeville for 15c . . . Hollywood's main boulevards have benches along the sidewalks for weary shoppers and visitors.

Wm. "Bill" Mack Is Outstanding Athlete, Scholar

Three letterman, ace blocking halfback in the city league, president of the senior class, and one of the most popular members of the student body. That's Bill Mack, West High school senior—a "wizard" in the classroom as well as on the gridiron.

Although he is a first stringer in football, basketball and baseball and other types of extra-curricular activities, Mack has maintained an A-average scholastic standing since his ninth grade in school.

Filling one of the most strategic positions on West High's runer-up team, he seldom carried the ball and made but one touchdown during the season.

Working his way up from the ranks, Bill played on the varsity teams in the three major sports during his junior and senior years at West High, earning two letters in each classification.

Having won enviable distinctions in many lines of endeavor at the Powell avenue institution, he plans to enter one of the smaller Ohio colleges after graduation.

Red Cross Needs Blankets

In response to an urgent request from the European countries housing war refugees, the Franklin county chapter, American Red Cross, is asking for contributions of blankets to fill a quota of 1,000 assigned them by National Red Cross.

Until receiving stations can be set up in different parts of Franklin county, the blankets can be taken to chapter headquarters, 387 E. Broad-st, or they will be collected on call to headquarters, AD. 9207.

Mrs. Stewart Baxter, chairman of knitting, announces that the chapter is wanting to enroll some more good knitters to help complete the quota of 200 sweaters which must be ready for shipment abroad by January. Yarn is given out at chapter headquarters or will be delivered on telephone request.

Seiller Displays Large Variety Of Novel Toys

Santa Claus brought a complete assortment of Christmas toys this year to Seiller's ready-to-wear store, 240 W. Broad-st—a bigger and better line than has ever been stocked before. And they're all in the new basement, leaving the street floor free for other Christmas merchandise displays.

Particularly noticeable is the large variety of novel items. There's a happy hen which cackles and lays eggs, an adding machine which may well prove a problem to Johnny's teacher (it can add up to 9,999), and work benches and drafting tables (the real thing on a small scale).

There are kitchen sinks with running water, all-metal modern doll furniture, doctor's kits complete with stethoscopes, electric wood carving sets, model airplanes, character dolls, and games galore.

An electric train with streamlined coaches, signals, switches, and flexible track (you can bend it into any shape and roll it up when play time is over), an electric vacuum cleaner, and a new thought-provoking "what's your name" game will make this Christmas as interesting for mother and dad as for the children.

Already, many of the lines have been completely sold out but more toys are constantly coming in to replace them. The management urges that patrons shop early in order to avoid the rush and to get a better selection. A lay-away service is available.

Besides toys, Seiller's has stocked a full line of Christmas gift items for all members of the family.

From Mexico City to Holland is a long jump—but not in southern California. In the Hynes-Clearwater area, about 15 miles from Los Angeles, many persons of Dutch extraction work in the dairies. One store in the area sells 2,000 pairs of wooden shoes a year and the colorful Hollandish festivals and customs are faithfully preserved.

Sky Rider

Mary Lou Heinz

Joe Donavan surveyed the lines of his speedy roadster, "Sky Rider." He took in the shining hood and the wheels that were so sure to carry him to victory next week in the race. He smiled to himself, as he thought of the other competitions he had won with cars not half so good as this.

But this car had been designed by Joe alone. He had spent many hours, burning midnight oil, missing meals, so that this auto would be perfect in every small detail. Now there were only 14 more hours until he would again be claimed speed king of the world. Joe decided to go home and dream of victory. Reverently he shut the doors of the garage and trudged, happily, homeward.

It was the day of the big race. Thousands of racing enthusiasts were gathered in the stands. The air was tense as the spectators waited for the signal to begin the race. In the press box Dick Dix, famous sports announcer, adjusted his tie and prepared to start the broadcast.

Sitting in the "Sky Rider", Joe had a few qualms as to the outcome. He looked around at the competition. That Paley kid looked pretty good. He was young but he had stamina. And his car was good too. He glanced up at the press. Bang! Joe heard the signal and was off in a maze of dust.

"They're off," Dix shouted. "Looks like a pretty fair beginning. No one has a decided lead as yet. The cars all look good from here—just a minute, folks—Joe Donavan is coming up fast. You'll remember him as two time winner of this very race. Looks like he's doing it again. Yes! He's over the line! And for the third time Joe Donavan is winner of the annual 'Soap Box Derby'."

Mostly Farms

Nearly nine-tenths of Ohio's land area is devoted to farming and approximately one-third of the state's population of 6,836,000 resides on farms or in rural communities, Director of Agriculture John T. Brown reports.

There are 256,000 farms, ranging in size from a few acres to several thousand acres, in the state's 41,040 square miles of area, the director reported on the basis of data assembled by the department.

Horse Play

Aberdeen, Wash: Having shot an elk, Harry Long hiked several miles to camp and got a horse on which to carry the meat. While he was carving up his kill, preparatory to loading it, another hunter—this one slightly near sighted—crept up and shot the horse.

It would be a narrow world indeed, where no one had breadth of mind to see the other fellow's side of life.

A home that is not planned right cannot be built right. NOMIS HOMES have been designed by expert home planners and practical building engineers, thus eliminating costly errors, waste of materials, waste of time and effort. Important details such as cross-ventilation, saving of waste space, time saving kitchens, materials for proper strength, standardized cuts to avoid waste lumber; all have been carefully planned by experts and approved by hundreds of satisfied users. This takes all the guesswork out of home building.

Dependable Materials

A careful check of NOMIS HOME specifications will enable you to know in advance before you spend a penny that your home will be built of topgrade material throughout. Professionally selected, properly cut, kiln dried, strong, clean lumber is your insurance of life-time satisfaction.

Delays Eliminated

Delays are expensive when you are building a home. NOMIS READY CUT HOMES eliminate these delays because every necessary item is available when you are ready for it. Complete blue prints and specifications make it easy to erect a NOMIS HOME. All cutting has been carefully and accurately done at the factory. There is no waiting for mill work or any other delay. Everything you need is provided for.

Both the exteriors and interiors of NOMIS READY CUT HOMES reflect the latest and the newest architectural ideas. Compare them with those built in restricted residential districts at much higher prices.

Great Savings

It is easy to see how Nomis production methods do the same things for you that these same methods have done for the automobile industry. Five big mills cut the lumber by the train load, make thousands of doors and windows at a time. This enormous production cuts manufacturing costs down, yet gives you a better product. Careful planning, elimination of wasted material, avoidance of costly errors and delays, savings in labor and time, giving you a more beautiful, more dependable building.

Easy To Own

Under the existing liberal terms of payment offered by the banks and other lending agencies, or under the Federal Housing Plan any eligible person can arrange for easy terms or payment at the lowest rates of interest in history. You cannot afford to go on paying rent when home ownership is so practicable and profitable.

CITY OF MANY AND VARIED TITLES

New Orleans . . . Here is a city of many titles, I hardly know which to call it.

A gem of beauty, say some. City of history and tradition . . . seat of the old south . . . where the old and new meet . . . romantic . . . hospitable southland . . . the mardi gras city . . . the city care forgot . . . port of the south . . . These and a number of other descriptive labels for this metropolis of over half a million people, nearly two-fifths of whom are colored.

It would take many days of intense viewing to get a complete look into all the interesting spots around "America's most interesting city," as they call it down here.

A trip down through the old French and Spanish quarters brings one to believe the people down here must certainly like the old things . . . hasn't changed much . . . not nearly so modern as many of America's large old cities.

INTRIGUING IS THE WORD

To say that New Orleans is intriguing is putting it mildly. There is something about it that is inexplainable. For instance, down here, many miles from snow and the things we are accustomed to having at Christmas time to instill the Christmas spirit, there has seemed to be an abundance of spirit this evening.

Many years ago the swashbuckling pirates, the Lafitte brothers, were attracted to New Orleans on dit seems that today the same colorful magnetism is drawing people from everywhere to this cross roads of the world for the same purpose, of just having a good time. "The city that care forgot."

HISTORY ABOUNDS AT THE CABILDO

Take a few minutes or a few hours around the old Cabildo and you cannot help but be reminded of the things you learned in history books . . . particularly the fact that the entire Southwest territory was sold to the United States for $15,000,000. And maybe it was a spirit of revenge back of Napoleon that caused him to remark, "I have given England [illegible] he [illegible] square miles of land to U-n.

Today Louisiana has preserved in much of its natural state the scenes of old New Orleans in and about the Cabildo, the capital. A state museum houses, for instance, the old slave quarters, the prisons and dungeons, the gardens, the old cypress water systems, in fact everything that depicts Louisiana from the time of the Lafittes down to and including Huey P. Long, of

A CITY OF CEMETERIES

To a stranger this city might be termed "the city of cemeterics." A guide told us there are 36 burial places and one can't help becoming acquainted with another phase of local history by the fact thta here, perhaps, more than in any other city there are more dead people above ground than underneath.

From the time of the founding of the city it was found that burial below the ground was impractical due to the fact that the very low land was flooded so much of the time, therefore stone burial vaults were built above the ground for the purpose of putting away the dead.

Until today this has continued to be a custom in New Orleans among practically all sects, and row after row of above-gorund burial vaults and mausoleums dot the many, many acres devoted to various cemeterics.

FOOD IS THE WORD DOWN HERE

That old remark about the way to a man's heart being through his stomach may be one of the reasons for my enthusiasm for New Orleans.

In my travels about 17 states in this jaunt I have yet to find any more or better food for the money than you get in the midst of this old southern hospitality.

Now on the last lap of our journey toward home it is food for thought to be able to plan a return to New Orleans at an early date.

Czatts To Leave For Florida

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Czatt and daughter, Libby Lee, of 2950 Crescent-dr, will leave tomorrow for a three weeks vacation in Florida. They will go by motor by way of New Orleans, then to Miami, St. Petersburg, Key West and other points of interest. They plan to see a football game in St. Petersburg on Christmas day.

Dr. Czatt's office will be kept open during his absence.

Bucks Wallop Academy

Seek Second Win Tonight

Breaking into a scoring rash after having their offensive efforts shrouded with defeat in two performances, West High's up-and-coming basketeers walloped the Columbus Academy five on the local floor Wednesday afternoon by a lopsided score of 53-15. It was the initial win for the Buckaroos after two setbacks and will send them into tonight's fray with the Alumni seeking their second win.

From the moment that Ucker sank a sucker shot for the Cowboys until Carter closed the scoring with a fielder, the game was a root for the Academy lads. Rogers followed Ucker with a two-pointer and Ucker scored again before the visitors made good on a bucket to trail the Bucks 6-2. Maxwell and Bell followed with two fielders and Ucker sank two goals before Bell tallied with his second basket of the evening. The Bucks led 16-2 at the quarter.

Rogers Scores

In the second period the Cowboys chalked up 11 more points while Academy could muster only three. Rogers came through with two fielders and a free throw, one of three made by the Bucks during the fray, while Maxwell, Bell and Williams tossed in goals. At the half the margin was 22 points; the score 27-5.

Academy provided their best opposition in the third canto when West was able to outscore them by one point. Maxwell went on a scoring streak to score seven points while Bell got his fourth fielder.

Bucks on Rampage

The Bucks really went on a scoring rampage in the final quarter as they made 17 points while holding Academy to a single basket. Richards, subbing at guard, scored three field goals while Snyder picked up four points on rebounds. Williams cashed in on a foul as Blackstone, Smith and Carter followed with two-pointers.

Previewing the contest Coach Williams shifted members of his squad and came up with the starting five of Ucker and Rogers at the forwards, Maxwell at center, and Smith and Bell at the guards. Ucker and Maxwell are seniors, while Smith is a sophomore. Maxwell played with the Reserves last Friday but in the Academy fracas led the Bucks' varsity in the scoring column with 11 points. Close behind were Bell and Ucker with eight, while Rogers tallied seven and Richards six.

In the second contest of the afternoon the West Junior five spanked the Reserves, minus Maxwell and Phil Wisdom, 13-4 in a low-scoring game. The Juniors will tangle with the Everett Juniors today at 3:15.

Glenwood To Have Entertainers

Glenwood park will present the first in a series of free variety shows Thursday evening at 7:30.

The public is urged to attend these events.

A display of expert handicraft work, loaned by the Curtis publishing company, will be shown at the shelter house Wednesday and the public is invited to attend between 3 and 9 p. m.

Free instructions in craftwork are given at the shelter house every Wednesday.

Armour To Take Part In Radio Discussion

George Armour, 90 S. Ogden-av, is one of three local university students who will participate in the first of a series of "Bull Session" programs to be presented tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock over WBNS together with two Oxford (England) and two the Oxford (England) and two Ohio Wesleyan university students.

The topic for discussion will be "How Can We Have a Say In the Next Peace?"

The president of Pi Sigma Alpha and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Armour is a graduate student in political science at Ohio State.

God's Holiness Mission, Richest at McDowell, is holding a series of evangelistic meetings nightly until Dec. 24. The Sunday services will be at 3:30 and 7:30 p. m. William Clark is the evangelist.

The Christmas Spirit Comes To The Hilltop

The atmosphere is heavy with the Christmas spirit as the entire community feverishly prepares to receive that jolly old fellow from the snowy northland on the eve of Dec. 25.

Stores packed with bright and shiny toys, novel gifts, tempting holiday pastries and delicious home-made candies herald the approach of Christmas day. Piled against outer store walls are row upon row of neatly cut saplings ready for delivery to a thousand neighborhood homes.

The Hilltop merchants have exceeded themselves this year in making new and attractice displays. Gaily colored lights, tinseled trees and windows chuck-full of pocket-book appeal exclaim irresistibly, "Buy It Here."

The two main traffic thoroughfares on the "Hill", have long since taken on the holiday air. Up and down Broad street and Sullivant avenue fir trees line the way. From above each the chubby, red-faced gentleman smiles benignly upon passersby.

Many churches have arranged special musical programs which will be presented on the evenings immediately preceding Christmas and the strains of "Upon a Midnight Clear" will float out upon the wintry air as various other groups go forth to sing carols.

Nor has the real spirit of the season been ignored. Religious, charitable, social and civic organizations are gathering together baskets of food and clothing for distribution among needy families. Many a neglected youngster will receive a Christmas gift this year for the first time in his underprivileged life.

Add this all up and you have the marriest of the merry seasons, Merry Christmas.

West Broad Principal, But Mostly About China

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

"We teach pupils to write differently these days," said West Broad's principal after her interviewer had seated himself comfortably at a desk in the school office and had begun taking preliminary notes in his left-handed, [illegible] hide-down scrawl. They'll do it every time.

Highland Avenue school, and attended Ohio State and Nanking (China) universities. She has some 100 college hours to her credit.

Greatest of her experiences was a two years' stay in China, 1925 to 1927. At Luho (which is near Nanking and means "center of the universe") she was supervisor of a girls' mission school. Courses of instruction ranged from kindergarten through high school. She handled them all.

"I never dreamed that I'd come back here," she said, "but then like a bombshell came the Nationalist uprising (1927)." The Communists had spread propaganda leading the Chinese to believe that all foreigners were imperialists and interested only in exploiting the vast wealth of China. Many non-Chinese lost their lives as a result.

Hide In Cistern

"The men at the mission," she said, "had to hide in the cistern until the initial storm subsided—for about 20 hours in all. This was unusual, for since the Boxer rebellion the Americans were always thought well of by the Chinese."

China's disunity," she continued, "was almost inconceivable. There was little or no communication between the people in one part of the country and those in another. In 1927 I was talking with a rickshaw driver in Shanghai, who had absolutely no conception that China was living under a republic, but who still thought that the old imperial dynasty held sway. The Republic had been in existence since 1912."

She related many experiences she had in that land of ancient civilizations. One of the greatest difficulties, she found, was to bring her living standard down to anywhere near the level of the Chinese coolie, with whom she was in constant daily contact. This, in fact, proved impossible.

"The money I spent for a pair of shoes," she said, "would be a month's wages to a Chinese. I wouldn't dare tell what I paid for a coat, although it wasn't much by our standards."

She recalls the time she brought a little Chinese girl into her house one cold day. "This must be heaven," said the little tot as she warmed herself before the glowing hearth. She had never seen the like before.

One New Year she bought 400 pounds of rice which was stored in one of the mission buildings. "At New Year," she explained, "it is an old Chinese custom to pay off all personal debts. Due to its unusually large circulation the value of moeny falls. Consequently you can buy more with what you have."

Faith Not Enough

Another one of the difficulties, she found, was to find a way to explain away the presence of the American gunboats in the river nearby. The missionaries were teaching that the Christian faith was protection enough. The shrewd Chinese were quick to discover the inconsistency.

Back in Columbus Miss Stuart resumed teaching at the Highland Avenue school. (She had taught here for eight years previous to her sojourn in China.) She was made principal of Highland in 1932. From 1936 to 1937 she was principal of Lincoln Park, and this fall came to West Broad in that capacity.

Her favorite hobbies are her nephews and nieces. "School work is so absorbing," she said, "I don't have time for many other things."

Greatest school need, she feels, is a healthy emotional and mental life for the pupil. "Failure of the teacher to meet the level of ability of the student," she said, "is the greatest waste in elementary school training. A teacher must teach such things in such a manner that the pupil can understand. A child must have successful experiences in connection with his school work in order to acquire confidence. And confidence is a necessary requisite for success in following years."

18 Hilltop Boys Will Die If U.S. Goes To War

Editor's note: Since the opening of hostilities in Europe, considerable attention has been directed by newspapers, magazines, and civic groups to what would happen to normal, day-to-day life in this country in the event the United States would participate. Almost uniformly these have dealt with the effects on the civilian population over the country at large. This article is an attempt to bring the meaning of war closer home—right here to the Hilltop—and to show what it would mean to the young men who would be required to give their life-blood in the struggle.

By John Hess

Eighteen young men leading normal, useful lives on the Hilltop today are marked for death tomorrow in the event this county goes to war.

Ranging in age from 21 to 30, most of them single, they would be taken from their homes and jobs within six weeks after the United States declared war. Their jobs would be filled with older or younger men, perhaps women. They would never return to their jobs, because they would die during the first year of war.

Eighteen of the strongest and best young men on the Hilltop must die if this country goes to war and the war lasts a year.

These figures are based on the census figures, experience in the last war, and cold facts. And they are conservative. For with the newer and more destructive instruments of war, this war's toll may be far more frightful than the last.

Eighteen is the minimum only. Each succeeding year the toll would be higher and the Hilltop's "honor roll" would lengthen more rapidly.

Present draft plans provide for registration of all young men from 21 to 30 years of age. That would mean over 2,000 of them from the Hilltop. The draft plans which are the work of the war department, are of course subject to congressional approval, but judging from past experience the technically unqualified congress can be relied upon to pass upon whatever suggestions are made by the general staff.

The call to arms would be spontaneous and immediate. There will be no waiting for volunteers when next we go to war.

Perhaps only a fourth of those registered would be drawn in by the first draft. Those who are the fittest, mentally and physically, would lead the way. On this basis over 500 sons of the Hilltop will be included in the first draft.

Sulzberger Named President Of HBMA

Announcement Made At Football Banquet Tuesday Night

Dr. Fred L. Sulzberger, 2948 Crescent-dr. local optometrist, was elected head of the Hilltop Business Men's association for 1940 as a result of the election held Tuesday night at the West High cafeteria. Charles Kant, grocer at 2756 Sullivant-av, is the retiring president.

Immediately preceding the business meeting the association paid tribute to Coach George Williams and his West High football stalwarts. William "Tippy" Dye, former Ohio State athlete and now head coach at Grandview Heights High school, was the principal speaker. Dye stressed sportsmanship and character in his short talk and linked the football field with later life in addressing the players. "You can always get something good out of losing just as you can in winning," he said.

In announcing the scheduled grid contest between his football team and the Buckaroos, to be played at Magly Field on Oct. 11, "Tippy" said, "We're going to bring 11 boys over here and put on an exhibition; we may be stepping out of our class, however." Following this announcement Dye dwelt on the two losses suffered by the Ohio State team this fall and gave reasons in each instance for the defeat.

ITY OF MANY AND VARIED TITLES

New Orleans . . . Here is a city of many titles, I hardly know which to call it.

A gem of beauty, say some. City of history and tradition . . . seat of the old south . . . where the old and new meet . . . romantic . . . hospitable southland . . . the mardi gras city . . . the city care forgot . . . port of the south . . . these and a number of other descriptive labels for this metropolis of over half a million people, nearly two-fifths of whom are colored.

It would take many days of intense viewing to get a complete look into all the interesting spots around "America's most interesting city," as they call it down here.

A trip down through the old French and Spanish quarters brings one to believe the people down here must certainly like the old things . . . hasn't changed much . . . not nearly so modern as many of America's large old cities.

INTRIGUING IS THE WORD

To say that New Orleans is intriguing is putting it mildly. There is something about it that is inexplainable. For instance, down here, many miles from snow and the things we are accustomed to having at Christmas time to instill the Christmas spirit, there has seemed to be an abundance of spirit this evening.

Many years ago the swashbuckling pirates, the Lafitte brothers, were attracted to New Orleans an dit seems that today the same colorful magnetism is drawing people from everywhere to this cross roads of the world for the same purpose, of just having a good time. "The city that care forgot."

HISTORY ABOUNDS AT THE CABILDO

Take a few minutes or a few hours around the old Cabildo and you cannot help but be reminded of the things you learned in history books . . . particularly the fact that the entire Southwest territory was sold to the United States for $15,000,000. And maybe it was a spirit of revenge back of Napoleon that caused him to remark, "I have given England [illegible] square miles of land to U. S.

Today Louisiana has preserved in much of its natural state the scenes of old New Orleans in and about the Cabildo, the capital. A state museum houses, for instance, the old slave quarters, the prisons and dungeons, the gardens, the old cypress water systems, in fact everything that depicts Louisiana from the time of the Lafittes down to and including Huey P. Long, of

To a stranger this city might be termed "the city of cemeteries." A guide told us there are 23 burial places and one can't help becoming acquainted with another phase of local history by the fact thta here, perhaps, more than in any other city, there are more dead people above ground than underneath.

From the time of the founding of the city it was found that burial below the ground was impractical due to the fact that the very low land was flooded so much of the time, therefore stone burial vaults were built above the ground for the purpose of putting away the dead.

Until today this has continued to be a custom in New Orleans among practically all sects, and row after row of above-ground burial vaults and mausoleums dot the many, many acres devoted to various cemeteries.

FOOD IS THE WORD DOWN HERE

That old remark about the way to a man's heart being through his stomach may be one of the reasons for my enthusiasm for New Orleans.

In my travels about 17 states in this jaunt I have yet to find any more or better food for the money than you get in the midst of this old southern hospitality.

Now on the last lap of our journey toward home it is food for thought to be able to plan a return to New Orleans at an early date.

Czatts To Leave For Florida

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Czatt and daughter, Libby Lee, of 3959 Crescent-dr, will leave tomorrow for a three weeks vacation in Florida. They will go by motor by way of New Orleans, then to Miami, St. Petersburg, Key West and other points of interest. They plan to see a football game in St. Petersburg on Christmas day.

Dr. Czatt's office will be kept open during his absence.

Bucks Wallop Academy

Seek Second Win Tonight

Breaking into a scoring rash after having their offensive efforts shrouded with defeat in two performances, West High's up-and-coming basketeers walloped the Columbus Academy five on the local floor Wednesday afternoon by a lopsided score of 53-15. It was the initial win for the Buckaroos after two setbacks and will send them into tonight's fray with the Alumni seeking their second win.

From the moment that Ucker sank a sucker shot for the Cowboys until Carter closed the scoring with a fielder, the game was a roll for the Academy lads. Rogers followed Ucker with a two-pointer and Ucker scored again before the visitors made good on a bucket to trail the Bucks 6-2. Maxwell and Bell followed with two fielders and Ucker sank two goals before Bell tallied with his second basket of the evening. The Bucks led 16-2 at the quarter.

Rogers Scores

In the second period the Cowboys chalked up 11 more points while Academy could muster only three. Rogers came through with two fielders and a free throw, one of three made by the Bucks during the fray, while Maxwell, Bell and Williams tossed in goals. At the half the margin was 22 points; the score 27-5.

Academy provided their best opposition in the third canto when West was able to outscore them by one point. Maxwell went on a scoring streak to score seven points while Bell got his fourth fielder.

Bucks on Rampage

The Bucks really went on a scoring rampage in the final quarter as they made 17 points while holding Academy to a single basket. Richards, subbing at guard, scored three field goals while Snyder picked up four points for rebounds. Williams cashed in on a foul as Blackstone, Smith and Carter followed with two-pointers.

Preceding the contest Coach Williams shifted members of his squad and came up with the starting five of Ucker and Rogers at the forwards, Maxwell at center, and Smith and Bell at the guards. Ucker and Maxwell are Juniors, while Smith is a Soph more. Maxwell played with the Reserves last Friday but in the Academy fracas led the Bucks varsity in the scoring column with 11 points. Close behind were Bell and Ucker with eight, while Rogers tallied seven and Richards six.

In the second contest of the afternoon the West Junior five spanked the Reserves, minus Maxwell and Phil Wisdom, 13-4 in a low-scoring game. The Juniors will tangle with the Everett Juniors today at 3:15.

A display of expert handicraft work, loaned by the Curtis publishing company, will be shown at the shelter house Wednesday and the public is invited to attend between 3 and 9 p. m.

Armour To Take Part In Radio Discussion

George Armour, 90 S. Ogden-av, is one of three local university students who will participate in the first of a series of "Bull Session" programs to be presented tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock over WBNS together with two Oxford (England) and two the Oxford (England) and two Ohio Wesleyan university students.

The topic for discussion will be "How Can We Have a Say In the Next Peace?"

The president of Pi Sigma Alpha and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Armour is a graduate student in political science at Ohio State.

God's Holiness Mission, Richart at McDowell, is holding a series of evangelistic meetings nightly until Dec. 24. The Sunday services will be at 3:30 and 7:30 p. m. William Clark is the evangelist.

The Christmas Spirit Comes To The Hilltop

The atmosphere is heavy with the Christmas spirit as the entire community feverishly prepares to receive that jolly old fellow from the snowy northland on the eve of Dec. 25.

Stores packed with bright and shiny toys, novel gifts, tempting holiday pastries and delicious home-made candies herald the approach of Christmas day. Piled against outer store walls are row upon row of neatly cut saplings ready for delivery to a thousand neighborhood homes.

The Hilltop merchants have exceeded themselves this year in making new and attractice displays. Gaily colored lights, tinseled trees and windows chuck-full of pocket-book appeal exclaim irresistibly, "Buy It Here."

The two main traffic thoroughfares on the "Hill", have long since taken on the holiday air. Up and down Broad street and Sullivant avenue fir trees line the way. From above each the chubby, red-faced gentleman smiles benignly upon passersby.

Many churches have arranged special musical programs which will be presented on the evenings immediately preceding Christmas and the strains of "Upon a Midnight Clear" will float out upon the wintry air as various other groups go forth to sing carols.

Nor has the real spirit of the season been ignored. Religious, charitable, social and civic organizations are gathering together baskets of food and clothing for distribution among needy families. Many a neglected youngster will receive a Christmas gift this year for the first time in his underprivileged life.

Add this all up and you have the merriest of the merry seasons, Merry Christmas.

Introducing -

West Broad Principal; But Mostly About China

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

"We teach pupils to write differently these days," said West Broad's principal after her interviewer had seated himself comfortably at a desk in the school office and had begun taking preliminary notes in his left-handed, upside-down, scrawl. They'll do it every time.

Miss Matilda Stuart was born in Columbus, graduated from

Miss Matilda Stuart

Highland Avenue school, and attended Ohio State and Nanking (China) universities. She has some 200 college hours to her credit.

Greatest of her experiences was a two years' stay in China, 1925 to 1927. At Luho (which is near Nanking and means "center of the universe") she was supervisor of a girls' mission school. Courses of instruction ranged from kindergarten through high school. She handled them all.

"I never dreamed that I'd come back here," she said, "but then like a bombshell came the Nationalist uprising (1927)." The Communists had spread propaganda leading the Chinese to believe that all foreigners were imperialists and interested only in exploiting the vast wealth of China. Many non-Chinese lost their lives as a result.

Hide In Cistern

"The men at the mission," she said, "had to hide in the cistern until the initial storm subsided—for about 20 hours in all. This was unusual, for since the Boxer rebellion the Americans were always thought well of by the Chinese."

China's disunity," she continued, "was almost inconceivable. There was little or no communication between the people in one part of the country and those in another. In 1927 I was talking with a rickshaw driver in Shanghai, who had absolutely no conception that China was living under a republic, but who still thought that the old imperial dynasty held sway. The Republic had been in existence since 1912."

She related many experiences she had in that land of ancient civilizations. One of the greatest difficulties, she found, was to bring her living standard down to anywhere near the level of the Chinese coolie, with whom she was in constant daily contact. This, in fact, proved impossible.

"The money I spent for a pair of shoes," she said, "would be a month's wages to a Chinese. I wouldn't dare tell what I paid for a coat, although it wasn't made by our standards."

She recalls the time she brought a little Chinese girl into her house one bold day. "This must be heaven," said the little tot as she warmed herself before the glowing hearth. She had never seen the like before.

One New Year she bought 400 pounds of rice which was stored in one of the mission buildings. "At New Year," she explained, "it is an old Chinese custom to pay off all personal debts. Due to its unusually large circulation the value of money falls. Consequently you can buy more with what you have."

Faith Not Enough

Another one of the difficulties, she found, was to find a way to explain away the presence of the American gunboats in the river nearby. The missionaries were teaching that the Christian faith was protection enough. The shrewd Chinese were quick to discover the inconsistency.

Back in Columbus Miss Stuart resumed teaching at the Highland Avenue school. (She had taught here for eight years previous to her sojourn in China.) She was made principal of Highland in 1932. From 1935 to 1937 she was principal of Lincoln Park, and this fall came to West Broad in that capacity.

Her favorite hobbies are her nephews and nieces. "School work is so absorbing," she said, "I don't have time for many other things."

Greatest school need, she feels, is a healthy emotional and mental life for the pupil. "Failure of the teacher to meet the level of ability of the student," she said, "is the greatest waste in elementary school training. A teacher must teach such things in such a manner that the pupil can understand. A child must have successful experiences in connection with his school work in order to acquire confidence. And confidence is a necessary requisite for success in following years."

18 Hilltop Boys Will Die If U.S. Goes To War

Editor's note: Since the opening of hostilities in Europe, considerable attention has been directed by newspapers, magazines, and civic groups to what would happen to normal, day-to-day life in this country in the event the United States would participate. Almost uniformly these have dealt with the effects on the civilian population over the country at large. This article is an attempt to bring the meaning of war closer home—right here to the Hilltop—and to show what it would mean to the young men who would be required to give their life-blood in the struggle.

By John Hess

Eighteen young men leading normal, useful lives on the Hilltop today are marked for death tomorrow in the event this country goes to war.

Ranging in age from 21 to 30, most of them single, they would be taken from their homes and jobs within six weeks after the United States declared war. Their jobs would be filled with older or younger men, perhaps women. They would never return to their jobs, because they would die during the first year of war.

Eighteen of the strongest and best young men on the Hilltop must die if this country goes to war and the war lasts a year.

These figures are based on the census figures, experience in the last war, and cold facts. And they are conservative. For with the newer and more destructive instruments of war, this war's toll may be far more frightful than the last.

Eighteen is the minimum only. Each succeeding year the toll would be higher and the Hilltop's "honor roll" would lengthen more rapidly.

Present draft plans provide for registration of all young men from 21 to 30 years of age. That would mean over 2,000 of them from the Hilltop. The draft plans which are the work of the war department, are of course subject to congressional approval, but judging from past experience the technically unqualified congress can be relied upon to pass upon whatever suggestions are made by the general staff.

The call to arms would be spontaneous and immediate. There will be no waiting for volunteers when next we go to war.

Perhaps only a fourth of those registered would be drawn in by the first draft. Those who are the fittest, mentally and physically, would lead the way. On this basis over 500 sons of the Hilltop will be included in the first draft.

Sulzberger Named President Of HBMA

Announcement Made At Football Banquet Tuesday Night

Dr. Fred L. Sulzberger, 2948 Crescent-dr, local optometrist, was elected head of the Hilltop Business Men's association for 1940 as a result of the election held Tuesday night at the West High cafeteria. Charles Kent, grocer at 2756 Sullivant-av, is the retiring president.

Banquet Bucks

Immediately preceding the business meeting the association paid tribute to Coach George Williams and his West High football stalwarts. William "Tippy" Dye, former Ohio State athlete and now head coach at Grandview Heights High school, was the principal speaker. Dye stressed sportsmanship and character in his short talk and linked the football field with later life in addressing the players. "You can always get something good out of losing just as you can in winning," he said.

In announcing the scheduled grid contest between his football team and the Buckaroos, to be played at Magly Field on Oct. 11, "Tippy" said, "We're going to bring 11 boys over here and put on an exhibition; we may be stepping out of our class, however." Following this announcement Dye dwelt on the two loses suffered by the Ohio State team this fall and gave reasons in each instance for the defeat.

HIGHLAND SPEAKER

A special program has been arranged for the Sunday evening service at the Highland Avenue Friends church when Don Falkenberg jr. will speak on "Satan, a Most Advertising Psychologist."

Notice

The election is over, the winner has been duly congratulated, and now I wish to take this opportunity to thank my many friends who supported me in the closest and perhaps the hardest fought contest in recent years for the presidency of the Hilltop Business Men's Association.

And now as the loser I wish to tell the world

"I Ain't Mad at Nobody"

During 1940 I will continue to give support to efforts to improve the community in which I live and do business, ever remaining an unofficial but extremely interested spectator to the "Passing Show of 1940."

Unemployment Compensation

Automobile salesmen made idle because of strikes in the automobile industry are ineligible for unemployment unless they quit their jobs or are dismissed, according to a recent statement by H. C. Atkinson, administrator.

In many cases salesmen who applied for unemployment compensation were continuing to give demonstrations and promise future deliveries. Some were selling used cars because new car sales were not possible. Their earnings had dropped temporarily, but had not wholly stopped.

As long as automobile salesmen continue their employee relationship to an employer, they will be ineligible for unemployment compensation, it was said.

Theatres

Loew's Broad

Loew's Broad is now showing the tender romance, "Intermezzo, a Love Story," with Leslie Howard introducing lovely Ingrid Bergman, new Swedish actress, to the American screen. Edna Best is the third angle of the modern triangle and young Douglas Scott and Ann Todd are the children. "Fast and Furious," third in the series of Joel Sloane mysteries, is added. Franchot Tone and Ann Sothern are in the cast of this fast-moving funny photoplay.

Loew's Ohio

Loew's Ohio is now showing the comedy-romance, "Remember?" with Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres, with "Barricade," featuring Alice Faye and Warner Baxter. Miss Garson is the lovely green-eyed actress who scored such a hit in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

Uranium Is By-Product In Processing Of Radium

While the mineral resources of Canada seem inexhaustible, the enterprise with which she is developing those resources and applying the fruits of research to the more varied uses of the minerals are equally impressive. An example is provided by uranium, of which Canada is now an important source. It is used, among many other purposes, as a coloring agent in the production of certain shades of yellow and deep orange in glazes and glass.

Uranium is obtained as a by-product in the processing of radium from pitchblende, and after the discovery and development of the rich deposits of pitchblende in the Great Bear lake area and the erection of a refinery at Port Hope, Ontario, it entered the world markets, says Canada's Weekly. Its entry into the ceramic field was achieved by the cooperation of private research workers and the laboratory experts of the department of mines and resources.

In recent years the popularity of the bright orange color which it produces has increased considerably, particularly for such articles as bungalow tableware, tiles, jugs and bowls, and art pottery.

The new chemical plant for the recovery of radium, at Port Hope, was erected by the Eldorado Gold Mines, Ltd. There the ore from the mine is treated. Recovery for uranium was about 90 per cent.

Local Firm To Sell Pre-Cut Houses

The Ohio Nomis corporation, a firm specializing in construction of pre-fabricated or ready cut houses, has its local headquarters at 2405½ W. Broad St. The office was opened recently by W. E. Jones, local realtor and builder.

Based on mass production, the Nomis home construction plan is designed to reduce construtions and material costs to a minimum.

It is said that the usual waste that occurs in cutting of floor ends, siding joints, rafters etc. has been largely eliminated.

Plans for the homes have been drawn up by expert designers and building engineers who have given careful attention to all details from proper cross-ventilation to step-saving kitchens.

All cutting has been done at the factory according to blueprints and construction can begin immediately upon acceptance of orders.

Designs, both interior and exterior, reflect the latest in architectual ideas.

Than weeks of devilment with heirs of kings.

West Junior Basketball Sked Announced; To Play 13 Games

Bronco Mentor Formerly Coached At Cardington; Compiled Fine Record

Starting his second season as coach of West Junior high school basketball activities, Dale Rose announced this week a 13-game schedule for the "Little Buckaroos" or Broncos, as they are more familiarly known. Seven of the games will be played at home.

The Broncos have met two foes in non-league contests to date. (Wednesday they were to play the West Reserves.) In the initial encounter the Rose-coached aggregation lost to the Everett team by the score of 14-12, while last Friday the locals marked up their first victory when Crestview got the short end of a 21-15 count. The Broncos will again match shots with the Everett team when the two squads meet this afternoon at West High school.

The Everett-West Jr. tussle will be a rip-roaring contest. In addition to having beaten the locals earlier in the season the Everett gang topped the Central Reserves by a comfortable margin. The Dennison-av school is the arch rival of the junior high team and has been responsible for the loss of many titles by the local squad.

Lettermen returning as a nucleus for this year's squad include George Ours, Frank Marshall and Richard Carter. Those making strong bids for starting posts are Edward Collins, Dick Olpp, Herbert Stewart, Jack Underman, Jack Baird, Lowell Hoover and Charles Reeser.

Wesleyan Graduate

An Ohio Wesleyan grad in 1933, Rose coached the basketball team at Cardington (Ohio) High school in Monroe county where his teams produced a remarkable record. In four seasons under the guidance of Rose, then coaching at his alma mater, his team won 77 games and lost 13. In league competition their record over that period was 50 wins as against only four setbacks.

You'll say, "Well, he played all Class B teams!" But this was not the case. His teams played several Class A clubs, including Bridgeport and Martins Ferry. According to Rose, the town took its basketball pretty seriously and whenever another event was being planned he was always contacted to see if it would interfere with the court contest. Cardington is known as a "basketball center."

Dale came to West Junior in 1937, teaching mathematics during his initial year on the Hilltop. In 1938 he succeeded Coach George Williams (who replaced Harold Wise) and at present coaches basketball, teaches, and baseball at West Junior, and in addition serves as an assistant football coach at the local high school.

Although his West Jr. basketball team won only six games while losing eight last season, Rose can boast of a successful court campaign as his charges edged the league champions, Champion, by a 30-29 count in one of the major upsets in city junior high circles.

The remaining games to be played by the Broncos are the following:

Dec. 15—Everett
Jan. 5—Indianola
Jan. 6—At Crestview
Jan. 9—At Barrett
Jan. 12—At McKinley
Jan. 19—South Juniors
Feb. 2—Franklin
Feb. 9—At Champion
Feb. 16—At Roosevelt
Feb. 20—Faculty

Our congrats to Russ Alban on his selection as captain of the 1939 West High grid team. Russ was one of the mainstays of that great team which was beaten only once and finished in the runner-up slot in the City league standings. Weighing only 145 pounds dripping wet, his work in backing up the line was excellent and not once did he commit a bad pass in centering the pigskin.

One of the bright spots on that grid team which recently finished its sked was little Les Westerman. If you'll remember he played a whale of a lot of guard. Another 145-pounder, he rose from the scrubs where he had played for two years, to a post on the varsity. For such a little feller that was some job but Les never quit trying and his efforts were rewarded with his selection to several All-High squads.

Although baseball season is still pretty far away the West High athletic committee is busy in getting the diamond in better shape, and if you'll remember last spring it was the best diamond in the city. The entire athletic grounds, including the football field, the practice field and the baseball diamond, has been reinforced by the addition of 19 truckloads of rich southern Ohio dirt, each load weighing five tons, C. F. Bateman informs us. Grass will be planted on the practice field in the near future.

Did you know that Dale Rose and Paul Wichterman went to Cardington high school together? Dale coached here for four years after he left college before coming to West Junior while Paul matriculated at W. Va. U. and is now managing the Record. Local boys make good!

Three West High gridders are members of the All-Central Ohio squad which will do battle with a Florida aggregation in the sunshine state around Christmas day. It will be the annual Kumquat Bowl game. Russ Alban, Bill Hart and Jack Carpenter were given berths on the squad, it was announced recently. In each instance the boys were entirely deserving of the honor. Russ is a center while the other boys were varsity ends on the recent Buckaroo grid machine.

The Kumquat Bowl and the Florida weather will also attract another Hilltopper as Coach Geo. Williams will be head mentor of the northern group. Assisting him is William Henry Harrison "Tippy" Dye, the Grandview coach, whose team was undefeated the past season and who was the principal speaker at the football banquet given by the HBMA Tuesday. Incidentally, that dinner in honor of the West team was well attended.

"I AIN'T MAD AT NOBODY"
Your Teeth

He was feeling bad and he could not eat,
His hands were swollen and so were his feet.
I suggested that perhaps he had the gout,
Or maybe his teeth should be all pulled out.

He said that he knew his teeth were bad,
But to think of a Dentist made him feel sad.
His own natural teeth he would like to keep,
Although they caused him to lose his sleep.

He finally raised courage the Dentist to see,
The Dentist on his breast placed one big knee.
He made a few heaves, that Dentist was stout,
When the man woke up his teeth were all out.

The man told me after his false teeth came,
He was as good as ever or about the same.
He could work all day at splitting rails,
Or work in the factory where they make spike nails.

The logical thing for Congress to do,
Is to make a new law and speed it through.
Every tooth in a man who is over thirty-nine,
Must quickly come out or assess him a fine.

SOMETHING NEW for HILLTOP
Our new Band Box dry cleaning System is now ready to serve you. When your clothes, hats, gloves, drapes are cleaned "The Band Box Way", the fabric is quickly and gently cleansed; the original lustre is restored; your garments are returned to you odorless, clean and soft.
Suits and dresses are given individual attention in our new plant. Because in the Band Box machine the cleaning fluid circulates constantly through the Crystal Tower Purification System, there is no dirt carried over from a previous load in the machine. Only clean, pure solvent comes in contact with your clothes in our Band Box System.
Come and see for yourself how we "refresh" your clothes, bringing out the original beauty of the fabric without robbing the fibres of their life-giving protective oils. We will be proud to show you our Band Box System, and explain our fine dry cleaning service.
All the qualities you ask for are to be found in this job done by our new Band Box System.
Odorless There is absolutely no "cleaning" odor to garments cleaned the Band Box way. This is a feature you will appreciate.
Soft . . . Fabrics are "soft as a kitten's ear" when we dry clean them. No more harsh, stiff fabrics.
Quick . . . Because of our individual treatment of suits and dresses, we can meet your most urgent emergencies. And the job is [illegible]

The 8 o'clock vesper worship service in the Hillcrest Baptist church Sunday evening will feature selections from the cantata, "The Christ Child," by Reese, which will be sung by the volunteer choir of the church.

Under the direction of W. E. Knox, with Miss Ruth Humphries at the organ, a half-hour concert has been prepared. Following the special music the stories of some of the best known carols will be narrated coupled with the singing of the carols themselves.

The carols to be so used are as follows: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Angels From the Realm of Glory," "Away in a Manger," and "Silent Night."

The special musical program of the choir will be as follows: Organ introduction and chorus, "The Light of Promise;" obligato by Mrs. C. D. Bailey; duet and chorus, "The Hope of the World," with James Smith and Victor Miller; chorus, "Peace on Earth"; "A Child Shall Lead," by a trio composed of Mrs. V. Edwards, Franklin Edwards and E. "Neat, eh, dear, I'll show you a radio that is a radio!" Grandpa got sick and tired of the 10-year-old [sloppy clutter-ling up the living room. So, for this Christmas he ordered a new RCA Victor K-80. Here's what he said to us "Sounds good . . . looks good . . . and, by George, I don't see how anyone can put so much value into a radio as you have into the K-80! I'll take it!" Modern Poetry

DISCIPLINE

Sing your little song, O foolish woman;
Burn your little candle in the sun;
Weep your silly tears for love soon ending!
Know that all stars burn out one by one.

I'll sing my little songs, O bitter life;
I'll quench my little candle in the sun;
With tears I'll lay the dust of [illegible]
And sing of love when all the stars are gone.

Gertrude P. Weaver,

A POET'S GIFT

A bit of his soul cried out to be free.
He clothed it in words and sent it to me.
They call it a poem—some claim it's an art—
This intangible something he gave to my heart!

[illegible]BOY'S HOME

There's a one-way path on a crumbling bank
Where silvered mullein grows so rank,
That leads to a house, the last one out . . .
You can easily hear the children shout.

There's a barn at the back with plenty of chores;
The air is good for it's all out-doors—
A rooster stands on one leg and looks
Like the pictures in the picture books.

And yonder the trees beyond a doubt
Is somebody's home, the last one out.

Laura Petit Wright,
in QUICKENING SEED.

THE THIEF OF TIME

So many good intentions are lost—
The call we should have made;
The letter still unwritten,
Words of comfort left unsaid.

O Thief of Time! so subtly
Your net, procrastinate,
Is cast about us and we find
Our intentions are too late.

Ethel Titus Worthen.

WITHERED BUD

Shame! The inhibition
That hinder me and you,
The round eyes ever watching
To see what we will do,
That cause the kindly impulse
To wither while yet in bud,
And the friendly hand uplifted
To fall with heavy thud.
O shame to you, Mrs. Grundy,
And all your flimsy clan,
When you make a man too timid
To help a fellow man.

Kate Butler.

SONG WITHOUT WORDS

Places I may never see,
All the dreams escaping me,
Things I always hoped to do,
Hours I might have spent with you,
Fate that kept me from each goal
Looked their music in my soul.

In the Valley of the Bears

San Luis Obispo, Calif.—This town of about 12,000 inhabitants, nestled down in the hills, and but a few miles distant from the Pacific ocean, is my choice of California's small towns which I have been privileged to visit.

I'd choose San Luis perhaps because it provides so much in the way of variety. The town itself is modern and beautiful with its homes in the valley and on the hillsides, bordered by California's typical decorations—flowers. Then, too, I like it because the hills remind me of my native West Virginia, and the fine farm country hereabouts would not be a change from those familiar scenes in and around Greenfield, Washington C. H. and Lancaster, O.

This is the "Valley of the Bears", so named because back in 1772, at the time of the founding of the old San Luis Obispo Mission, a party emanated from here to hunt bear to feed the starving Indians and whites in the missions on the west coast as far south as San Antonio.

The story tells that about 9,000 pounds of bear meat saved the lives of these people in that particular winter.

Mission [illegible]
In 1772

The father of California's missions, Father Junipero Serra, founded San Luis Obispo de Tolosa Mission on Sept. 1, 1772. It was the fifth of the old California missions, all dating about this time.

Today the old mission building stands as a monument to the pioneering spirit of those days and is in regular use by the only Catholic church of the town. Each year one of the outstanding events for miles around is the annual Fiesta, sponsored by the church, with the old mission as the background.

The building, made of adobe, a mixture of mud and straw, properly dried and cemented together with mud, many of the original hand prints showing plainly in the walls, stands today in perfect condition.

Recently a section of the wall was removed and inspected closely under microscopes and it was found that enough moisture had come up through the walls during all these years to keep various germs alive and several grains of a strange looking corn found in the mud and straw were planted and grew.

One Man Chamber of Commerce

In fact these four days in San Luis have just about made me a one man Chamber of Commerce for the place.

If it's scenery you want—we have it. One minute you may be in bathing in November in the Pacific ocean and a few minutes later be fishing in a high mountain stream. And added to other outdoor sports hereabouts are wild dove and pigeon shooting, quail and duck shooting.

If you like clams take a trek to Morro Bay or Pismo Beach, a few minutes away, and dig yourself some 5½ inches . . . or if you like abaloni they too abound in the rocky crevices of seashore. Albicore, halibut, rock cod, blue fish, sea bass, smelts, mackerel and sea-trout may be taken or a deer may be had nearby.

Major income of the county is from agriculture. This is the largest wheat producing county of the state. Almonds, vegetables, cattle make up a big industry. The 15,000 acres of almonds in bloom in March make up one of the beauty spots of the countryside we are told. Walnuts, apples, apricots and grapes abound. Then too, for your private consumption you may raise your own oranges and lemons.

Thanks!

Our most sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dickey of San Luis for a most pleasant introduction to a most pleasant spot in the west.

When we venture back to our Ohio we will take along a memory of San Luis Obispo that will no doubt draw us westward ho again.

Merry Christmas!

This is the time and the place to say it and to all those we are not privileged to repeat it to personally we say it again and in most sincere fashion, "Merry Christmas."

Every year this old, old greeting goes forth from lips of all nationalities and is expressed in innumerable other ways. The greeting in itself is enough to satisfy if it is backed up by sincerity and honesty.

Real Christmas spirit is best expressed at this season of the year if the days that have gone before have been filled with goodness and cheer. Tiny Tim could enjoy the occasion because, unlike Scrooge, he had lived it every day.

Rare are the individuals among us who have in the past year determined if he or she has had the Christmas spirit. Too often we catch the spirit, like a disease, only at certain seasons of the year. And what a healthy germ it is. Too bad the resistance of so many minds keeps it out.

Year after year we rush in at the last minute to lay down dollars in exchange for merchandise in order that in our very commercial way we can extend our greetings to our friends. To many this is being Christ-like and to them the Christmas spirit has taught.

Christmas comes but once a year, true enough. That is, the observation of the holiday is but an annual affair. But to those who most enjoy the season behind Christmas the day is merely a climax of all the good days that have gone before.

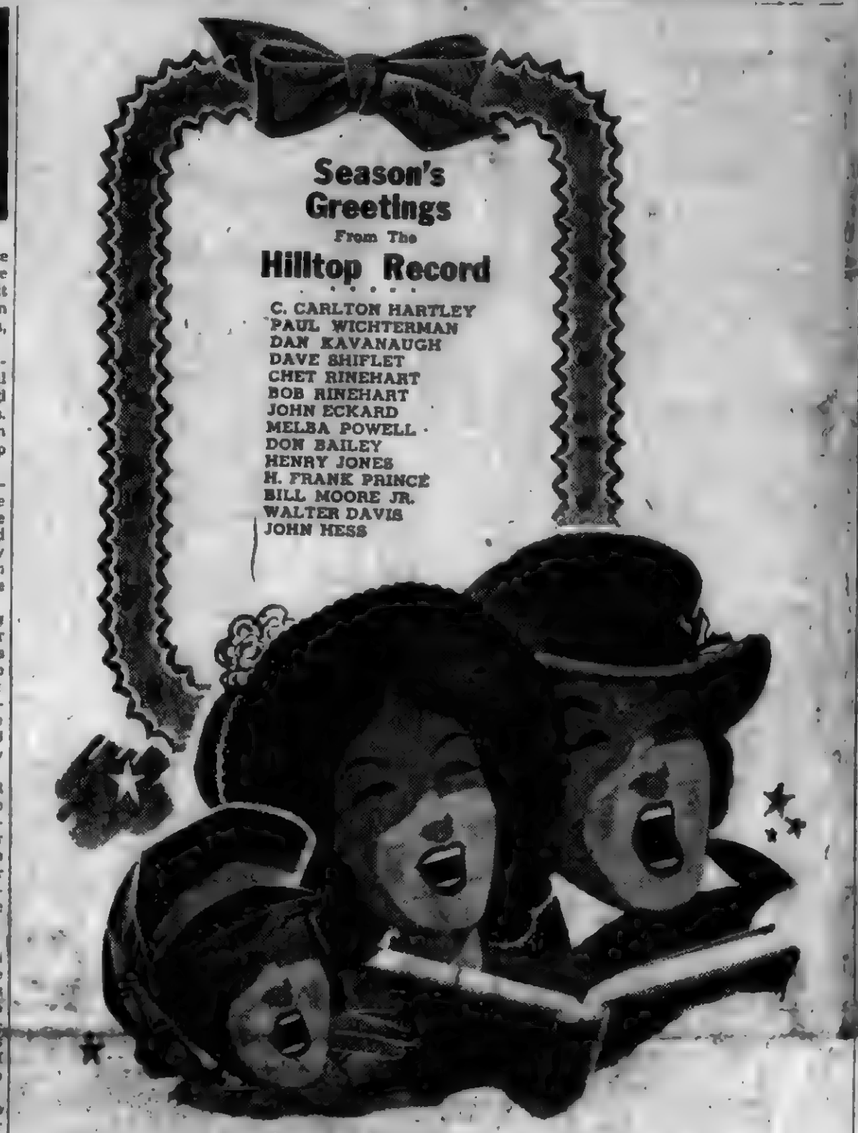
Heavy seas make great sailors and if your thinking and your actions have been helpful to others than yourself during the preceding 364 days then the year's outstanding holiday will be one of rejoicing

Right here is the real meaning of Christmas. We cannot stay long in the presence of those who put on a show for their particular audiences. We like to know that the same show runs continuously for all who attend. Christmas spirit for one day only is not very potent.

I heard the bells on Christmas day
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

Sweet are these words, "Peace on earth," when so little of it is evidenced. Fortunate are we being able to hear the rat, tat, tat of toy drums while millions march in war and a hatred inspired by a few individuals.

Thanksgiving and Christmas have so much in common. This latter event can best be observed with thanksgiving . . . thanks for a country of everything fine about us and an ideal before us that will keep it as it is.



May each of us in our humble way determine to carry our part of the load of creating an understanding that will pervade the hearts of men everywhere to make it possible to obtain the fine things that come from peace on earth, good will to men.

And to do this requires first that we understand that this cannot be accomplished until we think in terms of a greater number than one . . . ourself. If the things we do are to benefit only ourselves then we have failed.

Selfishness must be out. All the happiness in the world can be ours without asking if the Christmas spirit can grow throughout the years and that worthwhile ideal of doing things that benefit others can be maintained. Then tomorrow shall be bright . . . and there's always tomorrow.

Injured

Thomas Sheakey, age 52, 179 Eldon-av, suffered head and hand abrasions when he was struck by an automobile at W. Broad-st and Wayne-av last Friday, according to a police report.

Many Festivities Herald The Approach Of Christmas Day

L. S. Roach Elected By GOP Club

Lawrence S. Roach, 349 S. Richardson-av, was elected president of the Eleventh Ward Republican club at the annual election of officers held in VFW hall ,2393½ W. Broad-st, Tuesday evening.

Russell Learned, 38 Binns-blvd, is the retiring president.

Other officers named were C. M. Gibboney, first vice-president; Charles W. Dolby, second vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Wagner, recording secretary; Mrs. Thelma Goodwin, corresponding secretary; Horace Swain, treasurer, and Adrah Harper, Mose W. Williams, Thomas R. King, William H. Rogers and John Howell, trustees.

The newly elected officers were installed at the same meeting.

Early interest in the race for Republican committeeman from the eleventh ward was being evidenced this week with stories in the air that at least two men will seek the post now held by Dale Dysart.

Jay Bowser, 35 N. Hague-av, has been most prominently mentioned for the post. He has been active in Camp Chase post of the American Legion for [illegible].

Arthur J. Bellar has likewise been mentioned as a possible candidate. He is former commander of the local legion post. Bellar would not state this week if he has definitely decided to enter the race.

Coyle Gets Republican Club Post

Avard R. Coyle, 254 Nashoba-av, newly elected corresponding secretary of the Buckeye Republican club, was installed along with other officers Monday night at the Southern hotel.

Library To Close Until Dec. 26

The Hilltop branch library will be closed all day Saturday, Dec. 23, and will re-open Tuesday, Dec. 26, at 1 p. m.

Model Church On Display At Hilltop Bank

It's a church. It's about seven feet high and 10 feet deep. Floating out through the tiny doors come the soft lilting strains of the best-known carols.

In each perfect spire is suspended a golden bell. The beautiful stained-glass windows diffuse soft and mellow light. There's a green lawn, shrubbery, tiny steps, and a brass hand rail. It's complete from sidewalk to rafters.

It's the scale model church built by A. O. Harmer, 192 N. Powell-av, now on display at the Hilltop bank, 2374 W. Broad-st. Residents of the community are welcome to come in "and look it over," according to officials.

Westway Post Seeks New Members

Westway post No. 3441, is one of more than 3,500 local VFW units throughout the country which will, beginning Jan. 1, conduct a membership campaign designed to add to at least 100,000 eligible overseas veterans to VFW membership rolls before Aug. 1, 1940.

As a part of the membership drive, Commander Stevens of Westway post has completed plans for a local survey of eligible veterans in this community.

With the number of potential members determined the post will then conduct a person-to-person campaign to aquaint eligibles with the objectives and achievements of the VFW and to enlist their active cooperation in the attainment of the organization's current program.

Besides being a patriotic organization, Commander Stevens said, "Our organization is dedicated to the care and welfare of disabled and unemployed veterans. We are seeking justice for the dependents of deceased veterans. We are promoting a 'Keep America Out of War' campaign which deserves the support of every loyal American."

R. G. Wilson sr., was elected last Tuesday chairman of a permanent organization for the purpose of unifying veteran organizations in district No. 15 for veteran placement.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Jan. 9.

Masons, Eagles, Legionnaires Have Parties For Kiddies

Many festivities have been planned by the various organizations and groups on the Hilltop as the entire community swings into the rythm of the Christmas season.

Cantatas, candlelight services, special music, carol singing and colorful pageants herald the approach of Christmas Day. Elaborate programs arranged by the churches are masterpieces of patience and ingenuity.

Schools had their holiday programs. Study room doors were closed Wednesday and a thousand youthful faces beamed in anticipation of the holidays.

Bedecked with glittering lights and tinsel, homes and churches have long since taken on the aspect of the season.

Religious, charitable, social and civic groups have diligently gotten together collections of food, clothing and toys so that others less fortunate might partake of the general good cheer.

Several Christmas parties with the usual goodies, glittering trees, and inevitable St. Nick's have been planned for the children of the community.

A former building contractor, Roberts was city building inspector for 12 years, a thirty second degree Mason, Westgate lodge, a member of the 13 club and the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church.

Matson Must Go, Says Mayor-Elect

Koontz Won't Get Expected Job; Phillips To Be In "Set-Up"

"George Matson won't stay." Thus Mayor-elect Floyd F. Green this week disposed of the controverted case of the city building inspector who was named provisionally to that position by Mayor Gessaman in August, 1936, and received regular appointment on Nov. 3.

Although Green was instrumental in securing the position for Matson in the first place, the latter will be ousted along with most others in the general "clean sweep" of municipal offices designed to restore solidarity in the Republican party ranks.

Matson resides at 87 N. Warren-av.

In many quarters it has been generally conceded that Henry A. Koontz, former tenth ward committeeman, had the inside track on the street cleaning superintendency.

Green stated this week that Koontz was definitely "out" as far as this job was concerned. Someone else is slated for the position.

Leo Phillips, 617 S. Ogden-av, it has been indicated, "will be somewhere in the set-up." Speculation would give him the job of chief of detectives which was vacated recently by the resignation of Harry Carson.

Phillips has been active in the police department for the past 11 years.

According to recent information, Hultz Bancroft, 449 Catherine-st, is in line for the job of deputy service director.

Mrs. James Richardson Wins Lost Merchandise Contest

Mrs. James Richardson, 2378½ W. Broad-st, won first prize ($50) in the Lost Merchandise contest sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association, it was announced this week by C. H. Campbell, secretary.

Second and third prizes were won by Mrs. William Thompson, 380 Midland-av, and Mrs. G. H. Blesch, 166 N. Ogden-av, respectively.

The following were awarded honorable mention: Mrs. J. L. Morris, 300 S. Hague-av; Beulah Brown, 854 S. Wayne-av; Irma Lauer, 2871 Sullivant-av; Mrs. Charles Prior, 611 S. Roys-av; Mrs. Alice Krebs, 285 N. Wayne-av; Fannie Wasmer, 400 S. Wayne-av; and Mrs. W. Curlis, 300 S. Hague-av.

In addition to identifying articles of lost merchandise in the business establishments on the Hilltop, contestants wrote brief statements in answer to the question, "How can the Hilltop Business Men's association be of greatest service to the community?"

Following are excerpts from the numerous answers received: The association should use its influence to acquire another fire station for the Hilltop. Hilltop employers should give first preference to Hilltop residents. The association should try to secure a branch YMCA or similar organization for the community.

The association should encourage industrial expansion in the community. The association should endeavor to get better lights for the cross streets. The organization should stress the need for restricting purchases to

Hauntz Suggests Plan For Columbus Schools

At the last official school board meeting of the year held Tuesday night, Ray G. Hauntz, retiring president, submitted a "10-point plan" as a "suggested" future program for the board.

This was the first time in the annals of the Columbus school system that such a definite and comprehensive program had been outlined by a retiring board member, according to school officials.

Said Hauntz: "As retiring president and board member of the Columbus board of education, I herewith submit a 10-point plan, which in my opinion is for the best interest of the schools and children of Columbus:

"1. A school program should be developed carefully and economically. No one phase should be expanded at the expense of other phases. First obligation is to do in a satisfactory manner those things required by law.

"2. Continue to emphasize the moderization part of the school building program, permitting maximum use of present investment in school plant.

"3. School system is an involved and complicated institution. Changes should be made slowly in order to prevent confusion.

"4. Schools should cooperate with all public and semi-public agencies. But care must be exercised: (a) That too many outside activities do not intrude on school program; (b) That those activities which are permitted to enter be acceptable to the general public and not to just one or two groups of citizens; (c) That these activities be carried on by the regular constituted school authorities or under their immediate supervision.

"5. Schools are an educational institution. All matters pertaining thereto, whether educational or business, must be interpreted and decided in the interest of the children.

"6. Curtailment of any sort should be made as far as possible away from the children.

"7. Some of the curtailments made in the past due to the financial crisis, should be restored as soon as conditions permit, namely: (a) Restore the 10% reduction of salaries; (b) Lower the teacher-pupil ratio.

"8. Course of study established that would be more useful to children who cannot attend college.

"9. A system established to help children find out what profession or vocation they are best fitted for.

"10. Continue development of vocational education and adult education."

Hilltop Dancers Participate In Variety Club Show

The Variety club held its ninth annual Christmas party last Sunday in the club rooms, 55 E. State-st (Grand theatre building).

Three star acts were chosen from the Jimmy Rawlins School of Dancing. These were the Three Sailors, consisting of Jimmy Justis, Eugene Gammon and Richard Strait; the team of Earl and Bernice Goodchild; and Dick Weber.

The Three Sailors opened the show with a novelty sailor dance and for an encore executed a double rhythm dance.

Earl and Bernice Goodchild were featured in a rhythm dance and for an encore did a bugle call dance.

Dick Weber opened with a song and dance of his own arrangement and for an encore performed an imitation dance.

Following the show a turkey dinner was served and gifts were presented to all.

Mrs. Annie Richards Recalls Xmas In Merrie Old England

Mrs. Annie Richards was only a little girl when she came to this country from England 84 long years ago. But she vividly recalls Ye Merrie Christmas in that farie isle of carol singers and the smouldering Yule log.

"We didn't know what a Christmas tree was," she said, "but we exchanged small gifts and had lots of candy, cakes and sweetmeats."

"Early in the morning," she continued, "we were awakened by carol singers who had trudged through the snow to our door and who wouldn't go away until we had given them some money."

The Christmas chicken (they had never seen a turkey) was broiled in an iron kettle over an open hearth fire. The kitchen had a stone floor and the bread was baked in a brick oven out in the yard.

"We always had a plum pudding on Christmas day if we didn't have anything else," said Mrs. Richards. "I remember because I never liked it, I always picked the raisins out."

Walking six miles to and from the nearest town, starting at dawn and returning late in the evening, her mother did the Christmas shopping.

On one occasion she brought home a wax doll, a most cherished gift indeed. But it came to no good end.

"I washed it one day in a little stream which ran through our yard," said Mrs. Richards, "and then put it in the hedge to dry. When I went to get it, the sun had melted it. It was the only wax doll I ever had."

Ninety-two years old her next birthday, Mrs. Richards came here from Worcestershire, England, in 1886 on a sailing vessel. The crossing through the ice winds of the North Atlantic took six long weeks. "I never wanted to go back," she said, "and particularly not at this time."

Mrs. Richards lives with her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Thatcher, at 2936 Crescent-dr. She is the grandmother of County Auditor Newton J. Thatcher.

MODERN POETRY

Edited by ESTHER WEAKLEY

At Christmas, Father Time

Time, before you lift the latch
To open another year's gate,
Tarry a moment in the grounds of now,
And banish the spectres of greed and hate.
Spare for one day—a King's birthday—
Bright dreams, that small eyes may glow,
Let men recall song, hope, mirth;
And cover with the peace and beauty of snow
The weary and blood-stained earth.
Leave comfort with the hearts
That have need or fear,
Rout bitterness, grief, every ill—
Spare for one day—a King's birthday—
Peace, Father Time, and good will.

Claudia M. Adams

A Mother's Way

Son, when you find the Baby King tonight—
Before you offer frankincense and gold—
Give His mother this white woolen blanket
So she can protect Him from the cold.
Tell her it is one I made for you
When you were a baby—she'll understand . . .

And when you and the others reach the barn,
Do not approach it with your arms outstretched,
Lest she see your shadows,
Like three crosses, etched,
Aslant the sand!

Esther Weakley.

Christmas Night

Ageless stars, for aeons shining,
Since the creation morn,
You must have shone on Bethlehem
The night the King was born.
You must have seen the shepherds
And heard the angels sing;
You must have seen a Mother
With the new-born Baby King.
Did you see in her happy eyes
The mother love light glow;
Hear the outpourings of her soul
In raptured accents, low?
Mother love of all the ages
Haloed that Baby's head;
The mother heart of all the world
Enshrined His manger bed.
And so, O stars, because you once
Beheld that wondrous sight,
You hover low, and watch again
Every Christmas night.

Ola S. Runyan.

Great Light

The sun has taken the last shred of day
To new horizons. Faintly mellow light,
From stable windows, penetrates the night.
Within, the wondering cattle nose their hay
But do not eat. A feeble candle-ray
Bestirs their dumb amazement, and a sight
Of love here in the manger offers quite
A burden for their bovine minds to weigh.

There is a brighter beam than cattle know
Piercing the outer darkness from this place.
And many a man, like these poor beasts, with bland
Amazement (dumb and blinded by its glow)
Will grasp no miracle of love, no trace
Of brotherhood—will never understand.

One lady suggested that the association could best serve the community by protecting consumers from misrepresentation of merchandise and educating them to wise and thrifty buying.

Another urged that the clerks in the stores wear badges or other marks of identification in order to distinguish them from the customers.

Several contestants expressed themselves in rhyme. For example:

The Hilltop business men for years
Have boosted our community,
They've made things better out our way
On every opportunity.

Contractors Aim At Small Homes

The trend in residential construction is toward smaller homes. Government records show that while 56 per cent of the homes financed by FHA loans in 1936 were below $6,000 in value, by 1938 this percentage had jumped to 65 per cent.

There is every indication today that the swing toward the smaller, less expensive home is a permanent one, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries' bureau. The preference today is obviously for the compact type of sevantless house, even among the income group which in former years built larger houses.

West High's surprising Buckaroos stretched their winning streak to three straight Monday evening as the local basketball team defeated Springfield 22 to 16 following the 50 to 29 victory over the Alumni five Friday night. The Cowboy court forces, having completed their pre-holiday ked, will be idle until Jan. 5, when South will provide the opposition in the league-opener on the Bulldog floor.

The Springfield win was a ma-e jor upset. The Wildcats had walloped a trio of top flight clubs and threatened to make mincemeat out of the Bucks by scoring twice in the first minute. Blackstone broke the ice for the locals with a foul toss and Maxwell followed with a beautiful side shot to make the score 4-3 in favor of the Wildcats.

Smith Ties Count

West took the lead in the second period after Smith had tied the scor at 7-7 with a swishing side toss. Ucker, who was the best man on the floor, and Maxwell came through with baskets to give the locals a commanding 11-7 lead at the half.

The third period saw the tightest defensive playing of the evening, the Wildcats making three points and the Buckaroos counting a single basket. The final quarter became the most interesting from the spectators' point of view as Springfield tried desperately to overcome the Cowboy margin. The score stood at 19-14 with three minutes to play but a foul shot and basket by Paul Rogers, his only points of the evening, cinched the verdict.

Stinson Is Goat

The Alumni-West varsity fracas was a well-played affair in which a last minute rally by the former threatened to sink the Buckaroo five. The former West athletes trailed by the score of 28 to 22, going into the final canto, but a basket by Ray Redmond tied the score at 29 all shortly before the gun sounded.

With one second to play Carter missed a free throw for West and it looked as if the game would go into overtime.

Frank Richey, Alumni forward, had fouled Carter, his fourth personal. Ray "Murph" Stinson, center on last season's combine, replaced Richey but didn't report to the official. As the game ended the foul was called and "Duck" Ucker calmly stepped to the free throw line to make the toss good, give the Buckaroos the 30 to 29 decision and prevent the contest from going into an overtime

Ucker High

In the two contests Ucker, lanky West forward, tallied 19 points, followed by Maxwell with 11. Rogers garnered eight while the rest of the scoring was divided among Richards, Smith, Blackstone and Carter. Ucker, although only a junior, is playing his second season as a varsity member having held down one forward position all last season.

Astronomical Distances Must Be Re-Surveyed

Discovery of a special bending of starlight near the time of sunrise and sunset, due apparently to peculiar waves on top of earth's atmosphere, has been announced at Columbia university.

The discovery affects the basic measurements in astronomical distances. It shrinks the estimates of the size of the Milky Way, and indicates that many stars familiar to the naked eye are two or three times nearer than has been believed.

About 5,000 stars are affected. They are the stars whose distances were supposed to have been accurately measured by ordinary engineering surveying methods. The nearest of these, such as Proxima Centauri, the closest star, distance four and three-tenths light years, are only slightly affected. But the error rises rapidly with increasing distance.

The discovery was made by Prof. Jan Schilt, head of Columbia's Rutherford observatory.

It has long been known that bending occurs when light passes from empty space into the atmosphere. But Professor Schilt has found a new bending.

The twist affects astronomy's measurements of star distances because many of these are taken near sunrise and sunset.

Accurate measurements of these distances are astronomy's yardstick for calculating the distance to the millions of other stars too remote for surveying.

Little Venice

The first Spaniards who sailed into Lake Maracaibo in 1499 found it inhabited by lake-dwelling Indians who, as protection against their enemies, had built villages on stilts over the shallow inland bay. The Spanish commander, Alonzo de Ojeda, was struck by a romantic comparison. He named the region "Venezuela"—little Venice.

Twelve times one night Mr. Otis Chips of Chicago rose to answer the telephone because of a novel he has never read and a movie he has never seen. Twelve times the following conversation ensued:

"Hello, is this Mr. Chips?"
"Yes."
"Good-bye, Mr. Chips."

Everyone Should Have Milk Quota

Milk is considered the most important food for growing children. It has no equal as a source of calcium. See that children have their quota every day—a quart apiece. Adults should drink a pint.

The milk can be drunk as a beverage or mixed into cream soups, stews or puddings.

Pictured above are George Kanavel and Lee Berger, who recently took possession of the Oakley Den, 2373 Sullivant-av, and converted it into a modern food market.

Both had been previously employed by a Hilltop grocery for a number of years.

The store has been remodeled to carry a complete line of grocery merchandise including quality meats, fruits and vegetables, as well as the staple lines.

Bernard Shaw, to the London Daily Chronicle, on being told by the doctors that he would die unless he ate some meat: "My situation is a solemn one. Life is offered to me on condition of eating beefsteaks. But death is better than cannibalism. My will contains directions for my funeral, which will be followed not by mourning coaches, but by oxen, sheep, flocks of poultry and a small traveling aquarium of live fish, all wearing white scarfs in honor of the man who perished rather than eat his fellow creatures. It will be, with the exception of Noah's ark, the most remarkable thing of the kind seen."

From behind German fortifications soft music and laughter swing down the skies. They don't talk about gun emplacements or artillery action from Reich radio stations. The aim seems to be to show that, despite the war, all is calm and efficient behind the German lines.

Merry Christmas

A Merry Christmas To All!

CHRISTMAS again dawns on the whole world . . full of the peace and spiritual happiness that is its innermost significance. In every part of the globe, even in the war torn areas, Christmas Day carries a special feeling of warm fellowship that finds its material being in the friendly custom of gift giving. We on the Hilltop join the rejoicing multitudes observing this custom and spirit. We're filled with heartfelt sentiment appropriate to the occasion . . . we feel an urge to carol, to give voice to our inner feelings, to slap friends, family, anyone on the back and shout for everybody to hear, A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

The Unanswered Call

by ADRIAN FULLER

Every year as the festive season of Christmas approaches the thoughts of people everywhere are directed toward Palestine, the country of the Nativity. The carols, decorations, and every element connected with the season reminds us that in the Near East, some 2,000 years ago an event transpired that has been the main spring for our annual celebration of the birth of the Saviour. Even wars and rumors of war in that land itself cannot stifle the atmosphere of Christmas. And so it was on the night of Dec. 24, 1917, we found ourselves in Palestine, a soldier among countless others wondering as to what was transpiring some thousands of miles to the east, while we were on the exact spot which millions of other people turned their thoughts and hearts at this gladsome season of the year.

The war was on in full swing. Just a score of miles north of Jerusalem the Turks lay entrenched after being forced out of the Holy City several weeks before, and quiet and peace blanketed Jerusalem and its environs the day before Christmas.

We had been thinking all of that Dec. 24th, of how detestable and sordid war had been—how disillusioning and embittering it was, and yet, how could we know that even that very night there would be an experience which would provide compensating memory, and would in a degree seem to obliterate the impressions of the unhappy days.

And increasingly often as those years since the armistice roll along we find those memories of fugitive incidents, not of war but incidental things, becoming richer and more vivid.

Never before had armies been composed of men like those who gave their lives in that struggle. Men of the professions, artisans and mechanics, a few professional soldiers and even those trained in other arts, all turned their hands toward that which they considered a duty to their respective countries.

In camps among the hills of Judea or under the starry canopy covering the Sinai desert, and yet in stranger places we had heard the wonderful notes of vocal music, rich bassos and lilting tenors which one knew came from the voices of those trained in their art.

And so an appreciation of the vitality of the human spirit and the beauty of men's souls in perhaps the most satisfying thing we have retained from those years of military service . . . and what a compensation that is.

That campaign in Palestine brought many interesting days and nights, but none more completely satisfying than the night of Dec. 24, 1917.

The movement across the Sinai desert, the fierce battles for Gaza and Beersheba, culminating later in the occupation of Jerusalem, all thrilled the world tremendously. But, too, Jerusalem itself and the events of the night before Christmas in that year when people everywhere, war weary and sick of carnage and destruction, took time out for the age old celebration of Christmas.

That day we had been down into the old city, which is divided into two parts. There is that portion within the walls which is nearly all native in life and population and the part outside the walls which is quite mixed and resembles in some aspects European life and custom. Here are the majority of the convents, monasteries and other religious institutions.

In our spare time we used to wander through such of these buildings as were open; linger in the cloister of the Russian Hospice; pause to glimpse a formal garden in the courtyard of a Greek monastery, or on a moonlit night take ourselves up onto the roof of a certain building and gaze down over the town lying there all silver and shadow under the light of the moon. Then it seemed the dirty streets and sordid byways were only luminous strips of light concealing the scars which the fierce suns of the day laid bare . . . then one became a part of the night, dreamy and enchanted.

And on that night of Dec. 24, we were making our way back to the camp which lay to the northwest of the city, just beyond the grounds of the Syrian orphanage, a splendid institution, a product of German mission activity.

I remember upon approaching the orphanage remarking how clearly the tower of the main building limned its height against the sky, flanked by two slender cedar trees which exceeded even the tower in height . . . There was a fresh breeze coming in from the Mediterranean and I fancied the murmurs of the cedars as the wind brushed their bows was of especially varied tone this night. Not since a day in London, a year and more ago, had we heard a pipe organ. Forgetting the hour and aught else but this music, we turned into the grounds and, following the sound of the organ, passed through a courtyard, and after climbing a flight of stone steps came to a balcony overlooking the chapel from whence the music came.

A shaft of white moonlight streaming through an open window shone over the organ and upon the player . . . Seated at the keyboard was an officer, dressed in field service uniform, complete in boots and spurs, the ribbons on his breast throwing a slash of color against the white light of the moon. His cap lay on the floor beside him, and his hair as though joyous in its freedom from confinement played in wavy curls as the breeze came through the window and the player swayed to the rhythm of his own music.

I caught the insignia of an artilleryman from the lapel of his tunic, but the face that we saw was not that of a gunner. It was the face of a musician, the artist, of a creator of art. A quizzical smile played over his countenance as he lifted his fingers from key to key, and as the swelling tones of the melodies of Chopin and Beethoven swelled out into the night no uniform encased the soul of the man; his body was imprisoned in the evidence of his daily drudgery, but on the face of the player the soft white light of the night told the story of a spirit soaring and thrilling away above war, suffering and discontent.

I stole into the chapel and sat down in the shadow, listening as he went from one composer to another; from the crashing tones of Wagner to the soft murmurings of a Schumann serenade. Truly we listened to a master . . . Suddenly the music ceased . . . There with head bent down over the keyboard of the organ was the player, and great gusts of uncontrolled sobbing shook his frame. Impulsively, I started to go to him, but a second thought stayed my steps, and I made my way softly out of the chapel—out the way I had come, leaving him alone with his music.

As I passed out through the grounds the cedars still murmured as though in kindly sympathy for the soul of the musician there at the organ.

Several days later after the festivities of the holiday were over we were invited to attend a celebration in honor of the king's birthday at the headquarters artillery mess just across the "wadyi" from our camp.

Full regimental ceremony was the order and there was something about that beautiful procedure that was quite impressive. After the toast to the king and brigade had been drunk, and under the influence of good food and sparkling wine the company became quite gay.

The accents of the Highlands of Scotland against the lighter tones of Oxford and London gave many a chance for laughter, when a gay subaltern from county Cork would turn them in contrast—of course unfavorable to one or the other. And it may have been 'twas the singing of the Welshmen of the mess in addition to the setting of this artillery mess among the hills of Judea which made it all so impressive.

Near the close of the evening we observed the Colonel in earnest conversation with the brigade adjutant. One of my friends noticed it too and told me they were discussing Captain Fenturn, the only absentee of the evening. His opinion was that the colonel would send for him, and so it proved. It seemed that Captain Fenturn was exceedingly popular and therefore his absence was all the more strongly marked.

The incident had all but slipped from our mind under the influence of the conviviality of the mess, when our friends said, "Ah, there is Fenturn." We turned toward the entrance of the marquee and there, standing at salute, was the man who had played the organ but a few nights before.

His face was ghastly white, and the shadows under his eyes indicated a need of sleep. But he was a splendid figure—tall and straight as he stood at the entrance of the mess.

After entering the mess and the formalities being over, many questions were hurled his way—where had he been, etc., etc. But there was no answering smile on his face—no response to the mood of his mess-mates. We alone of the numbers there knew that something too deep for explanation, something beyond his capacity to tell, had happened—for had we not seen him the night before, his soul exalted, only to drop to the depths again.

The doctor, a bluff Scott, in captain's uniform, came over and laid his hand on Fenturn's shoulder and bade him cheer up. But Fenturn rose abruptly and followed by the doctor left the mess.

The hum of conversation had been renewed . . . glasses had been filled and refilled by the time the doctor came back to the marquee. With face strangely solemn he approached the Colonel. He spoke a few words, and the Colonel, after a few moments of silence, rose to his feet and signaled for attention.

"Gentlemen," proceeded the commandant, his voice, usually strong and vibrant, now wavering and halting, "sad news has come to the brigade. I say sad news has come to the brigade for whatever affects Captain Fenturn affects us all.

"The day before Christmas Captain Fenturn received word that three weeks ago his wife and babies, aged two and four years, were killed by a bomb from an air raider over London. In view of this news, gentlemen, this mess will be vacated at once and all will return to their quarters."

That which had been but a short time ago a center of lights and gayety was now but a cavern of gloom and silence.

Officers filed out with but few words. Perhaps thoughts of their own families back in England filled their minds. My friend who had invited me to dinner walked back to our lines with us. We asked him what he knew of Fenturn. He knew little about him except that he was a brilliant officer, beloved of all who knew him.

Before the war he had been the organist in the great cathedral of an old town in the north of England. Our friend had heard too that his wife had been a singer, one who often sang in the opera at Covent Garden.

We sat alone in the doorway of our tent after our friend had gone, thinking of Fenturn. The other night—that Christmas even we had seen a human soul stripped bare in all its glory. Upon the receipt of his news Fenturn must have gone straight to the organ—the only one in all Asia Minor—and there had stilled the torture of his soul as he played to those he had loved, even as he must have done times without number before, calling to them first with one melody and then with another . . . and finally when the answer did not come—that was when his head bent down over the keyboard—and we stole out into the night.

Institution Inmates To Enjoy Varied Holiday Entertainments

Due to the beneficence of the state and the charity of numerous individuals and groups the inmates of the various social and service institutions located on the Hilltop will not want at Christmas time.

State Bureau of Juvenile Research

At the bureau of juvenile research, 2280 W. Broad-st, each child will receive two Christmas gifts which he will be permitted to take home with him when he leaves the bureau.

Many of the presents have been brought from the outside, according to supervisors.

Each classroom will have its individual Christmas tree and decorations. There will be a big chicken dinner on Christmas Day and oranges and candy aplenty.

"It is our purpose to make Christmas here as normal and happy for the children as it should be at home," said the officials at the institution. "Some of the children have never had a Christmas in their lives," they added.

Feeble Minded Institution

The inmates at the feeble minded institution, 1601 W. Broad-st, had their regular Christmas church program last Sunday.

Yesterday evening they presented a playlet entitled, "St. Nicholas." On Christmas Day a chicken dinner with all the trimmings will be served. Gifts furnished by the state will be distributed. In addition to those hundreds of boxes have been received from homes of the children.

In the main building there is a huge Christmas tree, while several smaller ones have been placed in the various wards. As a part of the Christmas program a cinema, "The Three Musketeers" will be presented next Wednesday.

State Hospital For Insane

An elaborate holiday celebration, which began Tuesday and will continue until Jan. 6, is now in full swing at the state hospital for the insane, 1960 W. Broad-st.

Something novel and exciting will be presented each day, according to officials in charge of arrangements.

Groups of entertainers from the local radio stations are being featured on the program. Paul Decker and his dance orchestra entertained Tuesday night; on Wednesday the Buckeye Four and the WPA dance orchestra were the main attractions; there was a presentation by the Wynter School of Expression yesterday, and Walter Knick and his orchestra are slated for today.

A special Protestant Christmas service will be read on Sunday by Rev. Sharidan Bell and on Sunday evening the robed choir will sing carols in the various wards.

A duck dinner will be served at noon, Christmas Day. Visitors will be received in the afternoon and in the evening 37 students of the Jora Fasting School of Dancing will perform.

The state will furnish oranges, candy and popcorn balls for the occasion, while many gifts have been received from relatives, individuals and organizations.

An enormous Christmas tree decorates the auditorium stage while many others have been distributed throughout the various wards.

Next Friday afternoon (Dec. 29) an original Christmas pageant, "A Christmas Legend," composed by the patients themselves will be presented. Later in the day the Columbus Salon orchestra, under the direction of Edwin Stainbeck, will present orchestral numbers.

The program for the remainder of the week will include several picture and minstrel shows.

Census Task Is Huge

Getting into practice for next year's titantic task of counting the population, some one at the census bureau obtained these figures:

The census forms, if stacked one on another, would make a pile six times as high as the Washington monument. Actually they will be stacked in 50 mail sacks.

Employes in 665 offices in the field will mail 27,000,000 envelopes.

Forty million questionnaires will be printed.

The bureau announced that the first carload of supplies left for the west coast recently. Eight more carloads needed in the business and manufacufers censuses will be sent by Dec. 3. Material for the censuses of population, agriculture and housing will be shipped between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

OLD TIRES

Old style "pneumatics," which seem almost like bicycle tires when compared with today's balloons, are still being manufactured in quantity, the Fisk Rubber Co. reports. More than 125,000 thin tires of size 30x3 are produced annually to equip Model T Fords of 1925 or earlier years yet in use. The second oldest size, 4.40x21—to fit 1927 Stars, Overlands and Fords—was made last year in 375,000 units, most of which were sold in farm areas.

Another sidelight on the tire industry, staggering from a numerical viewpoint, was given recently by J. H. Connors, vice-president of the B. F. Goodrich Co. He estimated that the industry in 1940 will sell 100,000,000 tires—more than twice the total annually used by motor vehicles—to equip express wagons, scooters and toy miniatures of cars, airplanes, fire engines and tractors.

Uncle Sam Has 809 Radio Stations

The November roster of broadcasting stations in the United States totals 809. During October the Federal Communications commission issued operating licenses to eight stations.

Three super-power broadcasting stations are operating in Mexico and none in Canada, according to a list of stations in both countries released by the Federal Communications commission.

The Mexican stations, which exceed in power any of the 50,000 outlets in the United States are: XERA, Villa Acuna, which is authorized to use 250,000 watts but actually operates with 180,000; XEW, Mexico City, 100,000 watts, and XEAW, Reynosa, 100,000 watts.

Mexico has 104 licensed stations, four of which are temporarily suspended, while Canada has 85, the highest power being 50,000 watts.

Quaint Superstitions

Africa still is the Dark Continent in many ways. C. J. Dotson, Baptist missionary to Rhodesia, has found it so.

Greatest Rhodesian superstition, which British authorities have had scant success in suppressing, is the killing of babies. If twins are born they must be killed. If a baby cuts an upper tooth first, it must be killed. If either type were allowed to live, the natives claim, a great calamity would befall the tribe.

Dotson said the natives dodge strict British laws by dispatching the ill-starred babies secretly, then reporting that they died of illness.

New Hamper Is Convenient

A wicker hamper lined with a removable fish net bag saves precious moments when it's time to relegate soiled clothes to the tub, the washer, or the laundry man. Spare bags are provided so that clean ones can always be ready to snap in place. The hamper itself is floorless and raised from the ground on tiny legs, thus insuring a constant circulation of air.

Stamp Book Revised

A revised edition of the official booklet containing a description and illustration of all United States postage stamps from 1847 to June, 1939, has just been published, Nelson T. Sanger, superintendent of mails, announced recently.

The booklet will be issued through the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C., at a price of 25 cents for the paper-bound copy and 75 cents for the cloth-covered volume. A junior edition, restricted to commemorative stamps, also is now available, Mr. Sanger said.

Strange Baths of Yesterday

In the days before good soaps were manufactured strange preparations were used by beauty seekers on the hopes of improving the complexion. Baths filled with milk and the juices of strange herbs were not unusual.

According to legend, some fastidious Roman gentlemen used to anoint themselves with crushed strawberries while the yolks of 100 eggs went into the bath tub of an early English aesthete.

Friends Rescue Home Plans "Pleasant" Xmas

The supervisors of the Friends Rescue home, 245 N. Powell-av, plan to make "as pleasant a Christmas as possible" for the patients while they are away from home.

Many gifts have been received from Friends churches, some from as far away as Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kansas.

A Christmas pageant will be presented in the chapel, which has been profusely decorated in the Christmas mode. A turkey dinner will be served on Christmas day, when gifts will be exchanged.

The mountains shall bring peace to the people, and the little hills, by righteousness. — Psalms 72:3.

Sunday School Lesson

DECEMBER 24

"A little child shall lead them," Isaiah 11:6.

Christmas is the children's day. The entire Christian world at this season directs its attention to the wants and needs of children. In some cases sacrifices are made to provide these needs and in others doting parents over-indulge their children. But in any case the child is at the center.

When Jesus desired to present one of his most profound lessons in God's way with men he led a little child into the center of the group and declared that whatever was done for the child in His name was also done for Him. Also he warned anyone who should cause the child to stumble that he would meet a fate worse than a millstone about his neck at the bottom of the sea. This dire warning has often been ignored, as now, by nations at war where children are being starved and stunted in mind and body. They are helpless and the nations at peace can do little more than stand by and watch these governments fixing the millstones for their final plunge to destruction.

But here at home, where we value freedom and democracy, are also seeds of little children to be met. Within this city are organizations planned and administered to serve the needs of children not only at Christmas time but throughout the year. A little child is leading when we give aid through these agencies. Let us give every needy child in our midst all the breaks we can.

"Whoso shall receive one little child in my name receiveth me."

OUR CHRISTMAS PROBLEM SOLVED

What to buy Junior for Christmas?

Some answers to this problem were supplied today by extension specialists in parent education and child development at the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Children two and three years old, parents were told, like toys such as large bright crayons or jars of paint; big, colorful blocks, bells with handles, modeling clay, simple, unbreakable dolls, rubber and wooden animals, kiddie cars.

In the three to five year old class, favorites are toys which are miniature reproductions of the articles which adults have. Brooms, cooking dishes, tea sets, egg beaters, vacuum sweepers, wheelbarrows, hammers, telephones, doll furniture, small cars and a big wagon are wise choices.

For school age youngsters this is an era for costumes like cowboy or Indian suits; bells, hats, pencil sets, small purses, good educational games, real little musical instruments.

I Want To Go Ahead

Poets write of the joys of barefoot boys and yearn for their childish play,
Their mind goes back to that humble farm
shack to the days of their youth far away.
I would not go away from the trials of today and return to the pleasures dead,
I keep from mind thoughts of that kind coz I want to keep going ahead.

Will I be welcome up there where there is no care, that is the thing to know,
And not look back to that old play track to the years of long ago.
If I had the power to turn back the hour and raise up all of the dead,
I would surely say let time go its way coz I want to keep going ahead.

As I now recall when I was small I did not improve my time,
It is distressing I missed that blessing to prepare for things sublime.
So why go back, I might leave a worse track,
or pine for the pleasures dead,
To be young and free don't appeal to me when I want to keep going ahead.

In a setting of lighted candles and shimmering Christmas tree, the Hilltop Lutheran church brings to a climax its services for the Christmas season on Sunday night at 11.30.

The candlelight service, an annual Christmas eve affair, will feature several special musical numbers this year. Sport Shorts

...league bas... ...as "Murph Stinson's Blue ...ter that Alumni game—the ...e was 30-28 with Stinson giving West the winning point—Paul Rogers seems to be growing right out of his basketball pants—he gained 20 pounds since he was hurt ere the grid season opened—wait until he tries to get into those white satin pants—Everywhere the local Buckaroos have played, favorable comments have been overheard on their basketball uniforms—last year's uniform with a dash of red kneepad and long socks—pretty flashy—Coach George Williams got home from the Springfield clash Monday night, or Tuesday morning rather, at 12:30 a. m. and was to leave the same morning at 3:30 for St. Petersburg with his wife—the Kumquat Bowl, you know—Incidentally, two of the three Buckaroo gridmen on the squad had excellent chances of starting the game with Russ Alban almost sure to be in there at the opening whistle.

Defensive Show:

That defensive show put on by the Buckaroo basketeers at Springfield Monday night was a thing of beauty—the Wildcats became the Tamecats under West supervision—also at Springfield the Reserves took a 45-17 whipping—Coach Williams was satisfied with the Wildcat victory for a Christmas present but we wonder what Coach Collins wants—probably another center for his team—Mod "Ding" Bell has been hitting the books pretty hard lately — he missed the Alumni and Wildcat skirmishes by being ineligible—scholastic standing, you know — if he ups some of his marks he'll be ready for City league play—Good luck, Ding!

Oh yes! The Kumquat Bowl game will be played on Christmas night—Paul Schlosser, down from dear ole Findlay, tossed a basketball again for the West Reserves last Friday—the Reserves winning, of course—Dale Rose's West Juniors walloped the Everett team 16-12 Friday—the first time a West Jr. team had beaten that outfit since Coach Williams' nine did it way back in 1934—Coach Williams recalls the score as being 11-8—Then Monday the Juniors beat Franklin 22-18 with Marshal getting 13 of those markers—Rose is from Clarington—tis right, is it not?—West has now won three games while losing two—City league play starts Jan. 5, with West at South — Central looks like the team to beat, with the other teams, led by North, close behind—That's all!

Starling Five Wallops Mutes

The Starling Junior high five had little trouble in winning its second victory of the season by rolling over the Ohio Deaf Juniors by the score of 33 to 20 in a well-played contest at the west side school this week.

The blue and white clad team grabbed the lead in the opening canto and were never headed, holding a 20 to 11 lead at the half. Belalus counted 12 points for the losers while Tom Carter tallied 28 points for the winners, more than the entire visiting team.

The West Junior team, winners of four out of five games, were scheduled to play the Starling team Tuesday in a non-league affair.

Snow FUN Ice

Hilltop Young Folk Enjoy Winter Sports

A dazzling blanket of snow covered the Hilltop last week and the children of the community turned out en masse with sleds, skiis and ice skates to "have a barrel of fun" while it lasted.

Mr. and Mrs. Vuchnich Tell Of Life In South Africa

Back once again to civilization after a three-year sojourn in South Africa, Mr. and Mrs. "Mickey" Vuchnich (the former Edith Myers) are comfortably spending the holidays at the home of Mrs. Vuchnich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Myers, 2034 Fairmont-av.

But things aren't so different as they might seem, because, it seems, South Africa is not the land o savage head hunters and tribal wars but an up to the minute country in all respects.

The Vuchnichs lived in Johannesburg, a modern and prosperous city of 300,000. The population is mostly Dutch and English and the greatest industry is the large-scale gold mining.

"Huge fortunes have been accumulated from the mines," said Mr. Vuchnich, "and wealth is evident everywhere. As a result prices are unusually high," he added. Ignited gasoline as an example. This costs the motorists a flat fifty cents a gallon.

Employed as a salesman in an electrical industry, Mr. Vuchnich had occasion to journey up into the darker dark of the dark continent, the Congo. And Mrs. Vuchnich went with him.

But the only evidence of savagery confronted here was a native traffic policeman standing under a big umbrella. He knew only one sign that was extending his arm straight out to the side. The Vuchnichs could never figure out whether the signal meant stop or go but felt it didn't make any [illegible]e since there wasn't any [illegible]ybody.

The great mines about Johannesburg were operated mainly with native labor at a wage rate of about fifty cents a day. With this they were apparently content. "If a native owned a blanket, which he wore even on the hottest of days, he felt like a king," said Mrs. Vuchnich.

"In the outlying districts they removed their hats in our presence and in some instances even knelt down as we passed," she added.

Embarking at Capetown Nov. 22, the couple sailed to Rio de Janiero on a neutral ship (Japanese). After spending five eventful days in "the most beautiful city in the world," they then sailed for New York and home sweet home, arriving the day after Christmas.

They are not going back but hereafter will be located in Toronto, Canada. And more the pity for Mrs. Vuchnich had almost mastered the Zulu language.

Col. John Edwards Is Taken By Death

Col. John P. Edwards, 603 Binns-blvd, died Wednesday night in Mercy hospital following an illness of two weeks.

For 18 years department adjutant of the United States War Veterans, he was a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars.

Colonel Edwards was superintendent of state arsenals during the administration of Governor Martin L. Davey.

He was an active member of Franklin Post, American Legion, and was affiliated with the Westgate Masonic lodge and the Hill-Crest Baptist church.

His wife, Edna; a daughter, Mrs Evelyn Shaw of Apple Creek, and an adopted son, Jack Edwards survive him.

Members of the Iles Cafe Left Handers club distributed over $50 worth of food and clothing to the needy families on the Hilltop during the Christmas season.

And this is where the sheckels came from. Any member of the group caught guzzling a draught from the right hand was fined a nickel. Anyone not charitably inclined could suddenly become ambidexterous, but the majority paid their fines and liked it.

Unlike most courts of law the offender usually paid more in fines than he was assessed.

The result:

A destitute family of seven was given a basket of groceries and two ducks for Christmas dinner. The children were completely outfitted with much needed clothing.

A lady recently widowed was given a large basket of groceries and a ham.

A high school senior was completely outfitted in new clothes. Previously he had been unable to attend school for the lack of them.

Two other families were presented with a basket of groceries and a chicken each.

In 1928 he entered the Protestant ministry as a representative of the American Board of Missions to the Jews and in 1931 came to Columbus.

Besides his wife, Rev. Wago is survived by two sons who live in Germany.

George Matson Resigns Position "By Request"

George Matson, 77, N. Warren-av, building inspector under Mayor Gessaman, has resigned his post at the request of the new administration and "am stepping down for someone who has worked hard on the job." He was offered a job in the engineering department but refused it and is starting his contracting business again and will teach his son, George jr., the trade.

Huge Truck Struck By Big 4 Train

With a blast that sounded like a cannon shot a Big Four passenger train crashed into a huge trailer-truck at the Georgesville crossing last Saturday afternoon and rent it asunder.

When the smoke cleared away the trailer lay in a crumpled heap on one side of the track and the tractor, battered almost beyond recognition, on the other.

The top of the cab was completely torn away while a set of wheels flew 20 feet in the air according to an observer.

On the embankment sat Driver Walter Sperry of Huntington, W. Va., and his partner, Earl Standlander of Indianapolis, Ind., dazed and shaken, but quite from that none the worse for their experience.

A cargo of quart cans of oil was strewn over a large area and along the right of way. According to Mrs. Kurt Phillips [illegible] Central-av, local dispatcher for Lett and Co., Indianapolis [illegible] ers of the truck, the two men picked up the consignment in Petroleum, Pa and were enroute to Indianapolis when the accident occurred.

Political Slants

By Ello Mule

Continued sniping at Ohio by administration forces headed by the president himself finally resulted in a threat by President Roosevelt to set up soup kitchens in Athens county where he had been told people were starving. Columbus newspaper men sent to the scene where the alleged starving was taking place reported the ordinary poverty of the district but no one knew of any one who was dying from hunger, or anything like it.

Reports from political observers say that the presidential attacks on Mr. Bricker in connection with the relief situation in Ohio have given the governor a place in the national spotlight he might not otherwise have been able to get. It is explained that most people believe the furor to be simply what it is—"politics."

For some reason—maybe it was only because the Christmas spirit got the better of him—Martin L. Davey spent a lot of money for postage stamps this Christmas. Some of the total went into one of the former governor's Christmas greeting which, by the way, many of the faithful in Fairfield received. Another large amount went into the mailing broadcast of a copy of a letter he had written to Governor Bricker taking to task for statements made as to economies in state government which Bricker claims to have made. All of this appears to be the act of a man who believes he could be nominated for governor again—and be elected.

Jan. 8 at the Neil House is the date for the annual Jackson Day dinner in Columbus. And it will cost 25 good smackers to stick your feet under the table. Not that there will be anything like that much food before the Democrat diners, but, the major part of the dough will be used to apply on the Democratic deficit which runs into important money. And in Washington a similar event will cost $100, with the money being used again to pay off all debts.

Again comes the "confidential" information that it has all been decided that F. D. R. has turned thumbs down on the question of running for a third term. Reason given by the rumor mongers is that the only reason the president will not run is that he has said he "does not want to," which is a perfectly good reason to anybody except the cabinet and inner circle members of the administration coterie who fear for their jobs if the chief refuses to make a run for his.

No announcement is forthcoming from the local political organizations as to the date for the Democratic Jackson Day dinner or the Republican Lincoln Day affair, although the latter will undoubtedly be held in February as usual.

With sales tax receipts up over a million, author of the bill to legalize the redemption plan which is credited with being responsible for much of the increase, Rep. Grant Ward of Franklin county, is about the only solon we know of who can point to concrete evidence that his idea made money for the taxpayers and at the same time gave money to worthy organizations.

Mother And Two Children Overcome By Gas Fumes

Mrs. Paul Ricketts of 90 S. Brinker-av, and her two children, Betty, 16, and Paul, 10, were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes last Sunday afternoon while sitting in their car in a filling station at 1311 W. Broad-st.

A station attendant was thawing out the frozen motor of their car and the gas from the motor apparently seeped up through the floor boards.

Before Mrs. Ricketts collapsed, she saw her two children topple over unconscious. She was able to scream and was heard by Kenneth Kochensparger, manager of the station. Kochensparger pulled the victims from the car and then summoned the fire department inhalator squad.

Removed to St. Carmel hospital following their revival by the inhalators, the two children were released immediately while Mrs. Ricketts was detained temporarily for observation.

Mrs. Ricketts and the children had just taken Mr. Ricketts, a New York Central engineer, to the McKinley-av roundhouse for his Toledo run.

The car had boiled over on the way and he advised them to stop at the filling station on the way home.

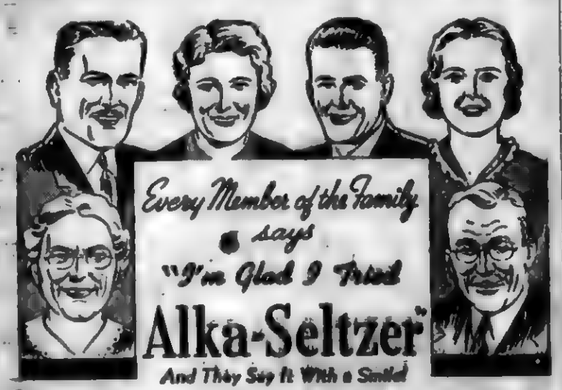
Country Doctor Scores Again

DR. DAFOE, guardian since birth of the Dionne quintuplets, physician, friend and counsellor during these precarious years as the infants moved through the period of early childhood has announced he will recommend the five girls, now almost six years of age, be returned to the family fold, there to take their places in the circles with their other brothers and sisters. This seems like the wise thing to do. It is in keeping with the common sense which has characterized this general practitioner of the north country both in his care of the children and his demeanor in the glare of the spotlight of world attention which has come his way since the birth of the children, when without a man of Dr. Dafoe's professional and moral stature the miracle of quintuplet birth might have not been brought to fulleat flower.



Perhaps no other country doctor in history has had the opportunity for service which has captured the imagination of the world as did Dr. Dafoe, yet, thousands of these patient professional men throughout the length and breadth of America do now and have for generations brought comfort—the alleviation of pain and healing, and the solace that passeth understanding in homes burdened with sorrow.

It may not be given them to attend at the birth of quintuplets, thereby attracting fame and fortune, but in their routine day by day ministrations to suffering humanity without faufare and the spotlight they too serve the world and the people who live round about them.

No Road Maps

In studying the problem of penetration of fog by means of various forms of light, a U. S. army officer, Lieut. Col. H. C. Davidson of the army air corps, had a first-hand glimpse of bird flight habits. Ascending in a captive baloon over London with a British officer, Colonel Davidson found that hundreds of birds were flying around the fog, which was only 1,500 feet thick. Strangely enough, those birds skilled in navigation, such as sea gulls, all seemed to know where they were going and headed in one direction. The others, such as starlings, were flying around in circles, greatly confused because the land was blotted out.

Household Hints

A new and tempting way to serve gingerbread cakes is to cut the cakes in halves and put a cream cheese mixture between the halves.

Open a can of asparagus from the bottom instead of from the top. It is much easier to remove the asparagus if the can is opened in this way.

To make brown flour for gravy, spread a pint of flour upon a large tin plate, place in the oven and stir every few minutes until it is the desired brown shade. Then drop in a pinch or two of salt and place in a covered glass jar.

Cabbage used for salad is more tender if shredded fine and put into ice water for 30 minutes, then drained and wrapped in waxed paper until ready to use.

When making suet puddings, use kidney suet. It is the firmest and whitest. Chill and chop it fine with a light sprinkling of flour to keep it from sticking together.

Apples cooked in honey are a perfect accompaniment to chicken and rice curry.

Bacon should always be cooked slowly. Pour off fat as it accumulates. Ham and sausages are also better cooked at a low temperature.

One cupful of prunes that have been soaked overnight, pitted, chopped and added to one and one-half cupfuls of bread crumbs make a delicious stuffing for roast duck. Moisten stuffing with cold water.

Seed cookies may be made by sprinkling caraway, poppy or anise seed over the dough before cutting into shapes.

To glaze doughnuts while they are still piping hot from the deep fat dip them quickly into a thin paste made by mixing one-third cupful of hot water with one cupful of confectioners' sugar. Drain on waxed paper.

To prevent refuse from freezing to the can when kept out of doors in cold weather, sprinkle the bottom of the can when it is empty with coarse salt.

SMART SALAD SUGGESTIONS

Here's a neat tip for a short-cut supper salad—just line a big wooden bowl with shredded lettuce, then heap a mound of real old-fashioned fresh cucumber pickle slices in the heart of the crisp green bowl. You'll find this the tastiest salad ever, made with these pale jade slices of tender young cucumber flavored with an old-fashioned blend of piquant spices and fruity, aromatic vinegar. And it's a quick trick too, using the ready-to-serve kind that comes packed in the plump octagonal jar. Not even a salad dressing is necessary—all you have to do is pry up the lid—spoon out a bowlful—and serve. For another tasty trick, try adding chopped fresh cucumber pickles to a bowlful of cole slaw made of carrots and cabbage and shredded green pepper. These tart little pickle chips add just the right amount of zip and zing when you use them in the following proportions:

CABBAGE AND CUCUMBER PICKLE SALAD

Combine and mix thoroughly—
2 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup shredded carrots
½ cup (1 medium) chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
⅙ cup (12 slices) chopped fresh cucumber pickle
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Serve in cups of lettuce and arrange on a salad platter or on individual salad plates. (Serves 6.)

FINE HOLIDAY FARE

Come the holidays, most folks like old-fashioned foods—crimson cranberry sauce, mince meat pie—things like that. Well, here now is a brand new way to serve these two old favorites—a cranberry mince meat pie that combines the best qualities of each. A bit of sweet, a bit of sour, melded together under the golden coffers of a flaky pie crust. You'll like the heady fragrance of mince meat and the light tart bite of the cranberries when you blend them in these proportions:

CRANBERRY MINCE PIE

Chop—
2 cups uncooked cranberries.
Add—
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 lb. tin or jar mince meat.
Line 9-inch pan with—
Pastry. Fill with fruit mixture.

Arrange narrow strips of pastry across top of pie in lattice or criss-cross fashion. Cut off ends of strips so they extend ½ inch from edge of the pan. Fold ends under lower crust and press edges firmly together. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes.

SAVORY NEW STUFFING

How would you like to try dressing the holiday fowl with a brand new stuffing this year? A tender, tasty stuffing made of very dry bread cubes seasoned with salt, a dash of pepper and slivers of onion—then moistened with a canful of consommé in place of the usual butter and water mixture. It's the consommé that gives such a fine lusty flavor to this dressing—the full bodied flavor of golden consommé brewed from prime beef. Then for extra seasoning, add glossy ripe mission olives to the stuffing. These succulent little brown chunks have a rich nutty flavor, a fine meaty texture that adds a real luxury touch to the dressing. It's a luxury touch at budget prices, too, when you use the ripe mission olives that come packed, chock full, in thrifty tins:

CONSOMME AND RIPE OLIVE STUFFING

Remove seeds from—
2 dozen ripe mission olives.
Chop olives, then add—
4 cups very dry bread cubes (1 medium dry loaf)
1 cup consommé
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon finely minced onion.
Mix well.

Note: Use above proportion for stuffing chicken. Double recipe for stuffing turkey.

Prof., Mrs. W. L. King Entertain Musicians

Professor and Mrs. W. L. King, 40 S. Hague-av, entertained members of the Hilltop symphony orchestra in their home following the regular orchestra practice this week.

At the same time the group elected officers for the ensuing year. Jack Newhouse was elected president; Orthella Harris, vice-president; and Marguerite Kennedy, secretary-treasurer.

Director King was presented with a gift by members of the group.

Custard sauce flavored with lemon and almond extracts makes a tempting topping for baked, steamed or gelatin pudding.

Do not throw away mushroom stems. Boil, drain and add liquid in which they are cooked to cream of mushroom soup.

Let the RECORD WANT ADS do your selling for you. They get results.

The use of Cryps is becoming widespread throughout the northern part of the nation, because they provide a sensible method of eliminating the discomfort and anguish caused by a stormy wintry day interment. We have installed that service.

Old Fashioned Winters

I will write of the old fashioned winters
When I was a very small boy.
The snow got deep except on hills steep
To me that was a pleasure and joy.

Many times I went with my father to mill
When the road was hard to find.
The weeds were smothered, the fences were covered
It was similar to driving half blind.

Our sled was home made and homely
All shaped and fashioned from wood.
We had plenty of rails but mighty few nails
But we made it as good as we could.

When I think of those friendly neighbors
And all of the pleasures we had.
And the present day life with the poverty and strife
I cannot help feeling sad.

Those old fashioned winters have passed away
And so have most of the neighbors.
But to recall the faces from those old fashioned places
Somehow seems to lighten our labors.

Walt Disney started cartooning in Kansas City in 1921 when he made the Laugh-O-Gram series. In October, 1923, he and his brother Roy went to Hollywood and produced the Alice Cartoons. The first Mickey Mouse was "Steamboat Willie," 1928. The first Silly Symphony was "The Skeleton Dance," 1929. The first Silly Symphony in color was "Flowers and Trees," 1932.

Ambidextrous Glove

Over a glass of beer at the New York world's fair last summer pretty Florence Mistele, 18, design student, and handsome Richard Graham, 22, actor, hatched a solution to the age-old problem of what to do with one glove after the other is lost. This week their patented answer went on sale at Manhattan's swank Mark Cross Co. (leather goods). It was a glove which looked like a man's pattern jigsawed out of a board. It is made by sewing an identical back and palm to a leather ribbon edge. Loose and easy on the open hand, it bunches a bit when the fist is closed.

There will be a Townsend rally Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in IOOF hall, 2356½ W. Broad-st. An open forum on the "Townsend Plan in 1940" has been planned.

Rev. and Mrs. Halderman, evangelistic singers, will furnish special music on the occasion and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Townsend club No. 7 will hold a business meeting Tuesday evening at 2393½ W. Broad-st, following which special music and an address by Rev. W. G. Strickland of Williamsport will be presented.

The public is invited to attend.

Invented Metric System

The metric system was an invention of the French in the latter half of the eighteenth century. The French government appointed a committee of the Academy of Sciences under the authority of the national assembly sanctioned by Louis XVI to devise a system of weights and measures. On June 22, 1799, the standard units, the meter and the kilogram, made by expert scientists and instrument makers, were deposited in the archives at Paris.

Pete—This war certainly has made some strange bedfellows.

Tubby—Yes, but it didn't take them long to learn how to use the same bunk.

We can always be depended upon to render helpful assistance.

Bucks Oppose South In City League Opener

West High's flashily-attired basketball force, seeking to stretch its winning streak to four straight as well as to inaugurate the City league campaign in a successful manner, will amble down to the South High gymnasium tonight to do battle with the Bulldogs. Thence the Bucks will be idle until next Friday when Aquinas plays here.

If either team can be called a favorite in tonight's fray it will be the Blue and Grey of South. They've been improving as the season progressed as can be shown by their record to date which shows two wins as against three setbacks. The Southmen opened the season by bowing to Lancaster St. Mary's 36-33 (Lancaster High beat them 42-25), then came a 31-24 beating by Mansfield and finally a 30-29 loss to Portsmouth.

Break Losing Streak

But here the worm turned and after three heart-breaking defeats the Bulldogs took Oak Hill into camp by a 26-21 margin on the second leg of a road-trip and ended their pre-league campaign with a 31-24 win over Newark's fighting five.

The local aggregation of coursters have the better record to date, however. The Buckaroos played a fine brand of ball in bowing to a strong Hamilton five, 32-25, but displayed some terrible basketball playing to lose to a tough Lancaster group 41-23. Then came three successive victories over a hapless Columbus Academy team, the Alumni and Springfield High. In the latter contest the Buff and Brown standard bearers exhibited the best form of the young season.

Short On Practice

Handicapped somewhat by lack of practice, nevertheless the Cowboys will be a tough nut to crack. Fact is, they will probably be installed as dark horses in the current title chase. Aquinas, North, East and Central have all put together fine teams and it would be surprising to anybody if the final winner is kayoed once, may be twice—or if the league ends play with co-champs. Anything can be expected in this coming campaign.

Coach Williams was mum in regard to his starting line-up for tonight. Almost certain to begin the contest, however, are Ucker the sharpshooter and Paul Rogers at the forwards with the dependable Bud Maxwell in the center slot. Ned Bell, ineligible lately because of scholastic deficiencies, will probably start at one guard post if his studies have received the proper attention during the Christmas holidays. If Bell, an all-high choice last winter, is still ineligible, the battle for starting guard positions will be between Carter, "big Blackie" Blackstone, Smith and Snyder, a lanky reformed center. The latter two distinguished themselves in the Springfield fray with neat performances and might start tonight.

School Shorts

A physical education course entitled "Methods of Relaxation" will teach students at Columbia university teachers' college "how to do nothing." Explaining the prospective study, Dr. Josephine Rathbone listed heart disease, insomnia and even stiff necks as ailments that may result from the high tension under which most moderns live.

Assuming that Nazism will be defeated in the current war, students attending the model council of the League of Nations at Syracuse university suggested a new League of completely disarmed nations and creation of an international army. Students portraying delegates from Japan and Russia opposed the proposal.

Moon Pelted By Meteorites

The moon, which has no atmosphere, is constantly pelted by millions of meteorites; but for the atmosphere our earth would also be. When meteorites strike our atmosphere, friction makes them incandescent and they burn to dust before reaching the earth. Occasionally one, such as that known as the "Greenland meteorite," which weighs 36½ tons, comes all the way through and buries itself in the earth. It is from studying these that man gets some idea of what the stars are composed.

Native of the Orient

The ginkgo tree is a native of China and Japan. It is believed by some authorities that the tree really is a native of China only, but was introduced from there to Japan long ago. It is claimed that the ginkgo tree is the only species and only genus left of a family that formerly was widely distributed and that went back to the carboniferous age. It is well represented in the fossil state. Until recently it was found only around Chinese temples, but some wild species have been discovered. Horticulturists regard the ginko as one of the most distinct of the conifers.

WEEK'S HINTS

For a smoother and creamier fudge, add a teaspoon of cornstarch to each cup of sugar used in making it.

Crusty French rolls, cut diagonally into slices o fourth of an inch thick, buttered and toasted, make a good salad accompaniment.

As chocolate burns easily, it is safest to melt it over hot water.

For a breakfast treat, mix cinnamon and sugar and spread on hot buttered toast.

Ice cream in the cored centers of baked apples makes an excellent dessert.

Original Short Story

The short story as it is now defined had its beginning in America in the "Sketch Book" of Washington Irving. Before 1819 there had been an abundance of short fiction, but Irving was the first to recognize that it could be molded into a literary form of its own. After Irving, the next important figure in the history of the short story was Nathaniel Hawthorne, who gave it beauty of style and perfected for it an artistry that called forth the praise of Poe. It was Poe who defined the short story as one that could be read at a sitting.

Women "Railroaders"

Railroading is not strictly a man's profession in Soviet Russia. A woman, Zinaida Troitskaya, is manager of the Moscow Belt railway. In all, there are half a million women employed on the railroads, including 400 station masters, 1,400 assistant station masters and about 10,000 engineers and technicians.

Discovered New Zealand

Abel Janszoon Tasman, the Dutch navigator, discovered New Zealand, and thought the islands so much like the Zealand at home in Holland that he called it New Zealand.

By C. C. Hartley

"Not Peace But A Sword"

I've just finished a tour of the troubled areas of Europe in the year of March, 1938 to March, 1939 by way of Vincent Sheean's new book, "Not Peace But A Sword."

While Sheean lays more stress on the importance of imperialism in the present conflict than is perhaps due it is enlightening to reflect on the background of the present situation.

Possibly Hitler could and would have been stopped much earlier in the game had Great Britain, France and Russia been more emphatic from the beginning, but then it is likewise true that a war weary people were reluctant to step into another conflict until they had dissipated all possibilities of peace without the sword.

The author terms the Chamberlain "appeasement" as fatal.

He thinks, too, that by the embargo of supplies to the Spanish Republic, America played right into the hands of the Fascist Alliance and thus did its best to insure the victory of General Franco, of Hitler and of Mussolini in Spain.

Most interesting observation in reading the book was to have called to mind what an enormous number of pages of history have been in the making in just a little over a year. And even now, as events take a new and stranger turn day by day, it is obvious that more and more history is about to be written. This is borne out in Mr. Chamberlain's address of this week in which he says in effect . . . "You ain't seen nothin yet."

Another Minstrel About To Be Made

With this issue comes the announcement of the eleventh annual Hilltop Minstrel to be sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association.

This show has come to the place where it is about like measles at a picnic. Once it is started it catches like wildfire. Everybody who has seen these annual shows looks forward to another a year later.

And each year after the show is over, usually at 10 on the rehearsals, many, many business men repeat to one another that they are glad it is over and resolve in all sincerity not to appear in another show, and "give someone else a chance" but then again, the next year they are back into the swing again and as this season rolls around everyone is anxious and waiting to get rehearsals started again.

Back eleven years ago, with an increasingly large budget due to so many community activities, the Hilltop Business Men's association was facing another deficit and in attempting to overcome the red marks on the ledger decided to go into the show business.

The idea of producing a minstrel was well received in view of the fact that Lou Saunders and Jack Shank told all the boys about the big times they had down Middleport way in home talent shows. I was the first paid secretary of the association at the time, a student at Ohio State, and was interested in seeing a source of revenue produced in order to insure my job, and so suggested the minstrel.

With the exception of two years' absence from the city it has been my privilege to have something to do with the shows each year, from end man to director.

And like all the rest, I too resolved to pass this year up because of the press of other duties. But folks, there's something about that show that just naturally gets in your system after you've once had a dose of it and here I am again back in the harness all set to listen to Floyd Green tell all the lads, "Gentlemen, be seated."

It's a lot of work . . . but it's a lot of pleasure to work with this fine gang of enthusiastic and cooperative Hilltop business people. I guess that's why the Hilltop Minstrel has come to be "tops" in Columbus amateur productions.

Add Things I Like:

To drive along a snow covered lane . . . the Ford Sunday evening hour . . . oysters and tea . . . criss cross conversation with people who will express their ideas . . . people with enthusiasm . . . the friendship of a good book . . . sincerity . . . the smell of fresh soil in the spring . . . the fellow who can take a little "rubbing" when he deserves it . . . Emerson . . . and generally the business of living well, but not too seriously.

Medals In Possession Of Thomas Meehan, Brother Of First Ohioan Slain In World War

Pictured above are the medals awarded posthumously by the British and Canadian governments to James Meehan, first Ohio soldier to be killed in action in the first World war.

The medals are now in the possession of Thomas J. Meehan, brother. Mrs. George M. Moore, 523 S. Eureka-av, is a sister.

At the outbreak of hostilities Meehan was employed in a bolt factory in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia. He enlisted immediately and was a member of the first Canadian division to be sent overseas.

Lying in England until Jan. 1, 1915, Meehan was then sent to Flanders to join the First Company of the Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry.

Killed in action on Mar. 20, 1915, at St. Elois on the sector, where, within a five-mile radius, an average of 700 men were killed each day for the entire period of the war, his remains lie buried in Voormezeele cemetery (near Ypres, Belgium).

Of 1,592 men interned there, 616 are unidentified.

The Victory Medal, awarded to all those who served on the establishment of a unit in a theatre of war prior to Nov. 12, 1918.

The 1914-15 Star, awarded to those who served on the establishment of an authorized unit in a theatre of war prior to midnight, Dec. 31, 1915.

The Memorial Plaque, given by His late Majesty, King George to the next of kin of all those who gave their lives during the Great War.

The Memorial Cross, given by the Canadian government to the mothers and widows of those who gave their lives, as a slight token of appreciation of the sacrifice made by them.

The British War Medal, awarded to all those who proceeded overseas on duty prior to midnight, Nov. 11, 1918.

Churches To Hear Chinese Speaker

The Hilltop churches will hold a union meeting Sunday afternoon, Jan. 28, in one of the churches (to be announced later) in regard to Chinese relief. Dr. Roberta Ma from China will be the speaker on the occasion.

At a meeting of the Hilltop Ministerial association Tuesday afternoon in the Hillcrest Baptist church the group adopted a constitution.

The following standing committees were appointed: Civic [illegible] committee, composed of Dr. J. H. Harris, chairman, Rev. A. J. Wold and Rev. Carveth Mitchell; united promotions committee composed of Rev. E. E. Burtner, chairman, Rev. J. B. Shellhaas, Rev. Herbert Handy and Rev. L. S. Wilks.

Dr. J. H. Harris of the Hilltonia U. B. church delivered a paper on "Religion in the Home."

Plans were also made for a dinner meeting to be held in February for members of the association and their wives.

West Side Child Killed By Truck

Donna Jean Trott, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Trott, 1240 W. Broad-st, was fatally injured Wednesday afternoon when she was crushed beneath the wheels of a milk truck, while sledding in a vacant lot close to her home.

The child was taken immediately to Mt. Carmel hospital by the grief-stricken driver, Herbert L. Minton of 1935 W. Broad-st, but died shortly thereafter of internal injuries.

According to witnesses, the child was struck down and run over when Minton turned his truck into the vacant lot to pick up milk bottles from the side of a restaurant. She had been at play for about 20 minutes.

The tragedy climaxed a series of misfortunes suffered by the Trott family during the past months. The mother, Mrs. Mary Bell Trott, was working in a nearby store at the time the accident occurred.

Having celebrated her sixth birthday less than a month ago, Donna Jean had planned to enter Chicago Avenue school in a few weeks.

Christmas Gift!

Christmas may be over but the melody lingers on out Darrer-bd, way.

This week neighbors of the Kirby's at 224 Demerrd, decorated an old tree and loaded it with presents for the family, to be seen as a pleasant surprise when they awoke on Tuesday morning. All of which may be proof that Christmas can be celebrated at almost any time of year.

Merry To Be Toastmaster

Willard F. Merry, 46 S. Harris-av, city plumbing inspector and a member of the local union of journeyman plumbers and steamfitters, will act as toastmaster at a banquet and dance to be given by the union, No. 189, at the Neil House, Saturday evening at 6:30.

Mayor Floyd F. Green will be the principal speaker on the occasion. Among the others expected to speak are George Strain, 140 S. Roys-av, head of the industrial relations bureau of Ohio.

Frank Graham, another Hilltopper, is business representative for the union.

Council members are to be guests of the organization.

Prices Up

Prices of hair cuts will be fifty cents as of Jan. 15, according to action taken recently by city council.

Press Honors Mayor Green

Mayor Floyd Green, his cabinet and other newly elected city officials will be honored at a stag reception next Tuesday night at the Columbus Press club, 35 W. Gay-st.

Frances Marie Hallen Dies

Funeral services for Miss Frances Marie Hallen, 2268 Springmont-av, were held Wednesday at the St. Aloysius church. Interment was in Mt. Calvary cemetery by Jerry Spears.

Miss Hallen is survived by her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Parsell; father, John Hallen, and brother, Leonard Hallen.

Council Warns of Skating Dangers

Parents were urged Wednesday, by D. K. Finley, secretary to the Safety council, Columbus Chamber of Commerce, to warn children of the danger inherent in skating and sledding.

Skaters, he said, should always go in pairs and never skate on ice less than an inch thick for a single person; two inches thick for three persons and three inches thick for large groups. In case of accident the skater should keep his head; extend arms on surface of ice at edge of hole; drag body forward toward firm ice, breaking the ice ahead if necessary.

Coasters were urged never to attach sled to moving vehicle; avoid sledding on streets which carry heavy traffic; never coast across intersections, and utilize areas restricted by the city.

Crowds At Seiller's

A good crowd of shoppers attended the opening of Seiller's January sale at 2404-06 W. Broad-st, Wednesday morning. Merchandise in all departments has been marked down for the annual selling event. The sale continues through Jan. 20.

Dance Tonight

There will be a dance tonight in the West High school gym immediately following the West-Aquinas basketball game.

The affair will be sponsored by the athletic committee and Paul Cook's orchestra will play.

West High Alumni To Meet Monday

Members of the West High Alumni association will meet Monday night at 8:30 in the Garden room of the Neil House.

This will be an important business meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Williams To Be Honored at Dinner

Leaders in local life insurance agencies will be honored at a formal dinner at the Deshler on Jan. 15.

Mose M. Williams, 2581 Steele-av, of Northwestern Mutual Life, will be among those honored. C. C. Hartley will be a guest of Mr. Williams on the occasion.

Williams has a record of being in first place in the number of policies written in the state for his company in the present fiscal year, and is in seventh position in the United States.

Otto A. Rieck Gets War Veteran Post

Otto A. Rieck, 166 S. Brinker-av, was appointed Adjutant, Department of Ohio, United Spanish war veterans, to fulfill the unexpired term of Col. John P. Edwards whose death occurred last Wednesday.

The appointment was made on Monday and Rieck assumed duties immediately.

He is a past commander of Navy and Marine post No. 276, American Legion and past commander of Columbus Camp No. 39.

Scouts To Give First Aid Course

Scouters of the Southwest district are planning to hold a Red Cross First Aid course which will be open to anyone over 17 years of age.

The course will be held on Tuesday evening at the Camp Chase post of the American Legion, 2164 W. Broad-st, beginning on Jan. 23 and continuing through Mar. 26. The hours will be from 7 to 10 p. m.

This course is a combination of the standard and the advanced first aid course as set up by the American Red Cross, and will be conducted by one of its representatives.

This will be a course for parents, teachers, church workers, scouters and all other youth workers.

Further information may be had by calling T. H. Boardman, field executive, Boy Scouts of America.

Our Apologies

It seems that Marvin Francis, 331 Wrexham-av, local salesman for Bond Bread, feels slighted in respect to the award given last week by the Hilltop merchants to the first baby of the year.

On New Year's night at 5:30 Marvin's dog gave birth to five male pups, thus, in his way of thinking, more than entitling him to the prizes.

It was negligent on our part in failing to state that the contest would be limited to human babies.

So again, we offer our apologies.

Blaze Strikes Hilltop Home

A fire causing damage estimated at $546 started in the basement of the home of Max M. Seelock, 510 Whitethorne-av, and swept through the hot air pipes into the first floor.

Besides weakening the floor of the living room, the blaze damaged a refrigerator and a stove.

A dog belonging to the family was suffocated in an upstairs room by the smoke that circulated through the house, according to firemen.

Dr. Harry J. Cotton To Address Hoge Brotherhood

Guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Hoge Memorial brotherhood on Friday night, Jan. 19, will be Dr. Harry J. Cotton, pastor of the Broad Street Presbyterian church.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 and an interesting program is anticipated, including a girls' chorus from the Farm Bureau under the direction of Mr. Wills and additional entertainment.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mr. Mielke, 651 Binns-blvd.

Ping Pong Tourney Scheduled At Park

A ping pong tournament for boys between the ages of nine and 17 years of age will be held at Glenwood park beginning Monday, Jan. 15. There will be two awards given to the two winners. Boys wishing to enter the contest may enroll at Glenwood any time from 2 to 10 p. m. daily. A Chinese checker tournament for boys and girls from eight to 13 years of age also will begin next Monday.

Ballroom dancing lessons are given free each Thursday afternoon at Glenwood under the direction of Mr. Moyles. Adults are invited to join these classes as well as children. No enrollment is necessary. Each Friday is special game day at the center. Many games are arranged for the kiddies and prizes are awarded. A very fine model aeroplane class is open daily to boys from eight years up.

A valentine dance and floor show will be given free at Glenwood park on Wednesday, Feb. 14, at 7:30 p. m. The WPA orchestra will furnish the music and several acts will perform from several theatrical schools.

Girls' Church League Opens

The girls' West Church league basketball season opened Monday night in a rather inauspicious manner. Only one game was played of the three which were scheduled.

In the lone encounter Westgate Evangelical, 1938 and 1939 Class B champions, got away to a flying start by easily defeating Hilltonia U. B. 20-9. B. Scoles played sensational ball on the offensive, garnering 12 points as Williams scintillated on defense.

Burgess U. B. took a forfeit win from Hilltop C. of C. while the St. Aloysius-Avondale U. B. fracas was postponed.

West High PTA Meets On Monday

West Junior-Senior High Parent Teacher association will hold its January meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium with Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, jr., as the featured speaker.

Rev. Stokes will relate some of his traveling experiences and tell of his contacts with the peoples of many parts of the world. The high school mixed chorus will sing.

Highland Principal Does Things She Likes

Miss Helen Kennedy

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

"There's been nothing particularly glamorous about my life," said Miss Helen Kennedy, principal of Highland Avenue school, in an interview this week," but I've always enjoyed it immensely."

Born and raised in the small town of Felicity, Ohio (near Cincinnati), she attended both elementary and high schools there. Following graduation from high school, Miss Kennedy taught in a country school near Felicity, in the elementary and high schools of Felicity for three years, and in the schools of Norwood (near Cincinnati). She also taught for three years in Sciotoville (near Portsmouth).

"One rainy Sunday afternoon in Sciotoville," said Miss Kennedy, "a group of us teachers were sitting about discussing our respective lines and wondering how we ever came to be stuck in Sciotoville. We decided abruptly that we had had enough of the town."

"Accordingly," she continued, "each of us sat down and wrote letters at random to towns in various parts of the country. As a result of the procedure, the following year found me teaching in Clearwater, Florida."

Between irregular periods of teaching Miss Kennedy attended Miami university from which institution she graduated in 1927. Following graduation she came immediately to Columbus and Highland-av, where she taught English and mathematics.

After the West high building was completed and Highland Avevue consequently lost its junior high status she was transferred to West Junior. In the fall of 1936 she was appointed principal of Livingston Avenue school and on the following year came back to Highland as principal.

"Of all the things I do," said Miss Kennedy, "I probably enjoy traveling most—have been in every state in the union but four—and in Alaska. I travel by automobile, which is the only way in my opinion.

During the inland water voyage to Alaska, she got a little seasick on occasion, "but not enough to feed the fishes," she declared.

"I'm a regular tourist bureau and can tell you where to get good tourist cabins any place in the country — and incidentally have had more than one encounter with bed bugs," she added.

Music is her hobby. "Whereas other people may spend their spare time reading," she said, "I spend mine playing the piano. But I'm not an accomplished musician," she added modestly.

Physical eccentricity (a lot of us are eccentric in this regard)—annual hay fever attacks. Pet aversion (from years of teaching school)—questionaires.

Last year Miss Kennedy bought a new home at 3099 Midgard-rd and is very proud of it, we suspect.

The greatest school need, she feels, "is for all of us in school work to bring about a realization on the part of the boys and girls of the great democratic heritage that they possess. They should appreciate it to such an extent as to want to make some contribution themselves."

Business Men Choose Committees; Date Set For Minstrel Show In Mar.

St. Aloysius Wins In Second Set Of Games In West Church League

By Woody Owens

The second set of games in the boys' West Church league saw St. Aloysius, 1939 champions, defeat its arch rival, Hoge Memorial, 32-18 in the feature contest of Tuesday evening's basketball games at Glenwood park. It was the second straight win for the Blue Streaks.

The game itself was one of the most thrilling and hard-fought in the history of the league. The lead during the contest went back and forth until late in the final period the Catholic lads went out in front to win. The score was tied at the half, 10-10.

Val Boehm, St. Aloysius forward, and McFadden, Hoge's star guard, were ejected from the game for engaging in a battle of fisticuffs. The contest was exceedingly rough throughout.

Brannigan Stars

Brannigan played sensational ball both offensively and defensively for the winners. In addition to chalking up 15 points the Blue Streak ace held Whetstone, scoring leader in last year's circuit; scoreless. Weigand was best for the losers.

Holy Family, led by Devlin with 13 points, smothered West Park M. E. 29-9. The losers were held scoreless during the second half after holding Family to a 5-5 count at halftime.

With Stinson, Wylie and the Albers brothers, Herb and Russ, showing the way, Burgess U. B. defeated Avondale U. B. 27-18 while in the evening's finale Westgate Evangelical nosed out Neil Ave. M. E. 17-14.

I AIN'T MAD AT NOBODY
I'M WONDERING WHERE THEY GO

They write of the passing throng and ships that pass in the night,
And about the birds each fall who southward take their flight.
But I'm thinking of the autos that hurry to and fro,
In that endless line of travel and I'm wondering where they go.

We gaze upon the autos as they hurry to and fro,
The hearse is seen quite often, black or white they onward go.
The fire truck and the moving van, the motor cop in blue,
The children on bike and skates somehow they all get through.

Them cars recall to mind the sea gulls o'er the sea,
With still a senseless course, sailing, sailing constantly.
With wierd singing they keep sailing, sailing to and fro,
Like the fine of autos and I'm wondering where they go.

If there increase in numbers like in the past now I declare
They'll have to give them wings and keep them in the air
Sailing round like sea gulls sailing sailing everywhere
Then us poor walking mortals can venture from our lair.

Origin of Swastika

The swastika is probably the most ancient and widely distributed symbol that ever existed. It is a Sanskrit work signifying happiness, pleasure and good luck. The symbol must have been in existence long before the Buddhist religion or the Sanskrit language. The sign has been found in Chaldean bricks and on painted pottery in Persia of the period 3,000 B. C. In the State historical museum at Kiev there are some black and white swastika flags which were used by the bandit leader Petlura in his attack on the Jews of Ukraine in 1919. There is a possibility that Hitler saw or heard of these flags and connected them with anti-Semitism.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, 644 S. Eureka-av, a son Saturday in St. Ann's hospital.

A columnist on the Manchester Guardian asked old George Bernard Shaw if he had sent Hitler a congratulatory telegram on his escape from the Burgerbrau bombing. Shaw said he had not, but that Chamberlain should have wired Hitler: "Greatly as the British nation regrets your escape, decency obliges the British government to congratulate you on it."

Buckaroos To Tangle With Terriers Tonight

West High's basketball forces will tangle with the Aquinas Terrier team tonight at the local gymnasium in what promises to be the top battle of the week—with the cellar post of the City league the reward for the loser. Tuesday evening the Buckaroos will trek cross-town to meet their oriental friends ,the tough East Tigers.

Going into the game on the docket for this evening neither West, East or Aquinas has won a game in the league. West dropped a 34-28 decision to South, East bowed to Central and North walloped Aquinas. So at least the worst team in the circuit may be determined after the contests during the week.

Small But Mighty

In the game tonight the Cowboys will boast a considerable heighth advantage over the Terriers who are small but mighty. The Aquinas lads are quick and sharp-shooting and led by Captain Lawrence Whalen and Jack Clifford, clever forwards, will make things hot for the locals. For the Buckaroos there will probably be little change in the lineup which lost to South.

Bucks Lead

Away to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter the locals led 6-5 at the end of the initial round of play, but the Bulldogs pulled away in the second canto and led the Bucks 15-10 at halftime.

Led by their star forward, Ucker, the plucky Cowboys rallied in the third frame to narrow the ultimate winners gap to 21-20, but a strong last quarter rally which netted the Bulldogs 13 markers was too much for the Buckaroos who succumbed by a 34-28 score.

Ucker Is Standout

Richard "Duck" Ucker, Buckaroo classy forward, topped both teams scoring with 12 points on five baskets and two free throws. Captain Rogers came through with six counters while Maxwell found the net for four tallies.

Aside from these three, the offensive performance of the Bucks was terribly weak. Ned Bell, always a constant threat from his guard post and recently returned from the ranks of the ineligible, didn't score a point. In fact, between the four guards who saw service in the fray ,only three points were made, all on free throws.

Returning to their home floor, the Buckaroos will be tough to beat. They haven't been beaten before the home folks this season and Aquinas will have to be awfully hot or the Buckaroos terribly ragged for the visiting Terriers to take home the bacon.

Hilltop Couple Have Yule Meal In Open

After more than 40 years of responding to fire alarms on the Hilltop and other sections of the city, former fireman, Charles Fleming and Mrs. Fleming of 33 N. Westgate-av, recently had the unusual experience of eating their Christmas dinner in the open amid balmy breezes at St. Petersburg, Fla., where they are spending the winter following Mr. Fleming's recent retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were accompanied by former Hilltop firemen, John Rea, Mrs. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seaburger and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Staley and Mr. and Mrs. James E. McGill, the latter three men also all retired Columbus firemen. There were 20 guests in the party and the mayor of Newport-Richey, a suburb of St. Petersburg, carved the 30 pound turkey.

In a ceremony at his retirement several weeks ago, Mr. Fleming was presented with a handsome traveling case by the officers and men of his company, No. 10 pumper, stationed at Broad-st and Glenwood-av. Fire Chief Edward P. Welsh made the presentation speech and declared that within his recollection, Mr. Fleming was the only fireman to retire in the department's history without a mark of any kind on his record.

Round About The Hilltop

By the calendar Christmas is three weeks gone come Monday, but vestiges of the Yule season still linger on at some Hilltop business places and homes. The garb of many Hilltoppers, too, bears the unmistakeable evidence of Aunt Lizzie's selection of outmoded styles and fashions. . . . Harold Ross, who has longed for an electric train these many years, finally had his dream come true when Santa appeared with a shiny choo-choo. Wife Phylis, donor of the gift ,had a hard time keeping him from buying one for the infant daughter. . . . Recipients of unusual gifts were Ed Weaver, an initialed umbrella; John Eckard, a pair of footwarmers; Fred Perkins, pink pajamas (with sash attached), Mrs. Robert Draper, a rolling pin.

Call The Cops!

Cruisermen on No. 4 had troubles other than keeping the peace one night last week when they locked themselves out of their car at Hague and Broad. A bit too cautious perhaps.

Weather's Fine

Roy Riggs, the Phi Beta Kappa who lives at 385 S. Hague-av, doesn't care to be quoted about the weather these days, especially since he had to walk home from Hague-av and the Big Four tracks at 3 a. m., carrying several dozen eggs.

It seems that Roy had been calling on his girl friend who lives near Delaware. Starting home with his aunt, Miss Jennie Andrews, another Hilltop resident, everything went fine until they reached the Gloria barbecue on the River-rd, when a tire went flat.

The spare was frozen solid on its carrier so they tried riding on the rim. All went limpingly along until they struck a patch of ice in Hague-av, where the tireless wheel just spun around and around. They pushed the car to the curb and walked home in zero temperatures.

Things I've Learned

Doris Riggs and Freddie Ferenbach will tie the knot ere many more weeks pass . . . Pop Waymer drinks a coke every morning at 8:30 . . . Annie McDonald keeps the hottest stove on the Hilltop at her lumber yard office . . . Claude Hasson drinks two cups of coffee at one meal . . . Harry Masters never tasted a drop of coffee . . . Jack Riepenhoff and Lawrence Campbell both play in OSU bands . . . Walter Davis scored a 41 out of a possible fifty birds at the local gun club Sunday . . . Harriet Huff is the most faithful feminine attendant at meetings of the HBMA . . . January is the name of Jane Anderson's newest pooch find . . . Dick Gilger could easily be mistaken for the "man from Mars" when he wears his pointed face mask on his delivery motorcycle . . . E. O. Melvin has been confined to his home for several days suffering a toxic condition . . . Carl Eckard was an all "A" student in the college of commerce at OSU. (This is not a new experience for him, having rated similar marks several times before) . . . George Andreu talks of a South American tour since the cold wave hit these parts.

Three Nighter

Members of the Eleventh Annual Hilltop Minstrel committee were discussing how long this years show should run.

Spoke up one member, "Three nights is the limit. Jack Shank only has one dress shirt."

Postman's Day

Clyde Good had tried unsuccessfully to obtain vacation employment in the post office prior to Christmas. Driving down a Hilltop street one day he spied a package lying in the street obviously having fallen off a mail truck. Examining the package he discovered it was addressed to Phylis Ross, mentioned earlier in this column. He delivered the package in person.

Number Please!

It happened during the holiday season. John Eckard (Jr.) had rushed into a local drug store to make a purchase. Obtaining the wanted item, he pushed through the nearest door thinking it led to the street. He ended up in a telephone booth.

Play Begins In West Church League

Play in the West Church league No. 2 got away to a fast start last Thursday night, with Salvation Army, Calvary Presbyterian and Highland Avenue Friends chalking up wins in the initial evening of activity.

Led by Bill Blevins, former Central High star, the Salvation Army boys walloped Briggsdale M. E. 30-15 in the feature game of the evening. Blevins hit the nets for 14 points while Smith led the Methodists with six points and also contributed a fine game on the defense.

With Mart O'Donnell and Cal Evans in the starring roles, Calvary had a tough time in downing the West Park "Blues" by a 23-16 count. In the final game of the three-game set Hart, Shipper, Harrison and Hopkins, the youngsters of the loop, trounced a weak Glenwood M. E. five 27-16. Shipper led the winners with eight points.

Clifford Seeks Judgeship

Judge Joseph M. Clifford

Judge Joseph M. Clifford this week announced his candidacy for Judge of the Common Pleas court, of Franklin county, seeking the Republican endorsement in the May primary and election in November for the unexpired term of the late Honorable Harold L. Kime.

Beginning active law practice in 1922, Judge Clifford was elected for a six year term in Municipal court in November, 1929, and overwhelmingly re-elected to the same position in 1935.

In a statement this week Clifford said: "To the electorate of Franklin county, I proffer more than 20 years of preparation and training for the position to which I aspire, and at my present attained age of 40 years, the devotion of my remaining and most virile years of my life to the problems of that court; the rendition of prompt and adequate justice."

He said further: "In the coming campaign I shall not run against anybody but shall seek nomination and election in the hope that I may be of greater service to the public."

OSU Mothers To Have Card Party For Student Loan Fund

Members of the Ohio State University Mothers' club are completing plans for their annual card party to be given at the Southern hotel Tuesday, Jan. 23, at 2 p. m.

All proceeds of the party received by those purchasing tickets, or by donations of money, are added to the treasury of the student loan fund.

The trend of today points very definitely toward education. An employé with an education is more valuable to his employer and with steadily increasing enrollment at Ohio State, it is viewed as necessary that the Mothers club have the required amount in the treasury of the student loan fund to meet any emergency that may arise with the students during the year; for they not only loan to students full quarterly tuitions, but tide many a student over for a few days.

Modern Poetry

Edited by Esther Weakley

Here they gatehr to talk
These old men who love an engine's moan;
Who love the click of wheel on rail—
The echo of a whistle late at night.
They tell of a record run,
Of an engine's behavior;
Of speed demons long dead;
Of wrecks, what outs, brakes gone,
How No. 14 would perform,
Of a run through snow;
How hot it was in '36.
On the rim of the group stands a lad;
His mother wonders why he loves the shining rails.

Emory C. Pharr,
in THE SILVER STAR.

TO A NEW HOME

Today I laid a gift upon your altar,
Oh little house, and with the gift a prayer
That love's bright inner flame may never falter
Nor dimmer glow. That faith and trust be there
To meet the needs of each new day's dreaming,
That each year dreams and other dreams will flower.
And those who shelter hold deep understanding,
Like silver shields, against a troubled hour.

Oh little house, you are the sanctuary
Love built for the beloved with eager pride;
You have within your timbered walls the very Essence of life that will not be denied.
Store in your heart, for them, such things as these:
Laughter and courage, and shared sweet memories.

Virginia Eaton,
in THE SINGING QUILL.

WOMAN OF THE LAND

Steve said that Mary's smile was grim.
Grim thought, in ten years' battling with the land
One foregoes pretty smiles and silken words—
One fights with head as well as hand.)

He commented on that too,
"Rough and hard . . .
"A hand that's toiled long for your ease."
I choke on angry words; Mary mildly
Said that men were hard to please.

Claudia M. Adams,
in QUICKENING SEED.

INHERITANCE

She loved the joys that fill my life
But cares of home absorbed her time;
Perhaps she wove a thread of dreams
Her vision speaks within my rhyme.

Gladys Naomi Arnold,
in AMERICAN POETRY MAGAZINE "Laurels".

INANIMATE

That the china figurine
Smiles fixedly each day
Whiel the donor's hand is clay
Seems strange to me.

I, a maid of seventeen,
(The passing years are swift)
Received the fragile gift
Joyously.

Kindly smiling, strong hands.
I see the giver now—
Immortal qualities endow
Fragility.

Irene Davis Grueninger,

THE DAWNING
(In Florida.)

Just outside my window,
In the early morning hours,
Birds are sweetly singing
From their fragrant leafy towers;
Mocking birds, so tuneful,
Sing their songs in many keys,
Through the open window
Blows a soft and fragrant breeze;
Suddenly the darkness
Gives way to morning light;
Day again is dawning
Then the sun shines warm and bright.

May M. Duffee, in A TREK THROUGH FLORIDA.

HOLIDAY GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Magaw had as their guests over the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Charles Records and family of Bloomington, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Halpin of Lancaster, O.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rhoads jr., 2260 Tremont-rd, entertained on Dec. 28 with a dinner in their honor. Open house party and watch was held on New Year's eve and a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Halpin in Lancaster New Year's day.

1939's quaintest accident: A farmer was electrocuted by a bucket of water, a boy was shot by a falling pear, a bicyclist looped-the-loop to the top of an automobile—and other freakish mishaps, all of which are described in words and pictures in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

Mother — What makes you think our boy is going to be a successful politician?

Father—He says more things that sound well and mean nothing than any person I ever heard.

Embarrassing

When Acid Indigestion, Gas on Stomach or Heartburn make you feel uncomfortable or embarrass you, try Alka-Seltzer, which contains alkalizing buffers and so helps counteract the associated Excess Stomach Acidity.

But the relief of these minor stomach upsets is only a small part of what you can expect Alka-Seltzer to do for you. You will find it effective for Pain Relief in Headache, Neuralgia, Colds and Muscular Aches and Pains. It contains an analgesic, (sodium acetyl salicylate), made more prompt and effective in its pain-relieving action by alkaline buffer salts.

When hard work or strenuous exercise makes you feel tired and dragged out, enjoy the refreshing effect of a glass of sparkling, tangy Alka-Seltzer.

At Drug Stores in packages and at drug store soda fountains by the glass.

Facts About Finland

Finns call their country "Suomi" (land of lakes). More than 10 per cent of the country is covered by some 65,000 lakes.

Since the disappearance of Poland, Finland is the sixth largest country in Europe. But because half the territory lies above the Arctic Circle, 90 per cent of the population lives in the southern half of the country.

The Finnish language has a few common roots with Hungarians and some modern words borrowed from the Swedish.

The Finns, who originally came from central Asia and whose Mongol stock was crossed many times with Slav, Turk and Laplander, describe themselves as being "first cousins to the Magyars, forty-second cousins to the Turks, Mongols and Manchus and no relation to the Lapps".

For 700 years, until the beginning of the nineteenth century, Finland was the battleground of the Swedes and the Russians.

With a population of 3,800,000, only 149,987 are listed as workers; the country has fewer than 4,000 factories, mostly wood and paper mills.

Less than 20 per cent of the people live in towns. Only eight cities have more than 10,000 population; Helsinki, the capital, has 268,000.

More than 90 per cent of the Finns belong to the Evangelical Lutheran church.

The per capita debt is about $50.

Hay and potatoes are the country's chief crops; chief exports are lumber and wood.

Crowning irony to Finns in their present predicament is the fact that for 20 years before 1917 Finland was a hideout for Bolsheviks wanted by the Czar's police; Lenin, first leader of the Soviet, once hid in a Finnish haystack while awaiting the Russian revolution.

A Son's Pilgrimage

by Adrian Fuller

Leaving Willemstadt, Duth West Indies, at sunset for the overnight run to La Guayra, Venezuela, our cruise ship squared away at full speed, breasting a stiff trade wind that kicked the tropical sea into tumbling combers. Passengers, tired with the day ashore and the necessity for early rising in the morning, were for the most part idling along the decks, or standing by the rail watching the islands merge into the gloom of oncoming night. Approached by a man who had boarded the "Vigilatic" at Colon, C. Z., for La Guayra, he asked the exact time we should be half-way on our course to the Venezuelan port. This unusual question attracted our interest in the man himself. Tall, and bronzed with outdoor life, he explained that he was a mining engineer, an American, resident in Chile.

He had kept much to himself during the voyage, and his approach with the query was the first contact that he had made. We told him if the matter was so important to him we would go to the bridge and secure the exact data. Finding the commander in the chartroom, we told him of the passenger's request. The ship, we found, would pass over the spot at 2:02 a. m. The strange request of the passenger interested the skipper, as it had us. He said, "You know I sailed these waters as a boy in a full-rigged ship that foundered between Willemstadt and La Guayra." We left the chart room and reported the time to the passenger.

The night was clear, and the wind died down until there was only a faint song in the rigging. The "Vigilantic" thrust her bows through lowering seas as the whine of the turbines droned on in even tempo. The decks were deserted, and all of the manifold activities aboard ship were subdued to the routine of the night. Going to the commander's quarters upon her arrival off La Guayra we sat and yarned with the bluff old Englishman who had commanded many of our chartered ships, finally returning to the subject of the passenger's request.

He suggested that we wait up until the hour. More stories of the sea, and the hands of the clock pointed to five minutes to two. The captain picked up the speaking tube and called the officer in charge on the bridge. He said, "At exactly 1:58 ring her down to half speed, at two stop her; at three minutes past two ring her up to full speed again." Turning to us, he said, "Go aft, and perhaps you will see or hear something that will interest you." Puzzled by the situation, we went down the companionway, as we felt the propellers slow, and then finally stop. We came to the after end of the quiet deck, and stood in the shadow of a lifeboat. There was utter silence as the ship moved along under the impetus of her weight. Soon a figure was seen silhouetted against the starry night standing by the taffrail. With a cigaret lighter a glow was flashed on his watch. He lifted a large circular object from the deck and as it hit the water the phosphorescent gleam in the brine disclosed a great wreath. Almost immediately the propellers picked up their thrust and the ship sped away on her course. We stole back to our cabin and turned in for the night.

The next morning under the door was a note that read, "My father was lost at sea years ago in a sailing ship half way between Willemstadt and La Guayra as he was returning from a prospecting trip in Venezuela. The act of the commander of a great liner in stopping the engines, thus joining with me at the climax on my pilgrimage will remain in my memory." Showing the note to the skipper later in the day, he remarked, "I was one of that ship's company who was saved."

Sermonette

Not An Opium

Today it is of the greatest importance that every Christian look to his religion and decide whether it be a comfort against the horrors of the world or a revolutionary forces that will create upon this earth a Kingdom of God . . .

Many people accuse Christianity of being but an opium to reconcile us to the conditions with which we are surrounded. We must endeavor to establish a Kingdom of God upon this earth instead of pretending to ignore the terrible happenings of this present era . . .

Prayer is the opportunity to cooperate with Jesus Christ in bringing a kingdom of righteousness and justice to this sorely beset world . . .

Although the first half of the twentieth century will go down in history as the dark ages of the human race, before the half-century mark has been passed, we may see the course of events change and the latter half may be recorded as a time of great spiritual advance. — Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Random Statistics

More than 11 billion tin cans —11,394,324,000, to be exact—are used every year to package foods in the United States. According to the canning industry, this represents 80 per cent of the nation's annual tinplate output . . .

The federal government, employs more than 2,000 economists at present; as recently as 20 years ago, the number of economists in Washington was almost small enough to be counted on the fingers of both hands.

America consumes about a billion pounds of pure rubber each year, importing most of it from the Dutch East Indies . . .

Forty million questionnaires will be filled in when the U. S. takes its annual census next year. If stacked one on top of another, the census forms would make a pile six times as high as the Washington monument . . .

Of all the patents registered in the U. S. patent office, almost one-fifth are for automobile devices . . .

Since the start of the second World war, England has ordered more than a billion burlap bags for sandbag defenses against bombs. As a result, cotton-textile manufacturers in the United States are experiencing a boom of sorts.

By C. C. Hartley

Pretty Things: With four or five inches of pure white snow on the outside and my feet before a warm stove one of the rare pleasures of a winter's evening is to peruse a new model seed catalogue filled with pretty pictures of the "flowers that will bloom in the spring," etc.

The particular book I have at hand tells me on the cover page that the new Zinnias are strikingly different with many two and three toned effects.

Each page thereafter reveals a world of beauty in the new Marigolds, Snapdragons, the rose pink Sweet Peas, the Calendula, Larkspurs, and the Flaming Petunias are more beautiful than ever. And roses of course have their place as they always will.

And half past the center of the book those mouth watering subjects of the dinner table make you wish for spring sunshine and a garden hoe. For what has more of the real beauty of nature displayed on paper than photos of golden bantam corn, red beets, golden carrots, the deepest blood red tomatoes, green peppers, cabbages, etc.

If coming events cast their shadows before them this shadow of a new seed catalogue must surely predict that I'm once again going to turn farmer.

Thoughts On Foods: It happened at a party recently attended by one Herb Deems, probably known to a few folks in these parts . . . the serving of a midnight lunch that disturbed him—I'm told . . . at any rate it brought a variety of comments around Tom Davis' noon day luncheon club this past week.

Alvie Nafziger advises Herb to take on further nourishment next time in the form of a limburger sandwich garnished in strong onions in order to assure sound sleep and some one chirps up and adds "and sleep by yourself."

Doc. Chet Cramer is fond of peas. He learned to like them after 11 years, and says they never have them over three times weekly. Mrs. Cramer likes them too, he says.

Cliff Kohn loves parsnips . . . Dr. A. E. Breese is fond of tomatoes . . . H. M. Prexy Sullenberger claims they had too many carrots when he was in the army that they even found them in the gun barrels

Banquets: Speaking of foods, I'll have to acknowledge two very fine banquets in the past few days. A whooping good time was had at the Standard Oil party last Friday at the Neil House, starting with the pre-dinner session at 7 p. m. for the press, first course starting at 8 and finishing at 11:30, followed by 14 fine acts of vaudeville. And I'm here to tell you that is a full evening. But leave it to the Standard Oil, everything moved smoothly, just as you might expect when things are well oiled.

And on Monday another fine dinner and evening program was provided as a guest of Mose Williams at the Insurance Leaders banquet at which time Mose was honored by his company for leading in the number of policies sold locally this past year.

At the latter party B. C. Forbes, publisher of Forbes Magazine, was the speaker and in addition to telling some good Scotch jokes he predicted that this year is going to be the best for business in 12 years. All of which we join in welcoming if he is right and confirms our conviction that "This is the year."

They Are "Tops"

Valedictorian

Eleanor Wagner

The difference between a valedictorian and a salutatorian is a hairline. The former distinction was awarded at West High school this week to Miss Eleanor Wagner for highest scholastic average in the graduating class.

The latter was awarded to Miss Erdine Swain for the second highest average and the difference between the two, in this case, is one one-thousandth of a percent. Except for one "B" each, both girls received straight "A" averages throughout their entire scholastic careers at West High.

Both girls have been extremely active in school affairs. Miss Wagner is a member of the Annual editorial staff, the Occident editorial staff, the G. A. A., Girl Reserves, Photoplay, "L" Honor society, the National Honor society and the Art club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wagner, 178 Guernsey-av, she has a perfect attendance record throughout senior high school.

Salutatorian

Erdine Swain

Miss Swain is vice-president of the senior class, the Annual editorial staff, the G. A. A., Girl Reserves, Photoplay, "L" Honor society, National Honor society and the Student Council. She was also attendant to the homecoming queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Swain, 629 S. Oakley-av.

After graduation Miss Wagner plans to take a course in advanced secretarial work and Miss Swain will enter office training school.

St. Mary's Principal Has Taught 35 Years In All

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

Sister M. Leocadia has been principal of the St. Mary Magdalene school for the past two years. "At the same time I have been teaching arithmetic, Latin, civics and English," she said, "which doesn't give me too much time to devote to my official duties."

Born in Columbus at 684 City Park-av, where her sister still lives, Sister Leocadia attended St. Mary's elementary school nearby.

Upon completing her studies here she enrolled in the St. Francis school at Joliet, Ill., for normal work and after a period of intensive training here she entered DePaw university in Chicago.

Remaining in Chicago after graduation, Sister Leocadia received broad teaching experience in the Englewood, Sacred Heart, St. Frances De Sales and St. Francis schools.

She was then transferred to Joliet, Ill. and spent 15 years teaching in the academy there. Before returning to Columbus, the place of her birth, she taught for five years in Freeport, Ill. She has taught 35 years in all. "It has been my life," was her comment.

Of all the subjects she has taught, Sister Leocadia likes arithmetic the best. "By illustration and demonstration it can be made vivid and interesting," she said. "It is a subject that you can put a lot of life into."

At St. Mary's both algebra and Latin are taught in the seventh and eighth grades. "This gives the pupils a foundation in these subjects which proves invaluable when they enter high school," she said.

With the other teachers at the school, Sister Leocadia has her living quarters on the top floor of the school building. It is hoped that by February they will all be living in the new convent across the street which is now in the final stages of construction.

Embarrassing

When Acid Indigestion, Gas on Stomach or Heartburn make you feel uncomfortable or embarrass you, try Alka-Seltzer, which contains alkalizing buffers and so helps counteract the associated Excess Stomach Acidity.

But the relief of these minor stomach upsets is only a small part of what you can expect Alka-Seltzer to do for you. You will find it effective for Pain Relief in Headache, Neuralgia, Colds and Muscular Aches and Pains. It contains an analgesic, (sodium acetyl salicylate), made more prompt and effective in its pain-relieving action by alkaline buffer salts.

When hard work or strenuous exercise make you feel tired and dragged out, enjoy the refreshing effect of a glass of sparkling, tangy Alka-Seltzer.

At Drug Stores in packages and at drug store soda fountains by the glass.

Facts About Finland

Finns call their country "Suomi" (land of lakes). More than 10 per cent of its country is covered by some 65,000 lakes.

Since the disappearance of Poland, Finland is the sixth largest country in Europe. But because half the territory lies above the Arctic Circle, 90 per cent of the population lives in the southern half of the country.

The Finnish language has a few common roots with Hungarians and some modern words borrowed from the Swedish.

The Finns, who originally came from central Asia and whose Mongol stock was crossed many times with Slav, Turk and Lapiander, describe themselves as being "first cousins to the Magyars, forty-second cousins to the Turks, Mongols and Manchus and no relation to the Lapps".

For 700 years, until the beginning of the nineteenth century, Finland was the battleground of the Swedes and the Russians.

With a population of 3,800,000, only 149,367 are listed as workers; the country has fewer than 4,000 factories, mostly wood and paper mills.

Less than 20 per cent of the people live in towns. Only eight cities have more than 10,000 population; Helsinki, the capital, has 268,000.

More than 90 per cent of the Finns belong to the Evangelical Lutheran church.

The per capita debt is about $50

Hay and potatoes are the country's chief crops; chief exports are lumber and wood.

Crowning irony to Finns in their present predicament is the fact that for 20 years before 1917 Finland was a hideout for Bolsheviks wanted by the Czar's police; Lenin, first leader of the Soviet, once hid in a Finnish haystack while awaiting the Russian revolution.

A Son's Pilgrimage

by Adrian Fuller

Leaving Willemstadt, Duth West Indies, at sunset for the overnight run to La Guayra, Venezuela, our cruise ship squared away at full speed, breasting a stiff trade wind that kicked the tropical sea into tumbling combers. Passengers, tired with the day ashore and the necessity for early rising in the morning, were for the most part idling along the decks, or standing by the rail watching the islands merge into the gloom of oncoming night. Approached by a man who had boarded the "Vigilatic" at Colon, C. Z., for La Guayra, he asked the exact time we should be half-way on our course to the Venezuelan port. This unusual question attracted our interest in the man himself. Tall, and bronzed with outdoor life, he explained that he was a mining engineer, a nAmerican, resident in Chile.

He had kept much to himself during the voyage, and his approach with the query was the first contact that he had made. We told him if the matter was so important to him we would go to the bridge and secure the exact data. Finding the commander in the chartroom, we told him of the passenger's request. The ship, we found, would pass over the spot at 2:02 a. m. The strange request of the passenger interested the skipper, as it had us. He said, "You know I sailed these waters as a boy in a full-rigged ship that foundered between Willemstadt and La Guayra." We left the chart room and reported the time to the passenger.

The night was clear, and the wind died down until there was only a faint song in the rigging. The "Vigilantic" thrust her bows through lowering seas as the whine of the turbines droned on in even tempo. The decks were deserted, and all of the manifold activities aboard ship were subdued to the routine of the night. Going to the commander's quarters upon her arrival off La Guayra we sat and yarned with the bluff old Englishman who had commanded many of our chartered ships, finally returning to the subject of the passenger's request.

He suggested that we wait up until the hour. More stories of the sea, and the hands of the clock pointed to five minutes to two. The captain picked up the speaking tube and called the officer in charge on the bridge. He said, "At exactly 1:58 ring her down to half speed, at two stop her; at three minutes past two ring her up to full speed again." Turning to us, he said, "Go aft, and perhaps you will see or hear something that will interest you." Puzzled by the situation, we went down the companionway, as we felt the propellers slow, and then finally stop. We came to the after end of the quiet deck, and stood in the shadow of a lifeboat. There was utter silence as the ship moved along under the impetus of her weight. Soon a figure was seen silhouetted against the starry night standing by the taffrail. With a cigaret lighter a glow was flashed on his watch. He lifted a large circular object from the deck and as it hit the water the phosphorescent gleam in the brine disclosed a great wreath. Almost immediately the propellers picked up their thrust and the ship sped away on her course. We stole back to our cabin and turned in for the night.

The next morning under the door was a note that read, "My father was lost at sea years ago in a sailing ship half way between Willemstadt and La Guayra as he was returning from a prospecting trip in Venezuela. The act of the commander of a great liner in stopping the engines, thus joining with me at the climax on my pilgrimage will remain in my memory." Showing the note to the skipper later in the day, he remarked, "I was one of that ship's company who was saved."

Sermonette

Not An Opium

Today it is of the greatest importance that every Christian look to his religion and decide whether it be a comfort against the horrors of the world or a revolutionary forces that will create upon this earth a Kingdom of God . . .

Many people accuse Christianity of being but an opium to reconcile us to the conditions with which we are surrounded. We must endeavor to establish a Kingdom of God upon this earth instead of pretending to ignore the terrible happenings of this present era . . .

Prayer is the opportunity to cooperate with Jesus Christ in bringing a kingdom of righteousness and justice to this sorely beset world . . .

Although the first half of the twentieth century will go down in history as the dark ages of the human race, before the half-century mark has been passed, we may see the course of events change and the latter half may be recorded as a time of great spiritual advance. — Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Random Statistics

More than 11 billion tin cans —11,394,324,000, to be exact—are used every year to package foods in the canning industry, this represents 80 per cent of the nation's annual tinplate output . . .

The federal government employs more than 2,000 economists at present; as recently as 30 years ago, the number of economists in Washington was almost small enough to be counted on the fingers of both hands.

America consumes about a billion pounds of pure rubber each year, importing most of it from the Dutch East Indies . . .

Forty million questionnaires will be filled in when the U. S. takes its annual census next year. If stacked one on top of another, the census forms would make a pile six times as high as the Washington monument . . .

Of all the patents registered in the U. S. patent office, almost one-fifth are for automobile devices . . .

Since the start of the second World war, England has ordered more than 4 billion burlap bags for sandbag defenses against bombs. As a result, cotton-textile manufacturers in the United States are experiencing a boom of sorts.

Pretty Things: With four or five inches of pure white snow on the outside and my feet before a warm stove one of the rare pleasures of a winter's evening is to peruse a new model seed catalogue filled with pretty pictures of the "flowers that will bloom in the spring," etc.

The particular book I have at hand tells me on the cover page that the new Zinnias are strikingly different with many two and three toned effects.

Each page thereafter reveals a world of beauty in the new Marigolds, Snapdragons, the rose pink Sweet Peas, the Calendula, Larkspurs, and the Flaming Petunias are more beautiful than ever. And roses of course have their place as they always will.

And half past the center of the book those mouth watering subjects of the dinner table make you wish for spring sunshine and a garden hoe. For what has more of the real beauty of nature displayed on paper than photos of golden bantam corn, red beets, golden carrots, the deepest blood red tomatoes, green peppers, cabbages, etc.

If coming events cast their shadows before them this shadow of a new seed catalogue must surely predict that I'm once again going to turn farmer.

Thoughts On Foods: It happened at a party recently attended by one Herb Deems, probably known to a few folks in these parts . . . the serving of a midnight lunch that disturbed him—I'm told . . . at any rate it brought a variety of comments around Tom Davis' noon day luncheon club this past week.

Alvie Nafziger advises Herb to take on further nourishment next time in the form of a limburger sandwich garnished in strong onions in order to assure sound sleep and some one chirps up and adds "and sleep by yourself."

Doc. Chet Cramer is fond of peas. He learned to like them after 21 years, and says they never have them over three times weekly. Mrs. Cramer likes them too, he says.

Cliff Kohn loves parsnips . . . Dr. A. E. Breese is fond of tomatoes . . . B. M. Prexy Sullenberger claims they had too many carrots when he was in the army that they even found them in the gun barrels

Banquets: Speaking of foods, I'll have to acknowledge two very fine banquets in the past few days. A whooping good time was had at the Standard Oil party last Friday at the Neil House, starting with the pre-dinner session at 7 p. m. for the press, first course starting at 8 and finishing at 11:30, followed by 14 fine acts of vaudeville. And I'm here to tell you that is a full evening. But leave it to the Standard Oil, everything moved smoothly, just as you might expect when things are well oiled.

And on Monday another fine dinner and evening program was provided as a guest of Mose Williams at the Insurance Leaders banquet at which time Mose was honored by his company for leading in the number of policies sold locally this past year.

At the latter party B. C. Forbes, publisher of Forbes Magazine, was the speaker and in addition to telling some good Scotch jokes he predicted that this year is going to be the best for business in 12 years. All of which we join in welcoming if he is right and confirms our conviction that "This is the year."

They Are "Tops"

Valedictorian

Eleanor Wagner

The difference between a valedictorian and a salutatorian is a hairline. The former distinction was awarded at West High school this week to Miss Eleanor Wagner for highest scholastic average in the graduating class.

The latter was awarded to Miss Erdine Swain for the second highest average and the difference between the two, in this case, is one one-thousandth of a percent. Except for one "B" each, both girls received straight "A" averages throughout their entire scholastic careers at West High.

Both girls have been extremely active in school affairs. Miss Wagner is a member of the Annual editorial staff, the Occident editorial staff, the G. A. A., Girl Reserves, Photoplay, "L" Honor society, the National Honor society and the Art club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wagner, 178 Guernsey-av, she has a perfect attendance record throughout senior high school.

Salutatorian

Erdine Swain

Miss Swain is vice-president of the senior class, the Annual editorial staff, the G. A. A., Girl Reserves, Photoplay, "L" Honor society, National Honor society and the Student Council. She was also attendant to the homecoming queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Swain, 629 S. Oakley-av.

After graduation Miss Wagner plans to take a course in advanced secretarial work and Miss Swain will enter office training school.

St. Mary's Principal Has Taught 35 Years In All

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories introducing principals of Hilltop schools.

Sister M. Leocadia has been principal of the St. Mary Magdalene school for the past two years. "At the same time I have been teaching arithmetic, Latin, civics and English," she said, "which doesn't give me too much time to devote to my official duties."

Born in Columbus at 684 City Park-av, where her sister still lives, Sister Leocadia attended St. Mary's elementary school nearby.

Upon completing her studies here she enrolled in the St. Francis school at Joilet, Ill., for normal work and after a period of intensive training here she entered DePaw university in Chicago.

Remaining in Chicago after graduation, Sister Leocadia received broad teaching experience in the Englewood, Sacred Heart, St. Frances De Sales and St. Francis schools.

She was then transferred to Joilet, Ill. and spent 15 years teaching in the academy there. Before returning to Columbus, the place of her birth, she taught for five years in Freeport, Ill. She has taught 35 years in all. "It has been my life," was her comment.

Of all the subjects she has taught, Sister Leocadia likes arithmetic the best. "By issustration and demonstration it can be made vivid and interesting," she said. "It is a subject that you can put a lot of life into."

At St. Mary's both algebra and Latin are taught in the seventh and eighth grades. "This gives the pupils a foundation in these subjects which proves invaluable when they enter high school," she said.

With the other teachers at the school, Sister Leocadia has her living quarters on the top floor of the school building. It is hoped that by February they will all be living in the new convent across the street which is now in the final stages of construction.

I AIN'T MAD AT NOBODY
I'M WONDERING WHERE THEY GO

How long are we dead—
These serious words are often said
After we die we'll be a long time dead
I don't want to preach coz I don't know
But I think it depends on where we go.

Those below I think'll be dead a long time
But up there above things will be sublime
So it all depends on where we go.

The bible on this is very clear
It all depends how we live each year
There is no death if our heart is right,
But joy forever where there is no night.

The sea is fully charted to the promised land
Steer a straight course with a steady hand
Our course is laid out but we must obey
Then life just begins on our funeral day.

Grudge Series Renewed As North Visits West Tonight

There'll be a hot time in the old gym tonight!

For West High's tireless terrors, fresh from a 24-22 upset win over the strong East five will tangle once again with North's "lucky devils" on the S. Powell-av school's court. The contest, scheduled to get under way at 8:30 tonight, will find the local court squad vieing for its second City league win while the Polar Bears will be seeking number three victory.

Going into tonight's fracas, the standing in the league is in a turmoil. Three teams, North, Central and South, are tied for the loop leadership while the second trio of basketball artists, Aquinas, East and West, are squared off for the runner-up slot, each with two setbacks and one win. After the games this evening things may be in a worse mess as there is little difference in the basketball abilities of the six teams in the circuit.

North Is Tough

The Polar Bears will bring a well-balanced group of players west this evening to meet our Buckaroos. And they'll be after the scalps of the Cowboys, and the Cowboys will be after the scalps of the Polar Bears. (It was North that cost the Wets football forces an undefeated grid campaign and a City league title as well.) So fireworks are bound to fly in this tussle tonight.

Led by Captain George Tolbert and Norm Phelps, veteran performers, the Polar Bears will be slight favorites in the game tonight. But don't sell West short! Coach Williams had been hoping for this win (the East victory) and think it is just what his charges needed. North has defeated Aquinas and Central while losing to South while West has succumbed to South and Aquinas while edging East.

Ucker Comes Through

The East-West was a knockdown, drag-out affair with the Tigers leading 6-3 as the initial period ended and the score tied 10 up with the game half over. West went ahead in the third quarter to lead 17-14 but the exciting action was reserved until the final period.

East made good on a charity toss as the period began but Maxwell reained West's lead when he made good on one of two free throws. East made good on another free toss on Ned Bell, who, incidentally, showed some of his old time form, sank a long shot. Then East took over and before the Bucks could get set, rang up three successive field goals to lead 22-20.

With two minutes to play Rogers made good on one of his five fouls of the evening to lower East's lead to one point. Both teams shot all kinds of funny shots in an effort to gain a good lead but with 30 seconds to play a West played finally connected. From far out "Duck" Ucker, the Bucks stellar forward, swished the telling shot. Captain Rogers, who led the West scoring with seven points, made good on one foul shot and declined another before the game was over but the damage had been done.

And now for North!

West basketballers meet North tonight — then trek to Logan Tuesday nite to do battle with the Chiefs of that fair town—varsity and reserve teams both scheduled—then Friday Central entertains the Bucks to close the first round of play—teams all pretty close, still predict winner will lose at least two games—Dayton Roosevelt has been added to the Buck grid schedule—complete schedule will be released soon—Grandview also new this fall—both games are here.

"Duck" Ucker slipped from second to seventh in individual scoring after Tuesday's game—he got exactly two points, but they proved margin of East win—Trio of first-stringers playing basketball are star gridmen; Rogers, Bell and Carter—Seldom pan referees, but those at West-Aquinas and West-East contests weren't so hot—in East game officials favored East, thought a minute, then favored West—then back to East—anyway, it was pretty bad.

Coach George Williams and Harold Wise, former West High coach, worked together in officiating a Portsmouth game Tuesday nite—quite a coincidence—East losses at mid-year include Sam Williams, one of the most popular colored athletes ever to play in Columbus; Wear, Wigor and Chapman—so the Tigers may suffer a relapse in the second round—Coach Webster of the Tigers sure looked surprised after West won Tuesday — guess he wasn't expecting it — but who was?—West had lost to South, East had walloped South and then West turned around and thumped East—it just goes to show you.

North mid-year losses are Captain George Tolbert and one Hauser, both starters and star performers—Maybe West still has an outside chance to gain title—Bucks' only loss is Warren "Jab" Carter, veteran guard. — Coach George Collins' reserves lost to East 38-23—they've beaten Aquinas, Holding to South and East

Dale Rose and his West Junior high team lost first league encounter to McKinley, 24-17, last Monday—play at South Junior today — McKinley contest could have gone either way, Rose said —West has beaten both leaders, Starling and Everett in non-league games—still, three way tie for title is possible yet ere the season ends—Some dope on Logan: St. Mary's of Lancaster walloped them 53-17, while Lancaster High beat St. Mary's 42-25—Lancaster beat West 41-23—so West is favored over Logan—But you never can tell!

St. Aloysius Boys, Westgate Girls Lead Church Leagues

By Woody Owens

St. Aloysius' Blue Streaks continued on their merry way towards the 1940 league title in the boys West Senior Church league Tuesday night when they won their third consecutive victory at the expense of Avondale U. B. by a 32-28 score. Morgan and Brannigan led the Irish attack in the win with 16 and 10 points respectively, while Boehm starred defensively.

The fast-improving Holy Family quintet handed Burgess U. B. its initial setback by the count of 29-21. Stewart and Welch led the winners' attack while Spears and Wylie stood out for the Brethrens.

In the other two games on the card Hoge Memorial Presbyterian established a new all-time scoring record for the West Church league teams when they scored at will to submerge Westgate Evangelical by the score of 63-9 while West Park M. E. toyed with Neil Ave. M. E. to win 31-6. Mitchell and Ankrum tallied 10 markers each in this latter contest.

Westgate Girls Hold Lead

In the Girls West Church league Monday night Westgate Evangelical lassies continued to lead the pack by hanging up their second win in as many starts at the expense of Avondale U. B. The final score was 21-1. I. Scoles, B. Scoles and High led the pace setters with 8, 8 and 8 points respectively while Williams was again the key player on the defense.

St. Aloysius, defending league champions, opened its season with a very unimpressive win over West Park M. E. by a 17-10 count. Stewart was the spearhead of the Irish offense, chalking up 10 markers. Davis and the Veteran Worthen were outstanding for the Methodists.

Hilltonia U. B. dampened that slight title aspirations Burgess U. B. possessed when it came behind in the final minute to win 16-15. Katherman and O'Connor led the winners' attack with 10 and 6 points as J. Miller starred with 10 tallies for the losers.

We can always be depended upon to render helpful assistance.

Roudebush Speaks At Burroughs School

At a meeting of the John Burroughs PTA, Tuesday, Jan. 16, the organization was honored to have as their guest speaker, George E. Roudebush, superintendent of schools.

Mr. Roudebush gave an interesting talk on the effect of the home and teaching on the action of a person on his becoming an adult. He added vividness to his oration by illustrating the points of the discussion by relating incidents, some humorous, some pathetic, with which he had been associated.

The orchestra offered a few numbers and two songs were rendered by the West High quartet composed of Ray Haughn, Ralph Rooker, Mel Fluhart and Carl Speckman. One of the high spots of the evening was the showing of movies of the John Burroughs pupils in active school work and the films of the annual field day. The movies were explained by the principal, E. B. Graham.

Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

Matson For County Commissioner

With a flood of announcements of this person and that who will run for political office this year a suggestion may be in order.

One of the offices of major importance in Franklin county is that of county commissioner. It is apparent that some changes are going to be made when the votes are counted this coming election.

We'd like to suggest the name of George Matson as a candidate for one of the positions to be filled.

We've known George a great number of years and have admired him for his honesty and sincerity and have found him to be a capable man with ideas. He would make a good commissioner.

We haven't seen George more than half a dozen times in the past year and then only to exchange a greeting. And George doesn't know this little item is even being written. His reaction to it is not known or anticipated. We still contend he would make a good commissioner and should be prevailed upon to seek the office.

Contentment is the thing that will come from worthwhile achievements shared and appreciated to the extent that such sharing and appreciation only call forth more and more such achievements.

Radio Preacher Packs 'em In

If you have ever attended a country revival you certainly have heard and enjoyed E. Howard Cadel over the radio.

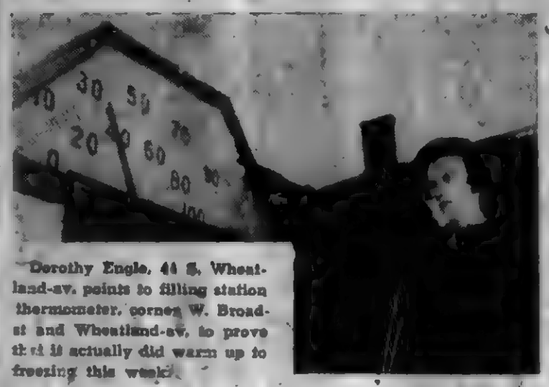
Sunday evening I was another of the 5000 who crowded into Memorial Hall to see and hear this most famous of radio preachers, and have brought back fond recollections of many an evening at old time revivals back home in the country down in West Virginia.

Today 104 radio stations are carrying the Cadel program and perhaps one of the most familiar voices on the air is that of "I present your friend and my father, E. Howard Cadel," as son Buford gives some 30 million listeners the Nation's Family Prayer period.

Cadel is an entertainer and his spiritual messages are consistently livened up with his witticisms. His following among the common people is great indeed as is witnessed by his popularity right here in Columbus. And there is something downright good about mingling with that crowd and realizing as did Lincoln that the Lord certainly must have loved the common people because he made so many of them.

He goes deep into their hearts and teaches the business of doing something for the other fellow.

Best illustration in his Sunday sermon was the story of how Helen Gould of New York wealth and society saw her opportunity to be of service after visiting a Bowery mission. On one occasion she had completely rehabilitated a family and one of the youngsters, to whom it all meant so much, inquired "Miss Gould, is you the wife of Jesus?"



Every person has some religion. Many there are who pretend at some belief and attend services because it looks well in the sight of their friends. A larger portion are sincere and their religion is justified in that they have something to show for it in actual service to their fellow man.

I like best to summarize my religious beliefs around the thought that one should be afraid to die until he has achieved something for humanity.

Named To Board

C. Carlton Hartley, 356 S. Roys-av, publisher of the Hilltop Record, has been named a director of the Columbus chapter of the Citizens' Tax League of Ohio, according to an announcement made this week by James M. Hergat, chairman.

When It Warmed Up To Freezing ----

Many Valuable Prizes In Record Contest

Here's an opportunity for every Hilltop resident, young and old, to participate in an exciting contest that is easy to follow, promises lots of fun and will bring the winners substantial awards ranging from a ton of coke to a $100.00 business school scholarship.

Cooperating with the Hilltop Record, business firms are joining in a "Misspelled Word Contest" that only requires the contestants to read Hilltop Record ads carefully and to brush up on their spelling, if perhaps they are not sure of the correct letters in the correct places in some words.

The contest is to run in the Record exclusively for six weeks and firms have already announced their awards for winning contestants.

An award will be made each week and at the conclusion of the six weeks the remaining awards will be presented to the contestants submitting the best series of sentences made up from the misspelled words printed each week.

Judges are to be one Hilltop business man and a representative of the Hilltop Record.

Each weekly entry must be in the office of the Hilltop Record, 14 S. Oakley-av, not later than noon Tuesday of the week following publication of each contest advertisement.

The contestants are required to look for misspelled words ONLY in the group of ads of The Hilltop Record containing the advertisements of the firms participating in the contest.

Leading the list of firms on the Hilltop that are participating in the contest is the West Side Lumber and Coal Co., W. Broad-st and the Big Four tracks, established 31 years and carrying a complete line of lumber, millwork, coal and building supplies.

Messrs. Slyh, Jordan and Percy of this firm are promising an award of one ton of Semet-Solvay coke.

Another leader with an award that will be eagerly sought by every high school student is the Dickinson Secretarial school, 79 E. State-st. In the event this prize should be won by a person who does not desire to take advantage of it, the scholarship may be sold or transferred to anyone else by the winner.

The third big award will be a ton of Auburn coal to be given by the Philip McDonald Lumber & Coal Co., N. Eureka-av.

Others include:

Fox Food Shop and Broad Warren Mkt., $5.00 grocery order each.

Bill Coon's Texaco gas station, Richardson and Sullivant-avs, five gallons of gasoline and five quarts of oil.

Manon Beauty shop, 2488 Sullivant-av, $10. Vee-Nees-Kreem permanent wave.

Simon Motor Sales Co., 463 S. Glenwood-av, complete oil change, grease job and wash.

Cale Window Shade Co., 297 Derrer-rd, choice of venetian blind, any size up to 13 sq. ft. or one-half dozen oil opaque window shades.

Spears funeral home, 2693 W. Broad-st, a $50.00 personal portrait oil painting of the winning contestant, or any one that the winner chooses to be painted.

Goodyear tire store, a $24.40 RCA Victor consolette radio, model 45-E.

Hilltop House sandwich shop, a certificate good for $5.00 in trade.

It was pointed out that the Dickinson school scholarship award is a grand prize award and will be given at the conclusion of the preliminary contest.

New Broad St. Bus Service To Start About April 15

Mrs. Rose Ferguson Is Elected To Board

Mrs. Rose B. Ferguson, 235 Guernsey-av, teacher at Second Avenue school, has been signally honored by being chosen a member of a committee with five leading central Ohio educators who will work out problems in connection with educational programs presented by the Columbia Broadcasting system school of the air and similar programs presented by station WBNS.

Other members of the committee are: Superintendent of schools, George E. Roudebush; Prof. Eugene J. Weigel, chairman of the department of music, Ohio State university; E. S. Stauffer, teacher at South High school; Mrs. Lawrence N. Fregeau of Bexley PTA, and Irwin Johnson of the radio station.

Cold Weather Hampers Line Construction Work

Although hampered in construction work by the recent sub-zero weather, plans for the new W. Broad-st trolley coach line have progressed to the point where Apr. 15 has been set for the tentative starting date of the new line, Morgan L. Evans, vice-president of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co., announced today.

On Jan. 15 the company lost two weeks on its construction schedule due to the extreme cold, but work of erecting the poles and trolley wires on each side of W. Broad-st is being rushed as much as possible, Mr. Evans said.

Cost Over $500,000

Representing an expenditure of more than $500,000, the change over from street cars to the more modern and flexible trolley coaches will leave the city with only four street car lines. All of these too will eventually give way to the trolley coach and motor bus, in carrying out a conversion policy adopted in 1933, it was explained.

The 25 trolley coaches that will operate on W. Broad-st and on Mt. Vernon-av represent an investment of $315,000 and will have several innovations not found on coaches on other lines in the city, it was declared.

Revamp Car Barns

With a passenger capacity of 44 persons, the coaches can carry 100 including standees, although the company does not like to have them become that crowded, Mr. Evans explained.

Repairs and reconstruction of the old car barns at Broad and Glenwood-av will cost $70,000. It is planned to tear down the fifths of the old car shed, remodel the rest and eliminate the dangerous traffic bottle neck that exists in Broad-st at the building's front, he pointed out.

There will be no entrance or exit on Broad-st for coaches to endanger traffic, that section being moved to the rear of the property near W. State-st, he said.

In conjunction with the coming of trolley coach service it is planned to start removal of the car tracks and repaving of Broad-st as soon as the street and their service.

This work will be started on the worst sections of track first, probably at Starling-st, and continue on west until all the tracks have been removed to Hague-av. Some of the track is regarded as practically new, having been down only seven or eight years in some sections.

Up To City

Removal of the track in Broad-st west of Hague-av will be a problem for the city to consider as that section of trackage was never owned by the local street car company and the traction company that does own it has long since been liquidated through receivership proceedings, it was declared.

The new trolley coaches that will operate in W. Broad-st will be similar to those operated on the Oak-st line, but will have as a new feature a new type of stanchion holding post at each seat for standing passengers instead of the customary upright rods.

These holding posts will not only be easier for short passengers to reach, but will also give passengers walking down the aisles something to cling to while the coach is in motion.

The Mohair Issue

Another feature will be a trial test of mohair upholstered seats on five of the coaches instead of the customary grain Spanish leather seat covering. The mohair covered seats will add a luxury touch to the coaches but are being given a tryout only because there may be some objections to that type of covering on the part of some passengers, Mr. Evans said.

A feature of the mohair covering is the fact that the passenger does not slide about as on the smooth leather seats, it is claimed.

One of the improvements to be carried out in connection with the operation of the W. Broad-st trolley coach line will be the installation of a short loop line for the Sullivant-av coaches in Central-av to Mound-st east on that street past Dana-av to avoid a low section at Sullivant and Dana avenues that has been a source of trouble to the coaches in periods of heavy rain when water overflows the curbing at that point, making it difficult to make their way through. Several efforts had been made to solve the problem and the loop is regarded as the best plan because it will also act as a feeder service for the Red Bird stadium when ball games are scheduled there, Mr. Evans explained. The improvement will cost $15,000.

J. E. Terrell To Be Candidate

J. E. Terrell, 2703 Cleveland-av, father of Patrolman John W. Terrell and Mrs. Margaret Moon, 148 N. Huron-av, has announced he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Franklin county at the May primaries.

Patriotic and moral issues will comprise his platform, Mr. Terrell said. He was raised on a farm in Perry county, was a real estate appraiser for two years, is a mechanic by trade and the son of a Civil war veteran. He has five children.

Ex-Hilltop Girl Has Operation While Visiting Surgery Patient

Mrs. Mable Davis Simison of Newark, who graduated from West High school in 1928, and who is a former Hilltop resident, feels that she is now qualified to write a book rivaling that famous volume by Irvin S. Cobb entitled, "Speaking of Operations."

Coming to Columbus recently to visit a girl friend who had undergone an operation here, Mrs. Simison herself became the central figure in a major bit of surgery that actually saved her life, it was revealed this week. She is at White Cross hospital.

Mrs. Simison decided to visit her own physician during the Columbus trip and 45 minutes later was on the operating table herself for an hour and a half in a session of abdominal surgery that prevented a critical illness that might have been fatal, according to the attending surgeon.

Incidentaly, Mrs. Simison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, 49 S. Huron-av. She is recovering at the hospital while her father is recovering at home from a major operation on his appendix.

Candidate

Arthur J. Yoder

Exceptionally proud of the fact that he has turned the office of the Franklin County Clerk of Courts into a division of the county government that is more than self-supporting, County Clerk Arthur J. Yoder today announced his candidacy for a second term subject to nomination at the primaries on the Democratic ticket, May 14.

Mr. Yoder pointed out that when he became county clerk for his first term four years ago, the office was costing the county $23,000 a year above its operating income.

In the past two years, as a marked contrast, the office has turned back to the county treasurer a total of $30,000 above operating costs, including $19,000 in 1938 and $11,000 in 1939, he declared.

Mr. Yoder plans to conduct his campaign for nomination and reelection on the fact that he has operated the county office on a strictly business basis.

One feature of his conduct of the office that he regards as outstanding is the fact that all records are completely up to date. Another feature has been the complete reorganization of the automobile title section of the office on a more efficient basis to conform with the revised state law.

The office is the first public position Mr. Yoder has held. Formerly he was in business for himself and was also sales manager for the Blue Valley Creamery Co.

He is a member of the Franklin County Democratic executive committee, the Linden Business Men's association, Kiwanis club, Charity Newsies, Masons, Eastern Star, Moose, Eagles and other groups. He lives at 16 Manchester-av, is married and has a family.

Miss McMahan began teaching at 17 in Seneca county and came to Columbus in 1926 from Fostoria. She was born in Pierre, S. D., and came to Ohio at the age of four with her parents. I AIN'T MAD AT NOBODY
HOW LONG ARE WE DEAD?

How long are we dead—
These serious words are often said
After we die we'll be a long time dead
I don't want to preach cos I don't know
But I think it depends on where we go.

Those below I think'll be dead a long time
But up there above things will be sublime
There is no one dead in Heaven we know
So it all depends on where we go.

The bible on this is very clear
It all depends how we live each year
There is no death if our heart is right
But joy forever where there is no night.

The sea is fully charted to the promised land
Steer a straight course with a steady hand
Our course is laid out but we must obey
Then life just begins on our funeral day.

Roland G. Allen

Roland G. Allen, city prosecutor since November, 1937, and member of the Young Republican club, has announced his candidacy for county prosecutor.

"The office of the county prosecutor is the central point in any community's fight against crime. As such, it demands the services of a man with unquestioned experience, one who is schooled in the prosecution of crime and criminal cases. In this respect the attention of the public is invited to my record as your city prosecutor during the past few years," Mr. Allen said.

The candidate taught public speaking at Ohio State university for four years and was associated with Judge Harry B. Holmes for six years in law practice. He is married and resides at 316 Nineteenth-av.
